NASAL BALM

Is a certain and speedy cure for Cold in the Head and Catarrh in all its stages.

SOOTHING, CLEANSING, HEALING.

Instant Relief, Permanent Cure, Failure Impossible.

Many so called Catarrh Remedies are composed of Cocaine, which so benumbs the nasal membrane that it gives temporary relief, but leaves the disease worse than before. Nasal Balm is free from Cocaine, Morphine, or any other injurious drug, and is not a snuff, but a healing balm, which is applied to the nasal membrane by inhaling, or by simply putting a few drops into the nostrils. Clergymen, Lawyers, Public Speakers, and others whose occupations cause them to overtax the vocal organs, will find Nasal Balm invaluable for clearing the throat and strengthening the voice. Nasal Balm is sold by all druggists, or will be sent, post paid, on receipt of price, 50 cents and $1.00 by addressing

OLIVE VARCOE

—OR—

TRUE TO THE LAST.

CHAPTER XXXI.

"AND all is forgotten and forgiven, old fellow?" said Vivian Damerel, holding Charles Vigo by both hands, and looking much as if he wanted to hug him instead.

"Well, Olive forgives you," returned Charles; and, after that, I can scarcely call you out and shoot you, though I must own you deserve it; for, in spite of all my expostulations, you hastened to join the army of donkeys and blunderers."

"Write me down an ass," responded Vivian, gaily. "But in these unromantic days, who would suppose that a little creature would take upon herself, in innocence, such a burden of sin and sorrow?"

"Who would suppose it?" echoed Charles, sadly; "he that had eyes to see her genius and her love would guess it and understand it; but the evil thinkers of this generation, to whom it is so easy to believe in crime, so hard to believe in good, they would not believe it. Their dull imaginations could comprehend guilt, but not a noble deed."

"I accept your rebuke," said Vivian "and I stifle magnanimously all the cynical philosophy rising to my tongue. You mean to say that if we had given Miss Varcoe credit for a good motive, we should instantly have gained a clue to her conduct, and we should have reached at the truth at once, as you did."

"Precisely so," returned Charles.

"I suppose they have changed their opinions now, respecting the fitness of Olive Varcoe to be Lady Trewavas, and she will marry Sir Hilton soon?" replied Vivian.

"Olive is engaged to me," responded Charles, in a hard tone; "and if she does not refuse Sir Hilton I shall never forgive her. But I have no fear; she is honor itself; she will make him understand his position if he speaks to her. Come on to Bosvigo, Vivian, and see her; and the Langleys are there—you know them."

This conversation took place at Trewavas church-town, at which spot the fastidious Vivian Damerel had chosen to take up his temporary abode. His motive was a double one he wanted to see Florian—he longed to be reconciled to his friend. And now he caught eagerly at the invitation, and before night fall he was installed as a guest at Bosvigo. What he felt in seeing Florian again, this history will not chronicle; though it records a short conversation he held with Olive, they two being alone.

"Miss Varcoe," he said, "when I look on your friend's face, I dare not hope; but tell me, shall I speak to her again?"

"I think not," answered Olive, "I think it would only pain her as well as yourself." Vivian was silent a moment. It is hard for a man to play the rejected "spoon." But, conquering his embarrassment, he said nervously, "if Miss Langley rejected me for some one more worthy of her, I would bear it patiently; but I fear she has formed some unworthy attachment."

"Florian is incapable of an ignoble love," said Olive warmly.

"But, Miss Varcoe," said he, "she almost confessed to me at Paris that she loved some one whom it was impossible for her to marry; and I know she met this man clandestinely."

"Is it possible you do not know whom she met, and it was for my sake she met him?" cried Olive. "Is it possible you do not know it was Charles Vigo?"

"Charles Vigo!" exclaimed Vivian. "And is it Charles she loves?"

"Hush!" said Olive, softly; "I have no right to talk to you of this; but how can I help hoping that she will be happy?"

"And is he blind?" asked Vivian, dolefully. "But he cannot remain so long; and as for me, I see now, indeed, I have no hope. Well, since I must lose Florian, I would rather yield her to Charles Vigo than to any other man on earth. Time will reconcile me, Miss Varcoe."

"I hope so," said Olive, kindly.

In spite of his languid tone, Vivian was pale and agitated.

"And you hope, too," he said, "that Charles Vigo will not continue insensible to Florian's affection? I can understand your feelings, Miss Varcoe, and your motives for that wish; and with you for my ally, and my dearest friend for my rival, I must perforce retire from the field."

Olive blushed deeply.

"Not your enemy, Mr. Damerel," she said. "Nevertheless, I do hope that Charles Vigo will eventually love the woman who loves him; and I hope that for his own sake. Florian has a whole, an unwounded heart to give him; she will make him happier than I could."

"Yes," returned Vivian, "you are right."

"You are sure I should grant it," said Olive, "to ask or crave?"

"Then do not call my son," he replied, "for a whole year, that we can and I are not affianced."

"May I tell Florian?" she asked; "she is good, so true, so loving, you may let me tell her."

"Well, Olive, tell Florian, then, if you will," said Charles; "and at the end of the year, when you refuse me again, as you will, Olive, then you shall tell me who it is that has given a thought to your friend Charles Vigo."

"I promise you I will tell you that," said Olive. "And you will come over to Ireland to see me during the year?"

"I will come as often as I can, and you will come to Bosvigo?" he said.

Olive glanced sorrowfully towards Trewavas.

"I think not," she answered. "See, Charles, there lies all my life spread before me—my childhood, youth, love, sorrow, joy, and pain; all are there beneath that roof. I cannot see it, and not long to be among those once more."

Charles Vigo was silent a moment, then he put his arm around her tenderly.

"Olive," he said, "you have offered me all your life, and I ask you only for a year of it, but if you regret this, if you would rather go to them at once—"

"No, no!" she cried, "I will go to Ireland with Florian. He is acting now, perhaps, from impulse, from gratitude. I would rather wait the year, Charles, I would indeed."

And so it was settled; but when they departed the next day the old squire looked dismally at his son.

"Bosvigo is a doleful place without ladies, Charlie," he said. "I must have a daughter soon; and upon my word I don't care which of those two girls it is, lad, so long as it is one of 'em."

* * * * * *

Charles Vigo went often to Ireland; and here, if he saw Olive Varcoe' he also saw Florian Langley; and long before the year was out, he found himself becoming very confidential with the latter.

"You see," he said one day, "I never meant from the beginning to make the slight test claim on Olive; but I could not resist the temptation of forcing that poor, proud, pompous baronet to suffer a little. That is why I have begged Olive to wait a year."

"Surely Sir Hilton Trewavas has suffered a great deal?" said Florian.

"Oh, dear no, Miss Langley," remarked Charles. "You see, through the whole affair, he has been so insufferably conceited; he has thought Olive loved him with her whole soul. Now, when he hears of my going over to Ireland so often, I am sure he must gnash his teeth in secret. He thinks I come over to see Olive, you know," concluded Charles, quite simply.

Florian blushed rosy red.

"And don't you?" she said, innocently.

"Well, I—really now, Miss Langley," stammered Charles, "I think that lately I—I have been coming over to see you."

Quite frightened at what he had said, Charles Vigo felt it as an immense relief when Herbert Langley, hailing him as "old fellow," called to him at the moment to look at a wonderful catch of fish.

* * * * * *

The year was not nearly done when Charles Vigo, with his frank, honest face covered with girlish blushes, said suddenly one day to Olive, "You once told me, Olive, there was some kind heart in the world that—that——"

"Loved you," said Olive; "such a true, noble, loving heart, Charles—and all yours; such a good, true, and beautiful woman! And she has loved you from the first."

"From the first?" repeated Charles Vigo, in a bewildered way.

"Almost from the first day she saw you," said Olive. "I guessed it from the beginning; but I have kept the secret till now,—now, when I perceive you know, that a woman who loves you is dearer a thousand times than a foolish little sister, who thinks you the best brother in the world."

"Olive," exclaimed Charles, "do you mean that I am so happy?—do you mean that Florian—— Oh! I have scarcely dared to hope this!"

"There she stands," said Olive, pointing to the great beeches on the lawn, where Florian stood, "there she stands beneath the trees, where she and I sat so often last autumn, when I talked to her of you. Charles, I think she loved you even before she ever looked upon your face."

* * * * * *

Olive sat beneath those same trees that evening reading, when two shadows fell across her book, and looking up she saw Charles Vigo and Florian. There was no need for them to speak; she read upon their faces that henceforth those two were forever; and starting up, she clasped her arms around them both with tears of joy.

"Olive," whispered Florian, "I shall make him write to Sir Hilton Trewavas this very night."

"No, no," said Olive, hiding her face on Florian's shoulder, "not now—not yet. When you and Charles go home to dear old Bosvigo to live, that will be time enough."

That time came in a few weeks, and Sir Hilton Trewavas seeing the bonfires, and hearing the music and the cannon at Bosvigo, asked of the crowd gathered on the heath what it meant.

"It's the young squire bringing home his bride," cried the country people; "and a beautiful young lady she is."

Sir Hilton Trewavas turned away with a face pale as ashes, and coldly bade wards as though his stood was goaded by a fiend. He went straight to his own room, and, with locked door, wrestled with his spirit alone. No one dared to disturb him; but in the morning a letter reached him from Bosvigo, and it was with a strangely changed face that he hurried through its contents, and then went to Lady Trewavas's room. His step stunned her, but she did not look through the curtains and see his face.

"Hilton," she said, feebly, "these fits

"I understand it all, Miss Varcoe," interrupt Damerel, "let us say no more."

Strangely to all, except Olive and Florian, the next post brought Vivian news which called him away on urgent business, and the same business took him on a long tour. And he, the languid embellisher, he, who had sat always in the "seat of the scornful" chose for his travelling ground the land of Syria and Palestine. There, where the mighty in faith have left footsteps for all time, he wandered to and fro, dimly wondering, with soul half awakened, half longing to slumber in darkness again.

* * * * * *

Mrs. Langley was preparing to go back to Ireland; and Olive, in much pain and perplexity, watched Florian's cheek grow paler day by day. During their long visit to Bosvigo, Charles had uttered not a word to Olive of love, but neither had he in any way released her from her promise. Bound by this, she had answered Sir Hilton as we have seen; but through this anxious, uncertain time she suffered much; and her great longing for Florian's happiness added to the fever of her mind. There was perfect confidence between the two girls; indeed, without this mutual confidence and affection, Florian would not have stayed at Bosvigo. It was Olive who urged her to remain. Olive who encouraged her to have hope.

"Oh how glad I am you love him!" she had said to Florian. "I shall not reproach myself so bitterly now; I shall not tell my heart, in anger, how hard it is that it will not give him love. I shall bestow on him a gift a million times better than myself—I shall give him Florian."

And Florian had at last ceased to answer. "My dear Olive, he will never love me;" she had changed it to, "When will he see how much I care for him? when will he see that you, Olive, cannot love him?"

And Olive answered, "Let us have patience. Oh! Florian, you are my only consolation and hope. I trust in you to give him all the devotion, the tenderness, that my hard heart withholds."

Thus the friends waited, both seeing that until Charles Vigo himself set Olive free, it was impossible she could do aught but hold herself bound to him by every tie of gratitude and of honor.

It was in the wood near Trewavas that Charles spoke at last. He led Olive away from the others into that leafy glade where he had found her weeping so piteously on the day Eleanor died."

"Olive," he said, "it is just a year ago, since on this very spot, I asked you to be my wife. You remember your answer, and how, refusing me as your lover, you took me as your friend. Have I been faithful to that trust and that name?"

"You have been the truest friend that woman ever had," replied Olive. She clasped his hand in both hers, and trembled as she spoke. Charles Vigo looked down on the earnest face raised to his, and smiled.

"Yes, Olive," said he, "a friend. I have never been more to you in all this time; all my love has never won more for me than this,—your friendship."

"And the dearest, truest love that ever sister gave to brother," cried Olive, as her lip quivered and her eyes filled with tears.

"I believe you," returned Charles, softly. "But you have promised me more than this, Olive; you have promised to be my wife. And you gave me this promise freely and unasked."

"I know it," said Olive, lifting her eyes suddenly and frankly to his; "and I give you my whole life now, as freely as I did then. Command me, dispose of me as you will, but do not ask me to do you a great wrong."

"A wrong, Olive!" he said, mournfully.

"Yes, a wrong," she repeated. "Charles Vigo, a few months ago I would have married you, deeming my affection, my esteem, my gratitude, enough for your happiness; now, I know I should do you a life long injury——"

"Stop, Olive!" he interrupted eagerly; "hear what I have to say first, before you mistake me further. Hitherto, I have only reminded you of your own words; now let me remind you of mine. Olive, I said, 'I will never claim your promise. I will have your whole heart and soul, or only a poor remembrance. Nothing between those two.' So, Olive I would not let you marry me for gratitude, even were you as willing to do so now as you say you were months ago. No Olive, you are free. Give me the poor remembrance, and let us say fare well."

"I shall never say farewell to you, Charles," said Olive, clinging to his arm with both her hands. "I would be your wife to-morrow, only I know I should deprive you of a great happiness; I should take from you a heart that has given you its whole worship—a heart worthy even of you."

"Who can care for a poor rough fellow like me, Olive?" asked Charles Vigo, wistfully. "And as for yourself, my poor little sister, I never hoped for your love. No, let me tell you all the truth now. I have permitted you to think yourself engaged to me, that I might the more easily befriend you; but in my own mind I have never considered that your words at the little inn gave me the shadow of a claim on you."

Olive could not restrain her tears.

"You have always been a generous, self-sacrificing friend to me," she said.

"Not quite generous, Olive," he answered, "because I have delayed till now to tell you all my mind. I confess the truth. I could bear to lose you, but I could not bear that Sir Hilton Trewavas should gain you so easily. You love him, Olive?"

"I never was fickle," she replied, while a sudden crimson rushed to her cheeks.

"And you refused him?" asked Charles.

"Hilton," she said, feebly, "these fits

"Hilton, Hilton," she cried, "where's Olive? I must her! I have never had a moment's joy since Olive came away."

"Olive is at Bosvigo, mother. I will go to her at once. Charles Vigo has written, begging me to come," said Sir Hilton.

Lady Trewavas saw his emotion, and waved him away with her hand.

"Don't delay here with me," she cried. "Tell Olive her mother waits for her, and she has but a few weeks of time ere her pilgrimage is over; no entreat her not to linger, lest she and I see each other's faces no more. Ah," continued the old lady, as Sir Hilton's hand closed the door, "I am thankful to Miss Florian Langley—very, I am sure."

* * * * * *

Charles Vigo entered the library at Bosvigo with Olive on his arm.

"Here is the best gift, Sir Hilton," he said, "that ever one man gave to another; but if I had not found Florian, I would not give you Olive."

He was gone almost as he spoke, and those two were left alone.

"I told you we should one day be neighbors," said Olive, timidly.

"Olive, I had not a hope then," said Sir Hilton; "now I am all hope. Lady Trewavas is ill and feeble; she asks for you anxiously. Will you come to Trewavas, Olive?"

"Yes, I will come," replied Olive, in a low voice.

"As a daughter, Olive?" he asked.

She did not answer in words; but as her large dark eyes met his, Sir Hilton gathered her in his arms and kissed her.

There is nothing more to tell, for happiness has no history; and but for sorrow, chronicles would cease. Yet to please those who like to wind up every thread, let us suppose that Sir Anthony Rockelly, like a bloated spider, died of spite; and that Mr. Eulick, having from the most humane motive, beaten a little boy nearly to death, was, "for the sake of humanity," incarcerated in a very favorite and model prison, which he had much admired, as with the greatest gentleness and kindness it usually, through silence and solitude, ground prisoners down to the grave. The wretched Skews and his family went to New Zealand; where, it is to be hoped, they prospered.

Mr. and Mrs. Tobias Gunning are as fond of each other as ever; and Mr. Gunning devoutly wishes that ladies were admitted to Parliament, as then, through Priscilla, his remarkable speeches might meet with hearers and a reporter; for, of course, that admirable woman continues to interpret the Noss with an eloquence and power of words which he unconsciously considers to be all his own.

Dick Chadwick is still in the service. He is in debt to five tailors; but, having lately had a small legacy left him, he made up his accounts, and found he had three pounds in the world which he could call his own;—a fact which raised his spirits to such an extraordinary and dangerous height, that his friends, out of pity borrowed ten from him. This had a most happy effect, and there is no longer any danger of his becoming a lunatic; moreover, as the unpaid tailors have begun lately to use the penny post to a great extent, there is every likelihood of his soon reaching his normal of mind.

Herbert Langley is married, and blind Mrs. Langley lives at Bosvigo with her daughter. She and the old squire play cribbage together every night, he counting both for her and himself.

Charles Vigo is very friendly with his neighbor, Sir Hilton; and he told his wife the other day, that really he had been too hard on him in the old times, for Sir Hilton Trewavas was not such a bad fellow after all.

And Olive, she who as a poor relation, despised and dependent, had fought with impatience against her chain; she who, when galled and miserable, had been proud, fierce, and impetuous, is now the gentlest of women. When poor and hated, she was proud; but rich and beloved, she had grown meek; and amid all the ladies of the land, there is not one humbler than young Lady Trewavas, once Olive Varcoe.

At the Lady's Bower, on the spot where the smooth, treacherous pool once lurked among the fern and beeches, there stands a granite cross, inscribed thus:

THIS CROSS—
THE CHRISTIAN EMBLEM OF SORROW, SUFFERING, AND PARDON—IS ERECTED BY HILTON TREWAVAS
TO THE MEMORY OF ELEANOR MARISTOWE.
Save me, O God! for the waters are come in unto my soul.

Many a wreath and garland, woven by the hands of the little children at Bosvigo and Trewavas, are laid on this cross, while good old Bolster—a patriarch among younger scions of his name and race—gets a thousand caresses and tender words, as he watches the little ones with loving eyes.

FEATHERSTON ELECTED.

THE result of Thursday's election in Peel is a little disappointing to the Conservatives, but the gaining of two Reform constituencies the same day more than makes up for the Grit triumph in Peel. THE SUN had hoped to chronicle seven Tory victories, but we are well satisfied with the day's polling. Six out of seven is good enough; it would indeed be very harsh to not let our Liberal friends retain at least one seat when our majority in the house is so large. The returns from Chingua cousy indicate that Mr. Featherston's friends were circulating hoodle, but then maybe it was for sweet charity's sake, same as in March last. Mr. Jackson made a plucky fight and has nothing to be ashamed of.

POSTAL REFORMS IN ENGLAND.

(Montreal Gazette.)

It may be recalled that last spring a work was published in England and in the United States, written by a number of opponents of what is called state socialism, including Mr. Herbert Spencer (who some seven or eight years ago uttered a warning note in his article on "The Coming Slavery"), and that in this work the British post office came in for some pretty sharp strictures. Fault was found with the system and with those who directed it; with its assumption of duties that properly belong to the sphere of private enterprise and with its failure to perform its promises to the public. Since then Mr. Raikes has passed away, and it is believed that his death was hastened through overwork. His place has been filled by Sir James Ferguson, who seems determined to anticipate charges of inefficiency by doing justice to his subordinates when discharge of extra task has put an unusual strain upon their powers and tested their devotion to the public service. In a circular recently issued he expressed his great satisfaction with the excellent spirit manifested by the entire staff in bearing up under the trying burden of greatly increased work during the holiday season, aggravated by the prevalence of dense fog and frost. Both these phenomena caused serious difficulty in the discharge of the functions of the postal service, which they rendered extremely arduous. But owing to the alacrity and cheerful endurance of the officers of all grades the ordeal was undergone without interruption. If the public be equally grateful, the system is not a total failure.

This happy preparedness for exceptional situations is not, however, the only cause for thankfulness to the department. With the present year several long contemplated reforms have been initiated, which show that the new Post master General is "in touch with the times." One of the reforms is in the nature of a concession which business men will be sure to appreciate. Hitherto any one sending a paper to a correspondent could not indicate the passage or paragraph to which he desired to draw attention without risking a double charge for postage. Any words written inside or outside converted it into a letter and made letter postage leviable, as well as the ordinary newspaper rate. This grievance no longer exists. Hereafter it is permissible to write on the outside of the cover what portion of the contents the sender wishes his co-respondent to read. Another point in which the operation of the department has been improved is that which relates to unsealed letters. Hitherto a circular could be transmitted from the continent to any place in Great Britain in an unfastened envelope for the small charge of ½d, but the same privilege was not extended to domestic correspondence. Now printed matter of any kind may be sent in this way from one point to another within the United Kingdom.

Another convenience has arisen out of the Government's competition with the messenger companies, which was the subject of a good deal of angry discussion. At first the sympathy of the business public was with the companies, as it was deemed unfair that, after the latter had organized a scheme of quick delivery, the Government, which had hitherto ignored the public's needs or had neglected to avail itself of its knowledge of them, should then step in and take their custom out of the companies' hands. On second thoughts, however, it has been recognized that, however hard it might seem for the companies to be deprived of any of the profits of their initiative, it would also be unfair to deprive the public of the increased advantage to be gained from the Government's adoption of the messenger plan. For, whereas the companies confine their services to short distances, or, at the most, within the limits of the cities and larger towns, the Postmaster-General can make it a feature of the general service of the country. In this way a correspondent at Manchester or elsewhere writing to some part of London or other place in the United Kingdom, has only to have his letter insured for messenger delivery and it will reach its destination in the shortest possible time. This guarantee of immediate delivery is, we need scarcely say, a very real boon to the mercantile community—at times, indeed, to all correspondents. In letters despatched to rural districts, in some directions, a veritable revolution—a revolution which only a Government department could carry out successfully. As it is almost wholly on the carriage of letters that the post office will come into rivalry with the companies, the latter will still have a considerable business almost entirely to themselves. Some of the reforms mentioned are familiar in Canada, but most of them are new and to a great part of the Dominion they would be as serviceable and as welcome as they are in Great Britain.

Such is the records of the courts. And yet Grits prate of their purity and Tory corruption!

Mrs. Florence Ethel Osborne was brought from Holland jail, to the Bow street police court, London, where she was arraigned before Magistrate Sir John Bridge to answer the charge of perjury made against her in connection with the libel suit she brought against Mrs. Hargreave, who had charged her with the theft of a quantity of jewelry. The court room was packed with friends of the Osbornes and the Hargreaves and others. Mrs. Osborne was attended by her husband. She was dressed in black, and when she was placed in the prisoners' dock she wept bitterly, hiding her head in her hands.

Mrs. James Anderson of Fergus died on Monday, the 8th inst, at the advanced age of 82 years. She was well-known in church circles, having been connected with Melville church in that place since the year 1845.

HE WASN'T THERE!

Ald. West Fails to Materialize With His Repeal Bylaw.

A BOARD OF HEALTH AT LAST!

AND THE FIREMEN GET SUPPLIES

The C. P. R. West Shorel Snow or the Town will do It and Charge Accordingly—Chamber Jottings.

It was generally expected that Monday night's meeting of the council would be an interesting session, and when THE SUN's scribe walked into the chamber he was not surprised to see more than the usual number of ratepayers assembled. Of course, everybody came to see what was going to be done with the by law to repeal the cow bylaw which Ald. R. F. West had given notice that he was going to introduce. If that's what they came for they might just as well have stayed away, for the East ward alderman didn't put in an appearance during the evening, consequently there was not a whimper about the repeal bylaw.

Several of the new men have not "got onto" the nack of transacting municipal business, and, therefore, it would be a good idea for Mayor Lindsey to provide each of them with a set of rules and regulations.

It was twenty minutes to eight before the required half dozen members were present and when the mayor called order Reeve Endacott, Deputy-Reve Green, Ald. Monery, Riddell, Bell, Gordon and Still were present. Ald. Mann and Brown were a few minutes late, but Ald. West from the East failed to connect and didn't "get thar" at all. After the minutes of the last regular and special meetings had been read and confirmed the mayor read for snow shovelling from D. Dick, $5.50; Geo. Grey, $5 87½; H. Flesher, $7.72; ordered to be paid. Dunners from R. Irvine, $4.50; U. Penalton, $32.50; were referred to the T. P. and F. & W. committees, respectively.

The Ontario Pump Co. of Toronto wrote asking that their property in Orangeville be assessed directly to themselves; also that their property was too highly assessed and if it was not reduced they would appeal to the county judge. The letter will be handed to the assessor.

ASKED AND GOT IT.

Secretary J J Gahan and Treasurer J. A McMaster of the Citizens' band wrote asking a refund of $24 which they paid for a week's use of the town hall. The band, which was started in June last, has been under great expense, having spent $55 for new instruments, $25 for repairing and $90 for music, etc. The members had also spent about $90 in purchasing instruments for use in the band. It has been customary to make an annual grant of $50 to the band, but if the council would refund $24 it would be satisfactory. Later on in the evening a bylaw was passed authorizing the refund.

THOSE SHRUBS.

Mr. Still brought down three reports from the T. P. committee, the two first recommending the payment of several accounts and the last granting W. Fremlin permission to cut down shrubs near the G. P. R. crossing on West Broadway. When Mrs. R. B. Keys of Amaranth met her death there over two months ago the coroner's jury recommended that the trees be cut down so travellers could get a view of the track in order to avoid trains. It seems this little patch of land is in Mono, and a certain amount of red tapeism has to be gone through before any conclusion can be arrived at.

THEY'LL BE GLAD.

Mr. Mann brought in a report from the F & W. committee that will make the firemen smile all over. Some time ago the captain of the brigade, in his monthly report, recommended the placing of a hydrant on First street, opposite the American hotel, the purchase of two hundred feet of hose, four new suits, four hose-keys and a table, chairs and window blinds for the fire hall. The F & W. report advised the purchase of a dozen pails, two ladders, hose keys, table and chairs. The chairman said that the question of extending the fire service would probably come up later on. The report was adopted.

Mr. Brown submitted a report of the Charity committee, which showed that $22.17 had been expended. It also asked that $20 be placed to the committee's credit, which was granted.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Deputy reeve Endacott inquired about the bylaw to appoint a board of health. The bylaw was introduced and read a first and second time. The council went into committee of the whole on it and the band refund bylaw. Mr Endacott said he had been speaking to the old members of the board of health, but they wouldn't take the job again, therefore it would be better to appoint members of the council, same as last year. Before any names were proposed Mr. Still arose and said in several towns in Ontario the ministers were elected a board of health. Everybody laughed heartily at this and some person remarked that the rev. gentlemen of this town wouldn't become members of the board. The mayor, clerk, Ald. Bell, Gordon and Still were appointed. They then arose and both bylaws received their third readings.

CHAMBER JOTTINGS.

On motion of Reeve Endacott the treasurer was instructed to notify all dilatory tax payers to straighten up accounts right away.

The clerk will notify the C. P. R. officials to remove snow from their different crossings.

Ald. Gordon forgot to submit his R. & B. report, but it will come whooping in at the next meeting.

Mono council will be asked to help remove trees which obstruct the view of trains at the west Broadway railway crossing.

As the meeting then went home—time, 9:35.

ONLY ONE ASSESSOR!

The Council Holds a Special Meeting and Drops the Double Barrelled Assessorship.

A special meeting of the council was called for Thursday night and those who responded were: Mayor Lindsey, Reeve Endacott, Ald. Monery, Still, Riddell, Mann, West, Bell, Gordon and Brown. The meeting was called for the purpose of deciding whether it would be advisable to retain the two assessors or return to the one, as was the case before last year. Only two weeks ago the council decided, on a close vote, to appoint two assessors, and it seems rather curious that they should change their minds so quickly.

The necessary bylaws were introduced and Andrew Hughson, the veteran assessor, was appointed at the old salary of $75 per year.

We were never able to see the benefit of having two assessors, but a great many ratepayers will not agree with the council's action in the matter.

CARDWELL.

He's "Karen" It.—This is to certify that if your correspondent is caught on the centre road he'll be hung, drawn and quartered.

SAWING.—Mr. J. S. Armstrong, the best-known saw-miller of this section of the country, has just completed a large contract on Mr. John White's farm, on the 7th line. Mr. Armstrong took the contract of cutting a large amount of lumber, which he did to the satisfaction of the proprietor. John S. is quite a ladies' man, but he also cuts there on the double quick when there's any sawing to be done.

LITTLE LOCALS.—We were completely snowed under last Sunday night, the storm blocking up all the back lines.... A dance was held at Wm. Sproule's last week and was attended by people from Orangeville, Shelburne and around here.... Rev. F. Burt, we are pleased to say, is recovering from his recent severe illness, and we hope to see him in his old place before many Sundays elapse.... Young Jack Bracken, the far-famed Cardwell step-dancer, is pulling through an attack of grip in a very courageous manner. Cardwell dances are slow since Jack retired through sickness.

FREE.

Centre road dances are all very good, but they might send a fellow's invitation around a little earlier, and give him plenty of time to prepare for the event.—Jack Bracken.

What's the matter, old boy? there no good anyway.—Jack McAlister.

Never mind, boys, we'll have one of our own and we'll all go up to Garafraxa. Opposition is the life of trade.—J. S. Armstrong.

My artistic dancing was conspicuous by its absence, farewell to the centre road.—G. Jenkins.

My invitation arrived at 10:30 p. m., but I want the free and independent citizens and ratepayers of Mono to understand that there are no second fiddles in my orchestra.—H. Hewson.

How in the world does THE SUN get hold of our receptions an "at homes"? Its perfectly awful, it is, it is.—Joe Matthus.

Robt Smith of Alton, Caledon township, died Jan. 28th, probate was granted on Wednesday to his executors, Sarah J. Smith and Henry Newman. Personality is placed at $1,721 and realty $2,000; Myers & Robb, Orangeville, solicitors.

Ex County Crown Attorney Mac Millan, who is at present in Arthur, has communicated with Minister of Customs Bowell asking if typewriting machines for use in schools could not be put on the free list. The minister replied that if any changes are made in the tariff he will bring Mr. Mac Millan's communication under the notice of the government.

On the 29th ult. Mr. and Mrs. D. Armstrong passed away within a few hours of each other in East Luther at the ripe age of 75 years. Mr. Armstrong was the first to die and the watchers did not disclose the fact to his wife and she crossed the dark river unconscious that her husband had preceded her. The deceased lady was a sister of License Inspector Anderson of Orangeville. They were buried side by side in the Grand Valley cemetery.

The injunction against Hillas of Belfountain, in the recent trouble up there over the partial removal of a barn, assumed a new phase this week. One of the parties interested in the property got out a warrant here for the arrest of Hillas on a charge of malicious injury to property. High Constable Hurst went to Toronto on Tuesday and arrested Hillas. Hillas was brought before squire Graham and bailed in $200 to appear before the magistrates next Tuesday.—Brampton Banner.

Hidden Foes.

Among the many foes to human health and happiness dyspepsia and constipation are twin enemies greatly to be feared. With B. B. B. to drive them out of the system, however, no danger need be anticipated, as every dose brings the sufferer a long step further on the road to perfect health and strength, and a permanent cure always results.

SIX OUT OF SEVEN!

Great Conservative Victories all Along the Line.

EAST SIMCOE & N. VICTORIA ALL O.K.

Peel is the Only County that Goes Grit.

THE GOVERNMENT'S ALL RIGHT.

East Elgin Adds Another to the Long List of Victories.

LINDSAY, Ont., Feb. 11.—The greatest fight ever seen in the two ridings of Victoria has just been brought to an end, and we now hold the proud position of a united county—both ridings strong in the fight and Conservative. The excitement during the day has been subdued, but deep. When the returns came in for Lindsay town, showing an increase in each ward, and finally the large majority of 64 for Mr. Fairbairn, the excitement was at its greatest height. Mr. Walters counted on at least 40 majority in town, but he was disappointed. The returns as they came in showed increases in every part of the riding with but one or two exceptions, and now, at the close of a never-to-be-forgotten and stubbornly contested fight, Charles Fairbairn is once more our respected representative with the handsome majority of 200. The Opera house was filled with excited supporters of Mr. Fairbairn, and several torchlight processions took place during the course of the evening.

IN THE NORTH.

In North Victoria the great surprise party took place. The gallant major has supplanted his antagonist, John August, by the handsome and almost surprising majority of 200. The reports from the north riding were very difficult to obtain, but after a rather tedious wait the good news was received, and it was known that North Victoria had returned to her allegiance once more. On receipt of the news at the opera house the enthusiasm was unprecedented, and cheer after cheer was heartily given for Sam Hughes. The major succeeded in turning a minority of 202 into a majority of 240. Mr. Barron, his opponent, takes his defeat badly, but he can't expect the people are going to support a poor policy on every occasion.

KENNY AND STAIRS AGAIN.

Kenny and Stairs, Conservatives, are all right once more in Halifax. Nearly 11,000 votes were polled in Halifax county on Thursday, of which 5,883 were polled in the city. This gives an increase in the city vote of 1,850 over last March. Returns have not yet all come in from the outlying districts, but the figures so far received give Stairs 447 majority over Farrell, and Kenny 418 over Jones.

EAST MIDDLESEX.

Mr. Joseph H. Marshall was re-elected in this constituency over the Independent-Reform candidate, Mr. George Taylor, by a majority of 527. In March last Mr. Marshall's majority was 155.

CARGILL GETS THERE.

The most exciting election ever held in East Bruce closed Thursday evening with the election of Mr. Cargill by a majority of 10. Last March his opponent, Mr. Truax, was returned by 114. The changes in the vote are altogether in the country districts. Walkerton went back from 103 in the former election to 62 to day, but the townships of Brant, Greenock and Culross more than made up the difference. It was reported Wednesday that a swarm of Grit boodlers were over running the riding, and a comparison of the vote at several polls shows the result of their work. In Walkerton the unfavorable change was made altogether in the Centre ward. Mr. Truax, the defeated candidate, had a majority of 114 at the March election.

EAST ELGIN SOLID.

The Conservatives did excellent work in East Elgin on Friday and Mr. Andrew Ingram, their candidate, succeeding in defeating the Reform standard bearer, Dr. Wilson, by the large majority of 494. The same men contested the riding in March the Conservative being returned then by 49 votes.

NO CHANGE IN PEEL.

Peel is the only county where the Reformers elected a candidate, and Mr. Featherston was returned by an increased majority. The majorities in the different places are as follows:

| | Featherston. | Jackson. |
|---|---|---|
| Norton's Corners | 13 | .. |

MONO CENTRE.

ENJOYABLE.—One of life's enjoyable evenings was spent last Friday at the residence of Mr. Wm. Lundy. About seventy couples were present to enjoy each other's company. A fine dance and the dainties provided by the host and hostess who, by the way, have a warm place in the hearts of the young people, was enjoyed by all.

ALF. IS IN IT.—Our jovial and hilarious assessor, Mr. Alf. Glover, is again on the war path, and with his all-prevailing eloquence he's to persuade every old woman he meets that he is dealing fairly with every man. He is generally successful, too, except when he runs against such snags as Joe Leighton or Bob McCutcheon.

BUZZERS.—The roads are almost impassable owing to the recent blow up.....Another wedding is imminent..... Mrs. Thos. Patterson is indisposed at present.....The little daughter of Mr. Jas. McCutcheon is not expected to recover from an attack of brain fever..... Mrs. Jas. Laidlaw of Primrose is a visitor at Mr. John Laidlaw's residence.....Mr. Thos. Kidney of Toronto is spending a few days with his brother, Mr. Wm. Kidney, of this place.

WEDDING BELLS.—Another of those pleasant occasions for which the Centre is noted took place on Tuesday at the residence of Mr. Joseph Henry. The cause of the festivities was the marriage of Miss Nellie, that gentleman's youngest daughter, to Mr. James McDonald of Farmington. The ceremony was witnessed by a few select friends of the contracting parties, our esteemed friend, Rev. Mr. Ballantyne, fastening the silken cord. The bride, who was elegantly attired, was assisted in a pleasant manner by Miss Jennie Maguire, while Mr. Andrew Henry seconded the groom. It is unnecessary to say anything regarding Mr. McDonald as his previous record at the Centre, where he until recently carried on business, was of such a nature as to win the respect of all, while that of his fair partner is equally sustained. The bride was the recipient of many presents which were numerous, expensive and appropriate, but as we abhor the custom of details we will refrain from enumerating them. Your correspondent would respectfully present his compliments.

A snowstorm of ye olden time held high carnival in this locality on Sunday night, and there was a general blockade all day Monday.

Court Gardiner, No. 159, C. O. F., will hold an open meeting on Monday night next, the 22nd, when an excellent program will be rendered.

Over $20, which will go to St. Andrew's organ fund, was realized at a parlor social given at the residence of Mrs. Mono on Tuesday evening.

At the last meeting of the council Mayor Lindsey, Clerk Hughson and Councillors Bell, Gordon and Still were appointed a board of health for 1892.

An exchange has a world of truth in this item: "The man who gets mad at what the newspapers say about him, should return thanks three times a day for what the newspaper knows about him and does not say."

The Shelburne Free Press man has determined to make his delinquent subscribers pay up, and last week published some of their names and the amount they owe, offering the accounts for sale. We have a number of delinquents and if they don't pay up pretty soon some day they'll see their names in black-faced type in a prominent space in THE SUN. Heed the warning.

DEATH.—Mr. Henry Montgomery, father of Mrs. Thos. Parsons and the Misses Montgomery of this town, died at his residence, Mono Road, on Saturday, the 6th instant. Deceased had reached the ripe age of 77 years. The remains were interred at Providence on the following Monday.

UNDER THE HAMMER.—Auctioneer Joseph Reid will officiate at a great clearing auction sale to be held on the farm of Mr. James White, E ½ of lot 20, 2nd concession of Amaranth, on Tuesday, March 8. NEW DRESSMAKING ESTABLISHMENT.—Miss Minnie Murray has opened up a dress and mantlemaking establishment in the new Campbell block, Broadway. The latest Paris, Canadian and American fashions to choose from and all work will be promptly attended to. Miss Murray makes her announcement in another column of this issue.

MR. MENARY'S EXPLANATION.—Ald. Menary of the north ward has requested us to state that when he proposed to raise Chief Shield's salary to $500 he was under the impression that the fees of the office amounted to between $200 and $300, annually, which he intended should go to the town. If that had been the case, Mr. Menary says, the town would be the gainer not the loser.

Over $20, which will go to St. Andrew's organ fund, was realized at a parlor social given at the residence of Mrs. Mann on Tuesday evening.

At the last meeting of the council Mayor Lindsey, Clerk Hughson and Councillors Bell, Gordon and Still were appointed a board of health for 1892.

An exchange has a world of truth in a item: "The man who gets mad at what the newspapers say about him, should return thanks three times a day that what the newspaper knows about him, it does not say."

If that had been the case, Mr. Menary says, the town would be the gainer not the loser.

A GOOD IDEA.—A number of incandescent electric lamps have been placed in the town hall and council chamber and the change from the powerful arc lamps cannot fail to be appreciated. An attachment, in the form of a small battery, is connected with the lamps and is always charged, so that if anything should go wrong with the dynamos or engine at the electric light station, the lamps will continue lighted for some hours.

TESTING THE SCALES.—The Town Property committee tested the market weighscales on Tuesday, and if the C. P. R. scales are correct Mr. Menary's contention that the town scales are "slightly off" has been verified. In two tons' weight there is a difference of two hundred pounds, and the purchaser of a ton of hay, according to the town scales, would pay for one hundred pounds more than he got. It is likely a government inspector will be sent for, and the council should see that he does his work properly.

GIVING UP FARMING.—Mr. W. J. Howard of lot 22, con. 3, E. H. S., Mono, is retiring from farming and has instructed Auctioneer Joseph Reid to sell by public auction on the above premises all his farm stock, implements, etc., on Thursday, March 3. Mr. Howard has decided to remove to the Northwest, and everything will be sold without reserve. The sale commences at 12 o'clock, sharp, and if you want bargains you should attend.

UNRESERVED CREDIT SALE.—An unreserved credit sale of real estate, farm stock, implements, and household furniture will take place on the farm of the late Andrew Coleman, lot 17, con. 5, E. H. S., township of Mono, on Friday, February 26, at 12 o'clock, noon. A large list of stock will be put up for sale and the E. ½ of lot 24, con. 1, E. H. S., and E. ½ of lot 17, con. 5, E.H.S. will be sold or rented. Terms liberal. Jas. A. Patterson, auctioneer. For particulars see posters.

STUCK IN THE SNOW.—On Monday all the C. P. R. trains were delayed several hours owing to snow blockades. The morning train from Toronto, which is due here at 10.30 did not arrive until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. It got stuck at the horse shoe below Caledon, and a gang of snow shovellers had to be dispatched to relieve the imprisoned train. The Tecumseh morning express managed to get only a few miles from that place and as it could not make any headway it was cancelled. The train arrived down in the evening.

WEDDING BELLS.—On Wednesday last week the residence of Mr. W. East, J. P., East Garafraxa, was the scene of a very happy event, being the marriage of his daughter, Emma, to Mr. George Allen, of the firm of Fuller & Allen, painters, of this town. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Henderson, M. A., rector St. Mark's church, and was witnessed by a number of friends of the bride and bridegroom. The presents were handsome, numerous and costly, showing the high esteem in which the young bride was held by her large circle of friends and acquaintances.

OWEN SOUND DEFEATED.—The Owen Sound curling club came down on Tuesday morning and played the Orangeville club a friendly game. Our club succeeded in winning by 19 shots, as the following score will show:

| OWEN SOUND. | | ORANGEVILLE. | |

MAKE A RAPID RESPONSE.—This week we are mailing a lot of accounts to people who owe us for subscriptions and job work, and we sincerely trust they will remit the amount of their indebtedness at once. We must have money and this is the last warning. It is legal to advertise the names of debtors and offer their accounts for sale, and if there is not a rapid response to this appeal to pay up we may be compelled to try the above. Several papers have tested this method and pronounce it first class. We hope those who are indebted to us will not leave us in a position to resort to this somewhat novel manner of collecting debts.

A NEW TREASURER.—Mr. John Gillespie, ex reeve, was appointed township treasurer for Amaranth at a meeting of the council on Saturday in the place of Mr. S. J. Brown, resigned, who has filled that position for a number of years. Mr. B. was a courteous and obliging official and filled the office with credit both to himself and the municipality. He was tendered a vote of thanks by the council, which the people fully endorse. His successor, Mr. Gillespie is so well known throughout the county that THE SUN need not refer to his ability to discharge the duties devolving upon him in a highly satisfactory manner. Mr. G. is an old friend of ours and we wish him the fullest measure of success.

H. S. L. S.—The H. S. Literary Society held its regular weekly meeting on Thursday afternoon. The program opened with a glee from the glee club that could not very well be improved upon. A reading by Miss Mina Groats was charmingly rendered, and an instrumental by D. Atkinson and H. Crozier was thoroughly enjoyed. A very interesting debate, "Resolved that winter is more pleasant than summer," was the next number on the program. A. McKinnon, W. Sibley spoke for the affirmative and A. Curry and J. Gillespie acted for the negative. The former made some telling points and the debate was decided in favor of the affirmative. After R. J. Faulkner had sung a song in good style the meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

DROWNED AT ST. IGNACE.—On Monday of last week a most lamentable accident occurred at St. Ignace, Mich., by which Eddie, the 14 year old son of the late George Tipping, formerly of Camilla, lost his life. The little fellow was skating on the bay, when the ice broke and let him into the cold waters of lake Michigan. He clung to the ice as only a drowning person can and a man on the dock, who witnessed the accident, hastened to the rescue, but before he could render any assistance the ice broke again and the unfortunate boy disappeared. Eddie visited his grandfather, Mr. John Culp of the Prince of Wales road, for several months last summer, returning home in September. The little fellow's mother is a daughter of Mr. Culp, and has many friends around here who will be pained to learn of the sad affliction that has befallen her.

CANADIAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Press Association will be held in the railway committee room, Ottawa, March 3rd and 4th. Return tickets at single fares will be issued to members and their ladies accompanying them, good from March 1st to 15th. The meeting promises to be one of the largest and most interesting in the history of the association. An excellent programme is being prepared. The Ottawa journalists are sparing no pains to make the visit of their confreres to the capital a pleasant one. They have arranged for a banquet Friday night, and a visit to the points of interest about Ottawa. The Governor General will give an "At Home" Thursday. Members who have not yet received their railway privilege certificate for 1892, and newspaper men wishing to join should write at once to the secretary, J. R. McLean, 6 Wellington St. West, Toronto.

POOR BOB DUYER.—In intimated in THE SUN of last week, the death rate of the Orangeville jail is some on the increase, and it means that poor old men and women are hunted into the "consolation" to await grim Death's summons. A week ago Friday poor old Mrs. Robinson breathed her last, and at 1:30 o'clock Thursday morning unfortunate Robert Duyer, 81 years of age, went to his reward. This poor old fellow was an inmate of the jail for six years, and during all that time he wore the striped suit of the criminal although he committed no crime. Away back in the sixties and seventies Duyer taught school in Mono and many of the prosperous men and women of the banner township attended his school. In those, palmy days he never imagined that he would be a charge on the county or that he would fill a pauper's grave. The usual inquest was held and the same old verdict, "died from natural causes," was returned. After the inquest the body was hauled to the Town cemetery, where the remains of thirty-three paupers who preceded Duyer, are interred. It is a crying shame that there is not a proper place in the county where poor unfortunates could end their days, some place that is free from iron bars and immense stone walls.

A LONG RUN.—This town has always enjoyed the distinction of being a great horse driving ville, and strangers time and again comment on the fact. Of course, where there is so much driving the per centage of runaways is high, and several times a week we are treated to an exciting dash. But those dashes are becoming more dangerous since the runaways persist in galloping off on the sidewalks instead of keeping to the road. Several days ago a neighboring parson's roadster created a sensation by utilizing the north Broadway sidewalk for a race track, but those who happened to be on the above thoroughfare on Sunday afternoon were treated to a similar sensation. Mr. A. A. Hughson, the bachelor clerk of the town, engaged a turnout at Sydie's livery and undertook to show several lady visitors the beautiful scenery of this part of Dufferin county. After doing the town the driver headed the horses towards East Garafraxa, and drove out into the country. While turning around in front of Mr. W. H. Hunter's residence at Vanatter the cutter was overturned and the occupants were thrown out on the road. None of them were hurt, however, but the horses—Oh, where were they! Well, they were coming to Orangeville at a 2:30 pace, but just opposite the Perfect house at Springbrook they collided with another horse and cutter belonging to Mr. Sydie, damaging it somewhat. This last rig was occupied by young Billy Lathwell and his best girl, and they were precipitated on the road, the young lady receiving several painful bruises about the head. The excited animals increased their speed and came dashing down Broadway at a terrific rate. The single horse ran down Mill street to the stables and the team took the sidewalk at the Gordon house. They continued down Broadway to Wellington street, down the latter to the C. P. R. station, and were finally captured amongst the cars in the station yard. Rigs were dispatched after the unlucky drivers and they shortly afterwards arrived in town appearing none the worse of their exciting adventures. It is fortunate we are chronicling a burlesque instead of a fatality.

CALEDON.

Melvin Clare, infant son of Mr. Dougald McDonald, died on Sunday last, aged 10 months.

The members of Knox church Caledon East, and St. Andrew's, Caledon, have extended a call to the Rev. Mr. Fleming, of Owen Sound Presbytery. We understand the rev. gentleman has accepted subject to the ruling of the Orangeville Presbytery. If the call be sustained the induction will likely take place some time during the present month.

DEATH OF AN OLD SETTLER.—We chronicle this week the death of another pioneer of Peel, that of Mrs. McDevitt, lot 2, centre road, Caledon. Mrs. McDivett settled along with her husband, the late Daniel McDevitt, at the old homestead, Caledon over 40 years ago, and at that time, although not overburdened with any too much of this world's goods, ably assisted by her husband in every way to how out a comfortabe home which was accorded them, and prosperity crowned their efforts. She died on Wednesday last at the ripe age of 70 years. Deceased leaves a family of two daughters and five sons.

DEATH OF MRS. LAMONT.—On Sunday Mary Jane, the beloved wife of Mr. John Lamont, was called from our midst. She was highly respected by all who knew her and will be sadly missed. Deceased was 52 years old. The bereaved ones have the sympathy of all in this their sad bereavement.

One by one earth's ties are broken,
As we see our love decay;
And the hopes so fondly cherished
Brighten but to pass away.

One by one our hopes grow brighter,
As we near the shining shore;
For we know across the river
Wait the loved ones gone before.

HOCKLEY.

REMOVING.—It is reported that James Little, who runs the grist mill at Mono Centre, is seriously thinking of removing his business to Hockley. It would be a good thing for the village if he would remove here, which we hope he will.

NEWSY SQUIBS.—That undesirable visitor L. A. Grippe, has bidden this place goodby.... Mr. Wm Nichol, who has been ill for some time, is still in a dangerous condition, but we hope to see him greatly improved before long.... Mrs. Taylor and son, who came from the state of Minnesota, are visiting friends in this vicinity.... We are pleased to say that Mr. Storey, who has been sick for some weeks, is on the mend and will be out again soon.... Mr. John Beatty is getting in a large stock of logs and business in his line promises to be brisk.... Mr. W. H. Moffatt has been keeping pretty quiet since the election, but I guess he is keeping his eye on the new council.... Mrs. Lindsey is not improving any.... Assessor Glover paid our village a visit last week.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails.

A. Audette, proprietor House of Commons barber shop, Ottawa, says—A number of my customers are using Anti-Dandruff, and it gives the best of satisfaction and I consider it a success for the purpose advertised.

FLETCHER'S TRIAL!

He Appeared before the Judge, But Asked to be Sent up to the Assizes.

Our readers are familiar with the proceedings of the case against James Fletcher, the Shelburne barbtender who is charged with having attempted to assault 12 year-old Lettie McLeod in the former's office three weeks ago. At the preliminary trial the prisoner expressed his willingness to go before the county judge and the presiding magistrate committed him to jail. Fletcher has been in jail ever since. Friday was the day set for his trial but when he came before Judge McCarthy his local representative, Mr. W. L. Walsh, asked to have the case tried at the assizes, which was granted. The assizes commence early this year, March 1st, being the date fixed, and Fletcher will languish behind the bars until then. Crown Attorney Myers is looking after the interests of the crown.

LORRAINE.

(Too Late for Last Week.)

RECOVERING.—Mr. John G. Crawford, son of Wm. Crawford, who has been ill for the past month with congestion of the lungs, is slowly recovering. It is hoped that he will be all right again in a short time.

POSTMASTER MILLS DEAD.—A very sad event took place here on Wednesday, the 3rd, when one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of this locality passed peacefully away. In the death of John Mills we indeed have lost an esteemed citizen. Mr. Mills was born in the county of Tyrone, Ireland, 74 years ago, and has resided here 49 years. He was appointed postmaster for Lorraine in 1862 and held that office until he was summoned to go the way which we will all have to travel sooner or later. Mr. Mills discharged his duties satisfactorily to the government and the people, and his place will be very hard to fill. The remains were interred in the Methodist cemetery, close to his late residence, on Friday, a large number of friends and acquaintances following the body to its last resting place. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Wm. Wilson, Stanton, Jas. Dickey, Fintona, Geo. Parker, Sheldon, Wm. Wilson, Kelsey, Jas. Irwin, R. Holland, Lorraine. Rev. Mr. Woodgear of Rosemont, preached an eloquent and touching funeral sermon on the late Mr. Mills. The widow and other members of the family have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

Local Intelligence.

Everything is quiet in police court circles.

Last Thursday's cattle fair was very largely attended.

Every day last week the market was blocked up with wood.

Ald. West's bylaw to repeal the cow bylaw didn't materialize on Monday night.

A young fellow who had been doing time at the "castle" was released on Saturday.

Miss Dawson has removed her fancy goods store to the Still block west of Walsh's law office.

Lawanda, the iron jawed man from Detroit, drew a small audience in the town hall on Tuesday evening.

The Amaranth council met at Laurel on Saturday and another meeting will take place on Saturday the 27.

A well-known citizen has been summoned to appear in the police court to answer to a charge of cruelty to animals.

Mr. Geo. Robinson, who dislocated his shoulder several days ago, is not recovering as rapidly as was expected.

BARGAIN TABLE
EVERY SATURDAY AT ENDACOTT BROS.

A snowstorm of ye olden time held high carnival in this locality on Sunday night, and there was a general blockade all day Monday.

Court Gardiner, No. 159, C. O. F., will hold an open meeting on Monday evening next, the 22nd., when an excellent program will be rendered.

Over $20, which will go to St. Andrew's organ fund, was realized at a parlor social given at the residence of W. Mann on Tuesday evening.

At the last meeting of the council Mayor Lindsey, Clerk Hughson and Councillors Bell, Gordon and Still were appointed a board of health for 1892.

An exchange has a world of truth in its item: "The man who gets mad at what the newspapers say about him, would return thanks three times a day for what the newspaper knows about him and does not say."

The Shelburne Free Press man has promised to make his delinquent subscribers put up, and last week published some of their names and the amount they owe, offering the accounts for sale. Save a number of delinquents and we don't pay up pretty soon some day they'll see their names in black-faced type in a prominent space in THE SUN. Heed the warning.

DEATH.—Mr. Henry Montgomery, father of Mrs. Thos. Parsons and Mrs. Geo. Montgomery of this town, died at residence, Mono Road, on Saturday, the 6th instant. Deceased had reached the ripe age of 77 years. The remains were interred at Providence on Tuesday morning.

UNDER THE HAMMER.—Auctioneer Joseph Reid will officiate at a great clearing auction sale to be held on the farm of Mr. James White, E. ½ of lot 20, 2nd concession of Amaranth, on Tuesday, March 8. The sale will be strictly unreserved and the large number of articles must be sold. Terms are reasonable. See bills.

NEW DRESSMAKING ESTABLISHMENT.—Miss Minnie Murray has opened up a dress and mantlemaking establishment in the new Campbell block, Broadway. The latest Paris, Canadian and American fashions to choose from and all work will be promptly attended to. Miss Murray makes her announcement in another column of this issue.

MR. MENARY'S EXPLANATION.—Ald. Menary of the north ward has requested us to state that when he proposed to raise Chief Shield's salary to $500 he was under the impression that the fees of the office amounted to between $200 and $300, annually, which he intended should go to the town. If that had been the case, Mr. Menary says, the town would be the gainer not the loser.

A GOOD IDEA.—A number of incandescant electric lamps have been placed in the town hall and council chamber and the change from the powerful arc lamps cannot fail to be appreciated. An attachment, in the form of a small battery, is connected with the lamps and is always charged, so that if anything should go wrong with the dynamos or engine at the electric light station, the lamps will continue lighted for some hours.

TESTING THE SCALES.—The Town Property committee tested the market weighscales on Tuesday, and if the C. P. R. scales are correct Mr. Menary's contention that the town scales are "slightly off" has been verified. In two tons' weight there is a difference of two hundred pounds, and the purchaser of a ton of hay, according to the town scales, would pay for one hundred pounds more than he got. It is likely a government inspector will be sent for, and the council should see that he does his work properly.

The mixed train from Toronto, which is due here at 10.20 did not arrive until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. It got stuck at the horseshoe below Caledon, and a gang of snow shovellers had to be dispatched to relieve the imprisoned train. The Tecumseth morning express managed to get only a few miles from that place and as it could not make any headway it was cancelled. The train arrived down in the evening.

WEDDING BELLS.—On Wednesday last week the residence of Mr. W. East, J. P., East Garafraxa, was the scene of a very happy event, being the marriage of his daughter, Emma, to Mr. George Allen, of the firm of Fuller & Allen, painters, of this town. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Henderson, M. A., rector St. Mark's church, and was witnessed by a number of friends of the bride and bridegroom. The presents were handsome, numerous and costly, showing the high esteem in which the young bride was held by her large circle of friends and acquaintances.

OWEN SOUND DEFEATED.—The Owen Sound curling club came down on Tuesday morning and played the Orangeville club a friendly game. Our club succeeded in winning by 19 shots, as the following score will show:

| OWEN SOUND. | | ORANGEVILLE. | |
|---|---|---|---|
| A. McNeil, | | J. F. Bradley, | |
| R. McKnight, | | Sheriff Bowles, | |

MAKE A RAPID RESPONSE.—This week we are mailing a lot of accounts to people who owe us for subscriptions and job work, and we sincerely trust they will remit the amount of their indebtedness at once. We must have money and this is the last warning. It is legal to advertise the names of debtors and offer their accounts for sale, and if there is not a rapid response to this appeal to pay up we may be compelled to try the above. Several papers have tested this method and pronounce it first class. We hope those who are in debted to us will not leave us in a position to resort to this somewhat novel manner of collecting debts.

A NEW TREASURER.—Mr. John Gillespie, ex reeve, was appointed township treasurer for Amaranth at a meeting of the council on Saturday in the place of Mr. S. J. Brown, resigned, who has filled that position for a number of years. Mr. B. was a courteous and obliging official and filled the office with credit both to himself and the municipality. He was tendered a vote of thanks by the council, which the people fully endorse. His successor, Mr. Gillespie is so well known throughout the county that THE SUN need not refer to his ability to discharge the duties devolving upon him in a highly satisfactory manner. Mr. G. is an old friend of ours and we wish him the fullest measure of success.

H. S. L.S.—The H. S. Literary Society held its regular weekly meeting on Thursday afternoon. The program opened with a glee from the glee club that could not very well be improved upon. A reading by Miss Mina Groats was charmingly rendered, and so instrumental by D. Atkinson and H. Cromer was thoroughly enjoyed. A very interesting debate, "Resolved that winter is more pleasant than summer," was the next number on the program A. McKinnon, W. Sibley spoke for the affirmative and A. Curry and J. Gillespie acted for the negative. The former made some telling points and the debate was decided in favor of the affirmative. After R. J. Faulkner had sung a song in good style the meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

DROWNED AT ST. IGNACE.—On Monday of last week a most lamentable accident occurred at St. Ignace, Mich., by which Eddie, the 14 year old son of the late George Tipping, formerly of Camilla, lost his life. The little fellow was skating on the bay, when the ice broke and let him into the cold waters of lake Michigan. He clung to the ice as only a drowning person can and a man on the dock, who witnessed the accident, hastened to the rescue, but before he could render any assistance the ice broke again and the unfortunate boy disappeared. Eddie visited his grandfather, Mr. John Culp of the Prince of Wales road, for several months last summer, returning home in September. The little fellow's mother is a daughter of Mr. Culp, and has many friends around here who will be pained to learn of the sad affliction that has befallen her.

CANADIAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Press Association will be held in the railway committee room, Ottawa, March 3rd and 4th. Return tickets at single fares will be issued to members and their ladies accompanying them, good from March 1st to 15th. The meeting promises to be one of the largest and most interesting in the history of the association. An excellent programme is being prepared. The Ottawa journalists are sparing no pains to make the visit of their confreres to the capital a pleasant one. They have arranged for a banquet Friday night, and a visit to the points of interest about Ottawa. The Governor General will give an "At Home" Thursday. Members who have not yet received their railway privilege certificate for 1892, and newspaper men wishing to join should write at once to the secretary, J. B. McLEAN, 6 Wellington St. West, Toronto.

days, some place that is free from frost bars and numerous street walks.

A LOSS RUN.—This town has always enjoyed the distinction of being a great horse driving ville, and strange are time and again comment on the fact. Of course, where there is so much driving the per centage of runaways is high, and several times a week we are treated to an exciting dash. But these dashes are becoming more dangerous since the runaways persist in galloping off on the sidewalks instead of keeping to the road. Several days ago a neighboring parson's roadster created a sensation by utilizing the north Broadway sidewalk for a race track, but those who happened to be on the above thoroughfare on Sunday afternoon were treated to a similar sensation. Mr. A. A. Hughson, the bachelor clerk of the town, engaged a turnout at Sydie's livery and undertook to show several lady visitors the beautiful scenery of this part of Dufferin county. After doing the town the driver headed the horses towards East Garafraxa, and drove out into the country. While turning around in front of Mr. W. H. Hunter's residence at Vanatter the cutter was overturned and the occupants were thrown out on the road. None of them were hurt, however, but the horses—Oh, where were they! Well, they were coming to Orangeville at a 2:30 pace, but just opposite the Perfect house at Springbrook they collided with another horse and cutter belonging to Mr. Sydie, damaging it somewhat. This last rig was occupied by young Billy Lathwell and his best girl, and they were precipitated on the road, the young lady receiving several painful bruises about the head. The excited animals increased their speed and came dashing down Broadway at a terrific rate. The single horse ran down Mill street to the stables and the team took the sidewalk at the Gordon house. They continued down Broadway to Wellington street, down the latter to the C. P. R. station, and were finally captured amongst the cars in the station yard. Rigs were dispatched after the unlucky drivers and they shortly afterwards arrived in town appearing none the worse of their exciting adventures. It is fortunate we are chronicling a burlesque instead of a fatality.

CALEDON.

Melvin Clare, infant son of Mr. Dougald McDonald, died on Sunday last, aged 10 months.

The members of Knox church Caledon East, and St. Andrew's, Caledon, have extended a call to the Rev. Mr. Fleming, of Owen Sound Presbytery. We understand the rev. gentleman has accepted subject to the ruling of the Orangeville Presbytery. If the call be sustained the induction will likely take place some time during the present month.

DEATH OF AN OLD SETTLER.—We chronicle this week the death of another pioneer of Peel, that of Mrs. McDevitt, lot 2, centre road, Caledon. Mrs. McDivett settled along with her husband, the late Daniel McDevitt, at the old homestead, Caledon over 40 years ago, and at that time, although not overburdened with any too much of this world's goods, ably assisted by her husband in every way to hew out a comfortabe home which was accorded them, and prosperity crowned their efforts. She died on Wednesday last at the ripe age of 70 years. Deceased leaves a family of two daughters and five sons.

DEATH OF MRS. LAMONT.—On Sunday Mary Jane, the beloved wife of Mr. John Lamont, was called from our midst. She was highly respected by all who knew her and will be sadly missed. Deceased was 52 years old. The bereaved ones have the sympathy of all in this their sad bereavement.

One by one earth's ties are broken,
As we see our love decay;
And the hopes so fondly cherished
Brighten but to pass away.

One by one our hopes grow brighter,
As we near the shining shore;
For we know across the river
Wait the loved ones gone before.

HOCKLEY.

REMOVING.—It is reported that James Little, who runs the grist mill at Mono Centre, is seriously thinking of removing his business to Hockley. It would be a good thing for the village if he would remove here, which we hope he will.

NEWSY SQUIBS.—That undesirable visitor L. A. Grippe, has bidden this place good-by.... Mr. Wm Nichol, who has been ill for some time, is still in a dangerous condition, but we hope to see him greatly improved before long.... Mrs. Taylor and son, who came from the state of Minnesota, are visiting friends in this vicinity.... We are pleased to say that Mr. Storey, who has been sick for some weeks, is on the mend and will be out again soon.... Mr. John Beatty is getting in a large stock of logs, and business in his line promises to be brisk.... Mr. W. H. Moffatt has been keeping pretty quiet since the election, but I guess he is keeping his eye on the new council.... Mrs. Lindsey is not improving any.... Assessor Glover paid our village a visit last week.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The dread perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c, to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails.

General Booth, head of the Salvation army, has returned to England.

There are 9,851 buildings in Hamilton of which 4 975 are of brick.

A. Andette, proprietor House of Commons barber shop, Ottawa, says—A number of my customers are using Anti-Dandruff, and it gives the best of satisfaction and I consider it a success for the purpose advertised.

RECOVERING.—Mr. John G. Crawford, son of Wm. Crawford, who has been ill for the past month with one portion of the lungs, is slowly recovering. It is hoped that he will be all right again in a short time.

POSTMASTER MILLS DEAD.—A very sad event took place here on Wednesday, the 3rd, when one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of this locality passed peacefully away. In the death of John Mills we indeed have lost an esteemed citizen. Mr. Mills was born in the county of Tyrone, Ireland, 74 years ago, and has resided here 49 years. He was appointed postmaster for Lorraine in 1862 and held that office until he was summoned to go the way which we will all have to travel sooner or later. Mr. Mills discharged his duties satisfactorily to the government and the people, and his place will be very hard to fill. The remains were interred in the Methodist cemetery, close to his late residence, on Friday, a large number of friends and acquaintances following the body to its last resting place. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Wm. Wilson, Stanton, Jas. Dickey, Fistons, Geo. Parker, Sheldon, Wm. Wilson, Reles sey, Jas. Irwin, R. Holland, Lorraine. Rev. Mr. Woodgear of Rosemont, preached an eloquent and touching funeral sermon on the late Mr. Mills. The widow and other members of the family have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

☞ Lots of Private Trust and Companys' Funds to loan by R. E. Hamilton, of Grand Valley, at 6 per cent yearly, and larger loans at even less rates. Borrower can repay on account of principal in any year he wishes and expenses low.

Tom Geary, an escaped burglar, was located at Trenton on Friday, but distanced the police in a chase. They fired two shots after him, but without effect.

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

Geo. McKinley of McKinley Bill fame is seriously ill.

A firm offer to erect a flax mill at Dundalk if assured of a $700 bonus when the building is completed.

Tom Geary, an escaped burglar, was located at Trenton on Friday, but distanced the police in a chase. Fary fired two shots after him, but without effect.

In Orillia by law will be submitted to the people Feb 28th which proposes to raise the hotel licenses to $350 and limit the number granted to ten; shop licenses to be limited to two with a fee of $270.

John Chisholm was elected reeve of Owen Sound last week by a majority of 13 over Mr. Wright, who was returned at the election a few weeks ago by a majority of 89. The campaign was conducted on political lines and the Tory got there with both feet.

A school teacher in Elgin county washed a boy's mouth with soap and water for using abusive language at school recently. For this she was fined $10 and costs by a local magistrate, but the judge of Elgin county quashed the conviction.

A young man named Patterson of Caledon had one of his hands badly frozen one night last week. Through some mishap which occurred to him on his way home, he lay exposed and helpless for several hours. It was thought the hand would have to be amputated.

Ladies appreciate Anti-Dandruff from the fact that it not only thoroughly removes Dandruff with three applications, but stops falling of the hair, restores fading hair to its original color, and makes it soft and pliable without leaving any indication of a dressing being used—clear as crystal, clean to use, it is a valuable toilet preparation.

James Bryce of Proton went to Dundalk the other day to order a coffin for his sister, who had died the previous evening. On his return he found that his wife had during his absence given birth to twins, and that she too, had passed to the spirit land. He is left with a family of seven small children, two of them the newly born twins.

Mrs. Jacob Brown, who lives near Woodbridge, was visiting her daughter, Mrs. Edward Whittle. The chimney took fire and the women who were in the house at the time ran to the neighbors for assistance. After the fire had been extinguished Mrs Brown was missed and a search instituted with the result that her dead body was found in a neighbor's yard.

An old woman named Kitty O'Neill, who was some weeks ago picked up by the police of Windsor in a half famished condition and taken to the home of the friendless, died on Monday. Before dying she told the matron she had money in Detroit, and one of the inmates of the home went over the river and found between $400 and $500.

At Shelburne two young boys, sons of Mr. J. B. Dodds, had a narrow escape at the railway crossing on Monday of last week. They had just driven across the track when the train swept past. The sleigh just escaped being struck. More care should be taken when crossing the railway track.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed."—T. P Bonner, Chester, Pa. Ayer's Pills are sold by all druggists.

A report was in circulation a few days ago that a farmer living on the ninth concession of Bentick was dead, and that his body was found in one of the fields. The body was taken to the house, a coffin procured, and it was placed therein. A wake was held, and on the second night the coffin lid was pushed aside, and the supposed dead man sat up and demanded a drink, which was given him. He was then placed in bed, and is now rapidly recovering. Next!

David Long, a middle-aged farmer of the St. Vincent road, and son of the late John Long of the same neighborhood, poisoned himself with strychnine on Tuesday night. He was in Owen Sound in the afternoon, and bought the drug at McCallum's. After reaching home he took the fatal dose, and died at half-past eleven that night. The deceased was a married man without family. A brother of the deceased also committed suicide a few years ago with strychnine.

Strict dissenters in London are inclined to disapprove of the proposed demonstrations in connection with the funeral of Mr Spurgeon, as being too much like an imitation of the observances following the recent death of Cardinal Manning. A special says the Tabernacle authorities disclaim any idea of paying any undue honor to the dead, but the desire to view the features of the beloved pastor is so wid spread and natural that not to gratify it would be unnatural.

The Blood is the Life.

Good health without pure blood is simply impossible, and to secure pure blood is therefore absolutely necessary, especially in spring, when bad blood is very prevalent Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy, without an equal in the world of medicine. It drives out all poisonous humors of the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

A disease prevalent throughout the country among cattle which has been regarded by many as trifling, but which is really of a most dangerous character. The meat of cattle thus affected is impure and liable to transmit disease. The affection is noticeable by lumps on the animal's body, which, as the disease progresses, becomes raw and present sore spots. It would be well for butchers to closely examine all cattle before buying, to see that these lumps do not exist, as by killing such, the butchers not only make themselves liable to a heavy penalty, but also endanger the health of their customers. Farmers who sell diseased cattle are as liable as the butcher who slaughter them.

In 1869 Wm. Donohue mortgaged lot 6, con. 16, Garafraxa, to the Freehold Permanent Building & Savings Society, Toronto, for $400. In 1870 he died, and a few years afterwards his farm was sold under the mortgage. The company realized $1000 from the sale, but after the interest and costs were paid only $100.73 was left, and this was only paid into court to the credit of the deceased. The widow has since remarried, and Wednesday morning she got her deceased husband's money out of court. The $103 73 had increased to $207.02.

T. S Lorenson, Issuer of Marriage Licenses. A large supply of Blanks kept constantly on hand. Medical Hall, Broadway, Orangeville.

Captain James Meaghan of Gosport, N. S., will attempt to cross the Atlantic Ocean in a small open boat, starting from Gosport, Feb 7. The boat is 16 feet long, with a five foot beam, two foot stem and four foot stern. It is of solid cedar and oak. Captain Meaghan will take provisions and water to last 100 days, but he expects to make the trip in 60 days. His only companion will be a Maltese cat, which has for years accompanied him in his voyage.

In a little town in the state of Pennsylvania Henry Armstrong died from the grip night before last, and when the neighbors began to prepare the body for the grave it was discovered that the dead man was a woman, who had worked for 25 years as a farm hand in this community, and during all this time had not disclosed her sex. Physicians examined the corpse of Henry and found a well-developed female, about 42 years of age, who had borne children early in life. The mystery of her life will probably never be known.

A very pretty young woman named Catharine Rhodes appeared in the police court, Toronto, charged with altering and uttering Dominion Bank bills. As bank experts had for some time noticed bills coming into them from three eighths to half an inch shorter than ordinary bills it was supposed to be an accident until there appeared to be some system to the affair, and investigation showed that pieces had been skillfully cut out of different bills and used to manufacture new ones. Catharine Rhodes is the daughter of a laborer living on Wardell street. She was remanded by the police magistrate.

Mr. McIlsin, who was principal of the Harriston public school last year, and claims to be yet, is still walking around that town. It is said he is apparently quite satisfied that his salary is going on, and says he will collect it. Some person has evidently whispered to the board that they are personally liable for the loss should any occur in connection with the matter, as they are beginning to wake up and have held a special meeting and decided to obtain legal advice at once.

Mr. William Jackson, a young man who lived with his parents in Luther, died very suddenly on Saturday last from strangulation superinduced by a throat affection which he recently contracted. It appears he was standing in the dining room when his mother who was also in the room heard a strange noise and turning saw her son reeling just reaching him in time to save his lifeless body from falling to the floor. Deceased is said to have been a young man of great promise and a general favorite, which was evinced by the number who showed their respect and sympathy by following his remains to the grave. The grief of his stricken friends can be more easily imagined than described.—Arthur Enterprise.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—When inclement weather checks to a considerable extent the action of the skin, an alterative is required to compensate the body by means of other channels. Holloway's Pills can be confidently recommended as the easiest, surest, and safest means of attaining this desirable end without weakening the most delicate or incommoding the most feeble. When from frequently recurring chills or the inhalation of impure air the blood becomes foul and the secretions vitiated, these Pills present a ready and efficient means of cleansing the former and correcting the latter. By this salutary proceeding disease is arrested at its outset, its pains and inconveniences averted, and the nervous structures saved from the depressing effects entailed upon them by an illness.

THE SUN has more local news than any other paper published in the county, but the subscription remains at $1 per year. Send in your renewal at once.

Jos. Brown, the young would-be desperado, convicted of attempting to rob and pointing a pistol at Mrs. Louis Kennedy at Georgetown has got off with three months in jail at hard labour in consideration of a certificate of previous good character having been received by the court from a Wellington county farmer with whom the prisoner had worked several months.

REBUILT.—Mr. Jas Foster has his residence, which was destroyed by fire some time ago, partly finished and is now occupying a portion of it. A new stone kitchen has been erected, and when operations are completed Mr. Foster will have a very convenient place.

A Wonderful change.

GENTLEMEN,—For twenty years I suffered from rheumatism, dyspepsia, poor appetite, etc., and received no benefit from the many medicines I tried, but after taking five bottles of B. B. B I can eat heartily of any food, and am strong and smart. It is a grand medicine and has made a wonderful change in my health.

WINTER DAIRYING.

Professor Robertson issues the following circular of advice:—"It is folly to keep your cow six months without getting any pay, and then come down on her in the spring and say 'you have got to pay for your board or get out.' I would have the cow make me a weekly offering, as the churches command. Most of the churches have good business tact and are managed by men of good sense, and if they had more of it they would be appreciated more than they are. A man will give a dollar a week to his church when nothing could induce him to give $50 at one time. Make the cow give a weekly offering. A cow will give more milk if her milking season commences in October than if it begins between March and May. If a cow calves in March or April, when the cold weather comes in that fall she dries up anyway, and therefore boards on the man during the winter too long with out paying anything for her keep. Butter is dearer in the autumn and winter; skim milk is worth more; and if our cows generally calve in the fall we would be able to largely develop our export trade in dairy products. Butter made in the winter time is worth more and keeps longer; and calves grown at that time are more vigorous and can be attended to more conveniently, as they come at a time when the farmer has leisure to devote himself to stock raising practices."

Sufferers

FROM Stomach and Liver Complaints—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick Headache, and Constipation—find a sure and certain relief in Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.

Dr. T. E. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my professional."

Dr. John W. Brown, of Oconee, W. Va., writes: "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."

"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which almost destroyed my health. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. S. Wanderlich, Scranton, Pa.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would sooner willingly be without them."—G. W. Doutman, 32 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

The Rest of Rock Salt, for Stock.

Read what Prof. Robertson, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, says regarding proper ways of salting stock:—"Dairy cattle should have access to salt every day. A series of experiments has convinced me that when cows are denied salt for a period of even one week they will yield from 5½ to 6½ per cent. less milk, and that of uniform quality. Each cattle will on an average, lick over in twenty four hours less than two ounces drawn from the same or similar cows receiving salt every day, all other conditions of treatment being equal."

THE only chemically pure Salt ever discovered, analyzed 99 84-100 Pure Salt. All kinds of stock will do better where this Salt is used; one ton will go four times as far as common salt, hence it is cheaper. It is the finest Salt in the world for the preservation of all kinds of meat, all the large packers are using it. It is sold cheaper than any other lump salt. We guarantee this Salt as advertised. Make a trial and you will always use it; we have in stock fine and coarse, at

"Like Magic,"

THIS effect produced by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Colds, Coughs, Croup, and Sore Throat are, in most cases, immediately relieved by the use of this wonderful remedy. It strengthens the vocal organs, allays irritation, and prevents the formation of Consumption; in every stage of that dread disease, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieves coughing and induces refreshing rest.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children have been subject."—Capt. O. Conley, Brooklyn, E. D.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best recommendations of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it being more salable now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great success was considered marvelous."—R. S. Danks, M. D., Beloit, Kans.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all he was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Poetry.

EVERY DAY.

All the beauty of the street
And sometimes round of sunless feet;
When tested human forms we meet,
Every day.

Some burdened with unwhispered woe;
And success God alone can know;
We see them wandering to and fro,
Every day.

Some cursed by time's decay or blight;
With furrowed brow and fading sight,
Who haunt our feet from noon 'till night,
Every day.

Some swayed by passion deep and strong,
Enkindled by some burning wrong,
Unheeded by the listless throng,
Every day.

The lust of power, the greed for gain,
Twin tyrants of the heart and brain;
We see the ruin of their reign,
Every day.

The crafty ghosts that throng the street,
Wearing the garments of deceit;
Who breathe to lie and live to cheat,
Every day.

And some aspiring to be great,
With beaming eye and heart elate,
Scorning the thorny thrusts of fate,
Every day.

The youth enthralled by some fond dream,
Or borne along on fancy's stream,
Believing all things what they seem,
Every day.

The aged tottering toward the tomb,
No light to lift their asylum gloom,
Nor hope their weary way illume,
Every day.

The rich and poor, the old and young,
With silent lip or Scout tongue,
And griefs untold or joys unsung,
Every day.

Thus in the drama of the town
Some bear a cross or wear a crown
Until death rings the curtain down,
Every day.

The Story Teller.

His Mother-in-Law.

"You've come, have you?" said my mother-in-law, in a deep voice, as she stood on the threshold, grimly surveying me with eyes that shone like hard, greenish-blue goose berries behind her spectacles. For such modern trifles as eye-glasses were unsuited to my mother-in-law's fine Roman nose as a point lace collar would be to the Venus di Milo. I could feel her glances penetrate to the very marrow of my bones; and yet I contrived to keep a bold front, as I stood facing her.

It was a rather curious complication. My mother-in-law had not the least idea who I was. I had cheerfully intended to take her by surprise; but now that the eventful moment had arrived, my courage, like that of Bob Acres, as Jefferson shows him, was oozing out of the ends of my fingers.

My name is Richard Dalton. I was then twenty-one, with a face that was not absolutely ugly, a sublime audacity and pockets not particularly well lined, and I had just distinguished myself by running away with a pretty girl from boarding-school.

"But, Dick," she had remonstrated, we've nothing to live on."

"Don't be a goose, darling," had been my reply. "What do people need to live on? All the wants of this world, more or less are festitious. A crust of bread and a glass of water three times a day and now and then a suit of clothes—we must be poor indeed, if we can't manage to compass that."

Nettie had looked admiringly upon me, and acquiesced in my argument. We had taken board at the Angel Hill Hotel, and began our honeymoon royally. At the end of a month, mine host had become a little importunate on the subject of his bill, and Nettie's mother had written a letter to her signifying that she wanted nothing whatever to do with us. We had made our own bed, she signified, and now we might lie on it.

"Oh, Dick," cried Nettie, clasping her hands, "What are we to do?"

"Hanged if I know!" was my rather blank response. "But don't cry, darling, I'll go and see myself."

"You, Dick!"

"I, myself."

"She'll have nothing to say to you."

"She can't help herself."

"She'll turn you out of doors."

"We'll see about that."

"But, Dick, you don't know—you can't have any idea—how terrible she is," sighed Nettie.

"Saint George conquered the dragon, my love," I asserted, cheerfully, "and I mean to conquer your mother! So pack my valise, there's a darling, and I'll be off before the landlord comes back from Boston!"

"But, Dick, if he's troublesome, what can I say to him?" appealed poor little frightened Nettie.

"Tell him I've gone out of town, and shall be back in a few days," said I, confidently.

But, valiantly as I spoke, my mental sensations by no means corresponded with this bold part. I was beginning dimly to realize what a very unwise step I had taken and also persuaded poor Nettie to take. And I was secretly making up my mind that if Nettie's mother refused to receive us, I would ship myself off to sea as second-mate or third passenger, or something of that sort, send my advance wages to my poor little wife, and commence the world over again in this irregular fashion.

But when I walked resolutely up to my mother in law's door, she greeted me as if I had been expected for the last week or so.

"You've come, have you?" was the salutation.

"Well, yes," I admitted. "I've come."

"What on earth detained you?" said she.

In my mind I gave about what we say and settled on the first convenient excuse that came into my head.

"The train was delayed at Bogistown," said I.

"Well, come in, now that you're here," said she, "and get warm. It's awful cold weather for this time o' year, isn't it?"

"Kinder," said I with an assenting nod.

"Let me see," said my mother-in-law, as she took a steaming platter of ham and eggs out of the oven and lifted a shining coffee pot from the stove: "How old are you?"

"One-and twenty," said I.

"Do you think," said she, pensively feeling of her chin, "that you are able to take care of the place? There's a great deal to do, you know, on a farm like this. Do you think you're up to the work?"

"Of course I think so," said I wondering what on earth my mother-in law meant.

"You are married, I suppose?" said she.

"Oh, yes," said I, swallowing the hot coffee and winking my eyes very hard. "I'm married."

'Can your wife make herself generally useful about the place?' sharply demanded the old lady.

'Certainly she can,' said I, beginning vaguely to see my way through the mists of perplexity that had heretofore obscured my brain.

'How old is she?' asked Mrs. Martin.

'Eighteen,' I answered.

Mrs. Martin frowned.

'What does possess girls to get married nowadays,' said she, 'before they have left off dolls and patchwork?'

I looked thoughtfully down at the pattern of my plate—a pink Chinaman crossing a carmine bridge, with two very red willows drooping at the far end of it, and some impossible strokes of water below—and made no direct answer. My mother-in-law was doubtlessly laboring under a misapprehension, but I did not exactly see that it was my business to set her right. She had evidently engaged a hired man, and took it for granted that I was the personage in question.

'What can you do?' she asked abruptly. And with equal curtness I responded:

'Anything.'

'Come, I like that,' said my mother-in-law, rubbing her hands. 'At least you are not afraid of work. Do you understand cows and horses?'

"Well,—not much,' I owned. 'There were no cattle at my last place.' (Which was very true, for I had been a clerk in bank at three hundred dollars a year.) 'But I have not the least doubt that I could soon learn, if you would kindly show me what is expected of me.'

'Can you cut wood?' she asked.

'Certainly,' said I, reflecting to myself that any fool might do that.

She asked me one or two questions more, which I answered with the blind fatuity which attends youth and confidence. She seemed pleased with my willingness to undertake anything and everything.

'And now about wages,' she said briskly. 'What will you ask—for your own services and those of your wife—by the month?'

I fitted the tips of my fingers reflectively together.

'As we are both rather inexperienced,' said I, 'we'll agree to work the first month for our board. After that you shall pay us what you think we are both worth.'

'Hum—hum!' said my mother-in law, 'That's a sensible proposition—a very sensible one, indeed. Well, send for the young woman at once. In the meantime I'll show you over the place, and explain to you the nature of your duties.'

So I hired myself out to my mother-in-law as farm hand, without further ceremony, and immediately wrote and and posted a letter to Nettie. On my return from the post-office I met a burly young man meditating at a spot where four roads meet.

'Can you tell me, sir,' said he, 'where Mrs. Abel Martin lives?'

'Oh yes, sir; I can tell you,' I responded affably. 'But if you're looking for the situation of hired man I may as well tell you that it's filled.'

The burly young man made some remarks indicative, in a general way, of his opinion of the fickleness of womankind and departed, whilst I returned rejoicing, to the old farmhouse.

'Here's a very nice beginning,' said I to myself. 'It is now my business to give as much satisfaction as possible.'

Fortune favored me, in more ways than one. My mother in law sprained her ankle on the second day, and I played cook as well as man of all-work with distinguished success, and I had the satisfaction of hearing her say to old Miss Priscilla Perkins that "she didn't know what she'd taken such notice to any one as she had to the new hired man!"

'He's to young and good-looking to suit me,' observed Miss Priscilla pursing up her steel trap of a mouth.

'He is good-looking, ain't he?' said my mother-in-law. 'But he's dreadful handy about the house, and he ain't one bit afraid of work. And you'd ought to have seen the oysters he stewed for my supper last night, and cup of tea he made. Why, I don't mind Jemima Stiles one bit. If only Nettie could have stayed single till she met such a man as this!'

I smiled to myself as I laid out the finishings for the breakfast fire. My improvements on 'Jack of all trades' had never done me much good before. But now they were certainly winning me some credit in the world.

At the end of the third day she had told me the whole story of her daughter's runaway match with 'a good for nothing young city chap.' On the fourth day she had consulted with me as to whether it was better to put the forty acre lot into oats or rye, and I had won her heart by taking to pieces the old hall-clock, which had not gone for ten years, and restoring it to running order once again.

And on the evening of the same day Nettie arrived blushing and trembling.

"Go, Dick," said she, in the very angry?'

'My dear,' said I, 'she hasn't an idea who I am.'

'But, Dick—'

"No 'buts,' my darling,' said I, cheerfully. 'Let us be Julius Cæsar over again. 'We come; we see; we conquer.'

And I dragged my unwilling little wife into the back room where my mother-in law lay on a sofa, nursing her ankle.

'Here's my wife, ma'am' said I, 'and I hope she'll give satisfaction.'

Mrs. Martin jumped up in spite of her wounded ankle.

'Nettie!' she cried, in blank amazement.

'Oh, mother, mother!' faltered Nettie, throwing both hands around the old lady's neck, 'please forgive me this time and I'll never elope again.'

'Please ma'am, we'll be good,' added I.

And my mother in law relented on the spot. How could she do otherwise? 'Henrietta,' said she, 'you've been a naughty girl—there's no use denying that. But your husband seems a handy man about the house, and I'm tired living here alone. So take off your things and go to work getting supper. As for you Richard—'

'Yes, ma'am I know,' said I. 'I've been playing a double part and deceived you all along. But I wanted you to like me—and you know,' I added, 'all is fair in love and war.'

'Well, I do like you—a little,' admitted my mother-in-law. 'And now that I have seen your Dick, I don't so much wonder at the way you behaved.'

After that, she never scolded us any more. And I honestly believe that this is the only case on record in which a mother-in-law was conquered in so brief a campaign. Nettie says she doesn't know how I did it. In fact I don't quite know myself.

REPORTERS ARE GENTLEMEN.

Don't tell a newspaper reporter, when he calls on you on business, things which you do not wish him to print. He does not call for information for the fun of it. He is there on business. When you meet a reporter socially, don't say to him every time you open your mouth, "This is not for publication."

If you really have information to give, either give it cheerfully and frankly or refuse with firmness, but don't try to be clever and attempt any "funny business." If you give the information frankly you will in ninety nine cases out of one hundred be accurately reported and respectfully treated. If you refuse and politely your reticence will be respected. If you try to outwit the reporter by an effort to mislead him or by direct misrepresentation, you are sure to make a mess of it and wish that you had been better advised.

Disabuse your mind of any foolish impression that the newspaper reporters are malignant persons, trying to stir up trouble in the world. They are, as a rule, the opposite of this and have as high an idea as other men of the relative advantages of contentment and strife.

The Blood is the Life.

Good health without pure blood is simply impossible, and to secure pure blood is therefore absolutely necessary, especially in spring, when bad blood is very prevalent. Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy, without an equal in the world of medicine. It drives out all poisonous humors of the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

The destruction of the Royal hotel in New York was attended with almost more than ordinary horrors. The hotel contained about 150 guests, and of these, up to time of writing, 16 dead bodies have been found, with the prospect that more will yet be recovered from the ruins. The tragedy reveals another wrecking of human lives, for among the bodies recovered were those of Mrs. Cohen of Toronto, and Louis Levy, also of the same city. Mrs. Cohen was the wife of Mr J. Cohen, shoe dealer, but had not lived with her husband for some years. About two years ago she eloped with Levy, and has lived with him alone in various cities.

Women who suffer from nervous and physical debility find great help in the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It produces the rapid effect of a stimulant, without reaction—the result being a permanent increase of strength and vigor, both of mind and body.

A GOOD TIME COMING.

The Progress of the World Toward A Happier Age.

There are some rather attractive thoughts in a short paper, "The New Civilization Depends on Mechanical Invention," contributed by Dr. W. T. Harris to the Monist.

He considers the printing press and the steam engine are the necessary stepping stones to music, poetry, architecture, sculpture, painting—"these fine arts portraying man's victory over waste and alienation."

THE INCREASE OF COMFORT.

But more striking is the optimistic view which Dr. Harris takes of the constant increase in individual and collective production and the results we are to expect therefrom.

The average production of men, women and child in the United States increased in the thirty years between 1850 and 1880 from about 25 cents per day to 46 cents per day—and increase of over 69 per cent. This means the production of far more substantial improvements for human comfort. Finer dwellings, better roads and streets, fences for lands, drainings and levellings, and the processes necessary to bring wild land under cultivation, artificial supplies of water and gas, the warehouses and elevators, and the appliances of commerce, and finally, the buildings and furnishings of culture, including churches, schools, libraries, museums, asylums, and all manner of public buildings.

CASES IN POINT.

Great Britain, the leading nation in commerce and manufactures, according to the returns for 1888, distributed comfortably incomes of $1000 and upward to each family of 30 per cent. of the entire population, and the remaining 70 per cent. averaged $485 per anum (for each family. France provided incomes of $1300 per anum for 24 per cent. of its families. This shows what great capitalists are doing for the creation and distribution of wealth. Italy showed by its income returns that less than 2 per cent. received incomes at $1000 and upward, while 98 per cent. of the families averaged less than $300 income. Italy makes little use of steam power and labor-saving machines.

To such an extent is this geometrical progression of production raising the standard of living in the countries that most foster mechanical invention that Dr. Harris believes society will need no revolutionizing.

No man ever loved a woman while he was busy.

There is no one else who seems to give us such good advice as the the man who tells us what we want to hear.

The conceited man is the only man in the world who is sure of one admirer who will never go back on him.

The young man in search of a wife goes about looking for an ideal woman. The older man goes about looking for a practical women when he wants one.

After they are married a man's idea of comfort seems to be the privilege of sitting around in his shirt sleeves, and a woman's is going without her corset.

The man who is always anticipating happiness to morrow is a good deal better off, anyway, than the man who spends his time thinking how wretched he was day before yesterday.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Pure Blood.—When the Blood is pure, its circulation calm and equable, and the nerves well strung, we are well. These Pills possess a marvellous power in securing these essentials of health by purifying, regulating, and strengthening the fluids and solids. Holloway's Pills can be confidently recommended to all persons suffering from disordered digestion, or worried by nervous fancies, or neuralgic pains. They correct acidity and heartburn, dispel sick headache, quicken the action of the liver, and act as alteratives and gentle aperients. The weak and delicate may take them without fear. Holloway's Pills are eminently serviceable in invalids of irritable constitution, as they raise the action of every organ to its natural standard, and universally exercise a calming and sedative influence.

SHELBURNE.

(From the Free Press and Economist.)

HUNTING THEM UP.—Truant Officer Jas. E. Marshall is looking up the children between the ages of eight and fourteen years and compelling them to attend the public school. This is as it should be. Compulsory education between the ages named is a good law.

THE DIFFICULTY SETTLED.—As the result of a visit from School Inspector Gordon a few days ago, the school difficulty in the Riverview neighborhood has been settled. A new school will be erected in the village, and in the meantime the Presbyterian hall will be used for school purposes. An effort is to be made to obtain additional territory from the township of Proton in support of this school. The old school will remain as it is for a time. A division of the section will, in all probability, take place shortly.

AMUSING CASE.—A dispute regarding the value of a mirror given as a prize at the recent skating carnival by J. C. McNab, furniture dealer, and won by Harry Myers, an employe in Booth's barber shop, resulted in a charge of assault being laid against McNab. The hearing of the case occupied the whole of Friday afternoon, and on Saturday Magistrates Graham and Jelly gave their decision, finding the defendant $1 and costs. Quite a number of our citizens attended the court and public opinion was divided, some favoring the plaintiff and some the defendant. Major Donglas appeared for the plaintiff Myers, and Mr. Dunbar for the defendant McNab.

THE NEW FACE.—The Free Press has published a list of 32 deadbeats who have not paid for their paper and adds: "Next week we will publish another list of names some of them never home, who have not settled their bills. We intend to carry out just what we started to do—to have prompt paying subscribers only on our list and books. As soon as the amount is paid the name will be removed from the list. Names have been kept back on account of letters received, but we warn the parties interested, for the last time, if the amount is not paid when presented the name will appear with the others."

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for many years and have always found it the best remedy for colds, which it cures quickly and easily. I have never met with its equal."—Capt. U. Conley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"From my experience of over thirty years, I do not hesitate to pronounce Ayer's Cherry Pectoral the best of all preparations for the relief and cure of pulmonary complaints. One of the most remarkable cures of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it has been in demand, and has grown in every year, when its great merits were unknown, and marvelous."—R. "My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, had pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

His Mother-in-Law.

"You're come, have you?" said my mother-in-law, in a deep voice, as she stood on the threshold, grimly surveying me with eyes that shone like hard, greenish-blue goose berries behind her spectacles. For such modern trifles as eye-glasses were unsuited to my mother-in-law's fine Roman nose as a point lace collar would be to the Venus di Milo. I could feel her glances penetrate to the very marrow of my bones; and yet I contrived to keep a bold front, as I stood facing her.

It was a rather curious complication. My mother-in-law had not the least idea who I was. I had cheerfully intended to take her by surprise; but now that the eventful moment had arrived, my courage, like that of Bob Acres, as Jefferson shows him, was oozing out of the ends of my fingers.

My name is Richard Dalton. I was then twenty-one, with a face that was not absolutely ugly, a sublime audacity and pockets not particularly well lined, and I had just distinguished myself by running away with a pretty girl from boarding-school.

"But, Dick," she had remonstrated, "we're nothing to live on."

"Don't be a goose, darling," had been my reply. "What do people need to live on? All the wants of this world, more or less are factitious. A crust of bread and a glass of water three times a day and now and then a suit of clothes—we must be poor indeed, if we can't manage to compass that."

Nettie had looked admiringly upon me, and acquiesced in my argument. We had taken board at the Angel Hill Hotel, and began our honeymoon royally. At the end of a month, mine host had become a little importunate on the subject of his bill, and Nettie's mother had written a letter to her signifying that she wanted nothing whatever to do with us. We had made our own bed, she signified, and now we might lie on it.

"Oh, Dick," cried Nettie, clasping her hands, "What are we to do?"

"Hanged if I know!" was my rather blank response. "But don't cry, darling, I'll go and see myself."

"You, Dick!"

"I, myself."

"She'll have nothing to say to you."

"She can't help herself."

"She'll turn you out of doors."

"We'll see about that."

"But, Dick, you don't know—you can't have any idea—how terrible she is," sighed Nettie.

"Saint George conquered the dragon, my love," I asserted, cheerfully, "and I mean to conquer your mother! So pack my valise, there's a darling, and I'll be off before the landlord comes back from Boston!"

"But, Dick, if he's troublesome, what can I say to him?" appealed poor little frightened Nettie.

"Tell him I've gone out of town, and shall be back in a few days," said I, confidently.

But, valiantly as I spoke, my mental sensations by no means corresponded with this bold part. I was beginning dimly to realize what a very unwise step I had taken and also persuaded poor Nettie to take. And I was secretly making up my mind that if Nettie's mother refused to receive us, I would ship myself off to sea as second mate or third purser, or something of that sort, send my advance wages to my poor little wife, and commence the world over again in this irregular fashion.

But when I walked resolutely up to my mother in law's door, she greeted me as if I had been expected for the last week or so.

"You're come, have you?" was the salutation.

"Let me see," said my mother-in-law, as she took a steaming plaster of lean and aged out of the oven and filled a steaming coffee pot from the stove. "How old are you?"

"One and twenty," said I.

"Do you think," said she, positively feeling of her chin, "that you are able to take care of the place? There's a great deal to do, you know, on a farm like this. Do you think you're up to the work?"

"Of course I think so," said I wondering what on earth my mother-in-law meant.

"You are married, I suppose?" said she.

"Oh, yes," said I, swallowing the hot coffee and winking my eyes very hard. "I'm married."

"Can your wife make herself generally useful about the place?" sharply demanded the old lady.

"Certainly she can," said I, beginning vaguely to see my way through the mists of perplexity that had heretofore obscured my brain.

"How old is she?" asked Mrs. Martin.

"Eighteen," I answered.

Mrs. Martin frowned.

"What does possess girls to get married nowadays," said she, "before they have left off dolls and patchwork?"

I looked thoughtfully down at the pattern of my plate—a pink Chinaman crossing a carmine bridge, with two very red willows drooping at the far end of it, and some impossible strokes of water below—and made no direct answer. My mother-in-law was doubtlessly laboring under a misapprehension, but I did not exactly see that it was my business to set her right. She had evidently engaged a hired man, and took it for granted that I was the personage in question.

"What can you do?" she asked abruptly. And with equal curtness I responded: "Anything."

"Come, I like that," said my mother-in-law, rubbing her hands. "At least you are not afraid of work. Do you understand cows and horses?"

"Well,—not much," I owned. "There were no cattle at my last place." (Which was very true, for I had been a clerk in bank at three hundred dollars a year.) "But I have got the least doubt that I could soon learn, if you would kindly show me what is expected of me."

"Can you cut wood?" she asked.

"Certainly," said I, reflecting to myself that any fool might do that.

She asked me one or two questions more, which I answered with the blind fatuity which attends youth and confidence. She seemed pleased with my willingness to undertake anything and everything.

"And now about wages," she said briskly. "What will you ask—for your own services and those of your wife—by the month?"

I fitted the tips of my fingers reflectively together.

"As we are both rather inexperienced," said I, "we'll agree to work the first month for our board. After that you shall pay us what you think we are both worth."

"Hum—hum!" said my mother-in-law, "That's a sensible proposition—a very sensible one, indeed. Well, send for the young woman at once. In the meantime I'll show you over the place, and explain to you the nature of your duties."

So I hired myself out to my mother-in-law as farm hand, without further ceremony, and immediately wrote and and posted a letter to Nettie. On my return from the post-office I met a burly young man meditating at a spot where four roads meet.

"Can you tell me, sir," said he, "where Mrs. Abel Martin lives?"

"Oh yes, sir; I can tell you," I responded affably. "But if you're looking for the situation of hired man I may as well tell you that it's filled."

The burly young man made some remarks indicative, in a general way, of his opinion of the fickleness of womankind and departed, while I returned rejoicing, to the old farmhouse.

"Here's a very nice beginning," said I to myself. "It is now my business to give as much satisfaction as possible."

Fortune favored me, in more ways than one. My mother in law sprained her ankle on the second day, and I played cook as well as man of all-work with distinguished success, and I had the satisfaction of hearing her say to old Miss Priscilla Perkins that "she didn't know when she'd taken such notion to any one as she had to the new hired man!"

"He's to young and good-looking to suit me," observed Miss Priscilla pursing up her steel trap of a mouth.

"He is good-looking, ain't he?" said my mother-in-law. "But he's dreadful heady about the house, and he ain't one bit afraid of work. And you'd ought to have seen the oysters he stewed for my supper last night, and cup of tea he made! Why, I declare, I haven't had such good for nothing young city chap." On the fourth day she had scrambled with me as to whether it was better to put the forty-one pounds into corn or rye, and I had won her heart by taking to pieces the old half-clock, which had not gone for ten years, and restoring it to running order once again.

And on the evening of the same day Nettie arrived blushing and trembling.

"Go, Dick," said she, in the very angry?"

"My dear," said I, "she hasn't an idea who I am."

"But, Dick—"

"No 'buts,' my darling," said I, cheerfully. "Let us be Julius Cæsar ever again. 'We come; we see; we conquer.'"

And I dragged my unwilling little wife into the back room where my mother-in-law lay on a sofa, nursing her ankle.

"Here's my wife, ma'am" said I, "and I hope she'll give satisfaction."

Mrs. Martin jumped up in spite of her wounded ankle.

"Nettie!" she cried, in blank amazement.

"Oh, mother, mother!" faltered Nettie, throwing both hands around the old lady's neck, "please forgive me this time and I'll never elope again."

"Please ma'am, we'll be good," added I.

And my mother in law relented on the spot. How could she do otherwise? "Henrietta," said she, "you've been a naughty girl—there's no use denying that. But your husband seems a handy man about the house, and I'm tired living here alone. So take off your things and go to work getting supper. As for you Richard—"

"Yes, ma'am I know," said I. "I've been playing a double part and deceived you all along. But I wanted you to like me—and you know," I added, "all is fair in love and war."

"Well, I do like you—a little," admitted my mother-in-law. "And now that I have seen your Dick, I don't so much wonder at the way you behaved."

After that, she never scolded us any more. And I honestly believe that this is the only case on record in which a mother-in-law was conquered in so brief a campaign. Nettie says she doesn't know how I did it. In fact I don't quite know myself.

REPORTERS ARE GENTLEMEN.

Don't Attempt to Outwit a Clever Newspaper Man—Be Candid with Him.

Don't tell a newspaper reporter, when he calls on you on business, things which you do not wish him to print. He does not call for information for the fun of it. He is there on business. When you meet a reporter socially, don't say to him every time you open your mouth, "This is not for publication."

If you really have information to give, either give it cheerfully and frankly or refuse with firmness, but don't try to be clever and attempt any "funny business." If you give the information frankly you will in ninety nine cases out of one hundred be accurately reported and respectfully treated. If you refuse and politely your reticence will be respected. If you try to outwit the reporter by an effort to mislead him or by direct misrepresentation, you are sure to make a mess of it and wish that you had been better advised.

Disabuse your mind of any foolish impression that the newspaper reporters are malignant persons, trying to stir up trouble in the world. They are, as a rule, the opposite of this and have as high an idea as other men of the relative advantages of contentment and strife.

The Blood is the Life.

Good health without pure blood is simply impossible, and to secure pure blood is therefore absolutely necessary, especially in spring, when bad blood is very prevalent. Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy, without an equal in the world of medicine. It drives out all poisonous humors of the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

The destruction of the Royal hotel in New York was attended with almost more than ordinary horrors. The hotel contained about 150 guests, and, of these, up to time of writing, 16 dead bodies have been found, with the prospect that more will yet be recovered from the ruins. The tragedy reveals another wrecking of human lives, for among the bodies recovered were those of Mrs. Cohen of Toronto, and Louis Levy, also of the same city. Mrs. Cohen was the wife of Mr J. Cohen, shoe dealer, but had not lived with her husband for some years. About two years ago she eloped with Levy, and has lived with him since in various cities.

Women who suffer from nervous and physical debility find great help in the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It produces the rapid effect of a stimulant, without reaction—the result being a permanent increase of strength and vigor, both of mind and body.

"Many years ago I was given up by my physicians to die with Consumption; in many stages of the dread disease, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieved my cough and induced sleep, when all else failed to do so. I am now in good health."—Mrs. Ella Wilson, Ashland, Ala.

Take warm water for your drink, and bathe freely in the same before retiring.

The test of power, the guard for gain,
Twin tyrants of the heart and brain;
We see the ruin of their reign,
Every day.

The costly chariots that throng the street,
Wearing the garments of decay;
Who breathe to live and live to chant,
Every day.

And some aspiring to be great,
With burning eye and heart elate,
Scorning the cheery thrush of fate,
—Every day.

The youth enthralled by some fond dream,
Or borne along on fancy's stream,
Believing all things what they seem,
Every day.

The aged tottering toward the tomb,
No light to lift their mylom gloom,
Nor hope their weary way illume,
Every day.

The rich and poor, the old and young,
With silent lip or loud tongue,
And grisly untold or joys unsung,
Every day.

Thus to the drums of the town
Some bear a cross or wear a crown
Until death rings the curtain down,
Every day.

Hollowa'y's Pills & Ointment

WHEREAS I AM INFORMED THAT one Joseph Haydock, of New York, is making and selling Pills and Ointment under the name of HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT, and that the same are being sold by certain persons in the British Provinces of America, to the detriment of the public, and also to my injury and loss.

Now, I declare the said Joseph Haydock has no authority whatever from me to use my name in any way. He is not my agent. He holds no power of attorney of mine, nor have I any connection with him whatever.

Persons publishing the said counterfeit Medicines of Joseph Haydock, or keeping for sale, or selling the same in any part of the British American Provinces, will be prosecuted according to law.

I have no agent in the United States, nor are my medicines sold there.

Every Pot and Box of my Genuine Medicine bears on the label the address 533 Oxford Street, London, and has affixed to each the British Government Stamp, with the words Holloway's Pills and Ointment engraved thereon.

The trade mark of my said Medicines are registered in Ottawa and also at Washington.

Signed, THOMAS HOLLOWAY.

January, 25, 1879.

THE INCREASE OF ENERGY.

But more striking in the optimistic view which Dr. Harris takes of the constant increase in individual and collective production and the results we are to expect therefrom.

The average production of men, women and child in the United States increased in the thirty years between 1850 and 1880 from about 25 cents per day to 40 cents per day—and increase of over 60 per cent. This means the production of far more substantial improvements for human comfort. Finer dwellings, better roads and streets, fences for lands, drainings and levellings, and the processes necessary to bring wild land under cultivation, artificial supplies of water and gas, the warehouses and elevators, and the appliances of commerce, and finally, the buildings and furnishings of culture, including churches, schools, libraries, museums, asylums, and all manner of public buildings.

CASES IN POINT.

Great Britain, the leading nation in commerce and manufactures, according to the returns for 1888, distributed comfortably incomes of $1000 and upward in each family of 30 per cent. of the entire population, and the remaining 70 per cent. averaged $485 per annum (for each family. France provided incomes of $1300 per annum for 24 per cent. of its families. This shows what great capitalists are doing for the creation and distribution of wealth. Italy showed by its income returns that less than 2 per cent. received incomes at $1000 and upward, while 98 per cent. of the families averaged less than $300 income. Italy makes little use of steam power and labor-saving machines.

To such an extent is this geometrical progression of production raising the standard of living in the countries that most foster mechanical invention that Dr. Harris believes society will need no revolutionizing.

No man ever loved a woman while he was busy.

There is no one else who seems to give us such good advice as the the man who tells us what we want to hear.

The conceited man is the only man in the world who is sure of one admirer who will never go back on him.

The young man in search of a wife goes about looking for an ideal woman. The older man goes about looking for a practical women when he wants one.

After they are married a man's idea of comfort seems to be the privilege of sitting around in his shirt sleeves, and a woman's is going without her corset.

The man who is always anticipating happiness to morrow is a good deal better off, anyway, than the man who spends his time thinking how wretched he was day before yesterday.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Pure Blood.—When the Blood is pure, its circulation calm and equable, and the nerves well strung, we are well. These Pills possess a marvellous power in securing these essentials of health by purifying, regulating, and strengthening the fluids and solids. Holloway's Pills can be confidently recommended to all persons suffering from disordered digestion, or worried by nervous fancies, or neuralgic pains. They correct acidity and heartburn, dispel sick headache, quicken the action of the liver, and act as alteratives and gentle aperients. The weak and delicate may take them without fear. Holloway's Pills are eminently serviceable in invalids of irritable constitution, as they raise the action of every organ to its natural standard, and universally exercise a calming and sedative influence.

SHELBURNE.

(From the Free Press and Economist.)

HOISTING THEM UP.—Truant Officer Jas. E. Marshall is looking up the children between the ages of eight and fourteen years and compelling them to attend the public school. This is as it should be. Compulsory education between the ages named is a good law.

THE DIFFICULTY SETTLED.—As the result of a visit from School Inspector Gordon a few days ago, the school difficulty in the Riverview neighborhood has been settled. A new school will be erected in the village, and in the meantime the Presbyterian hall will be used for school purposes. An effort is to be made to obtain additional territory from the township of Proton in support of this school. The old school will remain as it is for a time. A division of the section will, in all probability, take place shortly.

AMUSING CASE.—A dispute regarding the value of a mirror given as a prize at the recent skating carnival by J. C. McNab, furniture dealer, and won by Harry Myers, an employe in Booth's barber shop, resulted in a charge of assault being laid against McNab. The hearing of the case occupied the whole of Friday afternoon, and on Saturday Magistrates Graham and Jelly gave their decision, finding the defendant $1 and costs. Quite a number of our citizens attended the court and public opinion was divided, some favoring the plaintiff and some the defendant. Major Douglas appeared for the plaintiff Myers, and Mr. Dunbar for the defendant McNab.

THE NEW PAPER.—The Free Press has published a list of 52 deadbeats who have not paid for their paper and adds: "Next week we will publish another list of names some of them nearer home who have not settled their bills. Wake up, gentlemen, just when we started in to do—to have prompt paying subscribers only on our list and books. As soon as the amount is paid the name will be removed from the list. Names have been kept back on account of letters received, but we warn the parties interested, for the last time, if the amount is not paid when presented the name will appear with the others."

The Story Teller.

His Mother-in-Law.

"You've come, have you?" said my mother-in-law, in a deep voice, as she stood on the threshold, grimly surveying me with eyes that shone like hard, greenish-blue goose berries behind her spectacles. For such modern trifles as eye-glasses were unsulied to my mother-in-law's fine Roman nose as a point lace collar would be to the Venus di Milo. I could feel her glances penetrate to the very marrow of my bones; and yet I contrived to keep a bold front, as I stood facing her.

It was a rather curious complication. My mother-in-law had not the least idea who I was. I had cheerfully intended to take her by surprise; but now that the eventful moment had arrived, my courage, like that of Bob Acres, as Jefferson shows him, was oozing out of the ends of my fingers.

My name is Richard Dalton. I was then twenty-one, with a face that was not absolutely ugly, a sublime audacity and pockets not particularly well lined, and I had just distinguished myself by running away with a pretty girl from boarding-school.

"But, Dick," she had remonstrated, "we're nothing to live on."

"Don't be a goose, darling," had been my reply. "What do people need to live on? All the wants of this world, more or less are factitious. A crust of bread and a glass of water three times a day and now and then a suit of clothes—we must be poor indeed, if we can't manage to compass that."

Nettie had looked admiringly upon me, and acquiesced in my argument. We had taken board at the Angel Hill Hotel, and began our honeymoon royally. At the end of a month, mine host had become a little importunate on the subject of his bill, and Nettie's mother had written a letter to her signifying that she wanted nothing whatever to do with us. We had made our own bed, she signified, and now we might lie on it.

"Oh, Dick," cried Nettie, clasping her hands, "What are we to do?"

"Hanged if I know!" was my rather blank response. "But don't cry, darling, I'll go and see myself."

"You, Dick!"

"I, myself."

"She'll have nothing to say to you."

"She can't help herself."

"She'll turn you out of doors."

"We'll see about that."

"But, Dick, you don't know—you can't have any idea—how terrible she is," sighed Nettie.

"Saint George conquered the dragon, my love," I asserted, cheerfully, "and I mean to conquer your mother! So pack my valise, there's a darling, and I'll be off before the landlord comes back from Boston!"

"But, Dick, if he's troublesome, what can I say to him?" appealed poor little frightened Nettie.

"Tell him I've gone out of town, and shall be back in a few days," said I, confidently.

But, valiantly as I spoke, my mental sensations by no means corresponded with this bold part. I was beginning dimly to realize what a very unwise step I had taken and also persuaded poor Nettie to take. And I was secretly making up my mind that if Nettie's mother refused to receive us, I would ship myself off to sea as second-mate or third parson, or something of that sort, send my advance wages to my poor little wife, and commence the world over again in this irregular fashion.

But when I walked resolutely up to my mother-in-law's door, she greeted me as if I had been expected for the last week or so.

"You've come, have you?" was the salutation.

"I'm married."

"Can your wife make herself generally useful about the place?" sharply demanded the old lady.

"Certainly she can," said I, beginning vaguely to see my way through the mists of perplexity that had heretofore obscured my brain.

"How old is she?" asked Mrs. Martin.

"Eighteen," I answered.

Mrs. Martin frowned.

"What does possess girls to get married nowadays," said she, "before they have left off dolls and patchwork?"

I looked thoughtfully down at the pattern of my plate—a pink Chinaman crossing a carmine bridge, with two very red willows drooping at the far end of it, and some impossible strokes of water below—and made no direct answer. My mother-in-law was doubtlessly laboring under a misapprehension, but I did not exactly see that it was my business to set her right. She had evidently engaged a hired man, and took it for granted that I was the personage in question.

"What can you do?" she asked abruptly. And with equal curtness I responded: "Anything."

"Come, I like that," said my mother-in-law, rubbing her hands. "At least you are not afraid of work. Do you understand cows and horses?"

"Well,—not much," I owned. "There were no cattle at my last place." (Which was very true, for I had been a clerk in bank at three hundred dollars a year.) "But I have not the least doubt that I could soon learn, if you would kindly show me what is expected of me."

"Can you cut wood?" she asked.

"Certainly," said I, reflecting to myself that any fool might do that.

She asked me one or two questions more, which I answered with the blind fatuity which attends youth and confidence. She seemed pleased with my willingness to undertake anything and everything.

"And now about wages," she said briskly. "What will you ask—for your own services and those of your wife—by the month?"

I fitted the tips of my fingers reflectively together.

"As we are both rather inexperienced," said I, "we'll agree to work the first month for our board. After that you shall pay us what you think we are both worth."

"Hum—hum!" said my mother-in-law, "That's a sensible proposition—a very sensible one, indeed. Well, send for the young woman at once. In the meantime I'll show you over the place, and explain to you the nature of your duties."

So I hired myself out to my mother-in-law as farm hand, without further ceremony, and immediately wrote and had posted a letter to Nettie. On my return from the post-office I met a burly young man meditating at a spot where four roads meet.

"Can you tell me, sir," said he, "where Mrs. Abel Martin lives?"

"Oh yes, sir; I can tell you," I responded affably. "But if you're looking for the situation of hired man I may as well tell you that it's filled."

The burly young man made some remarks indicative, in a general way, of his opinion of the fickleness of womankind and departed, whilst I returned rejoicing, to the old farmhouse.

"Here's a very nice beginning," said I to myself. "It is now my business to give as much satisfaction as possible."

Fortune favored me, in more ways than one. My mother-in-law sprained her ankle on the second day, and I played cook as well as man of all-work with distinguished success, and I had the satisfaction of hearing her say to old Miss Priscilla Perkins that "she didn't know when she'd taken such notion to any one as she had to the new hired man!"

"He's to young and good-looking to suit me," observed Miss Priscilla pursing up her steel trap of a mouth.

"He is good-looking, ain't he?" said my mother-in-law. "But he's dreadful handy about the house, and he ain't one bit afraid of work. And you'd ought to have seen the oysters he stewed for my supper last night, and cup of tea he with into the back room where my mother-in-law lay on a sofa, nursing her ankle.

"Here's my wife, ma'am" said I, "and I hope she'll give satisfaction."

Mrs. Martin jumped up in spite of her wounded ankle.

"Nettie!" she cried, in blank amazement.

"Oh, mother, mother!" faltered Nettie, throwing both hands around the old lady's neck, "please forgive me this time and I'll never elope again."

"Please ma'am, we'll be good," added I.

And my mother-in-law relented on the spot. How could she do otherwise? "Hearietta," said she, "you've been a naughty girl—there's no use denying that. But your husband seems a handy man about the house, and I'm tired living here alone. So take off your things and go to work getting supper. As for you Richard—"

"Yes, ma'am I know," said I. "I've been playing a double part and deceived you all along. But I wanted you to like me—and you know," I added, "all is fair in love and war."

"Well. I do like you—a little," admitted my mother-in-law. "And now that I have seen your Dick, I don't so much wonder at the way you behaved."

After that, she never scolded as any more. And I honestly believe that this is the only case on record in which a mother-in-law was conquered in so brief a campaign. Nettie says she doesn't know how I did it. In fact I don't quite know myself.

REPORTERS ARE GENTLEMEN.

Don't tell a newspaper reporter, when he calls on you on business, things which you do not wish him to print. He does not call for information for the fun of it. He is there on business. When you meet a reporter socially, don't say to him every time you open your mouth, "This is not for publication."

If you really have information to give, either give it cheerfully and frankly or refuse with firmness, but don't try to be clever and attempt any "funny business." If you give the information frankly you will in ninety nine cases out of one hundred be accurately reported and respectfully treated. If you refuse and politely your reticence will be respected. If you try to outwit the reporter by an effort to mislead him or by direct misrepresentation, you are sure to make a mess of it and wish that you had been better advised.

Disabuse your mind of any foolish impression that the newspaper reporters are malignant persons, trying to stir up trouble in the world. They are, as a rule, the opposite of this and have as high an idea as other men of the relative advantages of contentment and strife.

Good health without pure blood is simply impossible, and to secure pure blood is therefore absolutely necessary, especially in spring, when bad blood is very prevalent. Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy, without an equal in the world of medicine. It drives out all poisonous humors of the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

The destruction of the Royal hotel in New York was attended with almost more than ordinary horrors. The hotel contained about 150 guests, and, of these, up to time of writing, 16 dead bodies have been found, with the prospect that more will yet be recovered from the ruins. The tragedy reveals another wrecking of human lives, for amongst the bodies recovered were those of Mrs. Cohen of Toronto, and Louis Levy, also of the same city. Mrs. Cohen was the wife of Mr. J. Cohen, shoe dealer, but had not lived with her husband for some years. About two years ago she eloped with Levy, and has lived with him since in various cities.

water and gas, the warehouse and elevator, and the appliances of commerce, and finally, the buildings and furnishings of culture, including churches, schools, libraries, museums, asylums, and all manner of public buildings.

CASES IN POINT.

Great Britain, the leading nation in commerce and manufactures, according to the returns for 1888, distributed comfortably incomes of $1000 and upward to each family of 30 per cent. of the entire population, and the remaining 70 per cent. averaged $485 per annum (for each family. France provided incomes of $1300 per annum for 24 per cent. of its families. This shows what great capitalists are doing for the creation and distribution of wealth. Italy showed by its income returns that less than 2 per cent. received incomes of $1000 and upward, while 98 per cent. of the families averaged less than $300 income. Italy makes little use of steam power and labor-saving machines.

To such an extent is this geometrical progression of production raising the standard of living in the countries that most foster mechanical invention that Dr. Harris believes society will need no revolutionising.

No man ever loved a woman while he was busy.

There is no one else who seems to give us such good advice as the the man who tells us what we want to hear.

The conceited man is the only man in the world who is sure of one admirer who will never go back on him.

The young man in search of a wife goes about looking for an ideal woman. The older man goes about looking for a practical women when he wants one.

After they are married a man's idea of comfort seems to be the privilege of sitting around in his shirt sleeves, and a woman's is going without her corset.

The man who is always anticipating happiness to morrow is a good deal better off, anyway, than that man who spends his time thinking how wretched he was day before yesterday.

SHELBURNE.

(From the Free Press and Economist.)

Hunting them Up.—Truant Officer Jas. E. Marshall is looking up the children between the ages of eight and fourteen years and compelling them to attend the public school. This is as it should be. Compulsory education between the ages named is a good law.

The Difficulty Settled.—As the result of a visit from School Inspector Gordon a few days ago, the school difficulty in the Riverview neighborhood has been settled. A new school will be erected in the village, and in the meantime the Presbyterian hall will be used for school purposes. An effort is to be made to obtain additional territory from the township of Proton in support of this school. The old school will remain as it is for a time. A division of the section will, in all probability, take place shortly.

Amusing Case.—A dispute regarding the value of a mirror given as a prize at the recent skating carnival by J. C. McNab, furniture dealer, and won by Harry Myers, an employe in Booth's barber shop, resulted in a charge of assault being laid against McNab. The hearing of the case occupied the whole of Friday afternoon, and on Saturday Magistrates Graham and Jelly gave their decision, finding the defendant $1 and costs. Quite a number of our citizens attended the court and public opinion was divided, some favoring the plaintiff and some the defendant. Major Donaldson appeared for the plaintiff Myers, and Mr. Dunbar for the defendant McNab.

The New Fake.—The Free Press has published a list of 32 deadbeats who have not paid for their paper and adds: "Next week we will publish another list of names some of them nearer home, who have not settled their bills. We intend to carry out just what we started in to do—to have prompt paying subscribers only on our list and books. As soon as the amount is paid the name will be removed from the list. Names have been kept back on account of letters received, but we warn the parties interested, for the last time, if the amount is not paid when presented the name will appear with the others."

John Prieg, the petitioner against U. B. Hyman, the unseated member for London, was waylaid and brutally beat en by eight toughs the other night.

On Tuesday Ex Ald. Harty, Reformer, was elected for Kingston in the Local Legislature in the place of J. H. Metcalfe, who was returned for the Dominion house.

The colored voters of London were a well fed crew last March when Mr. Hyman let them gorge themselves on pickled pigs' feet and beer. They (the colored gentlemen, not the other) will vote for the Hon. John Carling to morrow.

"The Welland election appeal, which is made by Mr. German against the judgment of the lower court, disqualifying him, was concluded in supreme court on Thursday. Judgment was reserved. The charge is that Mr. German promised a man named Wood employment prior to last election, which the court below held to be a bribe.

The Conservatives are scoring victories every day, and the end is not yet. In South Ontario on Saturday Mr Smith, Conservative, was elected over J. I. Davidson, Liberal, by the grand majority of 167. On the same day Mr. Northrup redeemed East Hastings by the astonishing majority of 415, his opponent, Mr. Burdett, last March being elected by a majority of 14.

Again victory is with the Conservatives, remarks the Toronto News. Two constituencies, won by the Liberals at the general election, have now gone over with the dominant party. It is useless to attribute all these Opposition reverses to the illegal use of money by the Government. Rich counties like Ontario cannot be bought, even if there were a dozen Larkin Connolly firms to draw upon for funds.

Mr. Colter, the Liberal member for Carleton, N. B., was unseated for bribery on Saturday, the offence being admitted to prevent an inquisition into the general conduct of the election. He is the twenty-sixth Liberal returned last March to undergo this experience. When people are asked to believe that a party with a record like this has a higher moral tone than its opponents they have a good deal to contend against.

In the House on Friday afternoon, after a number of bills had been introduced and read the first time, Mr. Harcourt, the provincial treasurer, rose and delivered his budget speech. His claim of a surplus of $5 285,515 produced loud laughter. He announced that he intended asking for an appropriation for the erection of an asylum at Brockville. The budget speech was ably criticised by Mr. Clancy, in the absence of Mr. H. E. Clarke through illness.

STRUCK BY A LIMB!

The Sad Accident that Resulted in the Death of Geo. Price.

On Friday morning Mr. Geo. Price, who lived on the town line between Tossorontio and Mulmur, went out to the woods to chop. He was found in the evening lying in an insensible condition, a limb from a tree having fallen and struck him on the head. He lingered until Saturday morning, when he breathed his last. His remains were interred in the Presbyterian burying ground, Mansfield, on Monday at 10 o'clock. Deceased leaves a widow and small family to mourn his untimely end.—Shelburne Economist.

A LORETTO "SENSATION!"

An Unfounded Story of a Murder in Mrs. Gamble's Hotel.

In the last issue of the Bolton Enterprise there appeared the following blood curdling story of a murder in an hotel at Loretto, but the newspaper men at Bolton investigated the yarn and found it was a false alarm. Here it is: A wild and woolly story was circulated in Bolton forepart of this week regarding the alleged murder of a man at Loretto. According to the story an inspector of weights and measures put up for the night at the hotel in the above mentioned place, and before retiring noticed a number of men in the bar room who were being entertained by one of their number singing songs in honor of the great and immortal King William. The noise was continued for some time, when it suddenly ceased. A few minutes later two men entered the room and wanted to know if he heard any noise. The inspector, fearing bodily injury, answered in the negative. This scene was repeated an hour or two later. At this juncture the inspector decided that he was not "at home" to any more visitors that night so dressing himself and pulling the bed in front of the door, awaited the dawning. When that delightful hour arrived he went down stairs and found everything in the bar room besmeared with blood and the whiskers of a man lying in the yard adjoining the hotel. He immediately harnessed his horse and drove away telling his story at the first halting place. Such was the story which caused such a sensation in this and neighboring places. We have made enquiries of people living near Loretto as to the truthfulness of the yarn and we are unable to find any foundation to the story. Some person with a very fertile imagination is no doubt the author of this blood curdling story.

At Ottawa last week the United Workmen discussed at great length the proposal to secede from the supreme court of the United States. The feeling of the convention was opposed to any such severance and the proposition rejected by 20,625 votes against 2660. This settles the question for the next 10 years.

NOTHING IN IT!

The Loretto Tragedy a Mere Contempt Idle Fabrication.

A GENTLEMAN WHO WAS THERE!

Describes How the Poor Peddler was Murdered!

THE MAIL'S YARN EXPLODED.

The People of Loretto Are Incensed Over the Unfounded Report that has been Widely Circulated.

Monday's Toronto Mail and several of the evening papers published a report of a horrible and cold blooded murder which, according to the report, took place at Loretto a few days ago. The Mail's account of the "horrible tragedy" was by their own reporter, and we might at this point remark that the reporter was drunk, or probably the Mail only imagined they sent a representative to Tottenham, where the dispatch was sent from.

Last week a rumor was going the rounds similar to the above, and THE SUN, with its usual enterprise, investigated the case and found the entire story to be a fabrication.

The people of Loretto and vicinity are incensed at the way the Toronto papers have treated them. The citizens of Loretto are a law abiding class, and the place is not populated with loafers, toughs and cut-throats as one would infer by reading certain Toronto papers.

"WEIGHT AND MEASURE MAN"

The following letter, from one who was present when the "tragedy" is supposed to have taken place, explains the whole transaction:

To the Editor of THE SUN,—Kindly allow me, through the columns of your valuable paper, to contradict a certain report which has been going the rounds of Hockley, Orangeville, Bolton and surrounding country concerning the alleged murder of a man at this place on the night of January 25th. This indicrous and rascally invention is said to have been started by a certain individual terming himself "Inspector of Weights and Measures," who happened to be stopping at the hotel here on the night above mentioned. When the story first reached this place, some two weeks ago, it was laughed at and thought not worthy of any wise person's attention; but it appears there are some creatures throughout the surrounding country who would pretend to believe this nonsensical yarn, just for the express purpose of telling it to the next fool they meet, who would believe it. It is a well-known fact that a certain man hailing from the west, and having to pass through Loretto on his way home, drove at a furious rate through and then retraced his steps to a poor woman's house and asked for a lunch. When asked why he did not go to the hotel, he answered in a trembling voice, that he was afraid to go, as there had been a man murdered in that house a few nights since, and his partly consumed body found in the bar stove. Now Mr. Editor, this is man number 2 who pretended to believe such stories, because he is too miserable to pay the small sum of a shilling for his supper and tells this blood-curdling story in order to get a free lunch. It is useless for me to tell any person who has ever visited Loretto that Mrs. Gamble keeps the most regular and orderly hotel north of Toronto, but on this serious night in question she happened to be away from home at a wake and consequently some of the "boys" took advantage of the opportunity to get (as the old saying be) a little high. When the hour for closing up came those who were farthest from home were advised to stop under shelter for the night, as it was thought dangerous to venture out any distance in the storm. The crowd was then transferred from the bar to the sitting-room adjacent to the room occupied by the venerable narrator, Mr. Lyons, publicly known as the "weights and measure man." Everyone of your readers will, I think, agree with me that when men the worse of liquor get together there is always more or less loud talk and arguing going on. Such was the case on this "ever to be remembered evening," which ended as usual in two of the worthies getting into a rough and tumble clinch and knocking down the stove-pipes leading into the aforesaid room, where the worthy tragedian was quietly reposing. When asked by one of the inmates of the hotel, if the pipes had fallen in his room or if he had been disturbed, he answered in a very gentlemanly way "that he had not been disturbed as he was quite accustomed to such things." Now, Mr. Editor, this is the sum and substance of all which led to the circulation of this foul and infamous tale which strikes with terror not only a few of our western and southern neighbors.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

Mr. Gargill's majority in East Bruce has increased from 10 to 14.

John Pring, the petitioner against G. B. Hyman, the unseated member for London, was waylaid and brutally beaten on by night tonight the other night.

On Tuesday Sir Alex. Hardy, Reformer, was elected for Kingston in the Local Legislature in the place of J. H. Metcalfe, who was returned for the Dominion house.

The colored voters of London were a well fed crew last March when Mr. Hyman let them gorge themselves on pickled pigs' feet and beer. They (the colored gentlemen, not the other) will vote for the Hon. John Carling to-morrow.

"The Welland election appeal, which is made by Mr. German against the judgment of the lower court, disqualifying him, was concluded in supreme court on Thursday. Judgment was reserved. The charge is that Mr. German promised a man named Wood employment prior to last election, which the court below held to be a bribe.

The Conservatives are scoring victories every day, and the end is not yet. In South Ontario on Saturday Mr Smith, Conservative, was elected over J. I. Davidson, Liberal, by the grand majority of 157. On the same day Mr. Northrup redeemed East Hastings by the astonishing majority of 415, his opponent, Mr. Burdett, last March being elected by a majority of 14.

Again victory is with the Conservatives, remarks the Toronto News. Two constituencies, won by the Liberals at the general election, have now gone over with the dominant party. It is useless to attribute all these Opposition reverses to the illegal use of money by the Government. Rich counties like Ontario cannot be bought, even if there were a dozen Larkin Connolly firms to draw upon for funds.

Mr. Colter, the Liberal member for Carleton, N. B., was unseated for bribery on Saturday, the offence being admitted to prevent an inquisition into the general conduct of the election. He is the twenty-sixth Liberal returned last March to undergo this experience. When people are asked to believe that a party with a record like this has a higher moral tone than its opponents they have a good deal to contend against.

In the House on Friday afternoon, after a number of bills had been introduced and read the first time, Mr. Harcourt, the provincial treasurer, rose and delivered his budget speech. His claim of a surplus of $5 283,515 produced loud laughter. He announced that he intended asking for an appropriation for the erection of an asylum at Brockville. The budget speech was ably criticised by Mr. Clancy, in the absence of Mr. H. E. Clarke through illness.

STRUCK BY A LIMB!

The Sad Accident that Resulted in the Death of Geo. Price.

On Friday morning Mr. Geo. Price, who lived on the town line between Tossorontio and Mulmur, went out to the woods to chop. He was found in the evening lying in an insensible condition, a limb from a tree having fallen and struck him on the head. He lingered until Saturday morning, when he breathed his last. His remains were interred in the Presbyterian burying ground, Mansfield, on Monday at 10 o'clock. Deceased leaves a widow and small family to mourn his untimely end.—Shelburne Economist.

A LORETTO "SENSATION!"

An Unfounded Story of a Murder in Mrs. Gamble's Hotel.

In the last issue of the Bolton Enterprise there appeared the following blood curdling story of a murder in an hotel at Loretto, but the newspaper man at Bolton investigated the yarn and found it was a false alarm. Here it is: A wild and woolly story was circulated in Bolton forepart of this week regarding the alleged murder of a man at Loretto. According to the story an inspector of weights and measures put up for the night at the hotel in the above mentioned place, and before retiring noticed a number of men in the bar room who were being entertained by one of their number singing songs in honor of the great and immortal King William. The noise was continued for some time, when it suddenly ceased. A few minutes later two men entered the room and wanted to know if he heard any noise. The inspector, fearing bodily injury, answered in the negative. This scene was repeated an hour or two later. At this juncture the inspector decided that he was not "at home" to any more visitors that night so dressing himself and pulling the bed in front of the door, awaited the dawning. When that delightful hour arrived he went down stairs and found everything in the bar room besmeared with blood and the whiskers of a man lying in the yard adjoining the hotel. He immediately harnessed his horse and drove away leaving his story at the first halting place. Such was the story which caused such a sensation in this and neighboring places. We have made enquiries of people living near Loretto as to the truthfulness of the yarn and we are unable to find any foundation to the story. Some person with a very fertile imagination is no doubt the author of this blood curdling story.

At Ottawa last week the United Workmen dismissed at great length the proposal to secede from the supreme court of the United States. The feeling of the convention was opposed to any such severance and the proposition rejected by 20,685 votes against 2660. This settles the question for the next 10 years.

Investigations are being continued into the charges of cruelty against noncommissioned officers of the German army.

The People of Loretto Are Incensed Over the Unfounded Report that has been Widely Circulated.

Monday's Toronto Mail and several of the evening papers published a report of a horrible and cold blooded murder which, according to the report, took place at Loretto a few days ago. The Mail's account of the "horrible tragedy" was by their own reporter, and we might at this point remark that the reporter was drunk, or probably the Mail only imagined they sent a representative to Tottenham, where the dispatch was sent from.

Last week a runner was going the rounds similar to the above, and THE SUN, with its usual enterprise, investigated the case and found the entire story to be a fabrication.

The people of Loretto and vicinity are incensed at the way the Toronto papers have treated them. The citizens of Loretto are a law abiding class, and the place is not populated with loafers, toughs and cut-throats as one would infer by reading certain Toronto papers.

"WEIGHT AND MEASURE MAN"

The following letter, from one who was present when the "tragedy" is supposed to have taken place, explains the whole transaction:

To the Editor of THE SUN,—Kindly allow me, through the columns of your valuable paper, to contradict a certain report which has been going the rounds of Rockley, Orangeville, Bolton and surrounding country concerning the alleged murder of a man at this place on the night of January 15th. This ludicrous and rascally invention is said to have been started by a certain individual terming himself "Inspector of Weights and Measures," who happened to be stopping at the hotel here on the night above mentioned. When the story first reached this place, some two weeks ago, it was laughed at and thought not worthy of any wise person's attention; but it appears there are some creatures throughout the surrounding country who would pretend to believe this nonsensical yarn, just for the express purpose of telling it to the next fool they met, who would believe it. It is a well-known fact that a certain man hailing from the west, and having to pass through Loretto on his way home, drove at a furious rate through and then retraced his steps to a poor woman's house and asked for a lunch. When asked why he did not go to the hotel, he answered in a trembling voice, that he was afraid to go, as there had been a man murdered in that house a few nights since, and his partly consumed body found in the bar stove. Now Mr. Editor, this is man number 3 who pretended to believe such stories, because he is too miserable to pay the small sum of a shilling for his supper and tells this blood-curdling story in order to get a free lunch. It is useless for me to tell any person who has ever visited Loretto that Mrs. Gamble keeps the most regular and orderly hotel north of Toronto, but on this serious night in question she happened to be away from home at a wake and consequently some of the "boys" took advantage of the opportunity to get (as the old saying is) a little high. When the hour for closing up came those who were farthest from home were advised to stop under shelter for the night, as it was thought dangerous to venture out any distance in the storm. The crowd was then transferred from the bar to the sitting-room adjacent to the room occupied by the venerable narrator, Mr. Lyons, publicly known as the "weights and measure man." Everyone of your readers will, I think, agree with me that when men the worse of liquor get together there is always more or less loud talk and arguing going on. Such was the case on this "ever to be remembered evening," which ended as usual in two of the scribes getting into a rough and tumble clinch and knocking down the stove-pipes leading into the aforesaid room, where the worthy tragedian was quietly reposing. When asked by one of the inmates of the hotel, if the pipes had fallen in his room or if he had been disturbed, he answered in a very gentlemanly way "that he had not been disturbed as he was quite accustomed to such things." Now, Mr. Editor, this is the sum and substance of all which led to the circulation of this foul and infamous tale which strikes with terror not only a few of our western and southern neighbors.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that most terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving five, to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails.

Rev. M. L. Pearson, Orangeville, has been elected to Grace church by the Officers Board. Mr. Pearson stands very high among his ministerial brethren.—Brampton Times.

Miss Florence Washington, a daughter of Dr. Washington, formerly of Orangeville made her debut as an elocutionist before a large audience at the Grand Opera house, Toronto, on Friday afternoon.

The Dufferin Sabbath school convention will take place in Orangeville this Thursday and Friday. Today's session will take place in St. Andrew's

TOMMY, TAKE CARE.—The following letter from "An Old Friend" who requested a place in THE SUN:—"Tommy, the General Marshall, was not ringing the bell on the arrival of the evening train on Friday, but a bell was ringing in his brain. Tommy could not keep his feet, but all of us hope he will improve in future."

BUSINESS.—A special meeting of the public school board was held on Monday to consider the resignation of Miss Gordon, who has been called home to Drayton owing to the continued illness of her mother. The board accepted her resignation and Miss Wright, daughter of Mr. John Wright of this town, was engaged to fill Miss Gordon's place.

GOING TO MANITOBA.—Mr. Adam Hunter of East Garafraxa has decided to remove to Manitoba and a grand clearing auction sale will take place on the farm, on lot 3, con. A., on Friday, March 4, at 1 o'clock, sharp. A large amount of stock, implements, household furniture, etc., will come under the hammer. See posters for particulars.

SOCIAL GATHERING.—A large number of members of the W. F. M. S. assembled at the First avenue Methodist church on Tuesday evening to discuss matters relating to missionary work. Rev. Mr. Hart, who was born in China, was present and delivered an interesting address. A social tea was one of the pleasantries of the evening and it was greatly enjoyed.

OPENING SERVICES.—The opening services of the Disciples of Christ will take place in the new hall, Kerr's block, on Sunday next. Mr. Geo. Munro of Erin will preach, his subject at 11 a. m., being, "For Truth's Sake;" 4 p. m., "Partakers of the Divine Nature;" 7 p. m., "the Bible Centre." A FORMER ORANGEVILLE PASTOR DEAD.—Rev. William Pirritte D. D., pastor of the Davenport Methodist church, Toronto, died on Monday evening the 15th at the age of 64 years. The rev. gentleman was well known throughout Canada and by his death the Methodist church loses one of its most eloquent and forceful preachers. Several years ago he was stationed in Orangeville, and during his stay here he earned the respect and good will of our citizens.

ATTEND TO IT.—When the hose reel left the firehall in response to an alarm on Sunday morning there was a pressure of 5 lbs. of steam in the boiler, but when the pumps were started the steam played out and the engines had to be stopped for a few minutes. The engineer explained the matter by pointing out that the smoke stack is out of order, which interferes with the draft to a very great extent. The smoke-stack is just about played out and the council should lose no time in replacing it.

DEATH OF MISS LAWSON.—Miss Martha A. Lawson, daughter of the late John Lawson of Mazeville, died at the residence of her sister, Mrs. W. Judge, Zina street, on Sunday morning last. The deceased lady, who was 30 years of age, contracted diphtheria several weeks ago, but had recovered from the dangerous disease when she was stricken with paralysis of the throat, which resulted in her death. The remains were interred in the cemetery at ... unday, the funeral

...on.—Mr. Joseph ... few months ago ... died suddenly at ... east, this week, aged 81 years. A few days ago he fell near his house and broke the small bone of his thigh near the hip, which was not considered dangerous at the time, but on Monday last he took seriously ill and passed suddenly away. He was a brother of the late William and Nathaniel Hunter, both of whom died sudden. He leaves a wife, one son, his brother John and other relatives to mourn his loss.—Brampton Times. Deceased was a brother of Mr. John Hunter of this town.

FOLLOWED HER HUSBAND.—Mrs. Margaret Reid, relict of the late William Reid, died at her residence near the C. P. R. station on Monday evening, aged 62 years. Mrs Reid was ill before her husband's death, which occurred a little over a month ago, but the shock to her system when informed of Mr. Reid's demise was too much for her to stand and she rapidly grew worse. Five or five days before her death however, she seemed to be getting better, and particularly so on Monday. At 8 o'clock in the evening she took a bad spell, and half an hour later she passed away. The family have indeed been greatly afflicted by losing their father and mother within such a short time, and the sympathy of all will go forth to them. Yesterday the remains of Mrs. Reid were laid beside those of her husband in the family plot in the Forest Lawn cemetery.

by Messrs. H. Gray and H. Stitson. Several more numbers on the program were completed and the meeting closed with "God Save the Queen."

W. J. MIDDLETON'S WILL.—W. J. Middleton, who kept the Russell house, on Yonge street, Toronto, died on the last day of the last month. He made his will on the 7th of that month, naming his wife executrix and Wm. Alain of Alton, and A. E. H. Greenslade of Harriston, executors. Alain has renounced and the others apply for probate. Mr. Middleton's estate consists of property in Orangeville and land in Simcoe county worth $25,010. His personalty is worth $4,000; of this 3,000 is in household goods. The Scottish Association of Toronto receives $100. The rest of the estate is to be invested for the benefit of the widow. Should she marry or die the estate is to divided into four equal parts and given to the children.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.—One of the most pleasing events of the season took place yesterday afternoon at four o'clock, at the residence of Mr. J. Perdue, V. S., Mill street, being the marriage of his eldest daughter, Maggie, to Mr. J. W. Smith. The bride was beautifully dressed and was assisted by her sister Mary. Mr. Walter Smith, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. L. Pearson, in the presence of a few intimate friends of the contracting parties. After the wedding dinner had been partaken of, and an appropriate toast list disposed of, the young couple took the 6 o'clock train for Montreal and elsewhere to spend the honeymoon. THE SUN joins with their many friends in wishing them happiness and prosperity.

FAILED TO CONNECT.—Last week two played out theatrical-looking rooms arrived in town with a few bills, which gave the people to understand that Harrigans Dublin Dips' combination would play in "your opera house" in a few days, but the exact date was not known. The agents said the show would be here last Monday, but somehow they failed to connect and, therefore, did not arrive in town. We are informed that the concern originated at Orillia some time ago and went to pieces at Brampton on Friday. The agents were here nearly a week, but whether they paid their hotel bill or sold tickets we are unable to say. When we first clapped eyes on the scenery our impression was unfavorable to them, and it became more unfavorable when we learned they did not visit any of the local printers. Newspapermen, as a rule, can generally tell the grade of a troupe when the magic "we" sizes up its advance agent.

AN INCIPIENT BLAZE.—Shortly after 7.30 o'clock on Sunday morning the Sabbath slumberers were rudely awakened from their peaceful dreams by the clanging of the fire alarm. The firemen were promptly on hand and before many seconds elapsed the new hose-reel, with its polished gong ringing forth its warning notes, was dashing down Broadway to the fire, which was located in the cellar of MacAdam's grocery store on the north side of Broadway. Two branches of hose were quickly laid and the branchmen attacked the fire from both front and rear of the store. The fire itself did not amount to a row of pins, having originated from a defective furnace at the back of the cellar. Three pails of water would have extinguished the fire, which was just starting, but owing to the dense smoke the firemen could not locate the blaze and many gallons of water was thrown into the store. Valuable chinaware was swept off of the counters and shelves, boots, shoes, and groceries were soaked with water and ruined, and the whole store presented a dilapidated appearance when the water was turned off. There appeared to be some mismanagement on the part of Capt. Patterson in not properly handling the men, as it appears he would not allow the water to be shut off when the fire was extinguished. Lieut. J. W. Aiken was cool headed and managed his part of the business satisfactorily, and the firemen, on the whole, worked well. There are several little improvements that will have to be made before the brigade becomes as efficient as we would like to see it. The captain should command the men a little better than he does at present, and we hope when the next conflagration occurs Sunday's little bungle will not be repeated. Five or six dollars will cover the loss by fire, but it will probably take $1,000 to replace goods damaged by water.

Greatly Benefited.

Dear Sirs,—I have been using R. R. R. for cancer of the breast during the last two years and four months, both externally and internally, and have been greatly benefited. Have had cancer over seven years, and no medicine ever did me so much good as R. R. R. I feel sure that cancer from cancer can obtain relief or even cure from R. R. R., and will be pleased to answer any questions as to the use and benefit received from this remedy.

MRS. A. RIZOR, Wetaskiwin Ont.

A petition signed by over 600 residents of Rat Portage has been presented to the town council asking that the name of the town be changed. Two-thirds of the petitioners want the name of Van Horne and this will be probably adopted.

If you are troubled with hawking and spitting, dull headaches, loss of sense of taste or smell, you are afflicted with catarrh, and to prevent it developing into consumption, ROSE'S Balm should be used promptly. There is no case of catarrh which it will not cure, and for cold in the head it gives immediate relief. Try it all dealers.

MR. GEO. G. SHEARER has been elected mayor of Guelph by acclamation.

Amaranth will erect a new town hall in the spring and the council are asking for tenders for its erection. The building will be similar to the Mulmur-Adjala town hall and we think very few ratepayers will find fault with the council for taking action in the matter, as a new building is badly needed. Tenders will be received up till Saturday.

Rheumatism Cured.

Soldier's Cove, N.S., Jan. 20, 1896.

W. H. Comstock, Brockville, Ont.

Dear Sir: Your Dr Morse's Indian Root Pills are the best medicine for rheumatism that I have ever used. Last spring I was troubled greatly with it in my legs; I used one box of Morse's Pills, and was cured.

Yours gratefully,
ALEX CAMPBELL.

There were registered in Proton during 1896, 92 births, 13 marriages and 25 deaths.

The great majority of so-called cough cures do little more than impair the digestive functions and create bile. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, on the contrary, while it cures the cough, does not interfere with the functions of either stomach or liver.

Yesterday the remains of Mrs. Reid were laid beside those of her husband in the family plot in the Forest Lawn cemetery.

[illegible] wife exonerate and Wm. Algie of Alton, and Mr. E. H. Gunnsche of Barrie, executors. Algie has renounced and the others apply for probate. Mr. Middleton's estate consists of property in Orangeville and land in Sunnidale in Grey county worth $25,010. His personalty is worth $5,000; of the 3,000 is in household goods. The Scottish Association of Toronto receives $100. The rest of the estate is to be invested for the benefit of the widow. Should she marry or die the estate is to divided into four equal parts and given to the children.

GRAND BLOCKING.—One of the most pleasing events of the season took place yesterday afternoon at four o'clock at the residence of Mr. J. Perdue, V. S., Mill street, being the marriage of his eldest daughter, Maggie, to Mr. J. W. Smith. The bride was beautifully dressed and was assisted by her sister Mary. Mr. Walter Smith, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. L. Pearson, in the presence of a few intimate friends of the contracting parties. After the wedding dinner had been partaken of, and an appropriate toast list discussed, the young couple took the 6 o'clock train for Montreal and elsewhere to spend the honeymoon. THE SUN joins with their many friends in wishing them happiness and prosperity.

FAILED TO CONNECT.—Last week two played out theatrical-looking scums arrived in town with a few bills, which gave the people to understand that Harrigans Dublin Dude' combination would play in "your opera house" in a few days, but the exact date was not known. The agents said the show would be here last Monday, but somehow they failed to connect—and, therefore, did not arrive in town. We are informed that the concern originated at Orillia some time ago and went to pieces at Brampton on Friday. The agents were here nearly a week, but whether they paid their hotel bill or said tickets we are unable to say. When we first clapped eyes on the scums our impression was unfavorable to them, and it became more unfavorable when we learned they did not visit any of the local printers. Newspapermen, as a rule, are generally tell the grade of a troupe when the magic "we" rises up in advance agent.

AN INCIPIENT BLAZE.—Shortly after 7.30 o'clock on Sunday morning the Sabbath slumberers were rudely awakened from their peaceful dreams by the clanging of the fire alarm. The firemen were promptly on hand and before many seconds clapped the new hose-reel, with its polished gong ringing forth its warning notes, was dashing down Broadway to the fire, which was located in the cellar of MacAdam's grocery store on the north side of Broadway. Two branches of hose were quickly laid and the branchmen attacked the fire from both front and rear of the store. The fire itself did not amount to a row of pins, having originated from a defective furnace at the back of the cellar. Three pails of water would have extinguished the fire, which was just starting, but owing to the dense smoke the firemen could not locate the blaze and many gallons of water was thrown into the store. Valuable chinaware was swept off of the counters and shelves, boots, shoes, and groceries were soaked with water and ruined, and the whole store presented a dilapidated appearance when the water was turned off. There apparend to be some mismanagement on the part of Capt. Patterson in not properly handling the men, as it appears he would not allow the water to be shut off when the fire was extinguished. Lieut. J. W. Aiken was cool headed and managed his part of the business satisfactorily, and the firemen, on the whole, worked well. There are several little improvements that will have to be made before the brigade becomes as efficient as we would like to see it. The captain should command the men a little better than he does at present, and we hope when the next conflagration occurs Sunday's little bungle will not be repeated. Five or six dollars will cover the loss by fire, but it will probably take $1,000 to replace goods damaged by water.

MRS. A. ELLIOT, Watrodown Ont.

A petition signed by over 600 residents of Rat Portage has been presented to the town council asking that the name of the town be changed. Two-thirds of the petitioners want the name of Van Horne and this will be probably adopted.

If you are troubled with hacking and spitting, dull headaches, loss of taste or smell, you are afflicted with catarrh, and to prevent it developing into consumption, Nasal Balm should be used promptly. There is no case of catarrh which it will not cure, and for cold in the head it gives immediate relief. Try it all dealers.

Yours gratefully,

The great majority of so-called cough cures do little more than impair the digestive functions and create bile. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, on the contrary, while it cures the cough, does not interfere with the functions of either stomach or liver.

A very interesting letter from Hockley, dealing with the proposed expenditure on county roads, the Mono council and several other matters is unavoidably crowded out of this issue. It will appear in the next SUN.

"Residence, Paisley House" is the address given by a local contemporary of a dentist doing business on Broadway. As the man who manipulates the pinchers has not been staying at that hostelry for nearly eight years we sincerely trust it does not take him as long to pull a tooth as it does for our enterprising contemporary to get onto the fact that Mr. Dentist has moved.

THE COW BYLAW.—At the next meeting of the council, a week from Monday night, Ald. R. F. West will introduce a bylaw to repeal the cow bylaw passed by last year's council.

CAREY CENTENNIAL.—A Carey centennial anniversary service will be held in the Baptist church on Sunday evening next. Rev. F. Tracy, B. A., will conduct the services. All are invited.

TOWNSHIP COUNCILS.—Amaranth council meets at Laurel on Saturday next, the 27th. Mono council meets on Friday, March 4, at Mono Centre and the East Garafraxa council will meet on Saturday, March 19.

THE SCALES ARE ALL O. K.—The town weigh scales were thoroughly tested last week and found correct. This is as Weighmaster Hicks always maintained, and we hope the people will be satisfied with the committee's decision.

GOLDEN WEDDING.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hall of west Broadway celebrated their golden wedding on Saturday. A number of their children and grand children were present and during the afternoon many friends called to offer congratulations to Mr. and Mrs Hall on the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day.

TOMMY, TAKE CARE.—The following letter from "An Old Friend" was requested a place in THE SUN:—"Tommy, the General Marshall, was not ringing the bell on the arrival of the evening train on Friday, but a bell was ringing in his brain. Tommy could not keep his feet, but all of us hope he will improve in future."

RESIGNED.—A special meeting of the public school board was held on Monday to consider the resignation of Miss Gordon, who has been called home to Drayton owing to the continued illness of her mother. The board accepted her resignation and Miss Wright, daughter of Mr. John Wright of this town, was engaged to fill Miss Gordon's place.

GOING TO MANITOBA.—Mr. Adam Hunter of East Garafraxa has decided to remove to Manitoba and a grand clearing auction sale will take place on the farm, on lot 3, con. A., on Friday, March 4, at 1 o'clock, sharp. A large amount of stock, implements, household furniture, etc, will come under the hammer. See posters for particulars.

SOCIAL GATHERING.—A large number of members of the W. F. M. S. assembled at the First avenue Methodist church on Tuesday evening to discuss matters relating to missionary work. Rev. Mr. Hart, who was born in China, was present and delivered an interesting address. A social tea was one of the pleasantries of the evening and it was greatly enjoyed.

OPENING SERVICES.—The opening services of the Disciples of Christ will take place in the new hall, Ketchum block, on Sunday next. Mr. Geo. Monro of Erin will preach, his subject at 11 a. m, being, "For Truth's Sake;" 4 p. m., "Partakers of the Divine Nature;" 7 p. m., "the Bible Centre." The subjects are very important ones and no doubt he will be listened to by good congregations.

FRISKY JUNIOR COLTS.—An interesting curling match took place on the Hone rink on Monday evening between picked teams from the junior and senior "colts." The match was for an oyster supper, which took place at Mann's, and the juniors did the seniors up in good style. The score stood:

| SENIORS. | | JUNIORS. | |
|---|---|---|---|
| W. Clark, | | E. Shaver, | |
| R. McConnell, | | H. Bowles, | |
| H. Armstrong, | | S. Brown, | |
| J. Bailey, sk.... | 10 | W. Pearson, sk... | 20 |

A FORMER ORANGEVILLE PASTOR DEAD.—Rev. William Pirritte, D. D., pastor of the Davenport Methodist church, Toronto, died on Monday evening the 15th at the age of 64 years. The rev. gentleman was well known throughout Canada and by his death the Methodist church loses one of its most eloquent and forceful preachers. Several years ago he was stationed in Orangeville, and during his stay here he earned the respect and good will of our citizens.

ATTEND TO IT.—When the hose-reel left the firehall in response to an alarm on Sunday morning there was a pressure of 5 lbs. of steam in the boiler, but when the pumps were started the steam played out and the engines had to be stopped for a few minutes. The engineer explained the matter by pointing out that the smoke stack is out of order, which interferes with the draft to a very great extent. The smoke-stack is just about played out and the council should lose no time in replacing it.

DEATH OF MISS LAWSON.—Miss Martha A. Lawson, daughter of the late John Lawson of Maxville, died at the residence of her sister, Mrs. W. Judge, Zina street, on Sunday morning last. The deceased lady, who was 30 years of age, contracted diphtheria several weeks ago, but had recovered from the dangerous disease when she was stricken with paralysis of the throat, which resulted in her death. The remains were interred in the cemetery at [illegible] Sunday, the funeral [illegible].

[illegible] ON.—Mr. Joseph [illegible] a few months ago [illegible] Brampton died suddenly at the residence, Queen St., east, this week, aged 81 years. A few days ago he fell near his house and broke the small bone of his thigh near the hip, which was not considered dangerous at the time, but on Monday last he took seriously ill and passed suddenly away. He was a brother of the late William and Nathaniel Hunter, both of whom died sudden. He leaves a wife, one son, his brother John and other relatives to mourn his loss.—Brampton Times. Deceased was a brother of Mr. John Hunter of this town.

FOLLOWED HER HUSBAND.—Mrs. Margaret Reid, relict of the late William Reid, died at her residence near the C. P. R. station on Monday evening, aged 62 years. Mrs Reid was ill before her husband's death, which occurred a little over a month ago, but the shock to her system when informed of Mr. Reid's demise was too much for her to stand and she rapidly grew worse. Four or five days before her death, however, she seemed to be getting better, and particularly so on Monday. At 8 o'clock in the evening, she took a bad spell, and half an hour later she passed away. The family have indeed been greatly afflicted by losing their father and mother within such a short time, and the sympathy of all will go forth to them. Yesterday the remains of Mrs. Reid were laid beside those of her husband in the family plot in the Forest Lawn cemetery.

C. O. F. OTTER MEETING.—As announced last week the local lodge of the Canadian Order of Foresters held an open meeting in their hall, Kenhorst block, on Monday evening. A pleasing program had been prepared for the occasion and when the time for commencing arrived the hall was comfortably filled with Foresters and their guests, the number of ladies being large. The program was carried out the letter and the audience was well entertained with the evening's entertainment.

ANNEXATION KNOCKED OUT.—There was a spirited debate on at the last meeting of the High school Literary Society, on Thursday afternoon, the subject being, "Resolved, that annexation would profit Canada." Messrs. Kennedy and H. Crozier spoke for the affirmative and A. McKitrick and —Hall for the negative. A number of good points were made on both sides, but the anti annexationists scored too many for the other fellows and the president decided in favor of the negative. J. McMorchy gave a reading, which was followed by a pleasing duet by Misses H. Gray and E. Skelton. Several more numbers on the program were completed and the meeting closed with "God Save the Queen."

W. J. MIDDLETON'S WILL.—W. J Middleton, who kept the Russell house, on Yonge street, Toronto, died on the last day of the last month. He made his will on the 7th of that month, naming his wife executrix and Wm. Algie of Alton, and A. E. H. Creswicke of Barrie, executors. Algie has renounced and the others apply for probate. Mr. Middleton's estate consists of property in Orangeville and land in Simcoe county worth $25,010. His personalty is worth $4,000; of this 3,000 is in household goods. The Secular Association of Toronto receives $100. The rest of the estate is to be invested for the benefit of the widow. Should she marry or die the estate is to divided into four equal parts and given to the children.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.—One of the most pleasing events of the season took place yesterday afternoon at four o'clock at the residence of Mr. J. Perdue, V. S., Mill street, being the marriage of his eldest daughter, Maggie, to Mr. J. W. Smith. The bride was becomingly dressed and was assisted by her sister Mary. Mr. Walker Smith, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. L. Pearson, in the presence of a few intimate friends of the contracting parties. After the wedding dinner had been partaken of, and an appropriate toast list disposed of, the young couple took the 6 o'clock train for Montreal and elsewhere to spend the honeymoon. THE SUN joins with their many friends in wishing them happiness and prosperity.

FAILED TO CONNECT.—Last week two played out theatrical-looking coons arrived in town with a few bills, which gave the people to understand that Hargans Dublin Dans' combination would play in "your opera house" in a few days, but the exact date was not known. The agents said the show would be here last Monday, but somehow they failed to connect and, therefore, did not arrive in town. We are informed that the concern originated at Orillia some time ago and went to pieces at Brampton on Friday. The agents were here nearly a week, but whether they paid their hotel bill or sold tickets we are unable to say. When we first clapped eyes on the coons our impression was unfavorable to them, and it became more unfavorable when we learned they did not visit any of the local printers. Newspapermen, as a rule, can generally tell the grade of a troupe when the magic "we" sizes up its advance agent.

AN INCIPIENT BLAZE.—Shortly after 7:30 o'clock on Sunday morning the Sabbath slumberers were rudely awakened from their peaceful dreams by the clanging of the fire alarm. The firemen were promptly on hand and before many seconds elapsed the new hose-reel, with its polished gong ringing forth its warning notes, was dashing down Broadway to the fire, which was located in the cellar of MacAdam's grocery store on the north side of Broadway. Two branches of hose were quickly laid and the branchmen attacked the fire from both front and rear of the store. The fire itself did not amount to a row of pins, having originated from a defective furnace at the back of the cellar. Three pails of water would have extinguished the fire, which was just starting, but owing to the dense smoke the firemen could not locate the blaze and many gallons of water was thrown into the store. Valuable chinaware was swept off of the counters and shelves, boots, shoes, and groceries were soaked with water and ruined, and the whole store presented a dilapidated appearance when the water was turned off. There appeared to be some mismanagement on the part of Capt. Patterson in not properly handling the men, as it appears he would not allow the water to be shut off when the fire was extinguished. Lieut. J. W. Aiken was cool headed and managed his part of the business satisfactorily, and the firemen, on the whole, worked well. There are several little improvements that will have to be made before the brigade becomes as efficient as we would like to see it. The captain should command the men a little better than he does at present, and we hope when the next conflagration occurs Sunday's little bangle will not be repeated. Five or six dollars will cover the loss by fire, but it will probably take $1,000 to replace goods damaged by water.

Greatly Benefited.

DEAR SIRS,—I have been using B. B. B. for cancer of the breast, during the last two years and four months, both externally and internally, and have been greatly benefited. Have had cancer over seven years, and no medicine ever did me as much good as B. B. B. I feel sure that sufferers from cancer can obtain relief or even cure from B. B. B., and will be pleased to answer any questions as to the use and benefit received from this remedy.

MRS. A. ELLIOT, Waterdown Ont.

A petition signed by over 600 residents of Rat Portage has been presented to the town council asking that the name of the town be changed. Two-thirds of the petitioners want the name of Van Horne and this will be probably adopted.

If you are troubled with hawking and spitting, dull headaches, losing sense of taste or smell, you are afflicted with catarrh, and to prevent it developing into consumption, Nasal Balm should be used promptly. There is no case of catarrh which it will not cure, and for sold to the head it gives immediate relief. Try it all dealers.

Mr. Geo. G. Sleaman has been elected mayor of Guelph by acclamation.

AROUND US.

A very pleasant party took place at the residence of Mr. Truman Reddick, Mono, on Friday night.

Mr. Joseph Foster of Mono, who has been ill for some time, is able to be around again, and is receiving the congratulations of his many friends.

Mrs. Geo. Marshall of Mono has not been enjoying the best of health for some time past, but we are pleased to learn that she is improving.

Rev. A. C. West, pastor of St. John's church, Mono Mills, administered the sacrament and preached an eloquent sermon in the A. S. church, Erin, on Sunday.

Miss Minnie Strachan of East Garafraxa, organist of the Belmont Methodist church, was presented with a handsome watch and chain the other day on behalf of the congregation.

Reeve Johnston of Amaranth took a jaunt up to Melancthon last week to see that township's council chamber. The reeve was very much pleased with it, and Amaranth will have one like it.

The John Dodds who had his skull fractured in Toronto is not John Dodds who removed to the city from Mono sometime ago. Our John has been renewing old acquaintances in Orangeville and vicinity for several days.

Amaranth will erect a new town hall in the spring and the council are asking for tenders for its erection. The building will be similar to the Melancthon town hall and we think very few ratepayers will find fault with the council for taking action in the matter, as a new building is badly needed. Tenders will be received up till Saturday.

Rheumatism Cured.

Soldier's Cove, N. S., Jan. 30, 1890.

W. H. Comstock, Brockville, Ont.

Dear Sir: Your Dr Morse's Indian Root Pills are the best medicine for rheumatism that I have ever used. Last spring I was troubled greatly with it in my leg; I used one box of Morse's Pills, and was cured.

Yours gratefully,

ALLAN CAMPBELL.

There were registered in Proton during 1891, 92 births, 13 marriages and 25 deaths.

The great majority of so-called cough cures do little more than impair the digestive functions and create bile. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, on the contrary, while it cures the cough, does not interfere with the functions of either stomach or liver.

CREMATED HIS CHILDREN.

A Horrible Story from Montreal—How a Father Saved the Funeral Expenses of His Three Children.

MONTREAL, Feb. 18—A horrible story of a private crematory comes to light in St. Cunegonde, a suburb of Montreal. A spike-maker named Adolphe Lawse recently lost three children and burned their bodies in a cooking stove to save funeral expenses.

Rev. Father Seguin was notified and he called upon the man. Lawse said he had lived both in France and cities in the United States. In both places he had heard of dead people being burned in big ovens. Such being the case, he thought he was justified in so burning his own child after its death in his own cooking stove. He also held the opinion that he had a perfect right to bury his children in his back yard or in his cellar, which he also appears to have done. He contended that he had known such things to have been done by people whom he was personally acquainted with in Paris.

The town of Penetanguishene evidently has very few citizens capable of doing anything, if we are to judge from the list of offices held by Mr. Henry Jennings, who recently skipped out, as given in the Herald of last week. For the benefit of his friends in this neighborhood we publish a list of positions which he endeavored to fill, and when you have gone through with it, gentle reader, we are sure you will agree with us that Mr. Jennings is to be excused for doing up a town which seemed "determined to work him to death." The dear man who is "gone but not forgotten" by his many creditors, was Division Court Clerk, and Treasurer of the Town, Secretary-Treasurer of the following organizations: Division Clerks' Association of Ontario, Protestant S. S. Board, Board of Trade, Union Cemetery, Building Fund of Methodist Church, Shawanaga River Improvement Co., Local Board of Dom. Building and Loan Ass'n., Penetang Ship Yard Co. He was also Receiver of Water Rates, Sec. of Board of Health, President of Fire Brigade, County Auditor, Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Director of Mechanics' Institute, Valuator for Loan Companies, Express and Ticket Agent, Real Estate Agent, Agent for thirteen different Insurance Companies, and last of all, Laundry Agent. In addition, he belonged to six lodges, and was a member of the Epworth League.

A Wonderful Change.

GENTLEMEN,—For twenty years I suffered from rheumatism, dyspepsia, poor appetite, etc., and received no benefit from the many medicines I tried, but after taking five bottles of B B B I can eat heartily of any food, and am strong and smart. It is a grand medicine and has made a wonderful change in my health.

MRS. W. H. LEE, Bailey Ont.

AN EDITOR'S HEREAFTER.—An editor died and slowly wended his way down to where he supposed a warm reception awaited him. The devil met him and said: "For many years thou hast borne the blame for the errors that the printers made in the papers. The paper has gone, alas! for one dollar. Alas! The one dollar has often failed to come in. The printers have bedeviled thee for wages Saturday night when thou hadst not a cent to pay name. Men have taken the paper without paying for it, and cursed thee for not getting up a better paper. Thou hast been called a dead-beat and a fraud by men who were both. All these things thou hast borne in silence. Thou canst not come here." And he fired him. As he did so, he murmured to himself: "Heaven's his home and beside if we had let him come in here he would have been continually dunning his delinquent subscribers, and thus created discord in my kingdom."

ORIGIN OF THE WORD DUNNING.

During the reign of Henry VIII. there lived in Lincoln, England, a famous bailiff named Joe Dun. Joseph was very clever in the management of his business, and so dexterous in annoying those who refused the payment of an account with which he had been intrusted that "to set Dun on him," or "off Dun him," became common advice to the owner of a bad debt. To this personage we owe what to not a few people is the most disagreeable word in the language.

Ladies appreciate Anti Dandruff from the fact that it not only thoroughly removes Dandruff with three applications, but stops falling of the hair, restores fading hair to its original color, and makes it soft and pliable without leaving any indication of a dressing being used—clear as crystal, clean to use, it is a valuable toilet preparation.

A Yorkshire vicar once received the following notice regarding a marriage from a parish house:—"This is to give you notice that I and Miss Jemima Arabella Brearly is coming to your church on Saturday afternoon next, to undergo the operation of matrimony at your hands. Please be prompt, as the cab is hired by the hour." The "operation" was performed in due course."

Fort Sadon, in Upper Burmah, garrisoned by British troops, has been attacked by 500 Kachins.

LEAP YEAR LEGENDS.

Peas Grow Criss-Cross and Girls Ask Boys to Marry Them.

The advent of "leap year" and the break in the regular order of days make anything in regard to the "bissextile" or "leap year" of more than ordinary interest. Leap year has always been regarded with awe and superstition by the people of all countries. The peasantry of England affirm that peas and beans grow the wrong way in their pods—that is, the seed are set contrary to the way they are in ordinary years. In Belgium the rural folks maintain that leap year is not only unpropitious for all farming operations, but that throughout the year the young of the domestic animals will not thrive as at other times.

A similar fatality, they argue, extends to every kind of grass and plant, which becomes stunted or is blighted before attaining its normal size. The same peculiar ideas prevail in Russia, Turkey, Tartary, India and Arabia. The Russian proverb says: "If St. Cecilia (February 29) looks on a cow she will wither." In Arabia they say: "As weak as a bissextile camel," and in Turkey and Tartary they call all hunchbacks, dwarfs, and other deformed men, women and children "leap-year freaks," but there are exceptions to this as well as to all other rules, for we find in Italy, Greece and Sicily the rural proverb says, referring to leap year: "Plant much corn and vine: it is (the year) good for bread and wine."

The ancient Romans considered February 29 a most critical season, always reckoning it among their unlucky days. That this belief has not by any means lost ground is evidenced by a deep-rooted dislike parents have to a child being born on leap-day, it being a popular notion that to come into the world at such an odd time is obnoxious as signifying the baby's exit. A variety of this superstition exists in Tuscany, and, according to a piece of folk-lore of that country, when a child is born on leap day either it or its mother will die before the end of the year.

Hampson, in his "Medii Ævi Kalendarium," quotes the following from an old Saxon treatise: "Some assert that the bissextus or leap-day comes through this, that Joshua prayed to God that the sun might stand still for one day's length that he might sweep the heathen from the land. It is true that the sun did stand still, but the bissextus is not through this, as some do think."

HOME BRIEFS!

Rose water and brandy is good to prevent the roughness of skin usually caused by walking or driving in the wind.

When painted walls or ceilings need washing, take a quart or two of bran and boil it, then strain the water off and use it for washing the paint. Better than soap.

A cream made by mixing a pint of glycerine and six ounces of lime water will, when thoroughly rubbed into the hair, make it glossy and keep the scalp clean.

Lamp burners that have become clogged or discolored can be nicely cleaned by boiling, for fifteen or twenty minutes, in the water in which beans have been parboiled.

If the hanging lamp has become speckled and dingy looking, a few cents expended for bronze and varnish and a few minutes spent in applying it to the lamp will make it as bright as new.

Girls who have large feet should avoid patent leather shoes, as the glitter of the polish attracts attention to their feet; but if worn, remember that patent leather must not be handled when cold, or it will "crackle."

Save the little pieces of soap until you have enough to make a good sized cake, then melt them and pour into a mould to cool. If wanted for scouring soap, add some sharp sand while the soap is soft, or meal, added makes a good soap to soften and whiten the hands.

For a splendid tooth wash, take one and one half fluid ounces of tincture of myrrh, half an ounce of thick mucilage, eight ounces of cool water and one fourth of an ounce of powdered borax and mix thoroughly before using. This is excellent to use when teeth are decayed, or for spongy ulcerated gums.

Hidden Fires.

Among the many foes to human health and happiness dyspepsia and constipation are twin enemies greatly to be feared. With B B B to drive them out of the system however, no danger need be anticipated, as every dose brings the sufferer a long step further on the road to perfect health and strength, and a permanent cure always results.

About a week ago three labourers discovered the body of a male infant half buried in a snow drift in the Rosedale ravine, Toronto. For ghastly find was reported to both the county and city police authorities but for some reason which we has to be explained no attempt was made to recover the corpse until yesterday. It was found as first described, and marks on its body gave evidence of murder. About its little neck was tightly knotted a stout cord, and at the back of the head was a wound in itself sufficiently large to cause death. The remains were taken to the morgue and an inquest ordered.

At Fairfield, Ia., the other day J. P. Eldridge, an old gentleman from Keokuk county, came here to day, met Mrs. Anderson, fell in love with her, proposed, was accepted, procured a license and was married to her all inside of 30 minutes.

People Wonder

WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.

Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

"We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement, made by Mrs. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence."—G. P. Chamberlain, G. W. Waring, C. A. Wells, Druggists.

"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his foot. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using it a little while, he was cured, and is now a well man, working in a sugar mill at Brisbane, Queensland, Australia."—A. Attwell, Sharbot Lake, Ontario.

The Rest of Rock Salt, for Stock.

Read what Prof. Robertson, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, says regarding proper ways of salting stock:—"Dairy cattle should have access to salt every day. A series of experiments has convinced me that when cows are denied salt for a period of even one week they will yield from 1½ to 2½ per cent. less milk, and that of an inferior quality. Such milk will, on an average, turn sour in twenty four hours less time than milk drawn from the same or similar cows receiving salt every day, all other conditions of treatment being equal."

THE only chemically pure Salt ever discovered, analysed 99 84-100 Pure Salt. All kinds of stock will do better where this Salt is used; one ton will go four times as far as common salt, hence it is cheaper. It is the finest Salt in the world for the preservation of all kinds of meat, all the large packers are using it. It is sold cheaper than any other lump salt. We guarantee this Salt as advertised. Make a trial and you will always use it; we have in stock fine and coarse, at

THE BEST FAMILY PILL IN USE

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS

Keep the Works in good order.

HOLMES, Ont., January 13, 1892.

W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time-piece; frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and what is the result?—at first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but wait yet; as the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been rectified with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until what could, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality.

Yours faithfully,
H. F. ATWELL.

DEAR SIR,—For many years, I have been a firm believer in your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills." Not with a blind faith, but a confidence founded by an actual personal experience of their value and merit. My business is such that I spend much of my time away from home, and I would not consider my travelling outfit complete without a box of Morse's Pills. Yours, &c.

WORTH Knowing to those blind, deaf, crippled with all other remedies failed to cure, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Fresh testimonial comes to hand daily. Even such deep-seated and stubborn complaints as Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout, and the like, are thoroughly eradicated by the use of this wonderful combination.

Mrs. E. Irving Dodge, 138 West 126th street, New York, certifies:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I was by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months. I am pleased to say that it effected a complete cure, and that I have since had no return of the disease."

Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H., writes: "One year ago I was taken ill with Rheumatism, being confined to my home six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."

"I have taken a great deal of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I felt its beneficial effects before I had quite finished one bottle, and I can freely testify that it is the best blood-medicine I know of."—L. W. Ward, Sr., Woodland, Texas.

Poetry.

A LITTLE NATIONAL.

Twi' cuses them, that shear them, and bleed them again!
Prest, Protector Abbott, and all his good men,
Who flow in this fourteen unfeeling stream
To gorge the crowed sun twenty hundred fold—
This land of the oak tree, and maple and pine,
Which bright through the ages is destined to shine!

With power on our border we would dwell in peace!
Right for all his crimes from goodness above,
The lofty and lowly should neighbor in peace!
But brougerie and octopus should nowhere have place!
In land of the oak tree, and maple and pine,
Which bright through the ages is destined to shine!

Bright shamrock, and thistle, and maple and rose,
And lily be blended in sight of all foes!
With force by each emblem sufficient to prove
That we are as One with the Empire we love!
And land of the oak tree, and maple and pine
Which bright through the ages is destined to shine!

The Story Teller.

A FEARFUL ORDEAL.

The superintendent was escorting three guests through his institution. At a certain point he made a partial pause, and, motioning to the figure of a man visible in one of the rooms of the corridor, said: 'There is one of the saddest cases that has ever come under my notice.' The person alluded to was seated in one of the pleasant parlors of the establishment which lined the hall way. His hair was gray, and in his form were symptoms of age which a look at his face belied. There were no wrinkles, none of the deep furrows which care will plough in the human face. The eye was bright, and had a look of gentleness very attractive to the observer.

'Dangerous?' replied the superintendent, 'he is as harmless as a kitten, and sometimes I don't really believe he is insane, but for all that he is better off where he can be looked after. You see, he has fits of temporary dementia, during which his excitement runs away with him, and he might do himself some injury, though he would never raise his hand to harm anyone else.

'His trouble is very peculiar; he had an awful experience once in connection with a railway accident and at each returning anniversary of that event he becomes much depressed, seemingly only desirous of hiding himself away from all observation. He is never violent, but these seasons of depression are so intense that it appears advisable he should be watched.'

'Does he ever talk of the event at other times than at its anniversary?'

'Oh, yes, indeed; in fact, at all other times, he seems to enjoy meeting people, and if the subject of accidents arises in the course of conversation he is almost certain to tell his story. If you care to hear it an allusion will bring out one of the most affecting stories you have ever heard.'

The superintendent was right; on the way out he said:—'Well, Mr. Martelle, how are you? Let me introduce some friends of mine.'

After a few words of commonplace conversation, one of the guests adroitly led the talk up to railway disasters by referring to something he had seen in the morning papers. Martelle was seen to move very uneasily in his chair and to become visibly agitated. His face blanched and in a voice tremulous with emotion he began:—'Gentlemen, you may not have heard it, or if you have, you may have forgotten it, but I was in a railway accident once that has changed the whole course of my life.'

Emotion present manifested as in forest in the subject that, while pre medicated, was not in the least affected. Thus encouraged he went on:—

'I was making my first trip in the west. I had been through California and was heading for the Yellowstone country. One day we were whirling along, everybody in good spirits, and I had just gone forward into the smoking car and accepted an invitation to sit in a game of whist. My partner was a fine looking man, about thirty five years old, with a pleasant face and voice, and full of good humor. The game was alone, for all happened to be good players. Each side had one to its credit and the rubber had been begun.

'Suddenly there was a lurch, a shock and then for me there was nothing but a deep unconsciousness. How long I remained so I cannot tell, but it could not have been long. With the return of my senses came the knowledge that I was hurt. There was a pain in my my back and the blood was trickling down my face and neck from a wound in my head. I was lying on the ground and it was some minutes before I could realize what had happened. Gradually matters became clearer. I remembered the game of cards and the sudden shock and then I knew some dreadful accident had happened. While our game had progressed night had fallen, and in the dim light from the stars and several lanterns I could see the forms of men moving about here and there, and I soon realized that they were bearing the forms of killed and wounded to my locality, some distance from the wreck.

'The pain of sight had been the first to recover; but soon the terrible throbbing pain in my head seemed to fill and my hearing became more acute. It was an awful sound that broke upon my ears. Shrieks, groans and pleadings for help were mingled with cries of children for parents and parents for children.

'I made a struggle to get on my feet. Though at first the pain racked me from head to foot, I found I could stand, and was soon walking slowly and carefully about. Naturally my first thought was concerning my friends in the game of whist, they being the only acquaintances I had on the train. Almost at the same moment I thought of them two of them came to me. They were uninjured, and it had been their hands that had carried me out of the car while I was unconscious.

'It took but a minute for my friends to give me some idea of the extent of the catastrophe. Our smoking car had been derailed and had rolled down a steep embankment, dragging the engine and one other coach with it. As near as they could tell at that moment there had been at least a dozen killed and twice that number wounded.

'I inquired: 'Where is my partner? Is he alive?'

''Yes, he is alive,' was the reply, 'but he is in a bad fix. We are working our best to get him out of the wreck, but without help he cannot be saved. He lies there with his lower limbs pinned in between two great iron rods, and with all the strength we have been able to apply we can't release him. He must be in horrible agony, though he is still unconscious.'

It was but a step or two from where we stood to where the man lay, and we turned to see if there might not be some possibility of helping him. A terrible cry came from the sufferer. Just then some one called: 'The car is on fire. The coach is burning.'

'The flame from some lamp had caught the dry upholstery. The wind had suddenly increased and was blowing the flames to the spot where our poor friend was helplessly pinioned. While some ran for water others with axe and lever made an effort to pry the heavy rods and timbers from the sufferer. It was no use; there was no appliance at hand with which it could be done, and those who went for water came back empty handed. The engine lay upon its side and every drop of water had leaked out and had been drunk up by the greedy earth.

'For the love of God, men, do something,' cried the imprisoned wretch. 'Must I slowly roast to death?'

'With an awful effort he raised himself upon an elbow and looked around upon the faces near him. These were rapidly diminishing in numbers, for the heat had had now grown to fierce to be borne, and the crowd which had never ceased their efforts to get him out were driven away. Suddenly his eyes fell on my face and he recognized me. 'You, he cried in an awful voice, 'you are the man to do it. Take that axe and kill me.'

'The thought paralyzed me. He saw me shrink and shudder, and with a supreme effort he pointed his finger straight at me and cried again with more intensity than before: 'You! you! do it, I tell you.'

'The heat was making his garments smoke. 'Don't let me roast,' he once more cried. I forgot my pain and in a wild delirium I snatched up an axe and drove the blade crashing into his skull, then all the world became again a blank.

'It was many weeks before I was restored to consciousness and many more before I was able to move. My bodily injuries, though severe, did not cripple me, and I am now strong and physically well. But my mind is sometimes upset. I believe I did the best thing that could be done for the poor man, though the act was performed in a frenzy that made me irresponsible. I believe to day it was an act of humanity. It has wrecked my life, however, for until memory fails I shall be compelled to live that scene over and over again in all its horror.'

EXERCISE FOR WOMEN.

Ladies often give as a reason why they do not take exercise: "Oh, I don't like to go out without an object." They seem to be unaware of the fact that to a well organized frame motion and fresh air are positive daily necessities, irrespective of any "object," save the cool play of the wind on the temples and the healthful glow which follows a brisk walk. Medicine is a joke to it. No doctor, be his diplomas even so proton tious could effect with simple means a more magical result. When it is considered what a "beautifier" exercise in the open air is, we marvel that the female portion of the community are so prone to neglect it. A little chilliness in the air, a little curtailing of calm, a high wind, an inability to display a fine dress—what inadequate reasons for staying in the house and growing sallow, irritable and sick!

It is quite probable that you may need the services of a physician some day; but you can postpone the time indefinitely by keeping your blood pure and your system invigorated through the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Prevention is better than cure.

THE MOHAWK VALE BANDIT.

Startling Sound to the Prisoner's Yelling—A Strike, Religious Circle and a Money Scheme Exists Among Six Prisoners.

LYONS, N. Y., Feb. 26.—Oliver Perry, the young man charged with the robbery of the Mohawk Vale bank, is doubtedly known about his old Syracuse home, is doubtedly has changed than he was before the heavy shackles were put on his feet, as the result of his little plan to get out of jail with a wooden key so he made by his father, Oliver H. Perry, the Syracuse carpenter. Vanity has no small part in the youthful criminal's make-up, and it has been evident ever since his capture that he is very proud of his dare-devil exploit, and particularly of his skill with the revolver.

PERRY A BIBLE STUDENT.

Some insight into the curious character of this new historical criminal is gained by a study of the contents of the valise which the detectives expressed to Syracuse. At some time or other this singular being seems really to have been filled with religious fervor. A beautifully bound Bible and Testament were among his effects, and in both scores of verses had been marked sometimes in red ink, and underscored and double underscored and marked around the margin. One of these passages was in Corinthians x., 5:

For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God even to the pulling down of strongholds.

Probably the suggestion of seven shooters and jails in the "weapons" and "strongholds" of the passage is what caught the professional attention of Mr. Perry in this instance. Side by side with the scriptures was an indecent book in Spanish.

Wrapped in a red railroad flag, such as is used for danger signals and which Perry doubtless expected to use in some train robbing exploit, were a couple of envelopes stuffed full of printed psalms and hymns and extracts from religious papers, breathing the most fervid spirit of piety. Then there was that horrible ghastly article which Perry afterwards explained that he kept because he wanted it for a mantel ornament—to wit, the severed ear of a negro with hideous chunks of flesh hanging to it and which Perry said he cut off himself.

PICTURES OF THE GENTLER SEX.

Besides the disgusting trophy were the pictures of three women; two of them in a beautiful leather pocketbook made for the purpose, and one in a frame with a back support so it could be put upon a table. One of the pictures in the pocketbook was a tin type of a mere slip of a girl not far along in her teens, and the other was a cabinet photograph of a coarse-faced woman, and it had been taken in Wilmington, Del. Twined about the tin-type of the young girl was a long and slender braid of jet-black silky hair.

The picture in the frame was of a pleasant-faced, kindly looking woman in spectacles, probably the Sunday school teacher in Troy who is supposed to have had some influence over the bandit. Beneath it is written in Perry's hand, "My Mother, Dec. 21, 1891," so it is pretty evident that "my mother" knew where this precious scoundrel was when the detectives were ransacking the country in search of him.

OTHER STRANGE TROPHIES.

A long bladed butcher knife in a leather case, and with the blade splattered clear to the hilt with spots of blood rust, was in a bundle with two religious cards, one in the shape of an artist's palette and bearing the inscription in silver lettering, "The Lord Hath Risen;" the other in the form of a bell and inscribed in the same lettering, "Christ Hath made us free."

Then came a couple of boxes of cart ridges tied up with a number of implements for cleaning and caring for revolvers; the smoked glass spectacles used for disguise; a mouth organ, buckskin bag filled with Mexican coins and two bits of gold wire, apparently made from beating broken up jewelry together and a pill box with the place where it was bought carefully scratched off.

Indeed everything that could in any way serve as a trail was carefully erased from Perry's effects. The big bible had evidently been a present to him and had had his name in gilt letters on the outside of the cover. Perry had carefully dug this out with a knife, leaving only the date, 1891.

For Young or Old.

GENTLEMEN,—One of my little girls (aged 4 years) had been troubled with costiveness in its worst form since infancy. We tried different remedies which gave relief while using, but as soon as discontinued she would be worse than before using. She lost her appetite and was growing weak and delicate. A friend of mine who had used B. B. B. with grand results for the same complaint advised me to try it, and also the Burdock Pills, which we did. She did not take the contents of one bottle before it relieved her but, and not only relieved her but permanently cured her, for she has not been troubled once since, and she is now eight years old.

Stole to Relieve a Scapegrace Relative.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—It is now stated that the reason Mrs. Osborne stole the pearls belonging to Mrs. Hargreaves and sold them was for the purpose of relieving the pressing necessity of a scapegrace relative who was in trouble.

Mrs. Osborne's case will come before the Grand Jury on the 2nd.

Two Kentucky girls have lately graduated from the Cincinnati technical school. They completed the course of engineering and carpenter work, and become experts in the use of carpenter's tools and in the manipulation of steam machinery. They have been offered work upon the woman's building at the world's fair. This is a new departure, but the carpenter's bench offers easier work than the washtub.

When Nature Smiles Again.

When nature smiles again in the mild spring days, wanhind often groans from the effects of bad blood and kindred troubles engendered by the long hard winter. Remove the cause of all the trouble by purifying your blood with nature's remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters, the best blood purifier and tonic ever discovered.

Jack Sartrum will be tried for the murder of John Hodge at the assizes which open in Hamilton next Wednesday.

PAINTING AND HYSTERICS.

"Strong Man" Sampson and His Prosecutrix Either a Knave or a Fool.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Carl August Sampson, the "Strong Man," who was arrested in New York on a requisition issued by the British authorities on the charge of stealing a quantity of diamonds from Mrs. Margaret Barnsson, arrived in London to day.

The prisoner was taken to the Westminster Police Court and charged with the theft and remanded for trial, bail in the sum of £400 being demanded.

When the magistrate announced his decision the prisoner fell fainting in the dock, and when he was lifted to his feet he appeared to be dazed.

Mrs. Barnstein was taking with a fit of hysterics. It was necessary to remove her from the courtroom.

CALEDON.

(Held over from last week.)

The death took place on Sunday in Caledon, lot 18, 1st line, of Mary Elliott at the great age of 91 years.

The many friends of the family will regret to learn of the death of Miss Annie Faulkner, Centre road, Caledon, which took place last Friday.

DEAD.—A week or two ago there passed away another well known resident, in the person of Mrs. Susannah Judge, 3rd line Caledon, at the ripe age of 83 years. Deceased was one of the oldest residents in this section, having resided over sixty years on the farm where she died. Her remains were interred at St. James church, Albion.

HILLAS GETS OFF.—At Brampton the only case before the magistrates last week was that on Tuesday, when Hillas the Credit Forks man, came up on the charge of malicious injury to property. Justices of the Peace Graham, Main and Sleightholm heard the case. Hillas was acquitted on a technical point.

A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.—On Tuesday morning of last week Geo. Dillon, who lives on Wm. Blackwood's old homestead on the township Caledon, met with a serious accident while sawing down trees in Daniel McAllisters bush. A large tree when partially but began to fall and split upwards for about 20 feet, and before the young man was aware of the danger the tree came down striking him on the leg just below the knee, causing a complicated fracture. Dr. McNaughton was immediately sent for and attended to the injured limb. No serious result is anticipated.

CARDWELL.

(Crowded out last week.)

SURPRISE PARTY.—On Friday evening Mr. J. S. Armstrong took two sleigh loads of young folks from Cardwell, Orangeville, and Mono Centre over to the residence of Mr. John Rowan in Erin township, where a very pleasant time was spent. A number of Hillsburg people and Mr. Rowan's neighbors had arrived at the house before the Mono visitors got there, the latter arriving about 10 o'clock. The drive over was enjoyed by all, notwithstanding the numerous pitch holes in the road. The surprisers were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Rowan and their charming daughters and sons, who made the visitors feel entirely at home. Dancing commenced at 11 o'clock, and was kept up till 1, when a substantial tea was served. After tea the light fantastic toe was again tripped and kept up till 4 o'clock. Parlor croquet, flips and other games were indulged in by those who were tired or did not wish to dance, and altogether a most enjoyable time was spent by all. Messrs. Wesley McMaster of the Prince of Wales road and Will Magwood of Mono Centre were the violinists of the evening and did their work to perfection, as did the floor-managers, Messrs. John McMaster and John Bracken. The two last named gentlemen gave an exhibition of fancy step dancing, which was greatly appreciated. The host and hostess know how to entertain their visitors and before separating were thanked for their hospitality. We hope another party will soon be around.

BOWLING GREEN.

(Crowded out last week.)

SUCCESSFUL TEAMESTING.—The teameeting last week was a very successful one notwithstanding the blocked state of the roads and the previous stormy weather. The program was one that will not soon be forgotten. Jimmy Graham was a host in himself and brought down the house by singing his Scotch songs.

AT THE SOIREE.—Quite a lot of our young people attended an Orange soiree at Waldemar the other night, and the B. G. choir was there. The choir did excellent and their pieces were loudly encored. There was a competition for a cake between the two best looking young ladies in the hall, and what do you think but both of them were from Bowling Green, Miss Bennett and Miss Whaley, the former carrying the cake home.

HOME AGAIN.—Mr. Thomas H. Hinton, the young man who went to the Toronto general hospital about eight weeks ago, returned home on Monday last, but we are sorry to say not very much improved.....H. Wells had a wood bee on Friday, which was slimly attended.

WE WANT TO KNOW.

When dances will come.
Who are the Bowling Green scribes.
How some of the boys felt after the teameeting.
How the dance came off at Mr. Whaley's after the teameeting was over.
Would a heathen Chinese do good preaching at B. G.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

ONE of the most interesting communications that will be made to Parliament this session will be Sir John Thompson's account of the trip to Washington and what was accomplished there. It is expected that the statement will be made at an early day, and it will be found, it is said, that the mission was not so entirely fruitless as the enemies of the Conservative policy would lead us to suppose.

HON. O. MOWAT has a bill before the Legislature prohibiting the sale of tobacco in any form to persons under eighteen years of age. The Congress of the United States is also considering the tobacco question in the form of cigarettes, the manufacture of which is proposed to be entirely done away with. The Brampton Stamper says the small boy will hereafter have to limit his smoking habits to mullen leaves, um brella cane and the chewing of licorice.

THERE is a strong probability that the American duty on barley will be reduced to 10 cents. The Americans have discovered that they can't do without our barley, and when anything pinches Uncle Sam's coons he removes it.—Barrie Examiner (Grit). Why, Bro. Hunter, Sir Dick prophesied that the Canadian farmer would have to close up shop when McKinley stepped in. Our farmers don't be in such a sad state as the blue ruin orators try to make the people believe.

THE editor of the Sentinel says that journal has more than once referred to the prevailing ignorance in our public schools on the very important question of discount. Very few subjects are called more often into practice than that of finding the present worth of a note, a debt or a mortgage due years hence, and yet the writer has never yet found a pupil having the slightest idea of the rule, where interest ran over a year. The older arithmetics, Sangster's for instance, gave a rule that was positively incorrect. The last one is quite an improvement on its predecessors in that respect, as it gives no rule at all. There are two methods in common use in actual practice, wide apart as the poles. By one the lender is robbed; by the other the borrower is skinned. How long is this state of ignorance and injustice to last? It would surely be a decided improvement to make way in the schools for a little sensible instruction of this kind by displacing a proportionate amount of some of the rot now stuffed into pupils.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

"Turn the rascals out!" That's what we readers say today.

Hon. John Hearn lead a great procession in Quebec West last Friday. He arrived at Hon. Tom. Mercier's seat just 289 votes ahead of Mr. Murphy, the Liberal pedestrian.

There has been a great Reform meeting in the London district, at which a place was cinched for Friday. The Hon. John Carling lead a majority of 128, but a number of votes were disputed. On Tuesday two representatives elect declared the Hon. John Carling elected by 109 votes.

Dr. Sphon and East Simcoe have dissolved partnership and Mr. Bennett, Conservative, will take the medical man's place in the firm. The doctor had a majority of 207 at the general election, but now he has a minority of 47. And still the Conservative ball is rolling.

That truly magnificent organization, the Young Men's Liberal Club of London, fought with a skill, courage, resolution and perseverance that merit the praise and gratitude of Liberals and of lovers of good government and pure elections all over the Dominion.—Toronto Globe. What about the pickled pigs' feet and beer provided by Mr. Hyman? That election was so pure that the Young Liberals' idol lost his seat, wasn't it?

The most of the bye elections during the week have gone Tory. It is just as well now to give the Abbott boodling Government rope enough. It will now be Mercier's turn to win, and why shouldn't he? He is no worse than several of the members of the Ottawa Government. Ontario condones corruption and why should not Quebec? Ontario has shown a bad example which Quebec will likely follow.—Brampton Times. Oh Mr. Times, we never thought that of you.

The following is said to be a sample of the letters that Count Mercier is circulating among his friends:—

DEAR MR CHARLESON.—Get at once and see Mr. Hardman of Ottawa, lumber merchant, about personal subscription he promised me. See also for same purpose one of the sons-in-law of Mr. McLaren. I forget his name, but Mr Hardman will be able to give it to you. See them at once for me. Must have money. Cost what it may we must be victorious.

Destroy this letter. Yours,
HONORE MERCIER

Among other things the Liberals did to help Mr. Carling in London, they put a spy upon Mr. Meredith, to follow him wherever he went during the campaign. In all Mr. Meredith's public career he has never been accused of doing a dishonorable or dishonest act. He is a man sans peur sans reproche incapable of committing a disreputable deed. There is the testimony of his life-long political opponents for this. To set a sneaking Paul Pry upon his steps, to dog him like a suspected thief, was an act of once disreputable and foolish; and it adds not a little to the satisfaction of the situation to feel that those responsible for it have sustained a humiliating rebuff.

SHINNIMAN SAFE!

THE GRAND JURY FINDS NO BILL IN HIS CASE.

Cornell of Shelburne Nonsuited and Lawyer Fletcher of the same Place is Acquitted of a serious charge.

The spring assizes for the county of Dufferin were commenced at the court house here on Tuesday. The Union Jack, floating most high over the building, made known to all that British law was being dispensed. Mr. Justice Falconbridge arrived on the 10 a. m. train from Toronto, and proceeded at once to business, opening the court at 11 a. m.

The two criminal cases were placed before the grand jury. The first of these cases was the Queen vs. Shinniman in which one William Shinniman was charged with the murder of John A. Montgomery, to which the jury returned "no bill". The charge was then changed to one of manslaughter and after deliberating on this for half an hour they brought in for the second time "no bill" to this charge also. The second criminal case presented to the grand jury was the Queen vs. Fletcher, in which J. Fletcher, a lawyer of Shelburne, was charged with having attempted to commit an indecent assault on a little girl of twelve years of age named Lottie McLeod. To this the grand jury presented a true bill. Both of these cases are familiar to readers of THE SUN as full reports appeared in this paper when they occurred. Shinniman, therefore, does not have to stand his trial on the terrible charge of murder. The dockets consisted of the two criminal and six civil cases. One of the civil cases McKeen vs. McKwin, was by consent transferred to the assize at Guelph; another, Small vs. Ludlow, was arranged between the opposing counsel, leaving only four civil cases to be fought out here. The first case called was Cornell vs. Jeffers. This was a very long, and to those unacquainted with the parties, a rather uninteresting case. The defendant, Thomas Jeffers, had rented a farm from the plaintiff, W. E. Cornell, some time in the year 1888, the agreement being that Jeffers should have what wood he required for his own use off the farm, but that he should cut down no standing timber until the fallen timber that was fit for use had been used up. Some standing timber was cut and the plaintiff, claiming that there was still plenty of good fallen timber on the farm, sued the defendant for damages. The array of witnesses brought forward by Mr. Cornell, numbering well up to thirty, was of no avail, as the jury, after a very short deliberation returned a verdict for the defendant with costs. E. Myers Q. C. for the plaintiff; W. L. Walsh for the defendant.

FLETCHER ON TRIAL.

The criminal case against Fletcher, the Shelburne lawyer, was reached yesterday afternoon. The evidence of the girl Lottie McLeod, her father, W. Booth and Mr. Myers, the gentleman of color, was submitted before 6 o'clock, and several witnesses for the defence were examined at the evening session. Counsel are addressing the jury this morning and Fletcher will soon know his fate. The remainder of assize business will be fully reported in next week's SUN.

FLETCHER FREE!

Just as we are going to press a telephone message from the court house conveys the news that Lawyer Fletcher of Shelburne is a free man. The judge charged strongly against the prisoner, and the jury were out a long time before they brought in a verdict of "not guilty".

AROUND US.

Mrs. Owen Garvey one of the oldest residents of Mono township is seriously ill.

It is said that Mr. Woods, postmaster at Blount, will shortly resign his position.

There were registered in Mulmur during 1891 sixty eight births, twenty two marriages and thirty one deaths.

Miss Mary, daughter of Mr. Wm. Patterson, Mono township, was united in marriage to Mr. Samuel Ewin, on Wednesday of last week.

Mr. Wm. Hughes of Laurel has been awarded the contract of tearing down the rickety old building in which the Amaranth legislators held their meetings and erecting a more modern and convenient structure in its stead.

The friends of Councillor Driver claim that he has saved the township between $50 and $75 in connection with the Amaranth town hall tenders. Mr. Hughes the lowest tenderer, will do the whole business for $650.

The sale on the farm of the late Mr. Coleman, lot 17, con. 5, east Mono, on Friday last was one of the most successful sales of the season, every article being sold at a good figure. The attractive posters were printed at THE SUN'S Job Rooms.

The will of the late Donald Currie of Caledon was filed on Monday, 22nd, by his executors, John McBride, Neil Shaw and Lauchlin Currie, through their solicitors, Myers & Robb of Orangeville. The estate is valued at $5000 in realty and $82 16 personalty.

McMillan, Geo. Robinson, James Kirkwood, Jos. McMillan, Thos. Tolton, James Carmichael, Andrew Clark, James Hyndman, Robert Aikett, James Delaney.

Last fall Sheriff McKim seized under an execution against Mr. Foster, 10th line, Erin, all the crops on the farm. The greater part of the goods were claimed by Mrs. Kirby, a widow, Mr. Foster's daughter, who lived on the place, but were sold by the sheriff, no interpleader suit having been determined. Mrs. Kirby entered a suit for damages against the sheriff and the parties who issued the execution. Yesterday the parties interested paid Mrs. Kirby $350 and costs to settle the affair.

For several years I was painfully annoyed with an excessive accumulation of Dandruff and although using various preparations recommended and skin specialists regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Anti-Dandruff, which has produced unlooked for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of Dandruff, and as a specific for this disagreeable ill certainly has no equal.

Yours truly, W. T. ROBINSON.

WEDNESDAY'S BALL.

The ball given by the gentlemen of Orangeville will be long remembered as an exceptional occasion. Orangeville's beauty and fashion turned out in full force. Lights flashed from the numerous windows of the large civic building in which the entertainment was given and there was a whisper of hushed expectancy in the air, which changed as the night grew old to happy laughter when men and women in brave attire moved rhythmically to the pantry of motion to the sweet strains of "When the Lights were low." The lady patronesses performed their duty of receiving visitors on what is blandly termed the stage, entertaining their guests from far and near with all the grace and dignity which is so justly accredited to them. The stage for the time being was converted into a reception room, and very pretty it appeared with so many charming women as a back ground. Toronto, Hamilton, Guelph, Georgetown, Mount Forest, were welcomed in their respective contingent by our Orangeville people. Every one was spick and span, none of the dresses were very handsome and the following is a description of a few of the most notable ones: Mrs. McCarthy, in black satin and diamonds, looked as usual both handsome and dignified; Mrs. R. T. Hume was regal in white corded silk, diamond ornaments, pearl embroidery; Mrs. Watson was decidedly elegant in a French costume of pale pink and blue; Mrs. Frank was all that was distingue in green silk and black lace; Mrs. John Aiken was both piquante and pretty in white silk, gold embroidery and diamond ornaments; Mrs. Swinton in smoke colored faille was graceful in the extreme; Mrs. Webber wore a pretty dress of butter cup silk with jet trimmings; Mrs. Lewis in yellow satin; Mrs. Willis in white net, pink roses; Mrs. Dunlop in crimson satin, all looked well. Where so many were the desire of the eye and pride of life, it would be invidious to particularize, as our esteemed contemporary, the Advertiser, would remark, so we leave it to future ages to sound the praises of the reigning belle on this occasion. Opinions differ. Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. Kent, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. Tuck, Mrs. Dobson and the Misses Walsh, Pedlowe, Tuck, Reynolds, Marshall, Millinor, Edgar, Foote, Stewart, Hughson, Lucas, Ford, Fraser, McFarlane, McCormack, Robbs and Moody shed lustre, sparkling, dashing, flashing lustre, on the scene. The gentlemen who made merry on the occasion were Messrs Haun, Watson, Frank, McLaren, Willis, Wheelock, Kent, Webber, Aiken, McCarthy, Skey, Hewat, King, McLeod, Piercy, Irwin, Johnston, Armstrong, Ambrose, Aiken, Laidlaw, McMullen, Orton, Ross, Zearlend, Barnhardt, Henry, Jewitt and others. Mr. Dalton McCarthy is to be congratulated on the success of the entertainment.

BACHELORS' BALL.

The Orangeville bachelors gave their annual assembly in the town hall on Friday evening last, and it was without doubt the most successful ball ever given under the auspices of that body. Neighboring towns were well represented and the costumes of the ladies were something more than elegant. The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion and the sumptuous supper was supplied by Caterer Phil Smyth of the C P. R. restaurant. The program was well arranged and the guests whirled themselves around in the easy dance until 3.30 o'clock Saturday morning. A list of those who attended appears below:

A disease of the scalp that causes of the hair, in fact, death of the hair. It irritates the scalp and causes scales and cosmetic eruptions—produces baldness. Bear in mind that Anti-Dandruff removes Dandruff with three applications—stops falling and restores falling hair to its original color. Sold by druggists at 75 cents per bottle.

ANSWERS WANTED.

"An Anxious Enquirer" Would Like a Few Questions Answered.

To the Editor of THE SUN.

Sir,—I would like to ask a few questions through your influential and widely-circulated paper which will be of interest to a great many ratepayers in this section of the township if answered honestly and truthfully. How is it that some of the local papers, which howled about previous county councils taking so much time for transacting public business and squandering the people's money, has not a word to say but praise for the council although they took a day longer than ever was taken previously to do the same amount of work? I am a diligent reader of the local papers and can safely say, if those papers reported correctly, there was not a particle of work done by this council where an equal amount was not done by former councils. True, they passed a by law granting $20,000 for improving the roads, but that matter was up at previous councils and passed through special committees, was lost in committee of the whole and took just as much time as at the present council, but the session did not last four days. My opinion is, it never should have been carried, but I will deal with the matter at another time. Was it the severe castigation received at the warden's dinner, board of trade banquent and nomination night in Orangeville that had such a salutary effect in closing their mouths so that they are as dumb as the mummies of Egypt? Guilty editor, answer!

What does the editor of the Dufferin Post charge per year for fancy editorials, such as he has been writing about the reeve of Mono, the orator of the county council? If he is not too high I would advise Mr. Henry Atkinson to invest a few dollars in that business, and we would see what effect it would have on the editor.

The council of Mono at their first meeting, not knowing the law, appointed an auditor that could not act. The Post says they called a special meeting and re appointed Mr. Henry Carson. Would that journal inform us in what back room or where was that special meeting held? What is the law in regard to special meetings of township councils, or was said meeting a legal one? Are the Mono accounts legally audited? Was it for the paltry sum of $6 that Philosopher Carson, after being unceremoniously kicked out of office at a regular meeting, accepts the same office, appointed at a meeting not knowing where held or what members of the council present.

Would Mr. Hackett of Hockley tell us how much the township would gain if Mr. Snell had relieved the present treasurer of Mono and appointed Mr. Hackett, who lives on the border of the township, almost inaccessible to most of the ratepayers, at a salary of $1 a year less than the present occupant of said office?

Hoping that I shall receive immediate and direct answers to the foregoing questions, when, perhaps, I shall have a few more to ask.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space in your valuable paper,

Yours,
ANXIOUS ENQUIRER

Hockley, Feb 22, '92.

Cabinet Reconstruction.

A popular topic is cabinet reconstruction, which really does not concern the public so much as the reconstruction and cleansing of the human system against the approach of spring. The popular medicine for this purpose is Burdock Blood Bitters, and both parties recognize it as the best blood purifier and general system regulator known.

The Hillsburg correspondent of the Erin Advocate says: Mr. and Mrs. B'ustine of West Virginia paid a short visit to Miss Felstead, sister of the latter, last week, and have since gone to visit other friends in and around Orangeville.

GLEN CROSS.

LOCAL JOTTINGS.—Archie has left the Glen....Robt. Buchanan had a big wood-bee on Tuesday....We expect our saw mill to be in running order in a few weeks. Mr. Bayne of Brampton owns the mill....Thos. White has just finished a contract of supplying Jas. Morrison of Orangeville with 150 cords shingle timber....Jim Hammond is a new resident at Glen Cross and he is rushing the timber business to beat the band.

THE CUTTER COLLAPSED.—Last Friday night Mr. E. Young, one of the proprietors of the Commercial hotel, Orangeville, was driving through this place when he met with an accident which demolished his cutter. The roads were in a bad state and the pitch holes were something terrific. While going over one of these obstructions the horse gave a jump and pulled the cutter almost to pieces. The body of the rig was divided in half a dozen pieces and the runners were the only things that remained intact. The pieces were loaded on the runners and Mr. Y. took his seat on the top and reached home without any further accidents.

DISORDERLY.—There is a building here used as a school for five days in the week and on Sunday it is devoted to religious purposes. A week ago last Sunday night a number of young folks, both girls and boys, congregated at the place and when the preacher did not come the congregation became unruly and turned the gathering into a crowd looking for amusement. Postmaster Jeffers came along and requested them to leave the place, which they did. They wanted to know his authority for ordering them out, and here it is: Mr. Jeffers is one of the trustees and he with the other members, Messrs. T. White and Jas. Pierson, are responsible for any damage done. We hope the disgraceful proceedings will not be repeated. The trustees thank the patrons of the school for their liberal donations.

HOCKLEY.

THE CHAMPION CUTTER.—Cutting wood to the order of the day in this vicinity and I think we can boast of having the champion wood-cutter of the county. We'll match him against any man in the country.

ALL RECOVERING.—Mrs. J. B. Lindsey is recovering from her recent attack of sickness....We are glad to say that Wm. Nichol is able to be around again. Thos. Gordeve, who has been suffering from inflamation of the lungs, has completely recovered and is receiving the congratulations of his many friends.

COMING BACK.—Mr. James Hutcheson has purchased a farm from Mr. J. Bowers and will again become a resident of this section. Old timers will remember that about twenty years ago Mr H disposed of his property here and removed. Since that time he has resided in nearly every part of Canada, but he thinks this part is the best yet.

IN CUPID'S TOILS.—One of those events that is always looked forward to by the ladies with pleasurable anticipation, took place on Wednesday, the 24th at the residence of Mr. Jas. McMaster, ex deputy-reeve of Mono township, Prince of Wales road, being the marriage of Alfred Wm. Laird of Norval, to Miss Lizzie McMaster. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D C. Hossack, in the presence of a large number of invited guests. The bride was assisted by Miss Maggie Harshaw, while the groom was supported by Mr. John McMaster. The dress of the bride was a beautiful heliotrope satin. The bridesmaid wore a robe of pink silk and looked charming as she discharged her pleasing duties. The happy couple left on the 6 o'clock train for Chicago, with the wishes of a host of friends for a long and happy wedded life.

THE FIREMEN KICK.—Several of the firemen have complained to THE SUN that their rubber boots are in a sad state owing to persons other than themselves using them. It appears that corporation employes wore some of the firemen's boots while the fire-hall was in course of construction last summer and used them up so badly that they are almost useless; and some members are charged with loaning their boots to sportsmen who use them while out shooting. Of course neither of these things should be permitted, and we are glad to say that the firemen are going to put a stop to it at once. They intend to shortly adopt a code of rules and regulations governing every thing in connection with the brigade.

MRS. BEATTIE'S APPEAL.—Mrs. Beattie of east Broadway has sent the following letter to the editor: "I have been a resident of Orangeville for six years and until lately I have been able to earn a comfortable living, but owing to the continued sickness of my nephew, Thos. J. Mullen, I have been compelled to stop work and wait on him. He is suffering from a lung disease and at present is very low. I am in needy circumstances and I will cheerfully receive anything that may be sent by the charitable people of the town." Mrs. Beattie has been an honest, hard working woman and well deserves assistance. The sick young man has near relatives only a short distance from this town, but they refuse to contribute anything towards supporting him and leave it all for a poor woman to do. Human nature is mean, but the young man's relatives are too mean for anything.

A FATAL CROSSING!

Patrick McGarvey of Laurel Meets With a Horrible Fate.

HIS TEAM OF HORSES KILLED!

This Time it is a Down Train that Claims a Victim.

AN INQUEST WILL BE HELD.

Will the Coroner's Jury Recommend the Placing of Gates at this Fatal Point?

Another slaughter at the "skew" crossing.

Only three months ago Mrs R. B. Kaye of Amaranth was dashed into eternity by a train at the G. T. R. crossing on west Broadway, and yesterday evening another and even worse accident occurred. Patrick McGarvey, a farmer living at Laurel, was the victim of yesterday's accident. He was doing some business in town and left for home about 5 30 o'clock. He reached the crossing at 15 minutes to 6. There were several teams ahead and in the rear of him and he was on the crossing when the express came thundering down the heavy grade. Poor McGarvey must have lost control of himself for the horses turned partly around and faced the fast approaching locomotive. In another second the pilot of the engine struck the rig and dashed its unfortunate occupant throwing him several yards away into a field. He came in contact with a post and fearful gashes were made in his head, his neck being also broken. One of the horses was killed outright and the other was so horribly injured that it had to be put out of misery. The train could not stop until it reached the station and a telegram was sent to the Junction informing the trainmen of the Owen Sound train, which arrived 15 minutes after the Tecswater, to stop at the crossing and bring the body to the Orangeville station. It was placed in the baggage room, where Coroner Henry, Drs. Lewis and Simpson examined it, and later removed to the residence of the Misses McGarvey, sisters of deceased, near by.

HIGHER THAN THE SMOKESTACK,

A jury has been summoned and an inquest will be held.

A year ago last summer Mr. McGarvey met a bad accident while driving a mowing machine on his farm. He got off the machine to fix something, but neglected to throw it out of gear. A dog frightened the horses and they ran away. The knives of the mower amputated one of his legs below the knee and he was otherwise badly injured.

TOLTON ON TOP!

Judge Street's Decision Against Him Knocked Out in a High Court.

Justice of the Peace W. P. Tolton of Waldemar has not given up his suit against the G. P. R. for damages for injury to land, caused by the company diverting a creek from its natural course. The action was tried at the assizes here about a year ago before Mr Justice Street. The decision resulted very unsatisfactorily to him and he entered an appeal. The case came up before Judges Armour and Falconbridge at Toronto on Friday, and the decision of Judge Street was reversed. The following is the Globe's report of the case:

TOLTON VICTORIOUS

Judgment on appeal by the plaintiff from the judgment of Street, J., the trial judge, dismissing the action, which was brought by a land owner for damages for injury to his land owing to the diversion of a watercourse by the line of railway constructed by the Toronto, Grey & Bruce Ry Co. and now worked by the defendants, and for a mandamus to compel the defendants to reopen the original channel of the watercourse. The lot in question, being the west half of lot 3, in the 9th concession of the Township of Amaranth, was owned by the late Charles Robertson of Toronto until the spring of 1876, when he conveyed it to the plaintiff. Street, J., held that the Toronto, Grey & Bruce R. W. Co. had made to Mr. Robertson full compensation for the injury for which this action was brought, and the plaintiff was therefore not entitled to recover, being in the position of one who had contracted to buy damaged land. The court held that the plaintiff was entitled to recover legal damage in respect of the diversion, assessed at a nominal sum. As the defendants have now the power to divert a stream or watercourse by R. S. C. ch 29, sec. 99 (b), the court holds that it should not after the time that has elapsed since this diversion was made direct a mandatory injunction to issue compelling the restoration of the stream so diverted, when the plaintiff can be compensated in damages for the injury caused to him by such diversion. References directed to the master at Orangeville to ascertain the compensation that ought to be made to the plaintiff by the defendants for this diversion, or, if the defendants prefer it, proceedings stayed for two months in order to enable them to proceed by arbitration. The defendants to pay the costs of this action and of the reference, if any; but if it goes to arbitration, the costs thereof will be as directed by the Railway Act. Elgin Myers, Orangeville, for the plaintiff. G. T. Blackstock, Toronto, for the defendants.

ANNUAL BALL.—Mrs. Gamble, Lorette, had her annual ball and supper on Friday night last, Feb. 26th. Music was supplied by the Tottenham orchestra and a large crowd was present, about one hundred couples taking supper. The dance was kept up with vigor all night and all departed homewards, just as old sol made his appearance, well pleased with the evening's pleasure. No peddlers being present we are unable to report any murders.

HERE AND THERE.—On Monday evening, the 29th, quite a number repaired to J. J. Lennan's, Athlone, where a very pleasant and agreeable evening was spent.... Mr. Barney Hislop is reported seriously ill with la grippe.... Mr. Denis O'Leary is very low, also from the same cause.... We are glad to announce that Mr. W. McKenna, teacher, Lorette, has entirely recovered from his very severe attack of la grippe and is at his accustomed post again.... Mr. James Hendricken and Miss Mary Graham, both of Ashill, intend to start housekeeping for themselves shortly....

ARRIVE GALORE.—This part of the country is polluted with agents of every description. Next week I intend to branch off into poetry and send a poem on the respective merits and flaws of business of each.

WALKING MR. RIDING.—A young couple while returning from St. Albans church on Sunday (not the last) thought they could enjoy themselves better walking than riding. They accordingly tried it, but after picking up their traps they thought it advisable to get back into the cutter again.

CHURCH SERVICES.—The Rev. A. C. Watt, Mono Mills, is expected to preach at Herald Angel, Cardwell, Sunday morning March 6th, at St. George's in the afternoon and St. Alban's in the evening. There will be the celebration of the holy communion after the 11 o'clock and 3 o'clock services.

SICK.—Mr. Kylen has been sick for the past two weeks with a very bad attack of the grip, but I am pleased to say he is getting better.....Mrs. Frank Crowe (nee Maggie Howard) is seriously ill. We sincerely hope to see her around in a short time.....Mr. Forsyth does not show any sings of improvement, but he is no worse.....Mr. W. J. Howard's clearing sale takes place today and we hope it will be largely attended by purchasers.

It is said that merchants in some parts of the country are making a good thing out of the Patrons by selling at an advance of 5 to 10 per cent on spurious invoices.—Sentinel. That's what they did in the golden days of the golden Grange, and we're not surprised to hear of "the same old game" being played again.

Marriage Licenses issued by R. F. Hamilton at Grand Valley.

Mrs. Heslop, widow of the murdered treasurer of Ancaster, died at her home near Ancaster village on Thursday morning. The venerable lady had been very ill for a week, suffering from congestion of the lungs, brought on by an attack of the grip. Her daughter had been her sole companion since the murder of her husband about a year ago. The death of Mrs. Heslop will embarrass the case in the approaching trial of the supposed murderers. She would have been a very important witness. Mrs. Heslop was a daughter of the late John Aikman, who lived in Ancaster for many years. She married Mr. Heslop 50 years ago. She was 70 years old.

The other night an Arthur thief broke into the sample room of one of the hotels and decamped with $50 worth of cigars.

UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES.—Under any circumstances Kelly & Marshall are selling their stock of hardware, stoves and tinware at a very low figure.

THE MECHANICS' ANNUAL.—A well attended meeting was held at the Elgin house last evening for the purpose of making arrangements to hold the Orangeville mechanics' annual ball, and Friday, March 25th, was the date decided upon. Mr. William Laing was appointed secretary and Ald. Jos. Riddell treasurer. The different committees were appointed and are working harmoniously to make the affair a greater success than it ever has been.

MUST NOT DANCE.—In St. Peter's church on Sunday Rev. Father McPhillip's read an indult exempting Catholics from observing the lenten rules this year owing to the prevailing sickness. The rev gentleman also discoursed on how Catholics should conduct themselves during the season of lent. He said they should abstain from amusements, such as going to theaters, dances, etc, and if he heard of any of his flock dancing he would publicly call their names at the first opportunity.

GRAND JURORS.—The names of the gentleman who compose the grand jury at the present assizes are as follows: Robt. McGhee, foreman, Ed. Clark, John Crozier, G A Campbell, S. H McKitrick, Orangeville; W B Clark, Shelburne; Lewis Armstrong, Joseph Black, Wm Clayton, Alex. Duncan, East Garafraxa; Carter Boyle, Henry Carson, Geo. Leland, Jas McMaster, Mono; Vickers Bates, Geo. Bailey, Robert McGhee, Melancthon, John Gillespie, Elijah Hamilton, John Richardson, Daniel McMichael, Amaranth; Hugh Hutchinson, East Luther; T. E. Hannah, Ben. Hill, Jas. Kerr, Mulmur.

KILLED A BEAR.—The principal attraction on the corner of Owen Sound street on Tuesday evening was a sleigh containing a bear which had been killed a few hours before on lot 28, con 5 Amaranth. They had no guns in the party and the animal was killed by Mr. Hooker with an axe. Mr. A. B. Noble paid $7.50 for the hide.—Shelburne Free Press

IN CUPID'S TOILS.—One of those events that is always looked forward to by the ladies with pleasurable anticipation, took place on Wednesday, the 24th at the residence of Mr. Jas. McMaster, ex deputy-reeve of Mono township, Prince of Wales road, being the marriage of Alfred Wm. Laird of Norval, to Miss Lizzie McMaster. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D C. Hossack, in the presence of a large number of invited guests. The bride was assisted by Miss Maggie Harshaw, while the groom was supported by Mr. John McMaster The dress of the bride was a beautiful heliotrope satin The bridesmaid wore a robe of pink silk and looked charming as she discharged her pleasing duties. The happy couple left on the 6 o'clock train for Chicago, with the wishes of a host of friends for a long and happy wedded life.

THE FIREMEN KICK.—Several of the firemen have complained to THE SUN that their rubber boots are in a sad state owing to persons other than themselves using them. It appears that corporation employes wore some of the firemen's boots while the fire-hall was in course of construction last summer and used them up so badly that they are almost useless; and some members are charged with loaning their boots to sportsmen who use them while out shooting. Of course neither of these things should be permitted, and we are glad to say that the firemen are going to put a stop to it at once. They intend to shortly adopt a code of rules and regulations governing every thing in connection with the brigade.

MRS. BEATTIE'S APPEAL.—Mrs. Beattie of east Broadway has sent the following letter to the editor: "I have been a resident of Orangeville for six years and u til lately I have been able to earn a comfortable living, but owing to the continued sickness of my nephew, Thos. J. Mullen, I have been compelled to stop work and wait on him. He is suffering from a lung disease and at present is very low. I am in needy circumstances and I will cheerfully receive anything that may be sent by the charitable people of the town." Mrs. Beattie has been an honest, hard working woman and well deserves assistance. The sick young man has near relatives only a short distance from this town, but they refuse to contribute anything towards supporting him and leave it all for a poor woman to do. Human nature is mean, but the young man's relatives are too mean for anything.

McGARVEY, a farmer living at Lowell, was the victim of yesterday's accident. He was doing some business in town and left for home about 5 30 o'clock. He reached the crossing at 15 minutes to 6 There were several teams ahead and in the rear of him and he was on the crossing when the express came thundering down the heavy grade Poor McGarvey must have lost control of himself for the horses turned partly around and found the train approaching locomotive In another second the pilot of the engine struck the rig and dashed its unfortunate occupant throwing him several yards away into a field. He came in contact with a post and fearful gashes were made in his head, his neck being also broken. One of the horses was killed outright and the other was so horribly injured that it had to be put out of misery. The train could not stop until it reached the station and a telegram was sent to the Junction informing the trainmen of the Owen Sound train, which arrived 15 minutes after the Teeswater, to stop at the crossing and bring the body to the Orangeville station. It was placed in the baggage room, where Coroner Henry, Drs. Lewis and Simpson examined it, and later removed to the residence of the Misses McGarvey, sisters of deceased, near by.

A jury has been summoned and an inquest will be held.

A year ago last summer Mr. McGarvey met a bad accident while driving a mowing machine on his farm. He got off the machine to fix something, but neglected to throw it out of gear. A dog frightened the horses and they ran away. The knives of the mower amputated one of his legs below the knee and he was otherwise badly injured.

The deceased leaves a wife and family of small children.

TOLTON ON TOP!

Judge Street's Decision Against Him Knocked Out in a High Court.

Justice of the Peace W. P. Tolton of Waldemar has not given up his suit against the G. P. R. for damages for injury to land, caused by the company diverting a creek from its natural course The action was tried at the assizes here about a year ago before Mr Justice Street. The decision resulted very unsatisfactorily to him and he entered an appeal. The case came up before Judges Armour and Falconbridge at Toronto on Friday, and the decision of Judge Street was reversed. The following is the Globe's report of the case:

TOLTON VICTORIOUS

Judgment on appeal by the plaintiff from the judgment of Street, J., the trial judge, dismissing the action, which was brought by a land owner for damages for injury to his land owing to the diversion of a watercourse by the line of railway constructed by the Toronto, Grey & Bruce Ry Co. and now worked by the defendants, and for a mandamus to compel the defendants to reopen the original channel of the watercourse. The lot in question, being the west half of lot 3, in the 9th concession of the Township of Amaranth, was owned by the late Charles Robertson of Toronto until the spring of 1876, when he conveyed it to the plaintiff. Street, J., held that the Toronto, Grey & Bruce R. W. Co. had made to Mr. Robertson full compensation for the injury for which this action was brought, and the plaintiff was therefore not entitled to recover, being in the position of one who had contracted to buy damaged land. The court held that the plaintiff was entitled to recover legal damage in respect of the diversion, assessed at a nominal sum. As the defendants have now the power to divert a stream or watercourse by R. S. O. ch 29, sec. 99 (b), the court holds that it should not after the time that has elapsed since this diversion was made direct a mandatory injunction to issue compelling the restoration of the stream so diverted, when the plaintiff can be compensated in damages for the injury caused to him by such diversion. Reference directed to the master at Orangeville to ascertain the compensation that ought to be made to the plaintiff by the defendants for this diversion, or, if the defendants prefer it, proceedings stayed for two months in order to enable them to proceed by arbitration. The defendants to pay the costs of this action and of the reference, if any; but if it goes to arbitration, the costs thereof will be as directed by the Railway Act. Elgin Myers, Orangeville, for the plaintiff. G. T. Blackstock, Toronto, for the defendants.

Marriage Licenses issued by R. E. Hamilton at Grand Valley.

Mrs. Heslop, widow of the murdered treasurer of Amaranth, died at her home near Amaranth village on Thursday morning. The venerable lady had been very ill for a week, suffering from congestion of the lungs, brought on by an attack of the grip. Her daughter had been her sole companion since the murder of her husband about a year ago. The death of Mrs. Heslop will embarrass the case in the approaching trial of the supposed murderers. She would have been a very important witness. Mrs. Heslop was a daughter of the late John Aikman, who lived in Amaranth for many years. She married Mr. Heslop 50 years ago. She was 70 years old.

The other night an Arthur thief broke into the sample room of one of the hotels and decamped with $30 worth of cigars.

MY OLD DRESS SUIT.

My dress suit is threadbare and shiny and spotted,
But how can I part with this friend of my youth,
To hang it in some second-hand shop, or be trotted—
About on some restaurant waiter, forsooth!
That dress suit has sported with wealth and with station,
Has heard the best music and seen the best plays,
Has rested in royal contract in flirtation,
And consorted with beauty in various ways.

When I think of the waists that right sleeve has encrounded—
In waltzing, of course—and what trousers have pressed
The lapel of that coat, yum-yum! I'm confounded
With "joys that we've tasted," no longer possessed—
And I fondly remember the scores of good dinners,
With sense delicious, that vest has embraced,
And the heart throbs it's heard; they come to beginners,
They are evening emotions, by morning effaced.

And there are the trousers: for years they've been fitting
About at swell parties and dancing affairs,
Check by jowl with the silks and the satins, or sitting
Sequestered in alcoves, in nooks, on the stairs.
Every thread is a cord of some sweet recollection,
Every spot tells a tale of delights now no more;
Dear worn-out dress suit, you inspire retrospection,
Because you've been worn out so often before.

Our reeve has opened a down-town real estate office, and last week some one hung a rabbit at the door. A lady from a distance happening to pass, and seeing the rabbit, called in to enquire if he kept a butcher shop. This is almost as bad as something that happened in the Herald office. When Dr. Griffin held out in an adjoining room, a young lady mistook the printing office for the doctor's office, and leaning over the counter, said in a quiet tone to the editor, "I want some ointment for the itch." — Dundalk Herald.

On Monday morning Henry O'Connell well known in Elora, felt a pain in his heart, and a few minutes after dropped dead. He arose in the morning as well as usual. Heart failure was the cause of death. Deceased was a native of Kerry county, Ireland, and had lived in Elora for thirty five years. He claimed to be a second cousin to Daniel O Connell, the Irish agitator, and parties who came from his own vicinity were satisfied with the evidence with which he supported this claim.—Elora Express.

At Whitby before Judge Dartnell a girl of 14 years named Eliza Ann Berry was charged with incendiarism. This girl was taken from an industrial home in Toronto by a farmer near Vrooman ton, Brock, named Obed E. Bagshaw. She was to remain an inmate of his house during her minority. A few days ago Mrs. Bagshaw scolded the girl for some misconduct and shortly afterwards the latter slipped out with some matches and set Mr Bagshaw's barn on fire. In the conflagration which ensued about $6000 worth of property was destroyed, including among othes things 56 head of cattle. The girl admitted having committed the crime and appeared to be quite hardened. The judge sentenced her to two years in the Mercer reformatory.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—It is impossible entirely to prevent the noxious vapours which are given off in mines and tunnels, and those who, like miners and railway operatives, have to work day after day in such vitiated atmospheres, suffer in health and strength in consequence. The chest and liver often become clogged with the products of coal combustion, necessitating great attention to the health. No remedy is more valuable for miners and the like than Holloway's Pills, as they carry off effete matter from the blood, and healthily stimulate the liver. They are also invaluable for costive bowels and for all bilious disorders. The Ointment is a priceless remedy for piles, sprains, ulcers and all manner of sores.

Must Blow His Horns.—Much newspaper argument is now being had on the deborning question. Some people say it is as cruel to take the horns away from a cow as it is from a thirsty man. And the thirsty man knows that's very cruel.

Ettonville and Erasmus lodges of the Patrons of Industry have amalgamated. They will order $100 worth of supplies from a London firm.

HORNING'S MILLS.

Marriage.—Since our last wrote, our old and familiar friend, Mr. John Anger of Manitoba, came and married Miss Lettie, daughter of our worthy reeve, Mr. Robt. McGhee, from our midst. Rev. S. M. Craig of Fergus tied the knot. Much happiness is our worst wish.

Patrons.—The Patrons of Industry are evidently going to sweep every other institution in the county. Nearly every man you meet is a Patron or wants to be one, and we understand our popular hardware merchant, Jas. Alett, is going to supply them with goods. Jos. Buzzialle is going to supply them with flour &c., from his Daisy roller mills, so we are told.

Local Barns.—Mr. Robert McKinney will offer his house and other village property for sale by public auction to-morrow (Tuesday). Mac. intends to try his luck in Manitoba.... Our usual busy little village is now pretty dull owing to the very deep snow and drifted roads.... Our teacher, Mr. A. H. Ross, appears to be giving good satisfaction so far, and we think the ratepayers will be suited.... Rev. R. J. Reid of Newport, Mass., is visiting his brother, Dr. Reid of Horning's Mills.... Mr. S. Carney of Sault Ste. Marie, and Mr Wm. Carney, law-student, of Toronto, are visiting at the Methodist parsonage.... There appears to be a good demand for fat cattle in this locality.

BOB FORD SHOT DEAD.

The Murderer of Jesse James Killed in a Colorado Mining Town.

PUEBLO, Feb 18.—Bob Ford was shot dead in a saloon at the new mining town of Creede, Col.

Bob and Charley Ford, under the direction of Gov. Crittenden of Missouri shot and killed Jesse James on April 16, 1882. They had been implicated in a train robbery and fled to Nashville, where they lived with Jesse James for several months.

The Fords appeared in a dime museum for several months after the tragedy, but eventually drifted West, where Charley Ford two years ago died of consumption. Bob went to the mining town of Creede, Col, where he to-day met his death.

The Times says a decidedly revolutionary move is contemplated by the various railways entering Chicago. Rather than elevate their tracks they will transfer their base of operations. It is proposed to build a new belt line, with which each road will make connections outside the city, all tracks, depots and other property within the city limits to be absolutely abandoned. It is proposed to sell all railroad property in the city limits, and it is believed that the amount so realized will build the belt line, all new depots and pay all expenses attending the change, and then leave a surplus of more than $10,000,000 in the aggregate. Behind the scheme are all the Vanderbilt roads, including the Chicago & North western and six other companies. The motive for this radical departure is the agitation resulting from the daily horrors at grade crossings, the loss of life in the aggregate being appalling.

The financial statement of Treasurer Harcourt the other day was an able presentment of the monetary position of the Province from the Government's point of view. Mr. Clancy, who was the Opposition critic, made a strong point out of the fact that to meet its obligations the Government had to draw from the trust funds in the hands of the Dominion Government half a million dollars. Mr. Harcourt explains that this unusual proceeding was occasioned by quite extraordinary calls on the treasury of the province—such as the rebuilding of the University and some unforeseen items of considerable amounts which had to be met.

It may be said that the man who is running in debt is always able to explain that the particular position he finds himself in at the moment is always due to some uncommon concatenation of circumstances which are never likely to occur again. The trouble is they are always occuring and finally Mr. Micawber is a wreck. Is the province getting into Mr. Micawber's track? Can we really live on our resources? Will Mr. Harcourt or some member of the Government tell us how long it will take to exhaust the riches of the Crown Lands? And when this is done are we not about face to face with direct taxation? This may involve no reflection on the present Government. We have probably got good value for all the money expended. That is all the more reason why the province is entitled to a candid statement and estimate of its future.

Diseases of the Chest and Lungs.

These diseases are too well known to require any description. How many thousands are carried every year to the silent grave by that dreadful scourge, consumption, which always commences with a slight cough. Keep the blood pure and healthy by taking a few doses of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills each week, and diseases of any kind is impossible. All medicine dealers sell Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

USUALLY THE WAY.

"She is a social leader, is she?"

"Yes."

"What sort of a man is her husband?"

"I don't know. I don't think anybody has ever seen him."

"What do you think of that?" asked one workman of another when they dug up the petrified men. "It's a hard thing to look upon," was the reply.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

is the "finest" hair dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate and lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Ferer, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. It not promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," Mt. Arthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Oshkosh, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

The Best of Rock Salt, for Stock.

Read what Prof Robertson, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, says regarding proper ways of salting stock:—"Dairy cattle should have access to salt every day. A series of experiments has convinced me that when cows are denied salt for a period of even one week they will yield from 1½ to 2½ per cent less milk, and that of no better quality. Such milk will, on an average, turn sour in twenty four hours less time than milk drawn from the same or similar cows receiving salt every day, all other conditions of treatment being equal."

THE only chemically pure Salt ever discovered, analyzed 99 84-100 Pure Salt. All kinds of stock will do better where this Salt is used; one ton will go four times as far as common salt, hence it is cheaper. It is the finest Salt in the world for the preservation of all kinds of meat, all the large packers are using it. It is sold cheaper than any other lump salt. We guarantee this Salt as advertised. Make a trial and you will always use it; we have in stock fine and coarse, at

WHY COUGH,

WHEN a few doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will relieve you? Try it. Keep it in the house. You are liable to have a cough at any time, and no other remedy is so efficacious as this world-renowned preparation. No household, with young children, should be without it. Scores of lives are saved every year by its timely use.

Amanda E. Jenner, Northampton, Mass., writes: "Common gratitude impels me to acknowledge the great benefit I have derived for my children from the use of Ayer's most excellent Cherry Pectoral. I had lost two dear children from croup and consumption, and had the greatest fear of losing my only remaining daughter and son, as they were delicate. Happily, I find that by giving them Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, on the first symptoms of throat or lung trouble, they are relieved from danger, and are becoming robust, healthy children."

"In the winter of 1885 I took a bad cold which, in spite of every known remedy, grew worse, so that the family physician considered me incurable, supposing me to be in consumption. As a last resort I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and, in a short time, the cure was complete. Since then I have never been without this medicine. I am fifty years of age, weigh over 250 pounds, and attribute my good health to the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—G. W. Walker, Salem, N. Y.

"Last winter I contracted a severe cold, which by repeated exposure, became quite obstinate. I was much troubled with hoarseness and bronchial irritation. After trying various medicines, without relief, I at last purchased a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. On taking this medicine, my cough ceased almost immediately, and I have been well ever since."—Rev. Thos. H. Russell, Secretary Holston Conference and P. E. of the Greeneville District, M. E. Ch., Jonesboro, Tenn.

Poetry.

SYMPATHY.

Take flowers before roses, planted to-night
Beside a gold-bordered turn, and though they faint
With fragrance sick, or shed a more light
Around your Hope that kiss, think patient saint
Not all of this, but of the symbol bright
They are of sympathy. I might have given
You damask roses, crimson with spring pain,
Had not mine own heart, too, been wildly driven
Across a restless night; had not my soul
Felt Hope's dead touch, and lost the earthly banner
When it was smitten. Let my weary dole—
My song—in minor measures blend with thine,
While saintly anthem o'er us memories toll,
And all your sorrow mingle into mine.

A PRINCE OF SWINDLERS.

BUFFALO, Mar. 4.—Thomas Simons, alias Harris, the great insurance swindler, who was arrested at St. Thomas, Ont., and extradited to this city, pleaded guilty to-day and was sentenced to three years in Erie County Penitentiary. He said that after he got out he would work for the insurance companies at $1800 a year and save them twice that sum by exposing agents who are swindling them.

"I don't believe more than five claims out of 20 are honest," he said, as the deputy sheriff led him away.

Since his case was written up the discovery has been made that Harris has been working the companies during the past four years, has 32 aliases, and one time succeeded in getting $1300 out of the Travellers' Company of Hartford. He has swindled them all the way from New York to Denver, and in Canada as well as the United States. He was very slick at counterfeiting sprains and dislocations.

He was a good actor, and could make a sound limb look as if it had been run through a threshing machine, while at the same time he suffered little pain and but slight inconvenience from the frauds he perpetrated. He had in his possession the necessary printed form of certificate, and did not give physicians the trouble of writing it out.

NOT ABASHED.

"When I was young my best client was a wealthy old lady noted for saying caustic things about her acquaintances. On a Sunday morning when I was staying at her house, she vilified one of her neighbors, named Stamford, without stint.

"By way of changing the subject I proposed to read to her from a volume of sermons I had happened to bring with me. She assented. I started at random, found a misleading text, and when too late discovered that I was in the middle of a sermon on the government of the tongue.

"I was afraid she would think I had selected it to admonish her, yet I dared not stop for fear of seeming to make the offense more pointed. So on I read to the end, pretty sure that my reading would cost me a client worth $1,000 a year to me. But when I ended she said: "Thank you, Mr.—It is an excellent sermon, and would fit my neighbor Stamford to a 'T.'"

THE DANGEROUS THIN WOMAN.

Thin women are dangerous. A fat woman has got to be good tempered and easy-going. I think temper is all in the bones anyway, and when a woman is fat the temper becomes absorbed before it comes to the surface. But when a woman is thin the temper is right there on the surface. If ever a fat woman has a high temper it is awful. She never cools. A thin woman cools off quickly, but she heats up again just as quickly. A thin woman with a good temper comes just near being an angel as anybody can on this earth—if she isn't too thin. A thin woman can dress in a white robe, and if you put a harp into her hand she'll look exactly like an angel. Could a fat woman ever look like an angel in any dress? No. As for a man, the idea that they ever make men angels is absurd. They make stationary out of some of them, but not many after all; and—well—how does the best looking man in the world look when he gets out of bed to see where a fire is or light the gas? But a thin woman is insidious. Wh n woman has a stout, full figure there is no expression to her? She is series of curves that don't change. No. There is something about a thin woman you can't describe that is dangerous to the peace of man. Still, people do love fat women often.

FASHION BREVITIES.

A soft felt hat to be noted just now is a man's big crowned derby, with rolling brim and wide galoon band. The crown is crushed in irregularly with the hand to suit the face.

White and cream colored strings are preferred for bonnets and hats.

Color with white is not considered so stylish as all white for evening wear.

Buckles of paste are used to catch the scarfs that are the latest notion in millinery.

Evening hats of lace and velvet have the crown nearly covered with velvet flowers.

Opheliu, a kind of pinkish heliotrope, and pink are favorite evening shades.

For early spring gowns of cloth are to be worn. The plainness of the tailor cut, which is considered most appropriate for this material, is relieved by a vest of velvet or cloth in contrasting color, or the more youthful chemisette of light silk. Military looking embroideries of gold will also be worn, and will sweeten up wonderfully an otherwise sober gown.

Diseases of the Chest and Lungs.

These diseases are too well known to require any description. How many thousands are carried every year to the silent grave by that dreadful scourge, consumption, which always commences with a slight cough. Keep the blood pure and healthy by taking a few doses of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills each week, and diseases of any kind is impossible. All medicine dealers sell Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

PHYSICAL CULTURE IN CONNECTICUT.

A young lady member of the class for physical culture had an extraordinary adventure the other afternoon, which is just being whispered about. The young lady was one of a group of members of the class who were engaged in kicking against a wall to see how high an elevation they could place their dainty number twos. A tall girl had made a great record kicking far above the others. The heroine of our tale, being ambitious, became fired with a determination to excel the tall girl who was smiled so complacently. She therefore adjusted her bangs, took a short run, and hooked—how she did kick, to be sure. Her foot shot up, far above the mark made by the tall girl. But the girl who had made this extraordinary kick? Alas! her foot caught on a picture nail, and she was unable to get it loose, hung like a bag of meal. Her companions at last released her from her awkward predicament.

BROTHERLY KINDNESS.

A London paper says that a young man had a younger sister by the name of Jessie, who was sent to a fashionable boarding school. When she went away he remarked that he hoped she wouldn't acquire any of the affectations so often learned in such places. For almost a year he had no fault to find upon this score. Then came a letter signed "Jessica," instead of Jessie. He replied as follows:

"DEAR SISTER JESSICA—Your welcome letter received. Mammies and papaies are well. Aunt Maryen and uncle Georgies started for Glasgowica yesterday. I have bought a new horse. You ought to see it. It is a beauty. Its name is Maudica. Your affectionate brother, SAMICA."

The sister's next letter was signed Jessie.

FIFTY LIVES LOST.

Halifax, N. S., March 3.—A dispatch from St. John's, N. F., gives details of a shocking disaster in Newfoundland, by which at least fifty lives were lost. On Saturday last 220 men went out sealing in boats from Trinity Bay. While they were on the lookout for seal the thermometer fell to zero, and a terrific snow storm came on. The sealers struggled hard for port, but were unable to cope with wind, snow and cold and an angry sea. They had no extra clothing and their small boats furnished no shelter. Some were blown far out to sea, while others were frozen upon the ice where they were taking the seals. Many died in their boats. Seventeen of the sealers were rescued by boats which put from Trinity Bay to their assistance. These were found exhausted and in a pitiable plight. Some of them died before they could be brought ashore. Thirteen bodies were found frozen in their boats, which were covered with ice and had to be cut out. It is estimated that fully forty men have perished. Most of those who were lost were fathers of families. There is great lamentation along the shores of Trinity Bay. The legislature has adjourned as a mark of sympathy.

THE M'KINLEY BILL.

How it Paralyzes the Brewing and Malting Business of the U. S.

Washington, March 3.—Strong efforts are being made to reduce the rate of duty imposed on barley and malt by the McKinley Bill. The tariff is now 30 cents on barley and 45 cents on malt, against 10 and 25 cents respectively before the McKinley went into effect. Representative Fitch has a Bill reducing the duties to the latter figures. He and Representative Lockwood, and Charles Stadlier, ex Senator of New York representing the Brewers' and Maltsters' Association, appeared before a sub-committee yesterday, of the Ways and Means Committee of the House, in advocacy of the bill. Mr. Stadler said the McKinley bill had ruined malting in New York State. The tariff was absolutely prohibitory. Out of 17 malt houses in the city, only three are running and those are not paying. Every endeavor is being made to keep politics out of the question, and Senators Hill and Hiscox are quoted in favor of a reduction in the duties. Ex State Sloan, of Oswego, as well as many Democrats from different parts of the State, are working for the bill, and the brewers and maltsters of New York State and New York city are very much interested in it. There is considerable chance for its passage.

THE DIVORCED DUCHESS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—A London dispatch says the real reason for the dispute about the Marquis of Blandford's allowance from the Duke Marlborough, his father, in which the latter was notorious, lies in the jealousy which has always existed between Lady Blanford, the Duke's former wife, and the Duchess of Marlborough, nee Mrs. Hamersley. Lady Blandford is persona grata with the Queen, and society was also on her side when she divorced her husband although unwilling to, after writing most pathetic letters offering to condone everything for her children's sake. Since then she has openly regretted that she did not suffer in silence, for the children's position is affected by the divorce, but on the other hand the Duchess of Marlborough was never cordially received and only through great pressure the Queen allowed her to be presented on her marriage; nor are they welcomed at Marlborough House, for the Prince of Wales has a fierce memory for any slight to himself or any one he favors. He has never forgiven the Duke for loving Lady Aylesford, a friend of his, who is now alone, and almost starving in Paris. Lady Blandford is credited to keep up her position through the liberality of the Duke of Aberdeen and other relatives.

Cabinet Reconstruction.

A popular topic is cabinet reconstruction, which really does not concern the public so much as the reconstruction and cleansing of the human system against the approach of spring. The premier medicine for this purpose is Burdock Blood Bitters, and both parties recognize it as the best blood purifier and general system regulator known.

A MARATHON CO. MIRACLE.

Helpless for Years and Given Up From Hospitals As Incurable.

The Remarkable Experience of Charles Quant as Investigated by an Albany (N. Y.) Journal Reporter—A Story of Surpassing Interest.

Albany, N. Y. Journal, March 4th.

SARATOGA, March 4th.—For some time past there have been reports here and elsewhere in Saratoga county of a most remarkable—indeed, so remarkable as to be miraculous—case of a most severe case of locomotor ataxia, or creeping paralysis, simply by the use of a popular remedy known as "Pink Pills for Pale people," prepared and put up by the Dr Williams Medicine Company, Morristown, N. Y. and Brockville, Ont. The story was to the effect that Mr. Chas. A. Quant, of Galway, who for the last six or eight years has been a great sufferer from creeping paralysis and its attendant ills, and who had become utterly powerless of all selfhelp, had, by the use of a few boxes of the Pink Pills for Pale People, been so fully restored to health as to be able to walk about the street without the aid of crutches. The fame of this wonderful, miraculous cure was so great that the Evening Journal reporter thought it worth his while to go to Galway to call on Mr. Quant, to learn from his lips, and from the observation of his neighbors, if his Alleged cure was a fact or only an unfounded rumor. And so, he drove to Galway—and spent a day and a night there in visiting Mr. Quant, getting his story and interviewing his neighbors and fellow-townsmen. It may be proper to say that Galway is a pretty little village of about 400 people, delightfully located near the centre of the town of Galway, in Saratoga county, and about 17 miles from Saratoga Springs. Upon inquiry, the residence of Mr. Charles Quant was easily found, for everybody seemed to know him, speak well of him and to be overflowing with surprise and satisfaction at his wonderful cure and restoration to the activities of enterprising citizenship, for Mr. Quant was born in Galway and had spent most of his life there. Mr. Quant was found at his pretty home on a pleasant street nearly opposite the academy. In response to a knock at the door it was opened by a man who, in reply to an inquiry if Mr Quant lived there and was at home, said: "I am Mr Quant. Will you come in?" After a little general and preliminary conversation, and after he had been apprised of the object for which the Journal reporter had called upon him, he, at request, told the story of himself and of his sickness and terrible sufferings, and of the ineffectual treatment he had had, and of his final cure by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and cheerfully gave assent to its use for publication. He said: "My name is Charles A. Quant. I am 37 years old. I was born in the village of Galway, and, excepting while traveling on business and a little while in Amsterdam, have spent my whole life here. My wife is a native of Ontario. Up to about eight years ago I had never been sick and was then in perfect health. I was fully six feet tall, weighed 190 pounds and was very strong. For 11 years I was a traveling salesman for a piano and organ company and had to do, or at least did do, a great deal of heavy lifting, got my meals very irregularly and slept in enough 'spare beds' in country houses to freeze any ordinary man to death, or at least give him the rheumatism. About eight years ago I began to feel distress in my stomach and consulted several doctors about it. They all said it was dyspepsia, and for dyspepsia I was treated by various doctors in different places, and took all the patent medicines I could hear of that claimed to be a cure for dyspepsia. But I continued to grow gradually worse for four years. Then I began to have pain in my back and legs and became conscious that my legs were getting weak and my step unsteady, and then I staggered when I walked. Having received no benefit from the use of patent medicines, and feeling that I was constantly growing worse, I then, upon advice, began the use of electric belts, pads and all the many different kinds of electric appliances I could hear of, and spent hundreds of dollars for them, but they did me no good. (Here Mr. Quant showed the Journal reporter an electric suit of underwear for which he paid $124). In the fall of 1888 the doctors advised a change of climate, so I went to Atlanta, Ga., and acted as agent for the Estey Organ Company. While there I took a thorough electric treatment, but it only seemed to aggravate my disease, and the only relief I could get from the sharp and distressing pains was to take morphine. The pain was so intense at times that it seemed as though I could not stand it, and I almost longed for death as the only certain relief. In September of 1888 my legs gave out entirely and my left eye was drawn to one side, so that I had double sight and was dizzy. My trouble so affected my whole nervous system that I had to give up business. Then I returned to New York and went to the Roosevelt hospital, where for four months I was treated by specialists and they pronounced my case locomotor ataxia and incurable. After I had been under treatment by Prof. Starr and Dr. Ware for four months, they told me they had done all they could for me. Then I went to the New York hospital on Fifteenth street, where, upon examination, they said I was incurable and would not take me in. At the Presbyterian hospital they examined me and told me the same thing. In March, 1890, I was taken to St. Peter's hospital in Albany, where Prof. H. H. Hun frankly told my wife my case was hopeless; that he could do nothing for me and that she had better take me back home and save my money. But I wanted to make a trial of Prof. Hun's famous skill and I remained under his treatment for nine weeks, but secured no benefit. All this time I had been growing worse I had become entirely paralyzed from my waist down and had partly lost control of my hands. The pain was terrible; my legs felt as though they were freezing and my stomach would not retain food, and I fell away to 130 pounds. In the Albany hospital they put 17 big burns on my back one day with red hot irons and after a few days they put 14 more burns on and treated me with electricity, but I got worse rather than better; lost control of my bowels and water, and upon advice of the doctor, who said there was no hope for me, I was brought home, where it was thought that death would soon come to relieve me of my sufferings. Last September, while in this helpless and suffering condition, a friend of mine in Hamilton, Ont., called my attention to the statement of one John Marshall, whose case had been similar to my own, and who had been cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

In this case Mr. Marshall, who is a prominent member of the Royal Templars of Temperance, had after four years of constant treatment by the most eminent Canadian physicians been pronounced incurable, and was paid the $1,000 total disability claim allowed by the order in such cases. Some months after Mr. Marshall began a course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking about 15 boxes was fully restored to health.

I thought I would try them and my wife sent for two boxes of the pills and I took them according to the directions given on the wrapper, on each box. For the first few days the only effects were pretty severe, as I was so very weak, but I continued to follow instructions as to taking the pills and treatment, and even before I had used up the two boxes of pills I began to feel beneficial effects from them. My pains were not so bad; I felt warmth in my head felt better; my feet began to retain heat instead of being cold as they had been for years; I could straighten up; the feeling began to come back into my limbs; I began to be able to get about on crutches; my eyesight came back again as good as ever, and now, after the use of eight boxes of the pills—at a cost of only $4.00—my health was restored, I can walk without crutches, with only a cane, and can do a little work. My appetite is good, my nerves are strong, my kidneys are healthy, and I am free from pain. I sleep well, my mind is free from worry, and I feel like a new man. I cannot speak in too high terms of Dr Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, as I know they saved my life after all the doctors had given me up as incurable."

Other citizens of Galway, seeing the wonderful cure of Mr. Quant by the Pink Pills for Pale People, are owning them. Frederick Saxton, a sufferer from rheumatism, said he was finding benefit from their use, and Mr Schultz, who had suffered from chronic dysentery for years, said he had taken two boxes of the pills and was already cured.

Mr. Quant had also tried Faith cure, with experts of that treatment in Albany and Greenville, S. C., but with no beneficial results.

A number of the more prominent citizens of Galway, as Rev. C. E. Herbert, of the Presbyterian church; Prof. James S. Kelly, principal of the academy; John P. and Barney Crouch, and Frank and Henry Willard, merchants, and many others to whom Mr. Quant and his so miraculous cure by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for pale people, are well known, were Pleased to have the opportunity of bearing testimony to the high character of Mr. Quant, and of verifying the story of his recovery from the terrible affliction from which he had for so long a time been a sufferer.

Truly, the duty of the physician is not to save life, but to heal disease.

The remarkable result from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the case of Mr. Quant, induced the reporter to make further enquiries concerning them, and he ascertained that they are a patent medicine in the sense in which that term is generally used, but a highly scientific preparation, the result of study and careful experiment. They have no rival as a blood builder and nerve restorer and have met with unparalleled success in the treatment of such diseases as paralysis, rheumatism, ataxia, St. Vitus' dance, palpitation of the heart, that tired feeling which afflicts so many, and all diseases depending on a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves.

Dr Williams' Pink Pills are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood and restore the glow of health to pale or sallow cheeks. In the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excess of whatever nature.

On further inquiry the writer found that these pills are manufactured by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Morristown, N. Y. and are sold in boxes, (never in bulk by the hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., from either addresses. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies, or medical treatment.

Sold by all druggists at $1800 a year, and cure them before that stage by exposing agents who are swindling them.

"I don't believe more than five claims out of 20 are honest," he said, as the deputy sheriff led him away.

Since his case was written up the discovery has been made that Harris has been working the companies during the past four years, has 23 aliases, and one time succeeded in getting $1300 out of the Travellers' Company of Hartford. He has swindled them all the way from New York to Denver, and in Canada as well as the United States. He was very slick at counterfeiting sprains and dislocations.

He was a good actor, and could make a sound limb look as if it had been run through a threshing machine, while at the same time he suffered little pain and but slight inconvenience from the frauds he perpetrated. He had in his possession the necessary printed form of certificate, and did not give physicians the trouble of writing it out.

NOT ABASHED.

"When I was young my best client was a wealthy old lady noted for saying caustic things about her acquaintances. On a Sunday morning when I was staying at her house, she vilified one of her neighbors, named Stamford, without stint.

"By way of changing the subject I proposed to read to her from a volume of sermons I had happened to bring with me. She assented. I started at random, found a misleading text, and when too late discovered that I was in the middle of a sermon on the government of the tongue.

"I was afraid she would think I had selected it to admonish her, yet I dared not stop for fear of seeming to make the offense more pointed. So on I read to the end, pretty sure that my reading would cost me a client worth $1,000 a year to me. But when I ended she said: "Thank you, Mr.—It is an excellent sermon, and would fit my neighbor Stamford to a T."

THE DANGEROUS THIN WOMAN.

Thin women are dangerous. A fat woman has got to be good tempered and easy-going. I think temper is all in the bones anyway, and when a woman is fat the temper becomes absorbed before it comes to the surface. But when a woman is thin the temper is right there on the surface. If ever a fat woman has a high temper it is awful. She never cools. A thin woman cools off quickly, but she heats up again just as quickly. A thin woman with a good temper comes just near being an angel as anybody can on this earth—if she isn't too thin. A thin woman can dress in a white robe, and if you put a harp into her hand she'll look exactly like an angel. Could a fat woman ever look like an angel in any dress? No. As for a man, the idea that they ever make men angels is absurd. They make statuary out of some of them, but not many after all; and—well—how does the best looking man in the world look when he gets out of bed to see where a fire is or light the gas? But a thin woman is insidious. When a woman has a stout, full figure there is no expression to her. She is series of curves that don't change. No. There is something about a thin woman you can't describe that is dangerous to the peace of man. Still, people do love fat women often.

FASHION BREVITIES.

A soft felt hat to be noted just now is a man's big crowned derby, with rolling brim and wide galloon band. The crown is crushed in irregularly with the hand to suit the face.

White and cream colored strings are preferred for bonnets and hats.

Color with white is not considered so stylish as all white for evening wear.

Buckles of paste are used to catch the pearls that are the latest notion in millinery.

Evening hats of lace and velvet have the crown nearly covered with velvet flowers.

Ophelia, a kind of pinkish heliotrope, and pink are favorite evening shades.

For early spring gowns of cloth are to be worn. The plainness of the tailor cut, which is considered most appropriate for this material, is relieved by a vest of velvet or cloth in contrasting color, or the more youthful ornamentation of light silk. Military looking embroideries of gold will also be worn, and will smarten up wonderfully an otherwise sober gown.

Diseases of the Chest and Lungs.

These diseases are too well known to require any description. How many thousands are carried every year to the silent grave by that dreadful scourge, consumption, which always commences with a slight cough. Keep the blood pure and healthy by taking a few doses of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills early work, and diseases of any kind is impossible. All medicine dealers sell Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Subject to call on Mr. Quant, to come from his lips, and from the observation of his neighbors, if his alleged cure was a fact or only an unfounded rumor. And so, he drove to Galway and spent a day and a night there in visiting Mr Quant, getting his story and interviewing his neighbors and fellow-townsmen. It may be proper to say that Galway is a pretty little village of about 400 people, delightfully located near the centre of the town of Galway, in Saratoga county, and about 12 miles from Saratoga Springs. Upon inquiry, the residence of Mr. Charles Quant was easily found, for everybody seemed to know him, speak well of him and to be overflowing with surprise and satisfaction at his wonderful cure and restoration to the activities of enterprising citizenship, for Mr. Quant was born in Galway and had spent most of his life there. Mr. Quant was found at his pretty home on a pleasant street near the opposite the academy. In response to a knock at the door it was opened by a man who, in reply to an inquiry if Mr Quant lived there and was at home, said: "I am Mr Quant. Will you come in?" After a little general and preliminary conversation, and after he had been apprised of the object for which the Journal reporter had called upon him, he, at request, told the story of himself and of his sickness and terrible sufferings, and of the ineffectual treatment he had had, and of his final cure by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and cheerfully gave assent to its use for publication. He said: "My name is Charles A. Quant. I am 37 years old. I was born in the village of Galway, and, excepting while traveling on business and a little while in Amsterdam, have spent my whole life here. My wife is a native of Ontario. Up to about eight years ago I had never been sick and was then in perfect health. I was fully six feet tall, weighed 180 pounds and was very strong. For 12 years I was a traveling salesman for a piano and organ company and had to do, or at least did do, a great deal of heavy lifting, got my meals very irregularly and slept in enough 'spare beds' in country houses to freeze any ordinary man to death, or at least give him the rheumatism. About eight years ago I began to feel disease in my stomach and consulted several doctors about it. They all said it was dyspepsia, and for dyspepsia I was treated by various doctors in different places, and took all the patent medicines I could hear of that claimed to be a cure for dyspepsia. But I continued to grow gradually worse for four years. Then I began to have pain in my back and legs and became conscious that my legs were getting weak and my step unsteady, and then I staggered when I walked. Having received no benefit from the use of patent medicines, and feeling that I was constantly growing worse, I then, upon advice, began the use of electric belts, pads and all the many different kinds of electric appliances I could hear of, and spent hundreds of dollars for them, but they did me no good. (Here Mr. Quant showed the Journal reporter an electric suit of underwear for which he paid $124). In the fall of 1888 the doctors advised a change of climate, so I went to Atlanta, Ga., and acted as agent for the Estey Organ Company. While there I took a thorough electric treatment, but it only seemed to aggravate my disease, and the only relief I could get from the sharp and distressing pains was to take morphine. The pain was so intense at times that it seemed as though I could not stand it, and I almost longed for death as the only certain relief. In September of 1888 my legs gave out entirely and my left eye was drawn to one side, so that I had double sight and was dizzy. My trouble so affected my whole nervous system that I had to give up business. Then I returned to New York and went to the Roosevelt hospital, where for four months I was treated by specialists and they pronounced my case locomotor ataxia and incurable. After I had been under treatment by Prof. Starr and Dr. Ware for four months, they told me they had done all they could for me. Then I went to the New York hospital on Fifteenth street, where, upon examination, they said I was incurable and would not take me in. At the Presbyterian hospital they examined me and told me the same thing. In March, 1890, I was taken to St Peter's hospital in Albany, where Prof. H. H. Hun frankly told my wife my case was hopeless; that he could do nothing for me and that she had better take me back home and save my money. But I wanted to make a trial of Prof Hun's famous skill and I remained under his treatment for nine weeks, but secured no benefit. All this time I had been growing worse I had become entirely paralyzed from my waist down and had partly lost control of my hands. The pain was terrible; my legs felt as though they were freezing and my stomach would not retain food, and I fell away to 130 pounds. In the Albany hospital they put 17 big burns on my back one day with red hot irons and after a few days they put 14 more burns on and treated me with electricity, but I got worse rather than better; lost control of my bowles and water, and upon advice of the doctor, who said there was no hope for me, I was brought home, where it was thought that death would soon come to relieve me of my sufferings. Last September, while in this helpless and suffering condition, a friend of mine in Hamilton, Ont., called my attention to the statement of one John Marshall, whose case had been similar to my own, and who had been cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

In this case Mr. Marshall, who is a prominent member of the Royal Templars of Temperance, had after four years of constant treatment by the most eminent Canadian physicians been pronounced incurable, and was paid the $1,000 total disability claim allowed by the order in such cases. Some months after Mr. Marshall began a course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking some 15 boxes was fully restored to health.

I thought I would try them and my wife sent for two boxes of the pills and I took them according to the directions given on the wrapper on each box. For the first few days the cold baths were pretty severe, as I was so very weak, but I continued to follow instructions as to taking the pills and treatment, and even before I had used up the two boxes of pills I began to feel beneficial effects from them. My pains were not so bad; I felt warmer; my head felt better; my food began to relish and agree with me; I could straighten up; the feeling began to come back into my limbs; I began to be able to get about on crutches; my eyes came back again to one object and now, after the use of eight boxes of the pills—at a cost of only $4.00—am well—can walk the help of a cane only, walk all about

THE DIVORCED DUCHESS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—A London dispatch says the real reason for the dispute about the Marquis of Blandford's allowance from the Duke Marlborough, his father, in which the latter was notorious, lies in the jealousy which has always existed between Lady Blanford, the Duke's former wife, and the Duchess of Marlborough, nee Mrs. Hamersley. Lady Blandford is persona grata with the Queen, and society was also on her side when she divorced her husband although unwilling to, after writing most pathetic letters offering to condone everything for her children's sake. Since then she has openly regretted that she did not suffer in silence, for the children's position is effected by the divorce, but on the other hand the Duchess of Marlborough was never cordially received and only through great pressure the Queen allowed her to be presented on her marriage; nor are they welcomed at Marlborough House, for the Prince of Wales has a fierce memory for any slight to himself or any one he favors. He has never forgiven the Duke for loving Lady Aylesford, a friend of his, who is now alone, and almost starving in Paris. Lady Blandford is enabled to keep up her position through the liberality of the Duke of Aberdeen and other relatives.

Cabinet Reconstruction.

A popular topic is cabinet reconstruction, which really does not concern the public so much as the reconstruction and cleansing of the human system against the approach of spring. The premier medicine for this purpose is Burdock Blood Bitters, and both parties recognize it as the best blood purifier and general system regulator known.

---

The remarkable results from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the case of Mr. Quant, induced the reporter to make further enquiries concerning them, and he ascertained that they are not a patent medicine in the sense in which that term is generally used, but a highly scientific preparation, the result of many and careful experiment. They have no rival as a blood builder and nerve restorer and have met with unparalleled success in the treatment of such diseases as paralysis, rheumatism, sciatica, St Vitus' dance, palpitation of the heart, that tired feeling which afflicts so many, and all diseases depending on a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves.

Dr Williams' Pink Pills are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood and restore the glow of health to pale or sallow cheeks. In the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excess of whatever nature.

On further inquiry the writer found that these pills are manufactured by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Morristown, N. Y. and are sold in boxes (never in bulk by the hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., from either addresses. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies, or medical treatment.

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

The Patrons of Industry in Erin township have appointed Messrs Tookey and McKelcie to go to Toronto and buy seed grain as cheap as possible, and also buy 30 barrels of sugar.

The Fergus council chamber, engine house, etc., had a close call from being destroyed by fire a few days ago. It seems the aldermen and band boys, who use the chamber as a band room, expectorate and throw cigar stubs into boxes filled with sawdust, which are used as spittoons. The chief-of-police discovered the fire and thereby saved $15,000. It would pay the corporation of Fergus to invest in two or three spittoons.

A young Grand Valley drug clerk was putting some wood in the stove the other morning, when an explosion took place, burning his moustache, and otherwise injuring him. It is supposed the wood was partly rotten, and some young hoodlums had put powder in it, which caused the explosion, but should the guilty parties be found, they may receive for their trouble a free ride and an extended visit to Castle Sutherland at Orangeville.

Three weeks ago, says the Brampton Times, the 60 acre farm belonging to James McCutheon, near Meadowvale, was sold by public auction under a mortgage to P. H McCollum. The purchaser Joseph Moore, on going to see the farm found that the fences and buildings had been tampered with, entailing so much damage that he refused to complete his purchase. It is alleged that Mr. McCutheon and Wm. McKillop did the damage and criminal proceedings have been started. The case will be investigated.

Hanlan and O'Connor have signed articles for a double-scull race with Hosmer and Teemer, at Point of Pines, Mass., on May 30th. The race will be for the championship of the world, three miles, in best and best boats, and a stake of $2,00. Two hundred dollars a side are to be deposited immediately with the editor of a New York paper, who is appointed stakeholder, and with whom a second deposit of $300 a side shall be made on or before Wednesday, May 11, 1892, and the balance $500 a side, by the hour of 10 p. m. on Wednesday, May 25, 1892, making the whole of the said stake of one thousand dollars ($1 000) a side.

In looking over the minutes of the last meeting of East Luther council, we notice a motion, moved by Mr. Scott, and seconded by Mr. McClelland, to the effect that in future the old method of performing statute labor will be done away with, and 60cts. per day accepted as an equivalent for a day's work. This will be levied on all the taxable property in the township, and will amount to about $1200. This is certainly a move in the right direction, as the manner in which statute labor has heretofore been performed has been somewhat of a farce, and we believe that $1200 judiciously expended will go further towards improving the condition of the roads in this township than all the statute labor that has been done on them for the past ten years. Of course we have yet to see how the plan will work, and in the meantime we would like to hear the opinion of some of the ratepayers of this township on the subject.—Grand Valley Star.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.—The great climatic variations which exhilarate and enlivey science render them liable to a variety of diseases, the development of which is favoured by exposure and hardships—often, it is to be feared, by their own carelessness as well. Holloway's remedies afford a safe and easy means of cure for those constitutional maladies which are so frequently engendered by residence in unhealthy climates and tempestuous living. The Ointment is a wonderfully healing application, as it abrasses the surface of foul sores and ulcers, soothes the throbbing and pain in cases of inflammation, and checks the progress of skin diseases. The pills purify the blood, rebalance the liver, and remove all morbid matter from the system.

TUESDAY was a cold day for Count Mercier, ex Premier of Quebec, and he was completely snowed under. The returns give 54 absolute supporters of the De Boucherville Administration and but 10, including independents, for the Boodle Brigade. From end to end the sister Province has pronounced a just verdict of condemnation of the thieveries and malversation which have depleted her treasury and well nigh demoralized her people. The bold political adventurer who had so misused his opportunities made personally a brave and bitter fight, and will receive credit for audacity even from those who most disapprove of his public methods. It is said that the campaign in Mercier's behalf was manipulated by Pasaud, whose name has been made infamous by a long course of brazen faced rascalities, and who had a large fund at his disposal obtained from some mysterious source. But the moral judgment of the French-Canadian people has risen up against the pestilent gang that is overwhelming Mercier maintains his seat in the Legislature, but his baker's dozen of adherents will only serve to mark in relief the obloquy of his fall.

EDITORIAL NOTES

THE Nova Scotia legislature opened on Thursday last.

THE defeated member of West Huron, Mr. "Annias" Cameron, has issued a tear stained address to the electors of that riding. He says he has a majority of 100 votes, but the ballots, which count every time, give Hon. J. C. Patterson a majority of 22.

IN an elongated open letter Elgin Myers, Q. C., of Orangeville, urges Edward Blake, Q. C., Toronto, to come out for annexation. To which the latter, tired of taking advice from men who know less than he does, might reply on a Canada post card—Not Any.—Toronto Telegram.

EVERY witness with the exception of one, who gave evidence at the coroner's inquest on Thursday last, referred to the trees near the C P R. crossing on west Broadway, which obstruct a view of approaching trains. Probably those trees were the indirect cause of the sad deaths of Mrs. R B. Keyes, who was struck by northbound train last December, and Patrick McGarvey, who was hurled to his death by a southbound express train on Wednesday evening of last week. The town council should throw red tapism aside and have those trees removed at once The job has got to be done once and the sooner the better.

"WORSE and worse and more of it" is the wail that is heard from every quarter of the Grit camp just now remarks the Georgetown Herald. From the Tories on the other comes the remark that was made during the first Pitt's greatest prosperity "one is forced to ask every morning what victory there is for fear of missing one." From the jubilations of the Conservative press it is evident that they are as much surprised at the general swap in the bye elections as their opponents. With the added strength which thus comes to the government, it will enter upon its second session without any fear of catastrophe.

THAT was a remarkabe letter that Corwn Attorney Myers penned to the Montreal Herald, requesting Hon. Edward Blake to place himself at the head of a party favoring the union of Canada and the United States. It is our humble opinion that the former Liberal leader will stick to the great law practice which he has built up, and for the present, which means far into the future, Canadians will remain under the Union Jack. Canada is all right, her people are prosperous, and the result of the by-elections demonstrate that the people are satisfied with the country and the Government that has made it what it is. Annexation may come, but it is several generations away yet.

A PRESUMABLY well informed writer asserts, in connection with Mr Meredith and the Cabinet, that the Ontario leader declined to enter the Abbott Government when requested, some three months ago, on the ground that he could not at present afford it, that his fortune was such that it was his duty to himself and his family to continue in the practice which he has now established in the Ontario law courts. Mr. Abbott, it is understood, was anxious to have him join him, and would have availed himself of his assistance could Mr. Meredith have seen his way to abandon a lucrative practice. The Reform journals asserted that Mr Meredith was kept out of the Cabinet to satisfy Quebec, but the above dosen't look much like it.

HON. MR. HARDY's bill proposes to reduce the number on the grand jury from 24 to 13. Opinions are divided as to the necessity of a grand jury, a number of judges and lawyers leaning to the opinion that a proper official, such as the county attorney, could discharge their duties. The present move will make it more workable and less expensive. The Ontario Government has been asked to abolish the fee system of remunerating Justices of the peace, and to appoint police magistrates in counties as well as cities At present, if a county council passes a resolution affirming the expediency of the appointment of a salaried police magistrate for the county the lieutenant governor may make such an appointment, the salary to be paid by the county, but this is merely optional, and does not prevent justices of the peace from adjudicating upon criminal cases. Many trifling cases that might be settled by a police magistrate consequently are now thrown over to a jury, and upon the counties falls the extra cost of criminal justice. In numerous counties the change would affect a saving.

It is expected that 15,000 members will attend the Roman Catholic Union of the Knights of St. John to be held in Toronto in June next. From Buffalo alone there will probably be 650 uniformed members, and Detroit and Rochester will send almost as many. Doubtless many of the United States commanderies will come in a body.

THE LOCAL PRESS WERE IN IT!

Reeve Endacott's Financial Explanation.

THEY ARE IN GOOD SHAPE!

Ald. Still wants the Fraction of Unnecessary Ringing the Fire-Alarm Discontinued.

There was quite a crowd of ratepayers in the council chamber when the town fathers assembled to transact the business of a great and well known town on Monday night. There are only two ordinary incandescent electric lamps in the chamber and these are hung over the aldermen's table, leaving the press gallery and auditorium almost without bright rays. If no more radiancy is thrown on the subject the impecunious reporters will have to go down into their dip, as the saying goes, and purchase some of the light of other days. The reporters also have another grievance, but if the aldermen would only study the rules a little more closely this fault would soon be overcome. We refer to the great length of time it takes for the transaction of comparatively little business. No doubt the majority of the ratepayers came to hear the discussion on the cow bylaw repeal, but they were disappointed as our report will show.

There were no absentees, Mayor Lindsay presiding and his colleagues, Reeve Endacott, Deputy reeve Green, Ald. Menary, Still, Mann, Riddell, West, Gordon, Brown and Bell were in their usual places. The clerk was absent and Assessor Hughson discharged his duties. The minutes, of course, were read and adopted, and then these were trotted out:—N. Lynn, 50c; W. Fremlin $8 02; H. Flesher, $4 90, ordered to be paid; T. Lynn, $1; Irwin & Hewson, $1 70; Jas. Morrison, $21; D. Dick, $3; referred to committees.

DIDN'T PAY TAXES.

Cadi Pattullo communicated the fact that the Dufferin lacrosse boys had a portion of his ground some years ago that they used for the purpose of practising. The council made them a grant to pay the taxes thereon, but as they did not do so he asked that the grant be cancelled. He also requested that the town remit him an order for $25 for police court expenses. The communication was referred to the Finance committee.

ENDACOTT SCORES THE PRESS.

Everything went smoothly until Reeve Endacott submitted the town treasurer's statement and the Finance committee's report. Mr. Endacott read a portion of an editorial which appeared in the Post three weeks ago and which cast reflections on the Finance committee. The reeve spoke at some length denying the charges contained in the article, which, he said, was inspired by a member of the council. At this point the mayor informed Mr. Endacott that he would have to name the person in order to give him an opportunity of denying it. The reeve then said he would withdraw that statement for the present. Mr. Endacott continued his speech, denying that the town finances were in a bad state, and the report he submitted to night would bear him out in what he said. Such statements going abroad, he said, could not help but do the town harm. The charges made by the paper were not founded on facts and the committee had nothing to hide from the ratepayers. The tax collector had paid over all the money he had in his hands and furnished a list of persons who had not paid, which amounted to $136.14. Mayor Lindsey agreed that the chairman of the Finance committee had made a thorough explanation of the matter, and he hoped the local press would in time see that the town's interests was theirs. We might say THE SUN discovered this when it started, 32 years ago, and no little of the town's importance is due to THE SUN's efforts to make it a prosperous municipality. He denied it was him who inspired the article, as did Messrs. Green and Still Ald. Mann opined that the paper wanted a little praise and it took the statement back the following week. The matter was then allowed to drop.

THE CREEK AGAIN.

Chairman Gordon read the R & B report, which recommended that H. Haley be paid the sum of $40, to cover his loss caused by the creek running through his property. The council went into committee of the whole on the report. All manner of motions were made, some of the members not wanting to give anything. It was finally decided to give Mr. Haley $40, providing he signs a "legal document" not to come on the town again.

Ald. Still reported the town weigh scales were all right

KNOCKED OUT

What was supposed to be the event of the evening was reached when the mayor called out "introduction of bylaws." Ald. West of the East arose, and introduced a by law to repeal the cow by law and moved that it be read a first and second time. Ald. Menary seconded the motion. A vote was taken and the motion was defeated by 6 to 4. Messrs. West, Menary, Gordon and Endacott voted for the motion and Messrs Green, Mann, Riddell, Brown, Bell and Still opposed it It looks as if the bovines will have to submit to the change.

Mr. Endacott introduced a by law to provide for the borrowing of $8000 to meet current expenditure. Later on in the evening it was read the necessary number of times and was passed.

THE BELL.

Ald. West wanted to know what was the agreement with the bell founders regarding the town bell. Mr. Endacott said the agreement was that when the bell proved unsatisfactory they could send it back. The committee, he said, had purchased the bell did everything for the town's interests and he would be pleased to hand over all correspondence in connection with the matter.

Ald. Still inquired if anything had been heard from the township of Mono regarding stone trees along the C. P. railway track on west Broadway. "Nothing as yet," somebody answered.

The Cemetery committee was authorized to purchase a number of posts and lumber to repair the fence.

Ald. Still and Brown thought the fire alarm should not be sounded to call the firemen to their meetings. A motion to this effect was moved but no action will be taken till the next meeting of the council.

The meeting then went home.

FOR PAT M'GARVEY'S SAD DEATH.

The Jury Says the C. P. R. Should Erect Flag Gates —The Verdict.

Coroner Henry summoned a jury to inquire into the cause of the death of Patrick McGarvey, who was struck such a terrible death at the west Broadway C. P. R crossing on Wednesday evening of last week. A complete report of the accident appeared in last Thursday's issue of THE SUN and it is unnecessary to repeat the particulars of the awful mishap.

The jury was composed of Wm. McKim (foreman), Jas. Bennett, D. May, J. Kearns, J. Brown, J. F. Bennett, Wm. Fegarty, John McKim, Jas. Linn, Ed. Shain, T. T. Chambers, J. P. Gahan, W. B. Maxwell and John Longueuy.

The jurymen viewed the body on Wednesday evening and adjourned until Thursday night.

THE EVIDENCE.

On Thursday evening the jurors assembled at the council chamber and the coroner proceeded to take the evidence.

Jas. H. Huston, the first witness, was near the crossing at the time and saw the accident; McGarvey must have been thrown 17 or 18 yards; he was the first person to reach the deceased, he did not hear the whistle or the bell, but they might have been sounded; his own team became frightened and he was afraid he would be caught on the crossing; he considered it a dangerous spot and thought the trees along the track should be cut down.

Mrs. J. F. Bradley was walking near the track at the time; saw horses lying in the ditch, but was too much excited to remember whether the engine bell rang or the whistle blew; did not know there had been a man was killed till she reached home.

Fred Perfect was at the crossing five minutes after the accident occurred, he heard the bell ringing and the whistle blowing; helped carry deceased to the car and he thought the accident could not have been avoided; the trees near the track should be cut down.

Dr. Simpson was driving towards the crossing at the time and arrived a few minutes after the accident occurred; he examined deceased and said he had been instantly killed; he considered it a very dangerous crossing, as a curve and trees on each side obstructed the view of approaching trains; the only way to make it safe was to erect gates or build an overhead bridge.

ENGINEER AND FIREMAN.

James Hyland, the engineer of train No. 24, took the stand. Whistled the regular crossing whistle at the proper time, when 200 yards from crossing he saw a man and a team coming and he blew the whistle again; as they approached he noticed a sleigh on the track and gave several low whistles; the horses turned around on the track and he called to the fireman to look out; did not see horses struck but saw deceased hurled in the air; stopped the train 500 yards from the crossing and consulted whether they would return or go on to the station and report to the authorities; could not say whether the engine struck deceased or not; if trees near the track were removed travellers would have a better view of approaching trains and it would be a great help.

ERECT GATES!

The jury, after some minutes deliberation, brought in the following verdict:

"That the said Patrick McGarvey came to his death by being struck by a passenger train known as No. 24, at the C. P. R. crossing on west Broadway. That we believe it was purely accidental and that no blame can be attached to the railway men in charge of the train. We are strongly of the opinion that the C. P. R. Co. should erect flag gates at the said crossing, and keep a man in charge to prevent further accidents.—We also strongly advise the council of the town of Orangeville to cut down the trees and bushes that now obscure the said crossing."

Report of the Other Cases that were Settled out of Court.

In order that THE SUN's many readers may have a full report of the business transacted at the Dufferin spring assizes we have compiled from the court records the particulars of all the civil and criminal business before the court and we give the same below.

CORNELL V. JEFFERS.

In this action W. E. Cornell of Shelburne claimed to recover from Thomas Jeffers of Amaranth possession of a farm which Jeffers rented from him and damages for the wrongful cutting down by Jeffers of the standing timber, and the wrongful and improper tapping of maple trees on this farm. The lease between the parties provided that Jeffers should cut on standing timber so long as there was any down timber on the premises fit for firewood, and the whole contention upon this part of the case was as to whether or not there was sufficient fallen timber to answer the defendant's purpose, so as to make it unlawful for him to fell any of the standing timber. Upon the question of tapping the trees the plaintiff claimed that the defendant had no right to tap them at all and that if he had such right he had improperly exercised it by doing the work in an unskilful and improper manner so as to lead to the destruction of the trees. The defendant alleged that the plaintiff saw the tapping of the trees and made no objection, that he purchased from the defendant some of the maple syrup made from the sap and that the tapping was carefully and properly done. Thirteen witnesses for the plaintiff and nine for the defendant were examined and after a trial lasting from 1 p. m. on Tuesday until 4 p. m. on Wednesday the jury returned a verdict on every point in favor of the defendant, and the action was dismissed with costs to be paid by the plaintiff. Elgin Myers Q. C., for the plaintiff; W. L. Walsh for defendant.

MULMUR V. CREARY.

The township of Mulmur brought this action for an injunction to restrain the defendants from obstructing a public highway in that township. The plaintiffs claimed to have purchased from one Mullen a strip of land off the south end of his farm twenty-one years ago, which at that time was fenced off from the rest of the farm and had ever since been travelled as a public highway until last summer when the defendant obstructed it by building a fence across it. The defendants claimed that they purchased the farm from Mullen fourteen years ago; that when they purchased it this road was not laid out upon it and that they had no knowledge of the township's purchase from Mullen, and that they had after their purchase laid the road out themselves for their own convenience and that of a neighbor. A friendly settlement of the action was arrived at out of court by which a judgment was entered declaring the road to be a public highway and that with the exception of $20, which the plaintiffs paid towards the defendants costs, each party should pay his own costs. W. L. Walsh for plaintiff; E. Myers, Q. C., for defendants.

MCEWAN V. MCEWAN.

This action, which was between relatives hailing from the neighborhood of Mount Forest, to set aside a release was by consent transferred to Guelph for trial. A. S. Clark (Mt. Forest) for plff.; R. O. Kilgour (Mt. Forest) for defts.

DUDGEON V. DUDGEON.

The plaintiff, David Dudgeon, of Amaranth brought this action against his son, John Dudgeon, ex councillor of Amaranth, to set aside a will made by the plaintiff's brother, John, under which all of his property amounting to about $3,000 was given to the defendant, upon the ground that the execution of the will was brought about by improper influence exercised by the defendant upon the testator when the latter was not mentally competent to make a will. The plaintiff further claimed that if this will was good he was nevertheless entitled to all of the property in question under an agreement made between him and the deceased many years ago, under which it was arranged that the deceased should make his home with and be supported by the plaintiff for the rest of his life and that upon his death his property should go to the plaintiffs. The plaintiff claimed still further that if this agreement should not be held good he should be paid $3000 for supporting the deceased. The action did not come to trial, the plaintiff on the second day of the court withdrawing the same from court, withdrawing all charges of improper conduct on the part of the defendant and leaving it to him to say whether or not any portion of deceased's estate should go to the plaintiff. We understand that it is the defendant's intention to allow the plaintiff $100 a year out of the estate E. Myers, Q. C., for plff.; W. L. Walsh for deft.

CLAYTON V. FARYRIDGE.

This action was brought for the construction of the will of Edmond Furze, late of East Luther, under which the plaintiff, Clayton, claimed to be entitled to the value of a home in Grand Valley, the plaintiff, Cooper, to a legacy of $500 and the plaintiff, Marshall, as administrator of the estate of Edmond Furze's widow to such sum as might be found necessary to pay her debts and funeral expenses. Judgment declaring the plaintiffs entitled under the will to the sums respectively claimed by them and directing the master at Orangeville to report as to the amount due in respect of the debts and funeral expenses of the testator's widow. W. L. Walsh for plf.; McLennan (Toronto) for deft.

SMALL V. LUDLOW.

The plaintiff, who is the Arthur division court bailiff, sued to recover from the defendant $500 in respect of a promissory note made by the defendant and held by the plaintiff. Judgment by consent for plaintiff for $100 and costs with a stay of proceedings until the 1st of April. M. Wilkins (Arthur) for plf.; W. J. L. McKay for deft.

QUEEN V. FLETCHER.

The defendant was charged with having committed an indecent assault upon Lettie McLeod, a child under twelve years of age, in his office at Shelburne on the afternoon of the 26th of January. The girl swore positively to the assault and was corroborated in the main features of the case by the evidence of one Smith, a barber occupying adjoining premises and a colored lad named Myers, his assistant. The evidence of the three witnesses defined more materially in the details of the affair, it materially indeed that but for a statement made by the defendant before the magistrate the chances are that he would have been committed. As it was the jury was unable to agree upon a verdict and the defendant was set at liberty, first giving his own bail to appear for trial again should the crown decide to bring the case up again. E. Myers, Q. C., for the Crown; W. L. Walsh for the deft.

QUEEN V. SHINAMAN.

The crown presented an indictment for murder, but the grand jury brought in "no bill." The crown then presented an indictment for manslaughter, which met with the same fate. The result is that young Shinaman stands acquitted without a trial of the grave charge that has been hanging over his head for months.

THE GRAND JURY'S REPORT.

To the Honorable Mr. Justice Falconbridge:

We desire to congratulate your lordship on your appearance of good health and trust you will be long spared in that service to your country which has proved so beneficial in the past.

The clear exposition of our duties that fell from your lordship, in your charge to us, enabled us to discharge them much more satisfactorily and expeditiously than we otherwise could have.

We think that our county is to be congratulated on the small amount of crime that prevails within its limits.

Only two bills were placed before us for investigation. One for indecent assault in which a true bill has been found and another, which although comprising a serious charge, after the most painstaking consideration of the evidence, was returned no bill.

We duly visited the jail and found it in a highly satisfactory condition, reflecting credit on the officials in charge of the various departments. We found 18 prisoners confined in the jail in all, who seemed to be as comfortable as possible.

Five of these prisoners were females, one of the latter being insane. Among the males were two insane persons; there was also one male idiot. Eleven of the eighteen prisoners were confined for vagrancy, four of the latter being females. There was one male prisoner serving a sentence for larceny, one committed for indecent assault and one for want of sureties to keep the peace.

In reference to the vagrants confined in jail we believe that many grand jurors in the past have drawn attention to the fact. We expressed regrets that so many prisoners, whose only crime was poverty, were confined in a place designed for the punishment of criminals and were treated as such, and they have recommended that some other method be devised for properly caring for these unfortunate poor. We mention with pleasure the fact that our county council has at last assumed to deal with this matter in appointing a committee to confer with the proper authorities in adjoining counties with a view to securing concerted action in establishing a joint poor house or industrial farm and avail ourselves of the liberal offer of the Government of Ontario to aid in such enterprise and can only express the hope that this work will not be permitted to rest until it has been carried to a successful conclusion.

Grand Jury Room, Mar 3rd.

ROBERT MCGEE,
Foreman.

On Monday morning Mr. J. Perdue, Y. S., met with a slight accident which has compelled him to carry a cane ever since. He was operating on a horse, when the animal crowded the Y. S. to the ground, injuring his knee considerably.

PETER.—A new man is on the staff this week and he signs himself "Peter." His first production appears in this issue and it is his intention to keep the ball rolling. Please do not call us on the street and address us thus: "Say, Mr. SUN, who is this Peter anyway?"

HORSE RACING ON SUNDAY.—On Sunday a number of young men were out exercising on horseback and appeared to be enjoying themselves immensely. Once or twice it looked as if Broadway was a race course and the chief-of-police was compelled to call a halt. If Broadway is again turned into a race course the "boys" will have the pleasure of interviewing the cadi, so says the C. of P.

AMPUTATION WAS NECESSARY.—Dr. Henry, assisted by several local doctors, performed the operation of amputating Squire Wilson's right leg on Monday morning last. It was necessary to remove the limb four inches below the knee, and the squire stood the operation remarkably well. The doctors have strong hopes of saving Mr. Wilson's life and we sincerely trust their hopes will be verified. Yesterday he was as well as could be expected.

A CODE OF RULES.—The firemen held a meeting in their room in the fire hall on Thursday evening last. They adopted a code of rules which will put a stop to several evil practices which have been detected in the brigade, such as members lending their boots, not showing up when wanted, etc. A new office was created, that of 2nd lieutenant, and B. McGuire, jr., was chosen to fill it. The brigade is getting into good shape now, and before long the citizens will not be able to recognize it.

ORDINATION AT ALTON.—The members of the Alton Congregational church have prepared an excellent program which will be rendered on Wednesday evening next. Their pastor, Rev. W. H. Madill, will be ordained a minister of the church and the event will be duly honored. Revs. Hager and Wilson, Caledon, Gray, Laurel, Duff, Cross and Madill, Toronto, will be present, and music will be supplied by the choir and the Mechanics' Institute orchestra. A first-class tea will be served from 5 to 7.30.

CHEERED HIM OFF.—Just as young Wm. Shinniman, in whose case the grand jury brought in "no bill" for the murder of J. A. Montgomery at Hockley last fall, was leaving for home on Thursday afternoon a number of his friends congregated at the Paisley house and gave him a cheer as the sleigh drove off. It was thought all along that young Shinniman would not be held responsible for poor Montgomery's unfortunate death and the grand jury, therefore, caused no great surprise. We sincerely hope this is the last act in the Hockley tragedy.

A CHANCE FOR DUGALD.—Last evening Mr. W. Fremlin handed the following, which explains itself, to the sporting editor: "I was making a few calls yesterday in the country. Amongst one was my friend, Mr. W. J. Morrison of Camilla. I was telling him I thought we had one of the best checker players in town now that had struck Orangeville, in the shape of Mr. D. Livingston of the Gordon house. Mr. Morrison at once gave me permission to challenge Mr. Livingston to play him 20 games for $50 00 a side. What does Mr. L. say to this?"

FRIEND AFTER FRIEND DEPARTS.—It is our melancholy duty this week to chronicle the death of Anne, beloved wife of Mr. Geo. Robinson, which took place on Wednesday last. Mrs. Robinson had been for many years subject to asthma. The deceased lady was 58 years of age and resided in East Garafraxa for about 30 years and removed to Orangeville a few years ago. Her husband and family of 7 sons and 3 daughters survive her and have the sympathy of all in their sorrow. The remains were laid at rest in the Town cemetery on Saturday afternoon. Rev. Henderson conducted the services.

ONE WANTED HERE.—A project is on foot which will no doubt be successful, to start a gymnasium in Fergus. It is proposed at present to rent the rooms in Black's block, over the corner in the top flat and fit them up in good style with all the appliances necessary in a modern city for the exercise and growth of muscle and also for the comfort and entertainment of the young men and boys, providing them with a home for the evening and thus keeping them from lounging on the streets or around the hotels. It deserves encouragement and will get it. That's the way Fergus people talk. Why can't Orangeville have one, too?

H. S. L. S.—One of the most successful meetings of the season was held on Thursday afternoon last. The program opened with a quartette by several of the male students. Other numbers were an instrumental solo by Mr. H. Crozier, a reading by Mr. W. Sibley, Miss F. Collier read an essay and an instrumental selection by Mr. McClellan, were well received. But the great attraction of the afternoon was a debate "Resolved that a United Monarchy is superior to a Republic." Aff. Messrs. W. Hawkins and J. McArdle, Neg. Messrs. W. McLean and N. McMillan, decided in favor of the Negative. The program was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

THE MUTUAL LIFE'S REPORT FOR 1891.—The forty ninth Annual Report of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, shows the extent of its operations during the past year, and its financial condition on December 31, 1891. Each successive report has usually been declared to be "the best in the history of the Company." The report for 1891 is no exception, demonstrating as it does the increasing popularity of the Mutual Life and the extension of the benefits conferred upon those fortunate enough to hold its policies. The assets now amount in the aggregate to $159,507,138 68, and the liabilities to $147,476,171.52. The surplus fund for the payment of dividends and to insure the policy holder against every emergency amounts to $12,030,967.16. But for the former system of the Mutual, which allowed its policy holders to reap immediately the benefit of the profits secured in the form of annual dividends, the amount credited to this account would be largely in excess of the surplus of any other company.

TWENTY ONE YEARS A TYPE.—Mr. Wm. McGuire, editor and proprietor of the Tilsonburg Liberal, was visiting his parents in town last week. Billy seems to be growing younger instead of older, and we take this as a sign that he is prospering in the burg. Mr. McGuire will soon have served his twenty first year as a printer. At the age of 12 he entered THE SUN as an apprentice and remained in the office for several years. Fifteen years ago, shortly after leaving this office, he established the Tillsonburg Liberal and has been its guiding star ever since. He put his early business training to good use and took advantage of many pointers that other boys let go by.

FORGED HIS BROTHER'S NAME.—Some time ago Jack Chambers sold a horse for $40 to a fellow who called himself Duncan McLean and gave his residence as Collingwood. He said he owned a farm near that place and gave Chambers a note for the amount of the horse. A citizen, who knew that Duncan McLean did own a farm, witnessed the signing of the note. A couple of hours afterwards the purchaser disposed of the horse to Mr. M. Lennon of the Globe hotel for one dollar and fifty cents (1.50). Chambers heard of the sale and he became suspicious. Later on he found that the man was not Dunk McLean, but a brother of his. The chief-of-police was detailed to hunt up the bogus Dunk, but he had left for parts unknown long before the officer got wind of the affair.

DUST TO DUST.—The funeral of the late Patrick McGarvey of Laurel, who met with such a tragic death at the west Broadway C. P. R. crossing on Wednesday afternoon last, took place from the residence of his sisters, Will iam street, South ward, on Friday morning last. The body was first taken to St. Peter's church, of which deceased was a member, where a requiem mass was said. The church was well filled with people of all denominations and the pastor, Rev. Father McPhillips, delivered a touching funeral sermon. After the services were concluded the remains were conveyed to the Forest Lawn cemetery and placed beside those of his father and mother. Nobody has an unkind word to say about poor Pat McGarvey and scores of his old neighbors paid a last token of respect by following his remains to the tomb.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN SERIOUS.—Mr. John McLean, the C. P. R. construction foreman, met with what might have been a serious accident, yesterday at the dock near the C. P. R. elevator. A Sun representative was within a few feet of him when the accident occurred. He was walking across a piece of timber suspended over two parts of the docks being repaired, when the timber instantly turned over, throwing the unfortunate gentleman violently on the ground, a distance of about twelve feet. In falling he turned slightly and fell heavily on his back. Assistance was immediately given him and we are glad to say there will be no serious results. Mr. McLean is attending to his duties as usual.—Owen Sound Sun. The Mr. McLean mentioned in the above is a resident of this town and lives on Mill street. We are glad the result is no worse than a severe shaking up, but it was a pretty narrow escape.

TO MUSIC LOVERS.—The March number of Brainard's Musical World contains, besides a large amount of interesting reading matter, six new piano pieces; "Danse du Ballet, La Cigale," a new skirt dance by Northrup; "Marie Antoinette" Minuet and "Valse du Chopin," two exquisite new compositions by Richard Ferber; "Never More" a tone-poem by Stephen Emery; and the celebrated "Melody in F" by Anton Rubinstein. Also a charming new Scotch song, "Jennie," by Theo. H. Northrup. The music in this number is alone worth $2 00. Mailed post paid for 15 cents in stamps. The Musicians' Guide (new edition for 1892) contains, besides 212 pages of musical information, biographies of 150 musicians, with 25 portraits, a "Teachers' Guide" and other valuable features, three new songs, "My Kathleen's coming back," "Last Night" and "That is Love," and two piano pieces, "Sounds from the Ball-room" and "Stolen Kisses" —Gavotte. Mailed free for eight two cent stamps, or the World and Guide, containing the above eleven songs and pieces, mailed for twelve two cent stamps. Address, The S. Brainard's Sons Co., Chicago Ill.

CONVALESCENT.

Rev. F. Burt, the Popular Pastor at Cardwell, Recovering his Health.

Our old friend, Rev. F. Burt, Cardwell, who has been laid up with a serious attack of la grippe for several weeks, will soon be able to resume his clerical duties. The rev. gentleman had a very hard battle to fight with this well known malady, but we are pleased to say he has come through the engagement victoriously. Mr. Burt sends the following letter to the editor:

"My thanks are due to SUN THE for the reference so kindly made concerning my health during the severe attack of la grippe from which I have suffered.

You will be glad to have me state that I am now convalescent and hope soon to be in my usual ministrations. In this connection I would thank the Rev. A and Mrs. Henderson, and Rev. A. C. Watt and Mrs. Watt, for their visits to me and for active kindness amongst my parishioners; so also your townsman, Mr. A. Turner.

I gladly mention the many solicitous enquiries of the members of my several congregations and neighbors, all so kindly made of my assistant, Mr. F. L. Eastman. I thank my people for keeping together so well at public worship—this too speaks volumes for Mr. Eastman.

It is due to my Cardwell congregation to acknowledge their personal visits and thoughtful gifts, so that all through my illness, when needful, the appetite of the sick was tempted, thus aiding recuperation.

Please give me space to name the valuable kindness of the Cardwell people in continually supplying a second horse for my Sunday use for the last eight months, so conferring a great favor on the other portions of the parish, when from misadventure my best horse was disabled.

Another bright concurrence during my illness was the visit of the two sidesmen of St Matthew's, bringing their annual donation of a load of farm produce.

Yours gratefully,

FREDERICK BURT."

PETER'S OPINIONS.

Crown Attorney Myers' Letter and Other Things Commented on.

Lent this year was ushered in in a very popular, if rather unorthodox, way. Last Thursday evening Mrs. R. T. Hans gave a reception to a large number of her friends, and according to the statements of some of those that were there, it was indeed, an evening of pleasure. Some, I understand, were averse to entering into the pleasures of the evening, out of respect for the season, and whatever differences of opinion there may be as to the desirability of keeping lent, I must say I, for one, have the highest regard for one who has the courage of his convictions and is willing to sacrifice his own pleasure for the purpose of doing what he considers to be his duty.

On Friday evening there were three parties in this locality. One given by Miss Wallace of the North ward, one by Mrs. Davidson in the East ward, and one at the residence of Mr. Leighton of Mono. Crowded sleighs left the town for Mr Leighton's about 9 o'clock on Friday evening, and sleepy dancers found their way back again about 5 o'clock on Saturday morning.

At the late assizes, while listening to the charge delivered by Judge Falconbridge to the jury in the Fletcher case, I was strongly impressed with the wonderful fairness shown by the judiciary of Ontario. It is said that Mr. Fletcher at one time studied law in the office of the very man before whom he was now being tried on a charge of indecent assault, that the judge as a lawyer had acted as the Toronto agent of the prisoner, that the prisoner at the bar and the judge upon the bench had long been well and favorably known to one another, and yet in his address to the jury the learned judge gave no indication that he had ever seen the prisoner before. There was displayed neither sympathy nor hostility, neither friendship nor enmity, but the case was placed before the jury in that impartial manner that makes the administration of justice in Ontario the pride of the province and the admired of the world.

A letter written by our townsman, Mr. Elgin Myers, Q. C., and published in the Montreal Herald calling on the Hon. Edward Blake to come forward as the leader of a Political Union party in Canada, has been the cause of much comment during the past week. The letter is remarkable in many respects and is well worth a perusal, if only from a literary standpoint. It is remarkable also, when we consider that it is from the pen of one who but a year ago was the standard bearer of the Liberal party in the adjoining county of Cardwell, and it is a direct reply to the letter written by the Hon. Oliver Mowat, with whom Mr. Myers has always been supposed to be in harmony. Mr. Myers seems firmly convinced that it would be to Canada's best interests to break loose from England and become a part of the United States of America, and asks the Hon. Edward Blake to come forward as the leader of a party having that end in view. I notice that the editor of one of your contemporaries, in criticising the letter, says that Mr. Myers is extravagant with the Queen's English in trying to disguise Annexation with the name of Political Union, but after a careful reading of his letter, which, by the way, covers more than five columns of the paper, I am of the opinion that Mr. Myers has no desire whatever to disguise. He has said as plainly as words can say it, that he is in favor of a union with the Republic to the South of us, and call it Annexation or Political Union or what you will, he undoubtedly, has come to the conclusion that our connection with Great Britain is detrimental to the best interests of Canada. I admire the candor of Mr. Myers and hope that the question will have the discussion it deserves.

PETER.

Elsewhere in this issue we publish the particulars of a remarkable cure that fairly cost rivals the celebrated case of John Marshall, of Hamilton, which created such a sensation throughout the country. The particulars of this case are vouched for by the Albany Evening Journal, recognized as the leading newspaper at the New York State capital, and one of the leading papers of the United States. There is, therefore, no room to doubt that the particulars of the case are accurately and modestly set forth, in every respect true, and must therefore prove of the deepest interest to our readers, we therefore commend the article to their careful perusal.

MELVILLE.

RECEIVED.—Mr. Wm. Finn, jr., has received two splendid 100 acre farms of Jos. Maxwell. Billy will run the show in great style when the farmers thaw in the spring.

REMOVED.—Mr. David Watson, who has had the McKim farm, 1st line west, rented for the past two years, has removed to another farm on the 2nd line. We wish him success.

FARM PURCHASED.—Mr. James Jessiman has purchased from Peter Johnston the latter's 100 acre farm. We believe the price paid was somewhere in the neighborhood of $4,000. This is a valuable addition to Mr. J's other farm.

WEDDINGS.—Two weddings took place in this vicinity last week. Mr. Geo. Montgomery and Miss Moffit were "spliced" on Tuesday and Mr. Jos. Watson and Miss G. Hamer were joined in holy wedlock on Wednesday. The latter couple left on the 6.50 train for Toronto, where they will spend their honeymoon.

BRIEFS.—Mr. Scott's new mill is in full blast every day and many hundred logs are converted into lumber.....If the fine weather continues the farmers around here will soon be seeding.....Bob Delaney, the sport, has secured a situation in Toronto and left for there on Saturday.....Miss Eva Arnold of Rosemount, who was the guest of Miss Maggie Hillock, left for home last week.....Mr. Wm. Shaw, who has resided with his uncle in Michigan for the past three years, has returned, looking the very picture of health.....Mr. John Main prize and wife of Woodbridge visited at the residence of Mr. Wm. Finn last week. They left for home on Saturday, accompanied by Miss Jessie Forester of Pine Grove, who was the guest of the Misses Finn.

HORNING'S MILLS.

PURCHASED.—Mr. Geo. Marshall has purchased the house and lot on Mill street, formerly owned by Mr. R. McKinney, for the sum of $400.

OFFICIAL VISIT.—Inspector Gordon of your town paid our school a visit the other day, and reports everything to be in a flourishing condition at the academy.

BRIEF.—Jas. Huxtable visited Toronto last week.....Mr. John Hodson is buying up another car load of horses to ship to Manitoba about the middle of next month.

MANITOBA FEVER.—The Manitoba fever is very prevalent in this community and we think if a few more go and settle where those who have gone, Gladstone, Man., might be appropriately called Horning's Mills, Man.

OBITUARY.—It is our sad duty to chronicle the death of Mr. Richard Slack, township treasurer, who passed away on Monday of last week in the 51st. year of his age. Deceased was treasurer of the township for about twelve years and always discharged his duties in a business-like manner. He has lived in the township for over a quarter of a centinary, and was always found ready to take an active part in any object for the advancement of the people in his midst. He might be appropriately styled the father of the Horning's Mills Milling Co., of which he was president and chief organizer, and it will be hard to find his equal to fill the offices rendered vacant by his death. The bereaved widow and family have the sympathy of all in their sad affliction.

FATALLY BURNED.

The Sad Death of a Little Four year-old Girl at Redickville.

Last Thursday afternoon a little four-year old daughter of Mr. Robt. Kitchen, of Redickville, got hold of an old coal oil lantern and was playing with it at the stove during the temporary absence of an elder sister who had been left in charge. The oil became ignited and set fire to the little one's clothing, and when Mr. John Watson and Mr. Perry, blacksmith, arrived on the scene the child was standing at the door of the house, with all the clothing burned from her body save a small piece near the waist. Of course her whole body was dreadfully burned, but it is said that she made no outcry and gave no indication of great pain at any time. The child was hastily rolled in a blanket, placed in bed and Dr. Lawrence of Honeywood, sent for. She lived until about ten o'clock the same night. A younger child in the house at the time had its hair slightly burned.—Shelburne Economist.

The papers of the large cities are all right if you want them, but it is the local papers that advertise your business, your churches, your numerous societies; in short, it is the local papers that mention the thousand and one items in which you are interested during the year, and which you do not find in papers of the cities. ORDINATION AT ALTON.—The members of the Alton Congregational church have prepared an excellent program which will be rendered on Wednesday evening next. Their pastor, Rev. W. H. Madill, will be ordained a minister of the church and the event will be duly honored. Revs. Hagar and Wilson, Caledon, Gray, Laurel, Duff, Cross and Madill, Toronto, will be present, and music will be supplied by the choir and the Mechanics' Institute orchestra. A first-class tea will be served from 5 to 7.30.

CHEERED HIM OFF.—Just as young Wm. Shinniman, in whose case the grand jury brought in "no bill" for the murder of J. A. Montgomery at Hockley last fall, was leaving for home on Thursday afternoon a number of his friends congregated at the Paisley house and gave him a cheer as the sleigh drove off. It was thought all along that young Shinniman would not be held responsible for poor Montgomery's unfortunate death and the grand jury, therefore, caused no great surprise. We sincerely hope this is the last act in the Hockley tragedy.

A CHANCE FOR DUGALD.—Last evening Mr. W. Fremlin handed the following, which explains itself, to the sporting editor: "I was making a few calls yesterday in the country. Amongst one was my friend, Mr. W. J. Morrison of Camilla. I was telling him I thought we had one of the best checker players in town now that had struck Orangeville, in the shape of Mr. D. Livingston of the Gordon house. Mr. Morrison at once gave me permission to challenge Mr. Livingston to play him 20 games for $50.00 a side. What does Mr. L. say to this?"

FRIEND AFTER FRIEND DEPARTS.—It is our melancholy duty this week to chronicle the death of Anne, beloved wife of Mr. Geo. Robinson, which took place on Wednesday last. Mrs. Robinson had been for many years subject to asthma. The deceased lady was 58 years of age and resided in East Garafraxa for about 30 years and removed to Orangeville a few years ago. Her husband and family of 7 sons and 3 daughters survive her and have the sympathy of all in their sorrow. The remains were laid at rest in the Town cemetery on Saturday afternoon. Rev. Henderson conducted the services.

ONE WANTED HERE.—A project is on foot which will no doubt be successful, to start a gymnasium in Fergus. It is proposed at present to rent the rooms in Black's block, over the corner in the top flat and fit them up in good style with all the appliances necessary in a modern city for the exercise and growth of muscle and also for the comfort and entertainment of the young men and boys, providing them with a home for the evening and thus keeping them from lounging on the streets or around the hotels. It deserves encouragement and will get it. That's the way Fergus people talk. Why can't Orangeville have one, too?

H. S. L. S.—One of the most successful meetings of the season was held on Thursday afternoon last. The program opened with a quartette by several of the male students. Other numbers were an instrumental solo by Mr. H. Crozier, a reading by Mr. W. Sibley, Miss F. Collier read an essay and an instrumental selection by Mr. McClellan, were well received. But the great attraction of the afternoon was a debate "Resolved that a United Monarchy is superior to a Republic." Aff. Messrs. W. Hawkins and J. McArdle, Neg. Messrs. W. McLean and N. McMillan, decided in favor of the Negative. The program was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

THE MUTUAL LIFE'S REPORT FOR 1891.—The forty ninth Annual Report of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, shows the extent of its operations during the past year, and its financial condition on December 31, 1891. Each successive report has usually been declared to be "the best in the history of the Company." The report for 1891 is no exception, demonstrating as it does the increasing popularity of the Mutual Life and the extension of the benefits conferred upon those fortunate enough to hold its policies. The assets now amount in the aggregate to $159,597,138 68, and the liabilities to $147,476,171.52. The surplus fund for the payment of dividends and to insure the policy holder against every emergency amounts to $12,030,967.16. But for the former system of the Mutual, which allowed its policy holders to reap immediately the benefit of the profits secured in the form of annual dividends, the amount credited to this account would be largely in excess of the surplus of any other company.

[illegible] tum street, South ward, on Friday morning last. The body was first taken to St. Peter's church, of which deceased was a member, where a requiem mass was said. The church was well filled with people of all denominations and the pastor, Rev. Father McPhillips, delivered a touching funeral sermon. After the services were concluded the remains were conveyed to the Forest Lawn cemetery and placed beside those of his father and mother. Nobody has an unkind word to say about poor Pat McGarvey and scores of his old neighbors paid a last token of respect by following his remains to the tomb.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN SERIOUS.—Mr. John McLean, the C. P. R. construction foreman, met with what might have been a serious accident yesterday at the dock near the C. P. R. elevator. A Sun representative was within a few feet of him when the accident occurred. He was walking across a piece of timber suspended over two parts of the docks being repaired, when the timber instantly turned over, throwing the unfortunate gentleman violently on the ground, a distance of about twelve feet. In falling he turned slightly and fell heavily on his back. Assistance was immediately given him and we are glad to say there will be no serious results. Mr. McLean is attending to his duties as usual.—Owen Sound Sun. The Mr. McLean mentioned in the above is a resident of this town and lives on Mill street. We are glad the result is no worse than a severe shaking up, but it was a pretty narrow escape.

TO MUSIC LOVERS.—The March number of Brainard's Musical World contains, besides a large amount of interesting reading matter, six new piano pieces; "Danse du Ballet, La Cigale," a new skirt dance by Northrup; "Marie Antoinette" Minuet and "Valse du Chopin," two exquisite new compositions by Richard Ferber; "Never More" a tone-poem by Stephen Emery; and the celebrated "Melody in F" by Anton Rubinstein. Also a charming new Scotch song, "Jennie," by Theo. H. Northrup. The music in this number is alone worth $2.00. Mailed post paid for 15 cents in stamps. The Musicians' Guide (new edition for 1892) contains, besides 212 pages of musical information, biographies of 150 musicians, with 25 portraits, a "Teachers' Guide" and other valuable features, three new songs, "My Kathleen's coming back," "Last Night" and "That is Love," and two piano pieces, "Sounds from the Ball-room" and "Stolen Kisses"—Gavotte. Mailed free for eight two cent stamps, or the World and Guide, containing the above eleven songs and pieces, mailed for twelve two cent stamps. Address, The S. Brainard's Sons Co., Chicago Ill.

CONVALESCENT.

Rev. F. Burt, the Popular Pastor at Cardwell, Recovering his Health.

Our old friend, Rev. F. Burt Card well, who has been laid up with a serious attack of la grippe for several weeks, will soon be able to resume his clerical duties. The rev. gentleman had a very hard battle to fight with this well known malady, but we are pleased to say he has come through the engagement victoriously. Mr. Burt sends the following letter to the editor:

"My thanks are due to SUN THE for the reference so kindly made concerning my health during the severe attack of la grippe from which I have suffered.

You will be glad to have me state that I am now convalescent and hope soon to be in my usual ministrations. In this connection I would thank the Rev. A and Mrs. Henderson, and Rev. A. C. Watt and Mrs. Watt, for their visits to me and for active kindness amongst my parishioners; so also your townsman, Mr. A. Turner.

I gladly mention the many solicitous enquiries of the members of my several congregations and neighbors, all so kindly made of my assistant, Mr. F. L. Eastman. I thank my people for keeping together so well at public worship—this too speaks volumes for Mr. Eastman.

It is due to my Cardwell congregation to acknowledge their personal visits and thoughtful gifts, so that all through my illness, when needful, the appetite of the sick was tempted, thus aiding recuperation.

Please give me space to name the valuable kindness of the Cardwell people in continually supplying a second horse for my Sunday use for the last eight months, so conferring a great favor on the other portions of the parish, when from misadventure my best horse was disabled.

Another bright occurrence during my illness was the visit of the two sidesmen of St Matthew's, bringing their annual donation of a load of farm produce.

Yours gratefully,

FREDERICK BURT."

PETER'S OPINIONS.

Crown Attorney Myers' Letter and Other Things Commented on.

Lent this year was ushered in in a very popular, if rather unorthodox, way. Last Thursday evening Mrs. R. T. Hunt gave a reception to a large number of her friends, and according to the statements of some of those that were there, it was indeed, an evening of pleasure. Some, I understand, were averse to entering into the pleasures of the evening, out of respect for the season, and whatever differences of opinion there may be as to the desirability of keeping lent, I must say I, for one, have the highest regard for one who has the courage of his convictions and is willing to sacrifice his own pleasure for the purpose of doing what he considers to be his duty.

On Friday evening there were three parties in this locality. One given by Miss Wallace of the North ward, one by Mrs. Davidson in the East ward, and one at the residence of Mr. Leighton of Mono. Crowded sleighs left the town for Mr Leighton's about 9 o'clock on Friday evening, and sleepy dancers found their way back again about 5 o'clock on Saturday morning.

At the late assizes, while listening to the charge delivered by Judge Falconbridge to the jury in the Fletcher case, I was strongly impressed with the wonderful fairness shown by the judiciary of Ontario. It is said that Mr. Fletcher at one time studied law in the office of the very man before whom he was now being tried on a charge of indecent assult, that the judge as a lawyer had acted as the Toronto agent of the prisoner, that the prisoner at the bar and the judge upon the bench had long been well and favorably known to one another, and yet in his address to the jury the learned judge gave no indication that he had ever seen the prisoner before. There was displayed neither sympathy nor hostility, neither friendship nor enemity, but the case was placed before the jury in that impartial manner that makes the administration of justice in Ontario the pride of the province and the admired of the world.

A letter written by our townsman, Mr. Elgin Myers, Q. C., and published in the Montreal Herald calling on the Hon. Edward Blake to come forward as the leader of a Political Union party in Canada, has been the cause of much comment during the past week. The letter is remarkable in many respects and is well worth a perusal, if only from a literary standpoint. It is remarkable also, when we consider that it is from the pen of one who but a year ago was the standard bearer of the Liberal party in the adjoining county of Cardwell, and it is a direct reply to the letter written by the Hon. Oliver Mowat, with whom Mr. Myers has always been supposed to be in harmony. Mr. Myers seems firmly convinced that it would be to Canada's best interests to break loose from England and become a part of the United States of America, and asks the Hon. Edward Blake to come forward as the leader of a party having that end in view. I notice that the editor of one of your contemporaries, in criticising the letter, says that Mr. Myers is extravagant with the Queen's English in trying to disguise Annexation with the name of Political Union, but after a careful reading of his letter, which, by the way, covers more than five columns of the paper, I am of the opinion that Mr. Myers has no desire whatever to disguise. He has said as plainly as words can say it, that he is in favor of a union with the Republic to the South of us, and call it Annexation or Political Union or what you will, he undoubtedly has come to the conclusion that our connection with Great Britain is determental to the best interests of Canada. I admire the candor of Mr. Myers and hope that the question will have the discussion it deserves.

PETER.

Elsewhere in this issue we publish the particulars of a remarkable cure that fairly out-rivals the celebrated case of John Marshall, of Hamilton, which created such a sensation throughout the country. The particulars of this case are vouched for by the Albany Evening Journal, recognized as the leading newspaper at the New York State capital, and one of the leading papers of the United States. There is, therefore, no room to doubt that the particulars of the case are accurately and carefully set forth, in every respect true, and must therefore prove of the deepest interest to our readers, we therefore commend the article to their careful perusal.

OBITUARY.—It is our sad duty to chronicle the death of Mr. Richard Sleath, township treasurer, who passed away on Monday of last week in the 51st. year of his age. Deceased was treasurer of the township for about twelve years and always discharged his duties in a business-like manner. He has lived in the township for over a quarter of a centuary, and was always found ready to take an active part in any object for the advancement of the people in his midst. He might be appropriately styled the father of the Horning's Mills Milling Co., of which he was president and chief organizer, and it will be hard to find his equal to fill the offices rendered vacant by his death. The bereaved widow and family have the sympathy of all in their sad affliction.

FATALLY BURNED.

The Sad Death of a Little Four-year-old Girl at Redickville.

Last Thursday afternoon a little four-year old daughter of Mr. Robt. Kitchen, of Redickville, got hold of an old coal oil lantern and was playing with it at the stove during the temporary absence of an older sister who had been left in charge. The oil became ignited and set fire to the little one's clothing, and when Mr. John Watson and Mr. Perry, blacksmith, arrived on the scene the child was standing at the door of the house, with all the clothing burned from her body save a small piece near the waist. Of course her whole body was dreadfully burned, but it is said that she made no outcry and gave no indication of great pain at any time. The child was hastily rolled in a blanket, placed in bed and Dr. Lawrence of Honeywood, sent for. She lived until about ten o'clock the same night. A younger child in the house at the time had its hair slightly burned.—Shelburne Economist.

CEDAR LAKE, Wis., March 4.—Miss Hettie Kenney, a girl of 18, was supposed to have died after a sickness of but one day. The body was laid out in her coffin and placed in a cold room until the day of the funeral. When that day arrived a perceptible change in the countenance of the girl was noticed. To a chiropodist frankness is the most amiable of human characteristics; he delights in hearing men acknowledge the corn.

"That young preacher we heard to-day was a fine pulpit orator, wasn't he?" "Yes, if he could only control his voice. He woke me twice during the sermon."

Doctor—My dear madam, there is nothing the matter with you. You only need rest. "But, doctor, just look at my tongue." "Needs rest, too, madam."

Bride (just after the wedding)—Jim you promised to give me a surprise after we were married. Say, what is it? Groom (a widower)—I've got six children, my pet.

Mr. Bachfellow—Do you notice what a beautiful pearly, satiny complexion Miss Benoit has?

Rival Belle—Yes. I don't see how she does it.

He—I am in love. Will you be my confidante?

She—Certainly. I am at your service.

He—Well, would you advise me to propose to you?

"Doctor," said the dying editor, "I have one last favor to ask of you."

"Name it," said the doctor.

"I want you to attend the editor of the other paper."

The nurse began:—"Sing a song of sixpence, pockets full of rye——"

"But a fellow don't have six pants pockets," objected the small boy.

Plumduff—Has that charming widow any property?

Benson—Yes, considerable.

Plumduff—Real estate or personal?

Benson—Personal. She has six children.

Ella—(at the opera)—There's Charlie Slim and I do believe he's got on Harry Saunders' coat.

Fanny—Nonsense! He wouldn't borrow a dress coat.

Ella (excitedly)—Don't you suppose I know that right sleeve?

"Why, you use a common clay pipe," said little Emily, in surprise to her uncle who had just returned from a long voyage.

"Yes; why not?" asked uncle James.

"I thought sailors always smoked a hornpipe."

He—But are you sure, Madeline, that there are not times when you regret our engagement?

She—Haven't I had proposals from many men—handsome, honorable, cultivated, delightful men—and yet—(tenderly)—didn't I choose you, dear?

Spatts (to Miss Munn)—Mabel, love I dote upon you wildly.

Miss Munn—That's all right, but don't let papa know it.

"Why?"

"He's violently opposed to young men's wild dotes."

A leading eastern fashion journal says: "Woman may soon discard the cloak and go abroad clad in her figure." Maybe she may down east, but she'll find the hose turned on her if she comes snooping around here in that airy costume.

Peddler (opening his pack)—I am introducing into this neighborhood machine, a little to know——

Housewife (slamming the door in his face)—I don't need anything!

Peddler (loud enough for all the neighbors to hear)—A little book on good manners, madam, but you don't seem to need any. Good afternoon!

SHE WORKED AROUND TO IT.

"What a fortunate thing it is," she said, "that I do not have to earn my own living like some girls."

"I should hate to see those little hands soiled by labor," he said.

"I don't mind that so much," she said as she looked dreamily at the fire, "but if I had to earn my own living I should be obliged to get up early in the morning."

"True," he said, shuddering. "Pray do not mention such a thing."

"And if I had to get up early in the morning," she continued, with a glance at the clock, "I wouldn't get half of my natural sleep."

Then he arose and took his hat and went forth into the night, and meandered slowly home under the silent stars.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough It never fails.

A dainty and novel gift lately received from Paris by a young Boston girl, is a box of perfume. Not a box of bottles of perfume, but an exquisite hand-painted, gold bound box of perfumes solidifies, perfume in the form of little sticks or crayons. The good feature of these is that they can be applied without moistening or in any way injuring a delicate fabric. If the possessor can get her own consent to depart from that good rule, "the best perfume is no perfume at all" (and most women confess to a lurking fondness for "a delicate perfume, a very little, you know") she rubs the crayon lightly on her handkerchief, her gloves, or her bouquet of satin violets, and goes sweetly on her way.

Dr. E. T. Miller, of Cross Plains, Wis., has expressed the opinion that, for obstinate cases of syphilis and scrofula, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is unquestionably the most effective remedy known to pharmacy. Wonderful cures have resulted from its use.

Humiliation is a guest that only comes to those who have made ready his resting place and will give him a fair welcome. My father used to say to me, "Child, when you grow to womanhood, whether you be rich or poor, gentle or simple, as the balance of your life may turn for or against you, remember always this one thing—that no one can disgrace you save yours if. Dishonor is like the Aaron's Beard in the hedgerows, it can only poison if it be plucked." They call the bells donna Aaron's Beard in the country, you know; and it is true that the cattle, simple as they are, are never harmed by it; just because, though it is always in their path, they never stop and taste it. I think it may just be so with us, with any kind of evil.

What is Dandruff?

A disease of the scalp that causes of the hair, in fact, death of the hair. It irritates the scalp and causes scales and eczematic eruptions—produces baldness. Bear in mind that Anti-Dandruff removes Dandruff with three applications—stops falling and restores falling hair to its original color. Sold by druggists at 75 cents per bottle.

The best quality of bread can be bought at Allison, Mt. Forest, Durham and hundreds of other places at 10 cts for a 4 lb. loaf. In Orangeville it costs 12 cts.

For Young or Old.

GENTLEMEN:—One of my little girls (aged 4 years) has been troubled with costiveness in its worst form since infancy. We tried different remedies, which gave relief while using, but as soon as discontinued she would be worse than before using. She last her appetite and was growing weak and delicate. A friend of mine who had used B B B with grand results for the same disease advised me to try it, and also the Burdock Pills, which we did. She did not take the contents of one bottle before it relieved her but, and not only relieved her but permanently cured her, for she has not been troubled once since, and she is now eight years old.

Henry Bertram, Sparagis, Ont.

A Correspondent to the Girls.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., Mar. 6.—Miss Hettie Hanson, a prominent society woman on "Dexter Way," was found dead in her bedroom. In her mouth was a small hoodlum hat and her limbs were tied to the bed. There are no traces of foul play. The maiden of the house say the flower-woman retired to her room at 8 o'clock this morning. The Chinaman employed as cook went to call at noon for breakfast. He could not arouse her and broke in the door and discovered the dead body.

When Nature Smiles Again,

When nature smiles again in the mild spring days, unshiled often groans from the effects of bad blood and kindred troubles superadded by the long hard winter. Remove the cause of all the trouble by purifying your blood with nature's remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters, the best blood searcher and tonic ever discovered.

The Safest

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptive diseases peculiar to children nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous lost ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents, for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Wiggs, Arkansas.

NASAL BALM

It is a certain and speedy cure for Cold in the Head and Catarrh in all its stages.

SOOTHING, CLEANSING, HEALING.

Instant Relief, Permanent Cure, Failure Impossible.

Sores in and about the nose, accompanied by discharges of a offensive character, such as bad breath, headache, hawking and snuffing, indicate the presence of Catarrh in the head. Catarrh is a disease easily cured if the remedy be applied to the affected parts, and should not be confounded with other affections of the nose. Some cases of Catarrh are chronic and obstinate, but even these yield to the healing influence of Nasal Balm. Be warned in time, neglected cold in head results in Catarrh, producing offensive breath, impaired hearing, loss of smell, taste, sight, memory, and finally, if not relieved, consumption and death. Nasal Balm is sold by all druggists, or we will send it, post paid, for 50 cents (including dredger) by addressing

MIDHAM, ONT., January 23, '89.

W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is at the time-piece; full and complete as clock of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the mach, and what is the result?—at first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but week passes on the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been remedied with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until what could, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality.

Yours faithfully,
H. P. ARNELL.

MRS. JOS. LAKE, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could eat an

A YEAR AGO.

Only a year ago to-day
The snow was flying white,
Drifting across the old pathway,
And the moon was shining bright,
You and I together, love,
Plodding across the snow,
Only a year ago to-day,
But it seems so long ago.

Only a year ago to-day
A whisper low and sweet
Found its way from your heart that day,
Which mine came glad to greet;
And you and I together, love,
Happy and free from care,
Tramping across the snowdrifts deep
That lay in the pathway there.

Only a year ago to-day,
But sometimes to me it seems
That the golden ray which has passed away
Comes back to my heart in dreams,
When you and I together, love,
Went roaming across the snow
Only a year ago to-day;
It seems like twenty now.

Only a year ago to-day,
Ah me! our hopes were high,
But darkness gathered across our way,
And they withered soon, to die,
And you and I together, love,
With hearts that were weary and sore,
Parted and went our different ways,
To meet perhaps never more.

Only a year ago to-day,
And I am here alone,
And you are out on the world's pathway,
Afar from love and home;
You and I together, love,
Who once were happy and glad,
Are waiting with aching hearts and sore,
For life is so very sad.

Only a year ago to-day
The snow was lying white
Over the fields and the old pathway.
It is lying so to-night,
But you and I together, love,
With steps that were softly slow,
Went roaming across the snow drifts deep,
Only a year ago.

The Story Teller.

THE BAD EDITOR-MAN.

A woman whose years could not have numbered more than twenty five, and a little girl, sat in a library of a small house in Boston one morning late in spring.

A low fire burned in the grate, although the day was not cold. The child, whose deep violet eyes and cloud of curly, golden hair made a sweet picture, sat on a rug before the fire, and leaned against her mother's chair. Her head rested in her mother's lap, and every now and then, the latter stooped to press a kiss upon the golden curls.

The little one was speaking; she was very small and could not have been more than five years old, but she spoke very plainly.

"When you tell all these beautiful stories, Liebchen," she murmured, with a fond upward glance, "what a jolly time we'll have! The story about the knight and the lady was too splendid! At first I was afraid she wouldn't love—" here the shrill whistle of the postman caused the child to spring up hastily from the rug, and run to the door.

It was only a few steps from the front door to the library, but the child was unaccountably long in returning.

"Fredrica," called her mother, with an inflection as near impatience in her voice as she ever used toward her cherished child. "Bring me the mail."

"Yes, mamma, I coming." But it was with slow footsteps that the little maid advanced and reluctantly laid a large heavy envelope in her mother's outstretched hand.

Mrs. LeCharlton's lips quivered as she broke the seal and took out the contents of the envelope. It was a M S of some length, and the printed "declined with thanks" fluttered out and fell in the grate as she opened.

She averted her face from Fredrica's anxious gaze, and the child knew she was crying. She sprang into her lap and put her arms around her neck. "Dearest, sweetest, don't cry. I know it is lovely, even if that editor don't. He is a bad, cruel man, and I will tell him so! You shant ever write any more for him, even if he gets down on his knees and begs for it."

Then the violet eyes overflowed, and Fredrica's sobs came fast and faster, and the mother forgot her own pain in soothing the child.

When she was comforted and calm again it was time for Mrs. LeCharlton to go out; so, calling Mrs. Johnson, the one help of the little household, to see after the child, she kissed her many times and hurried away, promising to return early.

Agnes LeCharlton was a fashion reporter for one of the large daily papers in the city.

She had aspirations and talents far above this work, but that was her main dependence; she could not afford to give up the position that brought the necessaries of life while she devoted herself to more congenial literary work, which might not find a ready sale.

Death had divorced her from the man whom she had wedded when but eighteen years old. He had proven unworthy of her love, and had killed the last remnant of it are he died, three years before our story begins. With what was left of her patrimony, and what her position on the paper brought, she supported herself and Fredrica. The deep, intense love for little daughter born her was the light of her life.

Fredrica was old for her years. She was her mother's companion, except when the latter was at her work, and sympathized with her in everything. The stories and sketches Agnes manage to write "between whiles" were a source of delight to the child; the story returned that morning, one that really betrayed talent, was her favorite. No wonder the little heart swelled with indignation at the man who had rejected it!

As she thought about it after her mother was gone, Fredrica came to a sudden, bold determination. Running to a closet, she took down her hat, [illegible] to the door and opening it softly, lest Mrs. Johnson should hear and stop her, she stepped out and closed the door very quietly. She ran quickly down the steps and disappeared around the nearest corner.

Almost miraculously the child was saved from accident and pursued her way along the busy streets, until a large sign on a building opposite her attracted her attention. "That looks like the place mamma told me," she said to herself, stopping a moment on the edge of the pavement to spell name on the sign. It was laborious work, but when finished she clapped her hands in joy, ran across the street, and entered the building.

* * * * *

Erie Boynton sat writing a profound editorial at his desk in his private office. Suddenly the stillness of the room was broken by a clear, piping little voice saying: "You are a bad man! A very bad man!"

The busy editor dropped his pen full of ink on the half finished page, and looked around in astonishment to find the owner of the accusing voice.

Turning in his chair, he saw a diminutive figure before him; a tiny maid with deep blue eyes, with a halo of golden hair that curled round her head, her dainty white frock soiled by the dust of the city streets, stood gazing up at him.

The small hands were clasped and unclasped nervously as she, felt the keen gaze of the editor upon her. Her composure was disturbed and her voice quivered, as, making an effort to be brave, she began again: "Why do you send back my sweet mamma's pretty stories and make her cry? She shant never, no, never, send you any more, and I've come to tell you you're a naughty bad man—a bad editor-man. There!"

The quivering voice had gained strength, and violet eyes now looked defiantly at the astonished Erie.

"What do you mean little one?" he asked kindly, trying to draw Fredrica towards him.

But she resisted. "You made my mamma very unhappy," she cried, and she don't ever cry!" she said illogically.

"Tell me all about it, dear, I'm sure I'm not the bad, ugly man you're looking for," he begged, smiling down on her mother's brave companion. Drawn irresistibly toward him, Fredrica told her story, and before it was finished she was on Erie's knee, her little hand clasped in his big one, her burdened heart unaccountably lightened. At the end of her recital the big editor gave a growl that frightened Fredrica greatly, and almost made her jump off his knee. But when she looked up he was smiling.

"I'm not the man who sees the stories, Fredrica," he said, "but we will see about mamma's story, and make it all right. It is high time now you were at home, for somebody will be terribly alarmed when she gets back and finds her little Fredrica has mysteriously disappeared. Do you know the way home?"

"Oh, yes," Fredrica replied, "you just go to the next corner and the next one, the same alike, and another, and maybe another, and you're there."

Erie looked grave, but found that she knew their address, although she could not tell very accurately how to reach it. He took the child by the hand and passed out of the building. Fredrica talked gaily on the way, telling about Mrs. Johnson, the twins across the way, and of mamma; of the latter she could not say half enough of praise and admiration. Her heart was full of joy, for she had the big man's promise that he would "see about" her mother's stories, and she was sure that all would be right.

Boynton halted at a florist's and bought a pretty bunch of roses for her, that sent Fredrica into a perfect ecstasy of happiness. Arriving at the house, he rang, although Fredrica desired him to run around to the side door with her.

A lovely young woman, with an anxious look on her face, opened the door before the bell ceased to ring.

"Fredrica," she cried, "how could you frighten mother so?" she stooped down and clasped the child passionately to her breast. Fredrica threw her arms around her mother's neck.

"Liebchen," she whispered audibly, "I've brought the bad editor man with me, all except he isn't bad."

Puzzled and confused, Mrs. LeCharlton arose and looked at Erie Boynton, who stood, hat in hand, his face softened by the scene of mother and child.

"I must thank you," she said sweetly, extending her hand, "for bringing my little Fredrica to me. I had just come home, and had searched the rooms for her in vain, and was terribly alarmed. It is not like her to do anything to distress me."

"Fredrica and I have something to tell you, if you will allow me to come in. It is about a little matter of business your daughter has brought to my notice," said Erie.

Wonderingly, Agnes LeCharlton bade him enter, and he followed her into the little house that was destined to become a cherished retreat to the busy man of the world.

During the talk that followed, Agnes learned that Fredrica's new friend was an editor, and one of the proprietors of the big evening papers to which she had sent the story which was returned. It was not a part of his work to examine such matter, so Mrs. LeCharlton's manuscript had not come under his notice. This he explained as he asked her to show him her work.

She brought out the story and some other sketches with inward perturbation, and gave them to him. Before he had half finished the first, there was the light of approval in his eyes and Agnes felt that he found something of worth in her writing. His words of praise were few but sincere, and the criticisms he made were gratefully received.

When Erie Boynton left them, after an affectionate farewell from little Fredrica, he carried the story with him, promising to use his influence in getting it accepted. Within a week's time the story appeared in the columns of his paper. It was a simple, but skilfully drawn picture of life in the South, where Agnes had spent her girlhood. It pleased the public who were satisfied with the sensational, surface tales that were flooding the periodicals.

Thanks to Boynton's influence, Mrs LeCharlton soon became a regular contributor to the paper. Their business relations—or what Erie Boynton insisted upon calling their business relation—brought them together frequently. He became a familiar visitor at the little home. Ere long Fredrica was shared as fond of him as of her mother, and the remembrances of fruits, flowers and bonbons which he always brought her, did not diminish her affection.

One day when she sat upon his knee in the little drawing room, Erie said to her, "Fredrica, will your 'Liebchen' do what you ask her to do?"

"Yes, indeed, Mr. Erie. Why?" asked the child.

"Then go to her, dear, and ask her to bring you and mamma and live with me, in my great biz, lonely house."

The big editor's voice was full of something which Fredrica could not understand; she looked at him to see what he meant, but his eyes were fixed on her mother's face, which was bent low over some flowers she held in her hand.

Slipping from his knee, Fredrica obediently advanced to her mother's side, and repeated his word. Then Erie followed; kneeling beside her, he took her hand in one of his, and Fredrica's in the other. "Agnes," he pleaded, "let the child be my champion, as she was once yours before me. Come with her and fill my life and my home with the light of your presence. My days shall be devoted to making you happy."

As Agnes gave him the answer he longed for, a wave of happiness swept over her. She felt that the man whose heart was large enough to take in her child and herself would be faithful to the promises he made.

Fredrica considerately left them alone, as she rushed off to tell the grand news to Mrs. Johnson in the kitchen. She wound up her recital with: "And so, Mrs Johnson, mam as and I are all both together, going to live at Mr. Erie's house always. Only you must remember, he wasn't the bad editor man after all; only the very nicest and loveliest man in the whole wide world."

THREE MEN LYNCHED.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 9.—At 3 o'clock this morning a mob was quietly organized and seized the Shelby county jail.

There were twenty-seven prisoners in the jail, charged with assault with intent to kill, for the ambushing and shooting four deputies last Saturday. There were but seventy five in the mob, all being masked. They broke in the door of the jail and secured Calvin McDowell, Tom Moss and Will Staurt, leaders of the colored outlaws.

The mob placed ropes around the necks of their captives, and hurried them to a lonely spot on the outskirts. The negroes were then placed together, and in less than three seconds over twenty-five rifle shots rang out, and they fell, dying almost instantly. The mob then quietly dispersed, and it was not until daylight this morning that the extent of the lynching was realized.

Five thousand negroes assembled to day near the jail where the bodies of the mob's victims lay. A posse of 100 armed men were gathered in the Sheriff's office during the morning and remained there all day subject to a call from the Sheriff. The leading negroes are appealing to their black friends to go peaceably to their homes and there remain quiet. There may be further trouble, as it is reported that another effort will be made to lynch Hugh Shields, alias Skanks.

SHELBURNE.

(From the Free Press and Economist.)

OFF FOR MANITOBA.—To show how bad this town has the Manitoba fever let us relate an incident that occurred the other day. Three boys, 16 or 18 years of age, by name Geo. Lansing, Fred Johnston, and Chas. Thompson (the last named a porter at the Mansion House) started on foot last Monday morning to find their way to the Prairie Province. They proceeded east as far as Rosemont, intending to go on to Barrie or some other point on the Northern R. R., where they hoped to secure free passage on freight trains, but were overtaken by the father of one of the boys, who, after a good deal of persuasion, induced them to return with him to Shelburne. Yes, this town has the fever bad just now.

A WILD CAT.—Last week we published the killing of a bear within a short distance of Shelburne, and this week we have to note the capture of a wildcat. The animal was caught in a trap on Lot No. 23, Con 5, Amaranth, the property of Mr. Wm. Johnston, reeve of Amaranth, and is a fine specimen of his race. He was brought to town with one foot still in the trap and a strap and chain at his neck, riding on the hind bob of the sleigh. Before the strap and chain could be adjusted, however, he had to be stunned by a blow on the head with a club, and while a forked stick held him down he was made secure. E. Berwick & Co purchased him, and at present writing he is the occupant in one of the store windows.

It Leads the Leaders.

The foremost medicine of the day, Burdock Blood Bitters, is a purely vegetable compound possessing perfect regulating powers over all the organs of the system and controlling their secretions. It so purifies the blood that it cures all blood humors and diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore, and this combined with its unrivalled regulating, cleansing and purifying influence on the secretions of the liver, kidneys, bowels and skin, render it unequalled as a cure for all diseases of the skin. From one to two bottles will cure boils, pimples, blotches, nettle-rash, scurf, tetter, and all the simple forms of skin disease. From two to four bottles will cure salt rheum or eczema, chingles, erysipelas, ulcers, abscesses, running sores, and all skin eruptions. It is unfailing that sufferers from skin diseases are nearly always aggravated by intolerable itching, but this quickly subsides on the removal of the disease by B. B. B. Passing on to graver yet prevalent diseases such as scrofulous swellings, humors and scrofula, we have undoubted proof that from three to six bottles used internally and by outward application (diluted if the skin is broken) to the affected parts, will effect a cure. The general situation of B. B. B. is to regulate the liver, kidneys, bowels and blood, to correct acidity and wrong action of the stomach and to open the sixteenways of the system to carry off all clogged and impure excretions, allowing nature then to old recovery and remove without fail bad blood, liver complaint, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick headache, dropsy, rheumatism, and every species of disease arising from disorder of the liver, kidneys, bowels, stomach and blood.

We guarantee every bottle of B. B. B. Should any person be dissatisfied after using the first bottle we will refund the money on application, personally or by letter. We will also be glad to send testimonials and information proving the efficacy of B. B. B. in the above-named diseases on application to T. MILBURN & Co., Toronto, Ont.

MATT CARPENTER FELL BEFORE IT.

The demon of overwork was defied for years by Senator Matt Carpenter, but it killed him at last. His death was a curious one. It was caused by mental and disregard of the law of health, though it did not come in the form of apoplexy. He had an iron constitution, but he refused it by indiscretion. For years he did all his studying at night. His would begin at eleven o'clock with a strong cigar and a bottle of champagne to stimulate his work, and from 1 o'clock to 4 he kept himself awake by sipping brandy. At 4 he would go to bed and sleep until 9, and those five hours of rest seemed to make him as fresh as a daisy. He went on this way for twenty years and then he went to pieces like the old demon's choice. He found he could do nothing. He had terrible headaches, and upon his consulting his physician he was told he must die within a year. Senator Carpenter took this decree as fate and he accepted it like a hero. He told no one but his partner about it. He never complained and he went about his business as usual. He looked into his own case, and studied it as carefully and coolly as though it were that of a stranger. He had a register which told the story of the condition of his blood, and as he looked at this from day to day he would say to his partner, "I see I have only so many more days to live." Three days before his death he said to him. "I feel I cannot live more than three or four days longer, and I do not think I will come to the office any more." He then got into his carriage and was driven home to die. It was then only that he told his family of the decree of the physician, and he died as he expected before the week was out.

MONO COUNCIL.

The Story Teller.

THE BAD EDITOR-MAN.

A woman whose years could not have numbered more than twenty five, and a little girl, sat in a library of a small house in Boston one morning late in spring.

A low fire burned in the grate, although the day was not cold. The child, whose deep violet eyes and cloud of sunny, golden hair made a sweet picture, sat on a rug before the fire, and leaned against her mother's chair. Her head rested in her mother's lap, and every now and then, the latter stooped to press a kiss upon the golden curls.

The little one was speaking; she was very small and could not have been more than five years old, but she spoke very plainly.

"When you sell all these beautiful stories, Lieschen," she murmured, with a fond upward glance, "what a jolly time we'll have! The story about the knight and the lady was too splendid! At first I was afraid she wouldn't love—" here the shrill whistle of the postman caused the child to spring up hastily from the rug, and run to the door.

It was only a few steps from the front door to the library, but the child was unaccountably long in returning.

"Fredrica," called her mother, with an infection as near impatience in her voice as she ever used toward her shy little child. "Bring me the mail."

"Yes, mamma, I coming." But it was with slow footsteps that the little maid advanced and reluctantly laid a large heavy envelope in her mother's outstretched hand.

Mrs. LeCharlton's lips quivered as she broke the seal and took out the contents of the envelope. It was a M S of some length, and the printed "declined with thanks" fluttered out and fell in the grate as she opened.

She averted her face from Fredrica's anxious gaze, and the child knew she was crying. She sprang into her lap and put her arms around her neck. "Dearest, sweetest, don't cry. I know it is lovely, even if that editor don't. He is bad, cruel man, and I will tell him so! You should ever write any more for him, even if he gets down on his knees and begs for it."

Then the violet eyes overflowed, and Fredrica's sobs came fast and faster, and the mother forgot her own pain in soothing the child.

When she was comforted and calm again it was time for Mrs. LeCharlton to go out; so, calling Mrs. Johnson, the one help of the little household, to see after the child, she kissed her many times and hurried away, promising to return early.

Agnes LeCharlton was a fashion reporter for one of the large daily papers in the city.

She had aspirations and talents far above this work, but that was her main dependence; she could not afford to give up the position that brought the occasionals of life while she devoted herself to more commercial literary work, which might not find a ready sale.

Death had divorced her from the man whom she had wedded when but eighteen years old. He had proven as worthy of her love, and had killed the best remnant of it ere he died, three years before our story begins. With what was left of her patrimony, and what her position on the paper brought, she supported herself and Fredrica. The deep, intense love for her little daughter here was the light of her life.

Fredrica was old for her years. She was her mother's companion, except when the latter was at her work, and sympathized with her in everything. The stories and sketches Agnes manufactured for the first, there was the light of approval in his eyes and Agnes felt that he loved something of worth in her writing. His words of praise were few but sincere, and the criticisms he made were gratefully received.

When Erie Boynton left them, after an affectionate farewell from little Fredrica, he carried the story with him, promising to use his influence to getting it accepted. Within a week's time the story appeared in the columns of his paper. It was a simple, but skilfully drawn picture of life in the South, where Agnes had spent her girlhood. It pleased the public who were satiated with the sensational, unreal tales that were flooding the periodicals.

Thanks to Boynton's influence, Mrs. LeCharlton soon became a regular contributor to the paper. Their business relations—or what Erie Boynton insisted upon calling their business relation—brought them together frequently. He

Parted and went one different way,
To meet perhaps never more,
Only a year ago to-day,
And I am here alone,
And you are out on the world's pathway,
Alas from love and home;
You and I together, love,
Who once were happy and glad,
Are waiting with aching hearts and sore,
For life is so very sad.
Only a year ago to-day
The moon was lying white
Over the fields and the old pathway.
It is lying so to-night,
But you and I together, love,
With steps that were softly slow,
Went roaming across the snow drifts deep,
Only a year ago.

quivered, as, making an effort to be brave, she began again: "Why do you send back my sweet mamma's pretty sketch and make her cry? She cannot never, no, never, send you any more, and I've come to tell you you're a naughty bad man—a bad editor-man. There!"

The quivering voice had gained strength, and violet eyes now looked defiantly at the astonished Erie.

"What do you mean little one?" he asked kindly, trying to draw Fredrica towards him.

But she resisted. "You made my mamma very unhappy; she cried, and she don't cry!" she said illogically.

"Tell me all about it, dear, I'm sure I'm not the bad, naughty man you're looking for," he begged, smiling down on her mother's brave companion. Drawn irresistibly toward him, Fredrica told her story, and before it was finished she was on Erie's knee, her little head disarranged in his big one, her burdened heart unconsciously lightened. At the end of her recital the big editor gave a growl that frightened Fredrica greatly, and almost made her jump off his knee. But when she looked up he was smiling.

"I'm not the man who sees the stories, Fredrica," he said, "but we will see about mamma's story, and make it all right. It is high time now you were at home, for somebody will be terribly alarmed when she gets back and finds her little Fredrica has mysteriously disappeared. Do you know the way home?"

"Oh, yes," Fredrica replied, "you just go to the next corner and the next one, the same alike, and another, and maybe another, and you're there."

Erie looked grave, but found that she knew their address, although she could not tell very accurately how to reach it. He took the child by the hand and passed out of the building. Fredrica talked gally on the way, telling about Mrs. Johnson, the twins across the way, and of mamma; of the latter she could not say half enough of praise and admiration. Her heart was full of joy, for she had the big man's promise that he would "see about" her mother's stories, and she was sure that all would be right.

Boynton halted at a florist's and bought a pretty bunch of roses for her, that sent Fredrica into a perfect ecstasy of happiness. Arriving at the house, he rang, although Fredrica desired him to run around to the side door with her.

A lovely young woman, with an anxious look on her face, opened the door before the bell ceased to ring.

"Fredrica," she cried, "how could you frighten mother so?" she stooped down and clasped the child passionately to her breast. Fredrica threw her arms around her mother's neck.

"Lieschen," she whispered audibly, "I've brought the bad editor man with me, all except he isn't bad."

Puzzled and confused, Mrs. LeCharlton arose and looked at Erie Boynton, who stood, hat in hand, his face softened by the scene of mother and child.

"I must thank you," she said sweetly, extending her hand, "for bringing my little Fredrica to me. I had just come home, and had searched the rooms for her in vain, and was terribly alarmed. It is not like her to do anything to distress me."

"Fredrica and I have something to tell you, if you will allow me to come in. It is about a little matter of business your daughter has brought to my notice," said Erie.

Wonderingly, Agnes LeCharlton bade him enter, and he followed her into the little home that was destined to become a cherished retreat to the busy man of the world.

During the talk that followed, Agnes learned that Fredrica's new friend was an editor, and one of the proprietors of the big evening papers to which she had sent the story which was returned. It was not a part of his work to examine such matter, so Mrs. LeCharlton's manuscript had not come under his notice. This he explained as he asked her to show him her work.

She brought out the story and some other sketches with inward perturbation, and gave them to him. Before he had half finished the first, there was the light of approval in his eyes and Agnes felt that he loved something of worth in her writing. His words of praise were few but sincere, and the criticisms he made were gratefully received.

When Erie Boynton left them, after an affectionate farewell from little Fredrica, he carried the story with him, promising to use his influence to getting it accepted. Fredrica considerately left them alone, as she rushed off to tell the grand news to Mrs. Johnson in the kitchen. She wound up her recital with: "And, so, Mrs Johnson, mam as and I are all both together, going to live at Mr. Erie's house always. Only you must remember, he wasn't the bad editor man after all; only the very nicest and loveliest man in the whole wide world."

THREE MEN LYNCHED.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 9.—At 3 o'clock this morning a mob was quietly organized and seized the Shelby county jail.

There were twenty-seven prisoners in the jail, charged with assault with intent to kill, for the unchaining and shooting four deputies last Saturday. There were but seventy five in the mob, all being masked. They broke to the big doors and secured Calvin McDowell, Tom Moss and Will Stewart, leaders of the colored outlaws.

The mob placed ropes around the necks of their captives, and hurried them to a lonely spot on the outskirts. The negroes were then placed together, and in less than three seconds over twenty-five rifle shots rang out, and they fell, dying almost instantly. The mob then quietly dispersed, and it was not until daylight this morning that the extent of the lynching was realized.

Five thousand negroes assembled to day near the jail where the bodies of the mob's victims lay. A posse of 100 armed men were gathered in the Sheriff's office during the morning and remained there all day subject to a call from the Sheriff. The leading negroes are appealing to their black friends to go peaceably to their homes and there remain quiet. There may be further trouble, as it is reported that another effort will be made to lynch Hugh Shields, alias Shanks.

SHELBURNE.

(From the Free Press and Economist.)

OFF FOR MANITOBA.—To show how bad this town has the Manitoba fever let us relate an incident that occurred the other day. Three boys, 16 or 18 years of age, by name Geo. Lansing, Fred Johnston, and Chas. Thompson (the last-named a porter at the Mansion House) started on foot last Monday morning to find their way to the Prairie Province. They proceeded east as far as Rosemont, intending to go on to Barrie or some other point on the North ern R R, where they hoped to secure free passage on freight trains, but were overtaken by the father of one of the boys, who, after a good deal of persuasion, induced them to return with him to Shelburne. Yes, this town has the fever bad just now.

A WILD CAT.—Last week we published the killing of a bear within a short distance of Shelburne, and this week we have to note the capture of a wildcat. The animal was caught in a trap on Lot No. 23, Con. 5, Amaranth, the property of Mr. Wm. Johnston, reeve of Amaranth, and is a fine specimen of his race. He was brought to town with one foot still in the trap and a strap and chain in his neck, rising on the hind hob of the sleigh. Before the strap and chain could be adjusted, how ever, he had to be stunned by a blow on the head with a club, and while a forked stick held him down he was made secure. E. Berwick & Co purchased him, and at present writing he is the occupant in one of the store windows.

It Leads the Leaders.

The foremost medicine of the day, Burdock Blood Bitters, is a purely vegetable compound possessing perfect regulating powers over all the organs of the system and controlling their secretions. It so purifies the blood that it cures all blood rumors and diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore, and this combined with its unrivalled regulating, cleansing and purifying influence on the secretions of the liver, kidneys, bowels and skin, renders it unequalled as a cure for all diseases of the skin. From one to two bottles will cure boils, pimples, blotches, nettle rash, scurf, tetter, and all the simple forms of skin disease. From two to four bottles will cure salt rheum or eczema, shingles, erysipelas, ulcers, abscesses, running sores, and all skin eruptions. It is noticeable that sufferers from skin diseases are nearly always aggravated by intolerable itching, but this quickly subsides on the removal of the disease by B. B. B. Pending on to graver yet prevalent diseases such as scrofulous swellings, humors and scrofula, we have undoubted proof that from three to six bottles used internally and by outward application (diluted if the skin is broken) to the affected parts, will effect a cure. The general mission of B. B. B. is to regulate the liver, kidneys, bowels and blood, to correct acidity and wrong action of the stomach and to open the sluiceways of the system to carry off all clogged and impure secretions, allowing nature to add vigorous health and vigor. Sold by druggists, price $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

We guarantee every bottle of B. B. B. Should any person be dissatisfied after using the first bottle we will refund the money on application, personally or by letter. We will also be glad to send testimonials and information proving the merits of B. B. B. in the above mentioned diseases on application to T. Milburn & Co., Toronto, Ont.

As it is now in the highest degree probable that the Liberals will win the British elections and will propose some form of home rule for Ireland, there is a growing anxiety to know what the form will be; whether the Irish members are to retain seats in the British House of Commons, over what questions the Irish Parliament is to have jurisdiction, and whether within that jurisdiction its legislation is to be subject to revision by the Imperial Parliament. Mr. Balfour says that the last question was answered in the affirmative by Mr. Fowler at Rosendale and by the negative by Mr. Redmond in the House of Commons and by Mr. O'Brien in the Freeman's Journal, which said: "I take it that we are all united in demanding that the Irish Parliament, while it acts within its own province, shall be as free from Imperial meddling as the Parliaments of Australia or Canada. That is to say, practically speaking, as free as air." Mr. Balfour asked: "How will it be possible, in fact or in logic, to deprive Ireland of the power which Canada and Australia—the very examples which Mr. O'Brien and his friends have quoted—possess of imposing what duties they please upon British goods and of making what restrictions they please upon British commerce?" This question nearly ignores Mr. O'Brien's qualifying phrase, "within its own province." The Irish Parliament will not be able to make a protective tariff against the British Parliament chooses to confer that power upon it.

WEST HURON PROTEST.

The Liberals of West Huron have resolved to protest the election of Hon. J. C. Patterson—a thing which was to have been expected in view of the die appointment following upon their defeat. Into this action they seem to have been led by Mr. Cameron, who is something like Hon. David Mills, in that he never recognizes a reverse. He always believes it to have occurred from some accident in the voting. Mr. Cameron has the right, of course, to protest and carry the West Huron election for a second time into the courts, but if he fairly appreciated the trend of popular feeling, he would save himself and his friends from this rash step. It would be simply a waste of money to try and elect Mr. Cameron again in Huron, if perchance the opportunity should be afforded of doing so. From all that we can learn, Mr. Patterson fought a noble and honorable campaign against every form of debauchery which a skilled corruptionist could devise.

EDITORIAL NOTES

THE recount of ballots cast in the late Dominion election was concluded by Judge Davis on Friday evening. Without taking the several recorded ballots into consideration Hon. Mr. Carling's majority is 108.

THE election to fill the South Perth vacancy in the House of Commons, caused by the unseating of James Trow (Liberal) took place on Thursday, and resulted in the return of Mr. William Pridham, the Conservative candidate, who defeated Mr. Trow by a majority of 26.

JOSEPH DUHAULT, liberal candidate nominated to contest Montmorency county to fill the seat in the House of Commons left vacant by J. I. Tarte being unseated, has resigned. Consequently there was no election on Saturday when A. Turcotte, Conservative, was elected by acclamation.

THE Quebec Mercury says: "Tuesday was the 1800th anniversary of the expulsion of the money changers out of the temple at Jerusalem because they had turned it into a den of thieves. It is a rather curious coincidence that the Mercier clique were sat upon on the same day for having placed the province in a somewhat similar position."

PARENTS cannot name their children just what they please in Germany. By Imperial order government functionaries are forbidden henceforth to register any infant in a Christian name bearing the slightest relation to politics. So the child's name must be chosen from the bible, the calendar of saints, or from the roll of princes and national heroes.

THE Ontario Legislature is apparently resolved to pass the bill making it an offence for anyone under 18 to smoke, remarks the Montreal Gazette When some decent young man, earning his living and doing his duty to his fellow citizens, is sentenced to a week in jail for solacing himself with his pipe after his day's work, the legislators will feel like a lot of fools and the act will have a very short life thereafter.

CHARLES THIBAULT, who rendered such valuable assistance to Mr. Arsenault, Mercier's opponent in Bonaventure, says that the Conservatives had a solid majority of at least 200 up till two days before voting, when the arrival of 25 barrels of whisky altered the whole state of the case. Under these circumstances Mercier cannot be looked upon as the representative of Bonaventure. He represents 25 barrels of whisky.

LIBERALISM in Canada, says the Toronto Telegram, has thrown away every principle that seemed to impede its race to power. It has been for reciprocity in Quebec, for secession in Nova Scotia and in Ontario its Americanized policy has worked its ruin. Had the Opposition been brave enough to get right and then let the country come or stay away from its standard it might have been defeated. The bitterness of the Opposition's misery is not in failure but in the fact that it has tried every trick and then failed.

Notification has been issued to all the departments at Ottawa that the privilege heretofore accorded civil servants of passing their private correspondence free of postage has been abolished. There has been much lamentation over the order, but it is hard to understand why a civil servant enjoying a good salary should expect such a privilege. ## A LAWYER'S LETTER!

Mr. Fletcher Addresses a Letter to the Editor of The Sun.

HIS EXPLANATION OF THE CASE!

He Strikes Booth, the 'Coon' and Old Man McLeod.

AND SAYS THEY'RE NOT WORTH TALKING ABOUT.

The Newspapers, too, Have Misrepresented Him and He will hold Them Responsible.

To the Editor of the Orangeville SUN.

Sir,—I feel it due to the many friends who have sympathized with me in the persecution recently enacted against myself in Shelburne to publish a brief statement of the case. The young female in question (I shall not even call her a girl) testified that Tuesday, 26 Jan. last, was the first occasion upon which she had come to my office, while the fact is that for several weeks previous thereto she had entered it almost daily and occasionally more than once during the day. Her first visit was to acquaint me of the fact that her people were agents for a Toronto laundry and asking my patronage, and even on that occasion she exhibited a boldness in her speech and in her conduct by disfiguring papers and envelopes that should be foreign to a girl of her tender years, had she been properly brought up, but in this particular instance that question need not arise. Anyone who has resided in Shelburne for any length of time must have noticed her conduct on the street and elsewhere and more than one storekeeper has been compelled to turn her out of his door for misconduct, and the remark was frequently made: "Who are this girl's parents, or what sort of people must they be?" Up to the time of her first visit to my office above referred to, she was an entire stranger to me and I took no particular notice to her coming on the following and subsequent days for some time. Occasionally she would ask for a pen or a sheet of paper, but the main object she had in view was to obtain ten cents to enable her to attend the skating rink and several times I obliged her thus far. Her visits became so persistent and annoying that I was obliged to put her out of the office several times and told her to keep away, but all to no purpose until the 26th Jany., when she came to the office and by her boisterous and unseemly conduct attracted the attention of Booth and the vagrant Coon, and I now say that her testimony of what then occurred is false, and that the only mention of money on that occasion was her usual request for ten cents to enable her to attend the rink, accompanied by a rather improper proposal on her part. I immediately told her to leave the office and she went out as usual and after lounging around the door for a few minutes went away, and I deny that there was, upon this or any other occasion, any improper proposal made, or a particle of coercion used by myself towards her, and that the assertion that even a little scream was heard is utterly false, and further that the presence of Booth and the Coonin the rear apartment was wholly unknown to me. The following day she attempted to enter the office as usual several times, but I prevented her from doing so and finally drove her away from the door, as testified by Mr. Gallaugher and W. Murray. During that week I had a dispute with Booth in reference to permission given to a Mr. Bateman, who had lost his situation, to sleep in my office at night, and such remarks were made by me to him (Booth) on that occasion concerning his undue interference in my business and likewise concerning the advisability of his own household being kept in proper order, that he went out declaring he would deprive me of the office in some way; but not until Saturday, the 30th Jany., could old McLeod be induced to take action against me, and then after vainly attempting to induce the respectable J. P. of the village to act he succeeded in his designs through the instrumentality of an individual named Graham, who on account of his suasive manners occupies the leading position on the "Binch," and who has a particular antipathy towards me for reasons well known to himself, but since I have brought this man's name before the public nothing further need be said. —Booth, the negro and McLeod are not worth referring to, but an effort should be made for humanity's sake to place the girl in question in a charitable institution where she will have an opportunity to get rid of her vagrant habits and to avoid the almost certainly of some other person being victimized as I have been. The clerical personage of Shelburne who professed such an interest in the girl at the start, but who afterwards took a back seat, should act promptly upon the suggestion of mine. He will [illegible] much better opportunity of distinguishing himself on her behalf [illegible] and he might [illegible] on her behalf. [illegible] insurance agent, [illegible] was deeply interested [illegible] difference should [illegible] untruthful [illegible] report of the case publish[illegible] the Advocate newspaper of Shelburne and copied therefrom into the Brampton Banner, and also to an article slightly less untruthful and malicious that appeared in the Advertiser of your town, all of which newspaper will be held responsible for the publication of the reports referred to. I am deeply indebted to my counsel, Mr. Walsh, for his able and painstaking conduct of my defence. He accomplished the difficult task of breaking up the evidence of no less than four adverse but interested witnesses so admirably that in this way and by an exhaustive appeal to the jury he succeeded in freeing me from the consequences of a most wicked and malicious conspiracy.

I am yours &c

VANATTER.

PRESENTATION. — Vanatter to the front again. Early last week the news of Mr. Adam Hunter and Mr. Duncan Ferguson's intentions of removing with their families, to Manitoba, flashed like wild fire all over the neighborhood, and as these gentlemen and their respective families are good citizens and highly respected it was thought proper that the social tie should not be broken without farewell parties being given them. The right men took proper hold of the desired object and on Wednesday evening Mr. Ferguson's house was well filled with pleasant faces of both sex. An appropriate presentation address was read and Mr. and Mrs. F. became the recipients of handsome presents, the former receiving a valuable watch and chain and the latter a set of chinaware. The total value of the presents was $21. After this amusements were taken part in and a very pleasant time spent until 3 a. m., when the party dispersed, each person blessing his good luck in being present on this occasion.

ANOTHER CITIZEN REMOVING.—The farewell movement, which got its impulse early in the week, reached its climax on Friday evening, when Mr. Adam Hunter's house became in turn packed as it had never been before. The right man had taken hold of this party also and nothing was left undone to make the occasion a grand success. The realization was fully up to the expectation. A very suitable and impressive presentation address was read during which Mr. Hunter was presented with a valuable watch and chain and a purse of $10, and his estimable wife received a purse of $25, the entire value, including the purses, being $51. A very pleasant time was spent until 3 in the morning, almost every person participating in the evening's program. This grand event came to a close with excellent satisfaction to all present. Mr. Wm. McPherson ably occupied the chair both at Mr. Ferguson's and here.

Maher and Calhoun, organizers and manipulators of the central livery are not at home just now. They suddenly became possessed of the idea that they could do better elsewhere, so they decamped, leaving behind them numerous unsatisfied claims, amounting to several hundred dollars, and hence creditors mourn their departure. The town can well spare that class of citizens and the moral atmosphere be the better for their departure, but it is too bad that honest hardworking tradesmen should be victimized by them. Sooner or later the lesson will come home to them, that "Honesty is the best policy."

Clover Hill postoffice has been closed.

James Duncan's boy, aged about one year of Elora, put his right hand into the clothes wringer, which his mother was working, on Tuesday, injuring it so badly that the thumb and index finger had to be amputated.

PETER'S CHAT.

HE WOULD LIKE TO SEE THE ARTISTICAL LADY GUESSER REVIVED.

Last Wednesday afternoon Mrs. W. L. Walsh gave us "her guess," and from enquiries I understand it was really an event of the season. During last, I suppose, "all season" will be the order of the day, and should they all prove as pleasurable as was that given by Mrs. Walsh, I have no doubt that those fortunate enough to attend will consider them an excellent substitute for the parties of the more lively season of the year.

I see that the Ontario Legislature is considering a bill to prohibit the sale of tobacco to persons under 18 years of age, and also to impose a fine on those under that age found publicly using the weed. This is certainly an excellent bill and I was proud to see that our member, Dr. Barr, had the courage to raise his voice in support of it, even if it was introduced by those differing from him in politics. If the tobacco can be kept from all persons until after they have reached the age of 18 years the smokers of the future will be comparatively few.

Next year the Orange Grand Lodge of Ontario west is to meet in Orangeville, and where could a place be found more suitable for such a meeting? Here Orangeism is at home, and perhaps we have as many Orangemen in comparison with the population as an other town in Ontario. Our railway facilities are very good, and we are pleased to see that some of the larger Canadian orders are beginning to consider Orangeville as a meeting place. All that we require now is that much talked of lake and park to make our town during the summer season one of the choicest meeting places of Ontario.

A few days ago I heard it whispered that it is the intention of some of the more enterprising of our citizens to form a debating club in town; and it struck me that this is just what we have been in need of for some time. The intention is, I understand, to call the club the John A. Macdonald club, and, of course, that means that the promoters of the scheme are mainly Conservatives. If both parties could be induced to take a part in the proceedings a mock parliament might be started, which would be at the same time lively, interesting and instructive. We are not lacking in debating talent in our town and I hope that we will soon have in our midst a strong and flourishing debating society.

The Quebec elections are over and the Conservatives are going around arm-in arm singing that beautiful couplet of Shakespeare:

Gilla Gilloop, Gilla Gilloop,
Mercier is in the soup.

Such a wonderful change is a surprise to the Conservatives as well as the Liberals. Both parties felt confident of victory, but when the returns began to come in on the evening of Tuesday, the 8th inst., it was seen that the Conservatives had literally swept the country. Undoubtedly the main reason for the success of the Conservative party was the revelations in connection with the Baie-de Chaleurs railway, but I am inclined to think that such a wholesale victory was partly due to the fickleness of the French people. It is a matter of history that the Frenchman is of all things superficial, and I have no doubt the same trait of character is, to a lesser extent, prominent in the French Canadian. But a few years ago General Boulanger was the idol of the French nation; to-day he is filling a dishonored grave. Mercier styled himself "the child of the people" but on Tuesday the people effectually thrashed their child.

Although the government of Mr. De Boucherville, like Mr. Doherty, "has been elected by a very large majority" it would not be very surprising if the same trait of character developing, is too would be swept from power and an idol erected as yet unknown to Canadians.

PETER.

SHELBURNE.

(From the Free Press and Economist.)

PRESENTATION.—Last Friday evening a number of the brethren of L. O. L. 1321, Shelburne, met in the parlor of the Queen's Hotel and presented their brother Orangeman, Mr. Geo. Black, with an address, a banner clock and silver pitcher, previous to his departure for Hillsburg. Mr. W. McCutheon read the address, and Messrs. J. H. Grey and J. B. Dodds made the presentation. Mr. Black replied in a very appropriate manner, after which a number of songs, speeches, &c, were indulged in. After singing the national anthem the brethren separated.

ASSAULT CASE.—As a result of tale-bearing and anonymous letter-writing Magistrate Dunbar and Jelly held court Tuesday evening. The council chamber was crowded to hear the evidence and the funny remarks of counsel. The complainant was Miss Bertha Haney, of Melancthon, and the defendant Mrs. Robt Smith, of Amaranth. An anonymous letter had been sent to Mrs N Haney, and Bertha accompanied by her sister Allie went last Thursday evening to the Smith residence, from which place they claimed to believe the letter emanated. Bertha threw the letter in at the door, remarking "This is your letter, not ours," or other words which Mrs. Smith claimed provoked her, and she ordered the girls off the place, first throwing the letter back to Bertha, in which act she admitted she might have struck the latter with her hand, although both the Haney girls swore she struck her with her fist. After ordering the girls away Mrs. Smith said she struck Bertha twice with the handle of a broom, the evidence for the prosecution being to the effect that the weapon used was a spade. Be that as it may, however, the Smiths swore that Bertha picked up a spade and pitched it in to the doorway of Mrs. Smith, making a gash in the floor and the handle striking Smith's little boy on the leg, but not injuring him to any extent. The battle then terminated and the visitors departed. Counsel for the defendant, W. L. Walsh, summing up the case admitted an assault, but claimed that it was justifiable, while counsel for the complaint, Major Douglas, contended that the assault was not justifiable. The magistrates reserved their decision until ten o'clock yesterday, when the case was dismissed, Mrs. Smith paying the costs.

For the past year I have been troubled to a very great extent with Dandruff, also a dullness of color in my hair, and through the advice of a friend (who spoke from experience) I tried your Anti-Dandruff, which upon the application of less than a bottle of your liquid I find my head not only thoroughly cleansed but a vast improvement in the color and growth.

James Doosh of Colpoy's, while working in Mr. Sproat's mill, Wiarton, was caught in a revolving wheel and wound around the shaft. He received very severe injuries, having one leg broken in several places and otherwise injured, his clothes being also nearly torn from him.

The Orangemen of Air line will celebrate the 12th of July in royal style this year.

SPECIAL SERVICES.—Rev. Mr. Wilson of Horsing's Mills is conducting special services at that place and a great deal of good is being done. Let the good work go on.

THE MANITOBA FEVER.—Messrs. Dan McCutheon, Alex. Berry and Wm. Henderson and wife purpose going to Manitoba a week from to-day (Tuesday) Mrs. S. McCutheon and her twelve children will also go on the same train. Her husband left for their new home about ten days ago. Success to all of them.

SAP'S RUNNIN'.—Maple sap is running freely and the small boy was wild with excitement when he made the discovery. The sap this year is very insipid and is as thin as water.

VIEWING THE WILDCAT.—Your correspondent has just had the pleasure of seeing what people call a wildcat, which is on exhibition in the store window of E. Benwick's at Shelburne. The animal is not like any other that I have seen, being of a beautiful grey and streaked, with darker streaks of the same color, and is exactly the same as an ordinary grey house cat, but much larger. It is the nicest specimen that I have ever seen.

JIMMIE'S INVENTION.—James M. Carson, late of the C. P. R., has invented a new cider mill. It is quite original in its parts, being composed of two rollers and three cog wheels and is turned by a crank. It grinds the apples to a pulp, after which it is pressed in a press of his own making or invention. It is just the machine which is wanted among the farmers who have large orchards and little sale for their apples, as they can grind all the poorest and smallest of the apples and make them into cider. Carson tells us he has made 40 gallons of cider and 5 of grand vinegar. He can make 10 gallons of an evening. No machines are for sale at present.

(Too late for last week.)

HORSES.—Messrs. W. Henderson and Berry start to day (Tuesday) for Manitoba. They take ten head of horses with them. Success.

AFTER PRAIRIE CHICKENS.—W. Henderson has purchased a fine double-barrelled gun to set in the corner of his field in order that he may take down a few prairie chickens. A great influx to that garden of Eden is anticipated this season.

THEY DIDN'T GO.—Mrs. Samuel McCutcheon and children did not start for Manitoba on Tuesday as was intended. She received a telegram from her husband telling her not to come just yet, as blizzards were a little too common in that far off country. Mrs McCutcheon, however, will leave to join her husband in the course of a week or two.

AT CARMEN.—D. McCutcheon, jr., and family, and J. Noble, accompanied by T. Grimes of Primrose, who left here with a carload of stock for Carmen, Man., have arrived at their destination safely. I am informed that the C. P. R. did an exceedingly kind act in rushing the stock along from freight to passenger train, thus arriving just ahead of the blizzard.

WEDDED TO A DYING BRIDE.

Rev. Wilson R. Stearly Married a Former Opera Singer at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, March 12.—Yesterday afternoon Rev. Wilson R. Stearly, of the Hough Avenue Reformed Church, and Miss Gracie McKinney, daughter of a prominent local jurist, were married at the Eliza Jennings Home for incurables. Something of the story of Miss McKinney was recently made public by reason of the unfortunate divorce case pending between her parents. She is seventeen years old, has a magnificent voice and is a charming and accomplished young woman. As is known, she prepared for the operatic stage and was connected with the Conreid Opera Company for a short time until she became ill, a few months ago, when she was placed in an hospital in this city. She and Rev. Mr. Stearly, who is the youngest pastor in the city, became acquainted, and her recovery expected they became engaged to be married. Miss McKinney's ills increased, however, and all hope of her recovery was abandoned. She was taken to the Eliza Jennings home, and there yesterday, by the desire of the young couple, the marriage ceremony was performed by the bedside by Rev. E. O. Barton, of the Franklin avenue M. E. church. The death of the young lady is expected at any time. Her husband is constantly at her side.

A correspondent asks us the origin of the phrase "He ate it in it." It was first used by an editor who died and went to heaven and looked around for the man who took his paper for three years and then left it in the post office marked "refused."

TASTY ENVELOPES.—THE SUN'S job department turns out the neatest work north of Toronto and the prices catch the crowd. Do you want any fancy printing? If you do just drop in and see samples. We have a special line of envelopes in all colors.

IMPROVING.—Mrs. Robt. Riddell of this town, who slipped and injured her hip while stepping from a train at Mono Road station several days ago, is improving. She was removed to the residence of her niece at Caledon East and is remaining there for the present. Erysipelas has set in, but the physicians do not fear any serious results.

DIPHTHERIA CLOSES A SCHOOL.—Diphtheria prevails in school section No. 9, Erin, to such an extent that it has been necessary to close the school. Mr. James Leslie's little boy, Elwood, five years old, died on Thursday, and his daughter Annie, about seven years old and his youngest child is down with it. Some hopes are entertained of their recovery. The two older children attended school and fears are entertained that the spread of the disease will be considerable. We have not heard that our local board of health have taken any steps to abate the evil.—Hillsburg Banner.

LEAVING FOR MANITOBA.—The C. P. R. station presented a lively scene on Tuesday evening and one which the spectators and participants will long remember. Quite a few people from around this part of the country were leaving to seek new homes in Manitoba and the Northwest. As old friends grasped each other's hand, in some cases for the last time, the crying and farewell messages would touch the listener's heart and make him feel bad. Among those who took their departure were Messrs. Adam Hunter and Duncan Ferguson, with their families, of Vanatter, ex-Councillor Joseph Reid of Mono and many others.

A REGULAR OLD-TIMER.—Last Thursday was the regular monthly cattle fair, and a genuine old-timer it was. Whiskey flowed like water and the hotels reaped a rich harvest. To add to the attractions of the day several gipsy horsetraders were on hand, and, of course, exchanged poor horses for better ones. Horses ranged in price all the way from 75 cents to $300, and the business of "swapping horses" was very brisk all afternoon. At night in several of the hotels a number of young and old men from the country got into disputes and would resort to "the fists," but the hotelmen would deposit them on the sidewalk, where the fight would fizzle out. One hotel proprietor was ejecting an Amaranth individual who possessed an iron arm, when the latter grasped the former's hand with the artificial limb and lacerated it badly before he could be pulled off. Altogether, the day was such as to make the older inhabitants think that the "good old times" had returned once more.

A SCALPER HEAVILY FINED.—A prosecution which is rather rare in this section of the country was commenced in Cadi Pattullo's court on Monday. The charge was made by Joseph J. Brignall, a C. P. R. agent, against Patrick Gleason of Corbetton for the illegal sale of a railway ticket under what is known as the "ticket scalper's act." It appears that Gleason is one of those dissatisfied Grits who left the country last fall for Dakota, but not finding the expectant El Dorado, where a man can eat without work, thought of his first love and returned to the thriving village of Corbetton. He purchased a return ticket which brought him home, and finding another dupe sold the return half of the ticket, which brought the offender within the above act. The cadi, after due deliberation, imposed a fine of $20 and $7 in costs, rather a severe lesson which would-be "scalpers" will bear in mind. We understand the C. P. R. Co. intend to prosecute all such infractions of the law and dead headism in its way.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.—Shelburne can boast of harboring lawless individuals within its gates, and, indeed, what town or village cannot? The Free Press chronicles the desperado's doings after the following fashion:—Judge McCarthy held division court here on Tuesday. There were but few cases on the list and none of them important. After the court was over the following was found on the table:—"This is an exceedingly poor court. There is no money in it for the lawyers, and none for the litigants. The clerk and bailiff will of course get their fees just the same and so will the judge, who is paid by salary and gets his travelling expenses paid. It is to be hoped that the people of Shelburne and vicinity will show more enterprise for the future, otherwise something must be done by outsiders to bring them to a sense of their duty. As witness my hand and seal this 8th day of March, 1892. Hilcock A. Lorum, K. C. B."

Judge Jamieson is delighting the hearts of weary creditors by his decisions on judgment summonses day. His honor is evidently of opinion that a man's first duty is to pay his debts before he drinks whiskey or indulges in luxuries. If a person has contracted the debt, and it is in every way a just and fair debt, the judge intimated pretty clearly this morning that unless it was paid, except under such circumstances as convinced him it would be a hardship to do so, he would commit the man who refused to settle. It may be added that this with the great majority of our citizens is not the least popular of the decisions which have given so much satisfaction to the public during his honor's brief sojurn in Guelph.—Herald.

On Friday last Mr. J. Morley, Con. 13, Luther had quite a time killing bears. Passing an upturned root he discovered signs that some critter had possession of the cavity beneath the root. With a short gun and fine bird shot only he commenced a fusilade in to the den, and the deep growls which emanated therefrom convinced the hunter that he had a bear to contend with. He interspersed his shots with vigorous shouts for help, but before the latter arrived all had become quiet in the cave. An opening was soon dug when the party were surprised to find the carcasses of three bears. They had evidently occupied their snug retreat all winter.—Arthur Enterprise.

AROUND US.

Mr. J. Bellerdine of Mono visited his parents, Mr. Robt. Hall, at Manitoba last week.

A very pleasant party was given by Mr. John Kinney at Mono Centre on Friday evening.

Mr. Jas. Saunder accompanied by little Tory Terry of Mono Centre left last week for Manitoba.

Mr. John McCormack has leased the farm in Caledon to Wm. Ryan who will remove thither in a few weeks.

Mr. John Morrison of Rosemont died a few days ago. He served as a militiaman in the rebellion of '37.

Quite a few delegates from Mono and surrounding townships attended the convention of the Orange Grand Lodge of Ontario West at Owen Sound last week.

Messrs. John Hawkins, James McGuire and Samuel Persons, old Violet Hill boys, have gone to Milton, North Dakota, to seek their fortune, and we hope they may succeed.

Mrs. Gamble of Loretto has instructed her solicitor to enter an action against the Toronto Mail for publishing a yarn about a murder that was supposed to have taken place in her hotel.

Mr. Wallace Lundy, son of Mr. John Lundy, entertained a large number of his friends at his father's residence, Mono Centre, on Friday evening previous to leaving for Manitoba. We wish our young friend success.

The trustees of S. S. No. 9, Caledon, are erecting a new school house on lot 15, 2nd line west. The contract is let to Messrs McConnel Bros., Orangeville, for the brick work, and Mr. Jeffers, Mono Mills, for the wood work.

On Monday night of last week Mr. Wm. Hall, a pioneer of Mono, died at his residence, lot 32, con. 3, W. H. S. at the age of 69. The deceased was comfortably supplied with this world's goods. The interment took place in the Shelburne cemetery on Wednesday.

On Wednesday last week a number of friends assembled at the residence of Mr. D. Ferguson, East Garafraxa, and presented that gentleman with a watch and chain, and his wife was the recipient of a handsome set of china. We wish them good luck and hope they may never regret the step they have taken.

Last Friday evening a large number of friends and neighbors of Mr. Adam Hunter of East Garafraxa, met at his residence for the purpose of presenting him with a valuable watch and chain and purse of $10, while his better half received a purse of $25, on the occasion of their removal to Manitoba. The evening was pleasantly spent, and the most hearty good wishes were expressed for their future welfare in their new home.

The marriage of Miss Rachel McCutcheon and Mr S. Barber of Rosemont was happily celebrated at the residence of the bride's parents, Relaway, on Wednesday the 2nd inst. Miss Charlotte McCutcheon, sister of the bride took the part of maid, while Mr. H. Barber supported the groom. Rev. Mr. Lynch tied the silken knot. The happy couple have the best wishes of all their friends for their future welfare and happiness.

Samuel, eldest son of Mr. James Broadfoot, while chopping in the bush last week, cut his toe nearly off with the axe. Willie, second son, was coming from Fergus with a loaded sleigh along the Belwood road, where the pitch holes were so bad as to cause the tongue to drop from the neckyoke, which frightened the horses; then one of the lines broke and the horses became unmanageable and dashed off for home, a distance of three miles leaving all behind. No serious damage was done, and when the boy walked home he found the team in the yard.

The second son of John Wright, near Belwood, a boy about six years old, while playing with an open jackknife fell in the doorway. The knife entered the forehead, above the right eye, to the depth of three fourths of an inch, direct into the brain. His mother went to his assistance, but was unable to pull out the knife. His father also was unable, and, until further assistance was got from the hired man, it could not be withdrawn. The point of the knife being very dull, and no doubt, the skull bending before parting, was the cause of the difficulty in extracting it. The boy so far is doing well, and does not suffer any great pain.

CALEDON.

A PIONEER CALLED HOME.—On Friday last one of Caledon's oldest pioneers was called home, in the person of Mrs. Mary Clark, relict of the late William Clark. She died at the residence of her youngest daughter, Mrs. Vanywick, lot 31, con. 1, east Caledon. Deceased was born in the county of Monaghan, Ireland, in the year 1805 and at the age of 20 sailed for Canada, and with her husband settled in Caledon, which at that time was a complete wilderness, the Indian and the bear holding almost undisputed sway. Early she was left widow with a large family of small children, but being equal to the occasion she applied herself assiduously to the task of raising them so that they became excellent citizens, and useful members of the church. Her youngest son, Nathaniel, is an honored minister of the Presbyterian church at Denison, Iowa, U. S. Of the relations left to mourn her loss are four sons and five daughters—William and Edward of Orangeville, John of Hamesworth township, Nathaniel of Denison, Ia., Mrs. Aikens of Hamilton, Mrs. McArthur of Hamesworth township, Mrs. Unger of South River, Mrs. J. Bowan of Erin Township and Mrs. Vanywick of Caledon. Her brother, Mr. Samuel Lindsay, resides at Alpena, Mich., and besides there are fifty five grandchildren and fifty-one great grand children. Truly the way of the righteous is blessed! The remains were conveyed to their last resting place in the Charleston cemetery on Monday, and though the day was cold and stormy, yet a very large concourse of relatives and friends attended the funeral. These by their presence attested the high esteem for one, who was long a resident of the township, had been held. Her sterling integrity and christian worth had endeared her to all, and her death, therefore, is deeply regretted.

MONO ROAD.

SURPRISED TO CHRISTMAS.—On Monday evening, 8th inst., a very large number of friends assembled at the residence of Mrs. Alexander Falconer to show the esteem in which she and her family are held amongst her friends, and also to say good bye previous to their departure from amongst us to their new home in Orangeville. After all were comfortably seated Mr. Alexander Cunningham was voted to the chair and in his speech paid a high tribute to the many praiseworthy qualities of Mrs. Falconer, her true christian character, lovable disposition and the many acts of kindness performed by her. The chair was called upon Mr. David Graham of Inglewood to read the address, which was followed by the presentation of a valuable chair by Mrs William Nelson. The following is a copy of the address, which was presented in a handsome frame:

BELOVED FRIEND.—Once more the onward flight of time has brought us to a red letter milestone by the wayside. It is with regret that we learn Mrs. Falconer and family are about to remove from our midst. Here we pause, or seem to pause, for a brief space in order to review our courses, especially the last stage of it. To number our company, take stock of our belongings and regird ourselves for another journey. Let us first of all reverently render thanksgiving to Him who rules Heaven and over rules us here, for the manifold and blessings He has continually bestowed upon us, and next let us welcome one another to this social gathering and to this picturesque residence

"HAPPY HOME"

Mrs. Falconer, it affords us great pleasure on behalf of a few of your many friends to present you with this chair as a very slight token of their appreciation of the admirable and praiseworthy manner in which you have discharged the honorous and responsible duties appertaining to your position. Your high character, integrity and zeal has not only won the esteem and confidence of your nearest relatives, and of those brought into immediate contact with you, but have radiated far and wide, which is not only a credit to you but to all your family. Mrs. Falconer, may you long be spared to spend many happy years in your new home comfortably seated in this chair, and when the journey of life is ended may you hear the glad welcome, "well done good and faithful servant."

Signed on behalf of your many friends,

A. CUNNINGHAM, G. FALCONER,
WM. WARD, J. G. ALEXANDER,
JOHN E. CARRAN.

After the reading of the address and the presentation Mr. E. Falconer replied on behalf of his mother. Speeches were delivered by Messrs. Wm. Ward, D. Graham, J. G. Alexander, R. J. Nelson, R. F. Scott, T. Nixon, James Lindsay and others, all expressed their regret at the departure of Mrs. Falconer and family from amongst us, wishing them prosperity and happiness in their new home, and also referred to the many estimable qualities of Mrs. Falconer and family. The musical part of the entertainment was performed by the Cesar's and the Mono Road choirs. Selections on the violin were also given by Mr. Hugh McIntyre, accompanied by Miss M. Lindsey, then all sat down to a repast provided by the ladies after which a social time was enjoyed, which consisted of games etc. The evenings enjoyment was brought to a close by singing God be with you till we meet again.

Mono Road, March 1st, 1892.

MELVILLE.

A NEW BARN.—Mr. Geo. Corbit is busy preparing for building a new barn, which he intends to erect in the spring. All the timber is on the ground and when the weather is favourable work will commence without delay. Hugh Ellis has charge of the framing business.

A GAY TIME.—On Wednesday evening last Mrs. Porterfield gave a grand ball, and a large number of friends and neighbors had the pleasure of attending it. I need not add that the guests were made entirely at home, and a most enjoyable time was spent. Dancing boomed until the clock struck 4. T. Huston and A. McNeil carried off the cake as musicians and were heartily thanked by the guests.

BRIEFS.—Quite a number of weddings is looked for on the centre road this spring.....Mr. T. Huston of Toronto is paying a visit to his brother, Mr. A. Huston of the centre road..... Sporting Bob Delaney, who was announced in last week's SUN as having gone to Toronto, is home once more, having spent three days in the Queen city. His return has occasioned a great deal of surprise, but he's as dum as an oyster .....Mr. J. Corbit disposed of a fine horse the other day to Manitoba buyers for the sum of $119.

THE MITCHELL FARM.—Mr John Mitchell has rented his great farm, which has a world wide reputation, to Messrs. Edward and John Armstrong, sons of Mr. Michael Armstrong of the 1st line east, for a term of seven years at $500 per year. This farm consists of 200 acres of really first class land. The Armstrong boys now farm 300 acres, besides framing, conducting a threshing machine etc. Great Justices these! Mr. Mitchell has rented Mr. Armstrong's house in Orangeville and will become a citizen of your town.

BLOUNT.

NO PATRONS HERE.—The organizer of the Patrons of Industry was at Salem one night last week, and held a meeting in the school house for the purpose of organizing a lodge here. Owing to the insufficiency of the notice given only a few turned up. Some were for it and others were were against it. Another meeting will be held shortly, when it is expected a lodge will be organized.

HERE AND THERE.—Contractor Bob Dodds of Salem has been up in the vicinity of Shelburne for the past week taking out timber to build a barn, and he is also shipping wood to Orangeville .....Mr. Henry White of the same place has got all of the material on the ground to finish his brick house.....Detective Craig has traded horses once more, for the second time this winter, and now he says he will give up the business.....One of the Salem belles will shortly lead her gushing beau up to hymen's altar. Who?.....Charlie Scott, who has been laid up with la grippe for the past three weeks, has recovered and is able to see the girls as before.....Jim Woodland is rapidly coming to the front as a hog-raiser, and in May he will, it is said, ship a car load of them to Buffalo .....Dick Falconer of Cleveland Ohio fame, has emigrated to Bowling Green, where he is engaged in taking out timber. I expect him "home" soon..... A pleasant party took place at Mr. C. Scott's residence on Monday night of last week and everything passed off pleasantly.

THE SUN turns out the tastiest work in both white and colored envelopes or any other line.

Council on Monday night.

This is the great St. Patrick's day.

Spring is coming but it isn't here just yet.

Police court business is beginning to pick up.

Business was exceedingly lively in town last week.

Several bicycles are advertised for sale in this issue.

Hay is rather scarce just now and is selling at $10 25 per ton.

Boots and Shoes damaged by water, big bargains at MACADAM'S.

The exodus still continues, but it's to Manitoba, not the States.

About twenty hands are now employed at the McMaster foundry.

No arrests were made on fairday, but several summonses have been issued.

The postmaster's department in the P. O. building has been partially refitted.

Parties getting their sale bills printed at this office will receive a free notice in THE SUN.

The mechanics' ball to be held in the town hall on the 25th promises to be a grand success.

Look out for big bargains in Boots and Shoes damaged by water at MACADAM'S.

The members of the Dufferin lacrosse club have not held a meeting this year. It looks blue for lacrosse.

Great Bargains in underware for the next 30 days at Leighton's Cash Grocery, Boot and Shoe store.

We are giving our delinquent subscribers every chance to pay up and would like to see the bustle.

The Orange Grand Lodge of Ontario West, which concluded its annual meeting at Owen Sound last week, will convene in Orangeville next year. THE SUN guarantees that our citizens will entertain the visitors royally.

Duncan McLean of Collingwood, who forged his brother's name to a promissory note in Orangeville a couple of weeks ago and for whom a warrant is out, has not been apprehended yet, and it is likely he never will be.

It is announced that the examinations for entrance to high schools and the public school leaving examinations will be held this year in June instead of July, as formerly. The 28th, 29 and 30th of June are the dates fixed.

The armature of the dynamo which supplies the electricity to light the streets burned out last week, and consequently the street lamps have not been lighted since. Repairs are being made as rapidly as possible, however.

Miss E. Clark of Moose-Jaw, N. W. T., formerly of this town, met with a big loss last week, having her dressmaking and millinery shop destroyed by fire. Several other stores were also burnt, but we hope Miss Clark's loss is not as serious as reported.

will long remember. Quite a ...ple from around this part of the country were leaving to seek new homes in Manitoba and the Northwest. An old friends grasped each other's hand, in some cases for the last time, the crying and farewell messages would touch the listener's heart and make him feel bad. Among those who took their departure were Messrs. Adam Hunter and Duncan Ferguson, with their families, of Vasotter, ex-Councillor Joseph Reid of Mono and many others.

A REGULAR OLD-TIMER.—Last Thursday was the regular monthly cattle fair, and a genuine old-timer it was. Whiskey flowed like water and the hotels reaped a rich harvest. To add to the attractions of the day several gipsy horsetraders were on hand, and, of course, exchanged poor horses for better ones. Horses ranged in price all the way from 75 cents to $300, and the business of "swapping horses" was very brisk all afternoon. At night in several of the hotels a number of young and old men from the country got into disputes and would resort to "the fists," but the hotelmen would deposit them on the side walk, where the fight would fizzle out. One hotel proprietor was ejecting an Amaranth individual who possessed an iron arm, when the latter grasped the former's hand with the artificial limb and lacerated it badly before he could be pulled off. Altogether the day was such as to make the older inhabitants think that the "good old times" had returned once more.

A SCALPER HEAVILY FINED.—A prosecution which is rather rare in this section of the country was commenced in Cadi Pattullo's court on Monday. The charge was made by Joseph J. Brignall, a C. P. R. agent, against Patrick Gleason of Corbetton for the illegal sale of a railway ticket under what is known as the "ticket scalper's act." It appears that Gleason is one of those dissatisfied Grits who left the country last fall for Dakota, but not finding the expectant El Dorado, where a man can eat without work, thought of his first love and returned to the thriving village of Corbetton. He purchased a return ticket which brought him home, and finding another dupe sold the return half of the ticket, which brought the offender within the above act. The cadi, after due deliberation, imposed a fine of $20 and $7 in costs, rather a severe lesson which would be "scalpers" will bear in mind. We understand the C. P. R. Co. intend to prosecute all such infractions of the law and dead headism in its way.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.—Shelburne can boast of harboring lawless individuals within its gates, and, indeed, what town or village cannot? The Free Press chronicles the desperado's doings after the following fashion:—Judge McCarthy held division court here on Tuesday. There were but few cases on the list and none of them important. After the court was over the following was found on the table:—"This is an exceedingly poor court. There is no money in it for the lawyers, and none for the litigants. The clerk and bailiff will of course get their fees just the same and so will the judge, who is paid by salary and gets his travelling expenses paid. It is to be hoped that the people of Shelburne and vicinity will show more enterprise for the future, otherwise something must be done by outsiders to bring them to a sense of their duty. As witness my hand and seal this 8th day of March, 1892. Hilcock A. Lorum, K. C. B."

Judge Jamieson is delighting the hearts of weary creditors by his decisions on judgment summonses day. His honor is evidently of opinion that a man's first duty is to pay his debts before he drinks whiskey or indulges in luxuries. If a person has contracted the debt, and it is in every way a just and fair debt, the judge intimated pretty clearly this morning that unless it was paid, except under such circumstances as convinced him it would be a hardship to do so, he would commit the man who refused to settle. It may be added that this with the great majority of our citizens is not the least popular of the decisions which have given so much satisfaction to the public during his honor's brief sojurn in Guelph.—Herald.

On Friday last Mr. J. Morley, Con. 13, Luther had quite a time killing bears. Passing an upturned root he discovered signs that some critter had possession of the cavity beneath the root. With a short gun and fine bird shot only he commenced a fusilade into the den, and the deep growls which emanated therefrom convinced the hunter that he had a bear to contend with. He interpersed his shots with vigorous shouts for help, but before the latter arrived all had become quiet in the cave. An opening was soon dug when the party were surprised to find the carcasses of three bears. They had evidently occupied their snug retreat all winter.—Arthur Enterprise.

Mono Mills, for the wood work.

On Monday night of last week Mr. Wm. Hall, a pioneer of Mono, died at his residence, lot 32, con. 3, W. H. S. at the age of 69. The deceased was comfortably supplied with this world's goods. The interment took place in the Shelburne cemetery on Wednesday.

On Wednesday last week a number of friends assembled at the residence of Mr. D. Ferguson, East Garafraxa, and presented that gentleman with a watch and chain, and his wife was the recipient of a handsome set of china. We wish them good luck and hope they may never regret the step they have taken.

Last Friday evening a large number of friends and neighbors of Mr. Adam Hunter of East Garafraxa, met at his residence for the purpose of presenting him with a valuable watch and chain and purse of $10, while his better half received a purse of $25, on the occasion of their removal to Manitoba. The evening was pleasantly spent, and the most hearty good wishes were expressed for their future welfare in their new home.

The marriage of Miss Rachel McCutcheon and Mr S. Barber of Rosemont was happily celebrated at the residence of the bride's parents, Relosney, on Wednesday the 2nd inst. Miss Charlotte McCutcheon, sister of the bride took the part of maid, while Mr. H. Barber supported the groom. Rev. Mr. Lynch tied the silken knot. The happy couple have the best wishes of all their friends for their future welfare and happiness.

Samuel, eldest son of Mr. James Broadfoot, while chopping in the bush last week, cut his toe nearly off with the axe. Willie, second son, was coming from Fergus with a loaded sleigh along the Belwood road, where the pitch holes were so bad as to cause the tongue to drop from the neckyoke, which frightened the horses; then one of the lines broke and the horses became unmanageable and dashed off for home, a distance of three miles leaving all behind. No serious damage was done, and when the boy walked home he found the team in the yard.

The second son of John Wright, near Belwood, a boy about six years old, while playing with an open jackknife fell in the doorway. The knife entered the forehead, above the right eye, to the depth of three fourths of an inch, direct into the brain. His mother went to his assistance, but was unable to pull out the knife. His father also was unable and, until further assistance was got from the hired man, it could not be withdrawn. The point of the knife being very dull, and no doubt, the skull bending before parting, was the cause of the difficulty in extracting it. The boy so far is doing well, and does not suffer any great pain.

CALEDON.

A PIONEER CALLED HOME.—On Friday last one of Caledon's oldest pioneers was called home, in the person of Mrs. Mary Clark, relict of the late William Clark. She died at the residence of her youngest daughter, Mrs. Vanywick, lot 31, con. 1, east Caledon. Deceased was born in the county of Monaghan, Ireland, in the year 1805 and at the age of 20 sailed for Canada, and with her husband settled in Caledon, which at that time was a complete wilderness, the Indian and the bear holding almost undisputed sway. Early she was left widow with a large family of small children, but being equal to the occasion she applied herself assiduously to the task of raising them so that they became excellent citizens, and useful members of the church. Her youngest son, Nathaniel, is an honored minister of the Presbyterian church at Denison, Iowa, U. S. Of the relations left to mourn her loss are four sons and five daughters—William and Edward of Orangeville, John of Hamesworth township, Nathaniel of Denison, Ia., Mrs. Aikens of Hamilton, Mrs. McArthur of Hamesworth township, Mrs. Unger of South River, Mrs. J. Rowan of Erin Township and Mrs. Vanywick of Caledon. Her brother, Mr. Samuel Lindsay, resides at Alpena, Mich., and besides there are fifty five grandchildren and fifty-one great grand children. Truly the way of the righteous is blessed! The remains were conveyed to their last resting place in the Charleston cemetery on Monday, and though the day was cold and stormy, yet a very large concourse of relatives and friends attended the funeral. These by their presence attested the high esteem for one, who was long a resident of the township, had been held. Her sterling integrity and christian worth had endeared her to all, and her death, therefore, is deeply regretted.

immediate contact with you, has been ordained far and wide, which is not only a credit to you but to all your family. Mrs. Falconer, may you long be spared to spend many happy years in your new home comfortably seated in this chair, and when the journey of life is ended may you hear the glad welcome, "well done good and faithful servant."

Signed on behalf of your many friends,

A. CHESEBOROUGH, O. FALCONER,
WM. WARD, J. G. ALEXANDER,
JOHN E. CASSAN.

After the reading of the address and the presentation Mr. E. Falconer replied on behalf of his mother. Speeches were delivered by Messrs. Wm. Ward, D. Graham, J. G. Alexander, R. J. Nelson, R. F. Scott, T. Nixon, James Lindsay and others, all expressed their regret at the departure of Mrs. Falconer and family from amongst us, wishing them prosperity and happiness in their new home, and also referred to the many estimable qualities of Mrs. Falconer and family. The musical part of the entertainment was performed by the Clear'a and the Mono Road choirs. Selections on the violin were also given by Mr. Hugh McIntyre, accompanied by Miss M. Lindsay, then all sat down to a repast provided by the ladies after which a social time was enjoyed, which consisted of games etc. The evenings enjoyment was brought to a close by singing God be with you till we meet again.

Mono Road, March 1st, 1892.

MELVILLE.

A NEW BARN.—Mr. Geo. Corbit is busy preparing for building a new barn, which he intends to erect in the spring. All the timber is on the ground and when the weather is favourable work will commence without delay. Hugh Ellis has charge of the framing business.

A GAY TIME.—On Wednesday evening last Mrs. Porterfield gave a grand ball, and a large number of friends and neighbors had the pleasure of attending it. I need not add that the guests were made entirely at home, and a most enjoyable time was spent. Dancing boomed until the clock struck 4. T. Huston and A. McNeil carried off the cake as musicians and were heartily thanked by the guests.

BRIEFS.—Quite a number of wedding is looked for on the centre road this spring.....Mr. T. Huston of Toronto is paying a visit to his brother, Mr. A. Huston of the centre road.....Sporting Bob Delaney, who was announced in last week's SUN as having gone to Toronto, is home once more, having spent three days in the Queen city. His return has occasioned a great deal of surprise, but he's as dum as an oyster .....Mr. J. Corbit disposed of a fine horse the other day to Manitoba buyers for the sum of $119.

THE MITCHELL FARM.—Mr John Mitchell has rented his great farm, which has a world wide reputation, to Messrs. Edward and John Armstrong, sons of Mr. Michael Armstrong of the 1st line east, for a term of seven years at $500 per year. This farm consists of 200 acres of really first class land. The Armstrong boys now farm 300 acres, besides framing, conducting a threshing machine etc. Great ! nail-rs, these! Mr. Mitchell has rented Mr. Armstrong's house in Orangeville and will become a citizen of your town.

BLOUNT.

NO PATRONS HERE.—The organizer of the Patrons of Industry was at Salem one night last week, and held a meeting in the school house for the purpose of organizing a lodge here. Owing to the insufficiency of the notice given only a few turned up. Some were for it and others were were against it. Another meeting will be held shortly, when it is expected a lodge will be organized.

HERE AND THERE.—Contractor Bob Dodds of Salem has been up in the vicinity of Shelburne for the past week taking out timber to build a barn, and he is also shipping wood to Orangeville .....Mr. Henry White of the same place has got all of the material on the ground to finish his brick house.....Detective Craig has traded horses once more, for the second time this winter, and now he says he will give up the business.....One of the Salem belles will shortly lead her gushing beau up to hyman's altar. Who?.....Charlie Scott, who has been laid up with la grippe for the past three weeks, has recovered and is able to see the girls as before.....Jim Woodland is rapidly coming to the front as a hog-raiser, and in May he will, it is said, ship a car load of them to Buffalo .....Dick Falcon of Cleveland Ohio fame, has emigrated to Bowling Green, where he is engaged in taking out timber. I expect him "home" soon..... A pleasant party took place at Mr. C. Scott's residence on Monday night of last week and everything passed off pleasantly.

THE SUN turns out the neatest work in both white and colored envelopes as any other line.

MARCH.

When chilly rain commands to move,
And snow in turn doth chill the blood,
And dikes and ditches swollen flow,
And John, the miller, eyes the flood;
When whistling Jerry drives his team
O'er roads that jam and jolt his cart,
And flasks of fired human steam,
And mud bespatter every part;
Then in the cedars sounds a tryst
And slender note, "Pe-wee, Pe-wee!"

When dovecote bridling on the eaves,
And each doth tell his mate his love,
And sap, forerunner of the leaves,
Is running in the maple grove;
When Marian thinks of Easterbide
And ribbons new for Sunday-best,
And hopes in June she'll be a bride;
When not stale mourners in the west,
Then in the cedars sounds a sweet,
And slender note, "Pe-wee, Pe-wee!"

MARCH.

When chilly rain commences to move,
And snow in turn doth chill the blood,
And dikes and ditches swollen flow,
And John, the miller, eyes the flood;
When whistling Jerry driven his team
O'er roads that jun and jolt his cart,
And flasks of fluid lessen steam,
And mud besprinkles every part;
Then in the cedars sounds a sweet
And slender note, "Pe-weet, Pe-weet,"

When downward bridling on the curve,
And each doth tell his mate his love,
And nip, forerunner of the horse,
Is running in the maple grove;
When Marian thinks of Easterdide
And ribbons new for Sunday-best,
And hopes in June she'll be a bride;
When fed state mountains in the west,
Then in the cedars sounds a sweet,
And slender note, "Pe-weet, Pe-weet."

The miners of North Staffordshire and North Wales have notified the masters that they will strike March 12 to maintain their prices and wages. This action is in accordance with the decision of the recent miners' conference held at Manchester, a decision which affects over 300,000 men. The Cleveland iron masters have notified their men that the works will be closed if the miners strike.

As there was some complaints made to the effect that the question of the amount of fees to be charged for liquor license, was not fairly disposed of in Harriston the matter was again brought up at a council meeting held on Thursday evening last. There were ten members present, who unanimously voted that no action be taken. The fees therefore remain as in the past at $270.

Mr. John A. Campbell, St Sixte, Que., writes:—"My wife was unwell for four years from irregular periods, brought about by a severe cold. She tried many remedies, but without relief. Seeing Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised, I procured two boxes and the result is a permanent cure. They are the best medicine in the world for the diseases you represent them for. Sold by all dealers.

Reports from Manitoba indicate that there will be a great demand for farm laborers in that section this summer. The enormous crop of last year combined with the late harvest and unfavorable weather, has forced a great amount of work to be left over for the spring. The demand is already commencing, and to the farm laborer who thinks of changing his location, Manitoba will offer plenty of situations.

THE SAME HERE.—The fumble of the wagon wheels are again to be heard on our streets. The beautiful has given place to rain, slush, mud and dirty snow, and now instead of having plenty of the beautiful, we occasionally get rain which manages to freeze on the sidewalks to such an extent as to cause many of our sober and serious citizens to sit down unceremoniously without any previous arrangements. We trust however, that we will yet have more snow and that we will have a few weeks sleighing. —Harriston Tribune.

"Ayer's Medicines have been satisfactory to me throughout my practice, especially Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which has been used by many of my patients, one of whom says he knows it saved his life."—F. L. Morris, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The residence of Mr. D. Ballard, about two miles north west of Corbetton, was destroyed by fire one night last week. It is said to have happened in this way:—Mr. Ballard had a sick horse out in the stable, and Mr. James Hammond went to an upper room in the house, to get a blanket to cover the animal, accidentally upsetting a coal oil can. The oil ran through the cracks of the floor and coming in contact with the fire in a stove in a room below ignited, resulting in the destruction of the building. It was a new frame house and was insured. This is said to be the third house burned on this property.

Diseases of the Chest and Lungs.

These diseases are too well known to require any description. How many thousands are carried every year to the silent grave by that dreadful scourge, consumption, which always commences with a slight cough. Keep the blood pure and healthy by taking a few doses of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills each week, and diseases of any kind is impossible. All medicine dealers sell Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Sheriff Broddy has got rid of a source of worry and there is now a certainty that the Spring Assizes of this County will come off without a hitch. Justice Falconbridge's mandate that a British flag must float on the premises while he is holding court will be observed. This week the sheriff closed a contract with John Stewart for the erection of a flagpole and attachments to cost $42. The flag, a $20 one, is on hand ready to be flung to the breeze when his Lordship comes in sight of the Court House. The County Council's appropriation for this display of loyalty was $50, but they will not quibble at the few dollars more it has taken to have the thing done properly. Of course, some of the disgruntled Grits may say that loyalty costs this County plenty without buying flags; but what they say doesn't go for much these days.—Brampton Banner.

SOOTHING, CLEANSING, HEALING.

Instant Relief, Permanent Cure, Failure Impossible.

Some months ago I was very slightly affected with Catarrh, but in a few weeks it developed into a most distressing case. My sense of smell was almost gone, I was constantly hawking and spitting to free my throat of the offensive matter, and was in a generally miserable condition. A friend recommended your Nasal Balm, and I have used it with the happiest results. I feel like a new man. Catarrh has been a disease of years with me, and I feel that I owe your Balm a debt of gratitude for its speedy cure. I shall be pleased to recommend it to all sufferers I meet.

A Fact

WORTH knowing is that blood disease which all other remedies fail to cure, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Fresh confirmation of this statement comes to hand daily. Even such deep-seated and stubborn complaints as Rheumatism, Rheumatism, the Gout, and the like, are thoroughly eradicated by the use of this wonderful alterative.

Mrs. E. Irving Dodge, 128 West 115th street, New York, certifies:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months. I am pleased to say that it effected a complete cure, and that I have since had no return of the disease."

Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H., writes: "One year ago I was taken ill with rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon regaining my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."

"I have taken a great deal of medicine, but nothing has done me as much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I felt its beneficial effects before I had quite finished one bottle, and I can freely testify that it is the best blood-medicine I know of."—L. W. Ward, Sr., Woodland, Texas.

Poetry.

THE GOOD OLD WAY.

There was a nice young fellow
As ever you did see;
Likewise a nice young lady,
And just as good as he;
And so they chanced one day to meet,
When they were feeling gay,
And so, of course, they fell in love,
The good old way.

He feared he should not get her,
So he was feeling blue;
And she was in consumption bad,
For fear he would not too;
But such this trouble did not last,
Then rad glad to say;
They soon were married firm and fast
The good old way.

Then were the goings watching,
The battle-horn perplexed,
And Mrs. Grundy thinking,
For what was coming next.
Some thought they'd have a family,
Some cod thinks answered, nay,
They raised ten children, yes, they did,
The good old way.

They lived and helped each other,
As they agreed before;
And so God's blessing came to them,
In basket and in store;
They knew enough to save a cent,
Safe, for a rainy day;
And peacefully through life they went,
The good old way.

They lived long, useful Christian lives,
In all good honest pride;
Till old Time hanged them with his scythe,
And then, of course they died;
They had great, splendid funerals,
The best words folks could say;
Then side by side we buried them,
The good old way.

This is a song and sermon, too,
And true memorial rhyme;
And folks who live so just and true
Are blessed, all the time;
A splendid, loving, useful life,
Such always finds it pay,
Who walk like those, my kith and kin,
The good old way.

Their graves are green, they may be seen,
Their monuments I see;
And memory loves them back again,
For all their love to me;
Love rules the world with power and might,
Love guides us home to stay,
And Heaven shines bright to kindly light
The good old way.

The Story Teller.

AN ILL WIND.

Denhard's Roman Circus, Greek Hippodrome and Oriental Caravan started out very much handicapped in the spring. There was a legacy of debt hanging over it from the previous disastrous season, and it had been proposed that it would never move from its winter quarters; but it did, contrary to general prediction.

Denhard was a manager of rare ability but circumstances had conspired to make his past season a losing one. The incoming of the gigantic railroad shows had eaten up the territory and drawn the patronage of the crossroads by their system of excursions to the centres.

He had hesitated to take the rail himself when he was able to do so, and had listened to the advice of his principal adviser, an agent of advanced years, who had spent a lifetime in the routing of wagon shows. The veteran of the road could not cave to the newer method of transportation, and had a hearty contempt for all shows moved by rail.

So it was that Denhard adhered to old methods until he had reduced his bank account to an alarming condition, and was barely able to pay off his company and agents and winter his show. The manager was now brought to a position where he must leave the turnpike and travel by train.

The sale of his surplus stock of horses and extra wagons helped him out, and a printer, whom he had patronized for many years, gave him a limited margin of credit. The reader is here put in possession of all the facts of the unfavorable circumstances under which Denhard's tent show started out in the spring of 1876.

Forrest Marsh, the press agent, was one of the advance men who remained in Denhard's employ, not so much from choice as from necessity. No offers for his services had reached him from other managers, and being broke, and, more than that, in debt, he made the best of things as they were, and remained under the old banner.

The writer of puffs and hurler of adjectives had had experience enough to feel shaky about the future of the show, still he did not worry much about his foreseen impending fate; he was too much of a Bohemian for that. If he had a place to sleep and a full stomach he allowed the morrow to take care of itself, and gave no heed to the future.

From the start things did not go well with Denhard. The people of the town felt little interest in the show from the fact of its wintering there, and the less because they knew to the smallest boy in town that the manager was in financial straits. The spring was a late one, and the snow clung to the ground with no warning sun to melt it, and when the thaw did come the breakup of winter was brought on by long and heavy rains.

The receipts at the opening were next to nothing, and Denhard looked glum. It would be tedious to detail the movements of the show for the first month, but it moved, but salaries and remittances to the printer were omitted. The manager did manage to keep his advance corps moving and hold his company together.

When the weather improved other causes served to interfere with prosperity. The people had seen the great big shows and no longer cared to patronize the more modest outfit, then the route agent had overstood the calibre of his show and placed it in several of the larger Western cities which should have been avoided.

Denhard saw these errors of judgment when the bills came in and the local expenses wiped out the receipts. If a show has anything unusual to happen it is the way of misfortune it is a show to happen.

The telegraph wire so numerous that it was a frequent that there must be a Jonah in the organization, but who the ill-starred individual was was never satisfactorily arrived at.

In justice to the advance of the show it must be said that they worked as hard as men ever worked to create success. At times they grew faint-hearted and seemed to realize that the show was doomed, but professional pride would come to the rescue and the older of the agents would recall seasons of the past in which they had under like circumstances pulled through and won the banner of victory in the very teeth of defeat.

Bad news travels fast, and soon as the men were billing towns they heard that the show was not doing well, and it seemed as though it must suffer collapse at no distant day. Still it moved because Denhard was a master at his trade, and all he had in the world was invested in his show.

For nearly three months the manager stood the strain with a bold front, but the anxiety was telling on him, and when he received a visit from the printer, who was importunate for funds, he thought that the end had come. And it was near.

The arrival of the printer caused dismay in the dressing room, and the musicians discussed the situation in more languages than ever heard before since Babel.

Denhard talked long and eloquently to the printer, but he was importunate, and said:

"Denhard, you have my sympathy, but self preservation forces me to protect myself. I cannot ruin myself to save you."

Then came to an end Denhard's Roman Circus, Greek Hippodrome and Oriental Caravan, and all the agents in advance were notified of the disaster by wire.

Philosophic and Bohemian Forrest Marsh was shaken when he received the news, as he was penniless and awkwardly placed. Ten days before he had arrived at the little Mississippi river town, when at the hour of his expected departure he had received a telegram from the general agent in advance instructing him to "wait orders." And he had waited without hearing further from his superior.

It was a dull place to be hanging about in for ten days. The majority of the inhabitants were Germans, and the hotel at which he was stopping was combined with a brewery, the proprietor of which was a gruff old fellow with the voice of a basso profundo, and very much of a tyrant in his way.

The only person about the premises who seemed to have control or influence over the brewer and landlord was his pretty blonde daughter, Lena, and when he got into one of his guttural tantrums she would wind her plump arms about him and lead him captive.

On occasions the ruler of tavern and brewery had an interval of good humor, and at such times he would invite his order stayed guest to join him in a beer, and frequently Lena, too, would take a kliner.

Forrest Marsh was quite skilled at the piano, and when the old man was in good humor he would thump out a German waltz as Lena tripped about the room.

The writer of circus literature whiled away the time as best he could trying to preserve his patience and wondering what was up. Perhaps they were going "to take up the stands" ahead; but what was the use of conjecturing? He was obeying orders and had nothing to but make the best of the situation.

Forrest Marsh had another annoyance besides the delay. On his arrival his finances were in a low state, and when the telegram from his manager arrived informing him of the end he was bankrupt.

No matter how many times he read over the telegram, the fact remained, he was stranded, but he would return to the show.

He examined his railroad pass and made a discovery which quite took his breath away. It did not call for a return trip. It should have done so, for it is often necessary that the principal agents of a circus have the privilege of passing up and down the line.

Marsh's long stay at the hotel had been a surprise to its proprietor, but the show was billed, and other agents and the bill-posters and programmers had come and gone, and the landlord would long before called on the sojourner for an explanation or a settlement.

When the press agent did make an explanation, as he was forced to, the German fairly exploded and filled the air with a mixture of oaths rarely heard even in the tavern or brewery in his wildest moods, winding up by denouncing his guest as a "swindler!"

And when he yelled "swindler" you could have heard it half over the town.

Denhard's misfortune had bequeathed as a memory a good big bill for the entertainment of his advance, and the fury of the loser was visited upon the head of the unfortunate Forrest Marsh.

In his rage the old man might have done the young man violence but for the opportune arrival of Lena, who exercised her wiles, and when he had cooled down a bit said:

"Papa, you are unreasonable. Poor fellow, you can's blame him; it is not his fault."

"Vell, if it isn't him vault," returned the father, "he had not potter not go away from here."

As Lena led him away he turned and thundered:

"You stay right here. Don't you dare to go away!"

Marsh had expected to be turned out of doors and the command furnished some satisfaction even though it was uttered in anger.

The next day the circus man in distress was put in a small room under the roof, and became a heavy man about the premises instead of a guest. There was plenty to do about the hotel and the brewery, and the way that the proprietor kept him hazing was surprising.

But the prisoner had a place to sleep and enough to eat, and there was some consolation in that. When the victim was not too tired he would laugh to himself at his distresses. By the end of a week the old man had experienced a change in his temper, and even declared to address the captive graciously.

As the hour good humor grew, Forrest Marsh emerged in the morn, old Dutchman's good graces, and being ready and willing and able handed, he proved so useful to the latter—not employer—that one day he heard the father remark to the daughter:

"Dot fellow is a pretty smart fellow, Lena, tear; so he ish, py jimmy."

As the retained and detained guest was loved in the eyes of the father, he, too, grew in the esteem of the fair hair ed daughter.

It was not long before it was Forrest here and Forrest there all over the place. Forrest could do everything; everybody wanted him, and never was there a more willing helper than the factotum.

One night over his pipe and beer the stern old fellow unbent as Lena and the young man sang to the latter's accompaniment, and when the little festivities came to an end, the ruler of the establishment broke out—

"Mister Marsh—"

He had never addressed the young man so formally before, and he pricked up his ears to listen to what followed.

"When you vas first come here and vo pay your hotel bill, I vas parrty mad of you; put vhen I got me over dot mad I say myself so myself dot vas not your fault but dot fault of dot circus vot got bust up."

"Oh, that's all right," returned Marsh, depressingly.

"Nein, nein," protested the old man, "it vas all wrong, put I makes dot right mit you; to morrow vs have some talk. Good night."

With that the old man tramped off to bed leaving the young folks to chat until the mother's call of "Lena" warned them that the time was getting into the small hours.

On the morrow a very satisfactory arrangement was made with Forrest Marsh, and he was at once placed in the position of a paid employe, and it was but a short time before the young man was "next to the throne," and the moving and active spirit about the double establishment.

The old man as time passed lived more at his ease and gave less personal attention to his business, and at the end of a year all callers on business were referred to "Mister Marsh," with the added remark: "He's ter poss."

The hotel prospered and the product of the brewery sold to the limit of its capacity. Forrest Marsh hustled and the old man smoked his pipe and quaffed his beer with his cronies.

How were Lena and Forrest getting along? Why, Lena was teaching Forrest German; and what a willing pupil he was; and what young man would not have wrestled with a foreign tongue to have had had such a teacher? But the task was not such an easy one, and when he failed to catch the pronunciation of a jaw-breaker the pretty teacher scolded and stamped her little foot in well pretend anger.

The pupil persisted and aired his new accomplishment in the brewery until by practise he could, to the delight of his employer, converse readily in the language of the Fatherland.

Lena was a great match, but none of the beau or the swells of the little city by the river gained favor in her eyes, which were all for Forrest Marsh.

Lena's parents had not been blind to the growing affection of the young folks, neither did they object to it; they just remained passive and let events take their natural course, and events were tending rapidly toward matrimony.

So it was no surprise when the young man asked for the hand of Lena. The answer almost caused the lover to faint.

"How could my torter marry a fellow vot has got nodding?"

The next moment the old man broke forth in a roar of laughter at Marsh's glum visage, and then he said reassuringly.

"My tear poy, I fix dot. I vas too old and too lazy ter run ter poss. You vos ter poss. I can't get along mitout any longer. I trust you mit my pizness and my money. You vos a nice fellow. You vos smart. You vos honest. Vot more would I want? Put my Lena must never marry a poor man. I fix dot. I give you Lena—all of Lena, and half the brewery, and half the hotel, and the biggest wedding vot vas ever of this town since it vas born."

And the wedding was an event, and will ever be remembered in that locality and vicinity. Forrest Marsh by his affability had made himself exceedingly popular, and everybody declared he was a "lucky fellow," but the girls in their view of the alliance said, "lucky Lena."

In after years, in his happiness and prosperity, Forrest Marsh looked back upon the circumstances which brought him to the spot. An event which impoverished Denhard and blasted his life had enriched him and crowned him with happiness, and at such times as he mused he was wont to repeat to himself the familiar adage: "It is an ill wind which brings no one good."

SUNBEAMS.

A man's deeds live after him. So do his mortgages.

The money that is the root of all evil is the money that is in another's pocket.

NEVER FORGET.

That the enemy of sin is man.

That the fairest flowers fade the soonest.

That knowledge leaves no room for chance.

That pride is never so offensive as when in chains.

That a scaldskin cosque does not always keep the heart warm.

That when men are lonely they stoop to any companionship.

The darkest cloud often contains the most fruitful showers.

That an open enemy is to be respected a secret one to be suspected.

That the pure worship of a pure heart is an inspiration and a song.

That there may be loyalty without love, but never love without loyalty.

That a golden key will often find the way to unlock many a secret drawer.

That death is a sleepless messenger and life a wakeful handmaid of creation.

That "doing as well as you know how" is all right if you always know how to do well.

That the finest-feeling velvety paws of the kitten often cover the sharpest claws.

That it is often more difficult to obliterate traces of spilled ink than drops of spilled blood.

That those who are honest and earnest in their honesty have no need to proclaim the fact.

MONO CENTRE.

(Too Late for Last Week.)

HERE WE ARE AGAIN.—After a long silence, here we are again, Mr. Editor, with a few remarks to remind the readers of THE SUN that there is such a place as Mono Centre. We have been seriously ill with the grip and even yet we feel a shudder creep over us we reflect on his fraternal grasp. This no doubt accounts for our silence.

SICK.—We are sorry to say that Mrs. Peter Turnbull is not improving. She is being attended by a nurse from the Toronto general hospital. Her condition is rather critical.

ACCIDENT.—On monday evening as Mr. John Cooke was returning home with a load of posts the sleigh upset and Mr. Cooke had the misfortune to break his leg a short distance below the knee. The injured limb was set by Dr. Island of Rosemont and Mr. Cooke, though suffering considerably, is improving as rapidly as can be expected.

HYMENIAL.—The Centre has a new household. Our genial friend, Mr. Samuel Ewin, has at last joined the noble host and is basking in the sunshine of wedded bliss. Last week he led to the altar Miss Mary, second daughter of Mr. Wm. Patterson. The Rev. Geo. Ballantyne officiated in his usual pleasant manner, the ceremony being witnessed by a number of invited guests. After a sumptuous wedding dinner had been done ample justice to the company amused themselves in various ways, especially in tripping the light fantastic. Miss Ella Patterson assisted the bride while Mr. Andrew Turnbull looked after the interests of the groom. Your correspondents compliments are respectfully submitted.

PARTIES.—We are having a regular bonanza lately in the shape of parties. The ice was broken when a number of our young people assembled at the residence of Mr. Hall, Cardwell, where they were most hospitably entertained and spent a very enjoyable evening. Next came one of the chief events of the season this was given by Messrs. Kidney Bros. About 7 o'clock on Thursday evening their commodious residence was infested by a varied throng of pleasure-seekers who were received by their hostes in their usual courteous and hospitable manner. Robert donned his best smile and many and long were the outbursts of hilarity from their corner as surrounded by such old heads as Wm. Kidney, Wm. Ewin, Beatty Moore and Willie Glover was spun many a yarn of earlier days. Dancing was indulged in until a late hour, when the company dispersed, all feeling that an evening's enjoyment such as had just been spent could not be too frequent an occurrence. Next came a farewell party at the residence of Mr. John Lundy tendered to Mr. Jas. Saunders and Mr. W. W. Lundy, who have been prospering in the land of prairies and had returned to visit their old home. It is needless to say a pleasant time was spent and after saying adieu to our old friends we wended our way homeward. These were followed on Monday by another in which the house of Mr. Wm. Jackson was attacked and fell a prey to the besiegers. It is hardly necessary to say that the young people of Mono Centre are having a rather enjoyable time.

HARDY'S BILL.

Hon. Mr. Hardy has introduced a bill in the local legislature providing for reducing the members of county councils. The bill provides that counties not containing more than 40,000 inhabitants shall have but seven councillors; more than 40 000 and less than 60,000, 9 councillors and for 60,000 or greater 11 members. Cities and towns separated from counties are not to be included in the county. None of the members of the county council will be allowed to hold office in the township council.

The mode of electing county councillors in those counties which adopt the new act which Mr. Hardy has introduced includes some novel features. On or before December 1 of each year nomination papers signed by at least twenty ratepayers are to be deposited with the county clerk. If the number nominated equals the number to be elected, the county clerk on the expiration of the time shall forwith declare them elected. If the number nominated exceeds those to be elected, the clerk shall advertise in newspapers the names of those nominated, display the names in public places, etc. The county clerk will then forward voting papers to the clerk of each local municipality. The reeves and deputy reeves are the persons to elect the county councillors and shall fill in these voting papers at the first meeting of their respective councils in each year. Each reeve and deputy reeve will have as many votes as there are councillors to be elected, 7, 9 or 11 as the case may be. He may give all his votes to one person or may divide them as he pleases. The voting papers are then deposited with the clerk of the local municipality who will forward them to the county clerk, who will count them in the presence of the county judge, sheriff or other official. If there are any ties, the election is to be decided by lot.

MR. MCMULLEN ON TEMPERANCE.

(St. Forest Representative.)

Mr. McMULLEN has been giving himself away down at Ottawa on the temperance question. In a caucus held to consider the advisability of submitting a prohibition resolution in the House this session, Mr. McMullen said that one township (meaning Amaranth) in his riding was composed so largely of temperance people that they would not allow the granting of a license in the township. Still that township gave a majority of 212 in favor of his opponent, a brewer and large maltster, and against him, a man who had voted for every temperance resolution that had come up during the ten years he had sat in Parliament. One report says this statement on the part of North Wellington's member clinched the cowardly proposal not to bring a prohibition resolution into Parliament this session. The temperance people can, therefore, thank Mr. Mac. for helping to knock out a movement in the interest of their cause.

But that is not all. Twelve men decide whether a man is guilty or not guilty in courts of law. Here we have a case where a majority of two hundred more than that number pronounce against Mr. McMullen and as he says they are temperance men we will believe him, but will not turn around and insult them by saying they voted against a temperance man. No, the electors of Amaranth knew both candidates and by a big majority pronounced "a brewer and large maltster" as good a temperance candidate as the other, and they made no mistake either, "the man who has voted for every temperance resolution in the House for the past ten years" to the contrary notwithstanding. In support of this, briefly, and without prying into where considerable of Mr. McMullen's money is invested, we ask the question, what right has he to single out the vote in one township in his riding in order to cast discredit on the way temperance people vote? He was elected for the riding, not for any particular part thereof. If he is a sincere temperance man why didn't he use his position to give himself another opportunity of again supporting a temperance resolution, and not flimsily try to shirk his responsibility because every municipality in the riding failed to give him a majority.

Mr McMullen has by this action once more given himself away as a true temperance candidate, and proved that the Amaranth people knew how much dependence to place on his temperance principles

EDITORIAL NOTES

THE deluge promised by the Liberals after Sir John Macdonald's death is here. The counties are getting into the Tory ark to be out of the wet.

DURING a session of the Senate the other day Hon. Mr. Abbott stated to Mr. O'Donohoe that Sir Charles Tupper had informed the Government that the report that he had stated at a public gathering that a vital blow was to be dealt by Canada to the United States in retaliation for the McKinley bill was absolutely false. Sir Charles had neither said such a thing, nor thought of such a thing.

TWO Irish parliamentary banquets were held in London on St. Patrick's day, and at neither of them was an indication given or hint dropped that the factions are coming nearer to reconciliation with the approach of the general elections. The memory of the late Mr. Parnell was honored by the rival camps and that was all. It is probable now that the dispute will not be settled until the people have repudiated one party or the other, and when it comes to a choice the minority will have to go. If the Liberals, as they say, have the sympathy of the country, Mr. Justin McCarthy's following will be the men to dictate the terms of the next Home Rule bill. Therein lies the secret of the uncompromising attitude of Messrs. McCarthy, Dillon, O'Brien, Davitt, Sexton and Sullivan towards Mr. John E. Redmond and his friends. Otherwise, there would be no reason in their arguments and speeches The McCarthy party are staking their all upon the Liberals in the coming elections.

Diseases of the Chest and Lungs.

These diseases are too well-known to require any description. How many thousands are carried every year to the silent grave by that dreadful scourge, consumption, which always commences with a slight cough. ## THOSE FINES!

A Long List of Offenders Who Failed to Wake Up.

THE COP. WILL GIVE THEM A CALL.

Other Matters that Engaged the Town Fathers' Attention on Monday Evening.

There was nothing very exciting taking place when THE SUN's municipal representative got down to the mysterious chamber where Orangeville's "sixteen," the chosen eleven, were directing the destinies of a flourishing town. Nothing turned up during the evening to mar the harmony of the proceedings, and business was transacted a little more rapidly than at previous meetings. After the last conclave the press gallery kicked vigorously against the insufficiency of light, but this time the old are was turned on and the sensitive reporters had no ground for complaint.

ACCOUNTS

from T. Henderson, $2.15; Geo. Gray, $2.12½; H. Flesher, $2.25; Jas. Kilpatrick, $2 93; J. M. Bennett, $17 50; W. R. East, $17 50; ordered to be paid. A bill from Patrolmen Parkin, $5.50, was referred to the Finance committee.

THOSE TREES.

A communication was read from Clerk Henry of Mono in reply to the town's request for permission to remove trees and shrubbery at the west Broadway C. P. R. crossing. Mr. Still moved that the obstructions be removed under the supervision of the R & B chairman. Mr. S. Wallace will remove them free of charge.

A GOOD IDEA.

The city of Brantford enclosed a petition, to be forwarded to the Ontario Legislature, with a letter asking Orangeville's co-operation in putting a stop to giving bonuses, throwing off taxes, etc. The Brantfordites gave a number of strong reasons why the bonus system should be discontinued, and they want to make illegal for municipalities to grant bonuses. On motion of Reeve Endacott the matter was left over till the next meeting.

UNPAID FINES.

Chairman Endacott submitted the Finance committee's report. In reference to P. M. Pattullo's communication regarding the grant to the Dufferin lacrosse club the committee thought that was a matter between him and the boys Regarding the P. M's request for $25 due him from the town, the report recommended that he be paid $10 to be applied on taxes on this lot. There is $1004 to the credit of the sinking fund in the Bank of Commerce and the committee asked permission to invest it more profitably. Mr. Endacott also handed in the auditors' report, which showed that there were a great many unpaid fines, the amount of which was $161 for this and a portion of last year. Mr. Still wanted to know whose duty it was to collect the fines, and the mayor replied he thought it should be done under the supervision of the Finance committee. Mr. Still then moved that the Finance committee furnish the constable with a list of the delinquents and instruct him to collect the fines. Mr. Endacott said the council should do the instructing, because if it came from a committee it would be looked upon as a kind of personal matter. Mr. Mann thought so too, and moved in amendment that the council instruct the constable to collect the fines. The amendment carried.

Ald. Brown brought in a kind of a report from the Charity committee which, since the last report, expended $18.11. The expenditure so far this year is $40.28, and the committee has $4 72 to its credit. Adopted.

Mr. Mann asked further time to bring in a P & W. report. He said owing to the absence of a proper file at the clerk's office it took him over two hours looking up some papers, and then he could not find what he wanted. Mr. Still knew where a second hand file could be procured very cheaply, but it was thought better to let the T. P. committee see what was really wanted.

Mr. Endacott introduced a by law to appoint two collectors for the town, and it was read a first and second time. This is a new departure, and little 1 16 sheet bills will be scattered around town asking for applicants. The council should their enterprise by planting an ad. in the local papers.

FOREMAN OF WORKS.

Ald Green introduced a bylaw amending the bylaw governing R. & B matters. The engaging of the foreman of works will be made at second meeting of the council in April instead of the first, and all purchases made by the foreman have to be confirmed by the R. & B. committee. It was read a third time passed.

THE BOVINE WAS RUN IN.

Ald. Gordon said James Bennett had complained to him about his cow breaking away and getting run in the pound. Gordon moved, seconded by Menary, that $1 be refunded to Mr. Bennett. The motion was not put, but the T. P. committee was instructed to hold a post mortem examination and an inquest on the matter.

The collector has paid in all the taxes that he has collected. His salary will be paid.

CANADA'S former governor general, Lord Dufferin, the new British Ambassador to France, presented his credentials to President Carnot on Monday afternoon. The ceremony was conducted with great pomp. A squadron of cuirassiers escorted Lord Dufferin from the embassy to the courtyard of the palace of the Elysee. In the courtyard were massed detachments of infantry, and as the British Ambassador drove into the square drums were beaten and bugles sounded. This greeting was followed by the band playing the British national anthem, "God Save the Queen." After Lord Dufferin had made the formal presentation of his credentials to the President he and M. Carnot entered into a cordial conversation. When Lord Dufferin left the palace he was given the same honors that marked his coming, the only difference being that the band played the Marseillaise.

I have and do recommend it as highly beneficial to the profession and public generally as an agreeable and welcome innovation in the remedies put forth for public favor.

Yours, &c.

THE HEBLOP TRIAL.

Bertram and Lettridge's Alibi Likely to Succeed.

The trial of Jack Bertram and Jack Lettridge for the murder of John Heblop, the treasurer of Amaranth township, in January of last year, has been going on at Hamilton for the past several days, but it is expected that the trial will conclude to-day. It is indeed a peculiar case, and it looks as if the crown witnesses, particularly Gassey and Douglas, were labouring under a delusion when giving evidence against their former friends, Bertram and Lettridge.

The prisoners have established a pretty good alibi and the crown's rebuttal witnesses answered very unsatisfactory.

Counsel will address the jury some time to-day.

THE RAILWAY DISPUTE.

(Empire.)

Into the merits of the dispute pending between two great railway corporations of this country and their employes, it is difficult to enter now, because the data on which to base intelligent and fair opinions are in great measure lacking. It appears, however, that on a portion at least, one of the lines, a partial strike has been inaugurated, and the traffic, if not stopped, has been, at least, greatly impeded. Now, this is a matter of vital concern to almost every interest in the community. It profoundly affects the comfort, the convenience, the business of the people. Railways in these days are an almost indispensable link in the chain of everyday life. To inaugurate a strike on a great railway is a serious step. It challenges public attention and criticism, and the merits of the controversy will be examined with a vigilance never employed in a dispute between a mere private enterprise and its servants. But a railway performs a public service, and a suspension of that service is an extreme measure only justified as a last resort. If the railway employes in the present case have as fair and reasonable a statement to put before the public as the railway company they ought to do so at once. They cannot take action too soon. In the meantime they run the risk of misrepresentation and public condemnation, and of alienating the sympathies of all those who are well disposed toward the labor cause.

MARSVILLE.

FARM RENTED.—Mr. John Preston, our township clerk, has rented his valuable farm to Mr. William Simpson of Orton. Mr Preston has reserved part of the house, but as he has not been enjoying the best of health he purposes taking a trip to the Old Country. There is no doubt but that such a trip would regain him his wonted health, and hope he will have a pleasant time. We welcome Mr. Simpson to our midst.

MARRIED.—On Wednesday last Mr. George A. East of Reading and Miss Eliza, eldest daughter of Wm. Irwine, Esq., near Waldemar, were united in matrimony by Rev. H. Crozier of Grand Valley. After the ceremony a very enjoyable evening was spent by the guests. Many beautiful and useful presents were received by the bride, from her numerous friends. We wish them much happiness in their journey through life.

COURT MARSVILLE ORGANIZED — The Orange hall at this place presented a lively scene on Friday evening last. The occasion was the organization of a lodge of the Canadian Order of Foresters, and to say that it was a success would not be half telling the story. Mr. T. W. Chapman, chief ranger of the Orangeville court, conducted the ceremony in his usual good style, and there was not a hitch in the proceedings. Orangeville brethren to the number of twenty-five were present and their attendance added immensely to the evening's proceedings. Sixteen charter members were enrolled and initiated into the mysteries of Canadian Forestry, after which officers were elected as follows: Wm. Rowan, C. R.; Andrew Nodwell, V. C. R.; Robt. Nodwell, P. S.; Geo. Lawson, R. S.; Charles Boyle, treas.; Geo. Simpson, chap.; Wm. Nodwell, S W.; Wm. Morrow, J. W.; D. Scott, S. B.; Jas. Madagan, J. B. After the election of officers had taken place it was decided to call the lodge "Court Marsville, No. 351." The newly elected officers were then installed and Chief Ranger Chapman instructed them in their duties. The new Court starts off well, financially and otherwise, and the brethren predict that before long the membership will be twenty five. We sincerely trust that their prediction may be borne out by results.

AMARANTH.

HAPPILY WED.—A very pretty wedding was celebrated at "Auburn Manor," the residence of Mr. James Braiden, on Wednesday afternoon, the 9th inst., when his accomplished second eldest daughter, Miss E. Annie, and Mr. John S. Hunter were made one. The bride was one of Shelburne's most popular young ladies and her friends of that place remembered her on her wedding day. THE SUN wishes the young couple every success and happiness. A list of the presents will be found below: Groom's present to the bride, gold brooch; bride's mother, pink dinner set; groom's parents, parlor lamp and set of table linen; Dr. and Mrs. Barr, silver ice pitcher and cup; Mr. and Mrs. E. ## PETER'S OPINIONS.

What a wonderful thing sentiment is. Centuries ago a good old man, St. Patrick, preached Christianity to the half-civilized people of Ireland, and has Thursday, the 17th of March, in a land unknown to St. Patrick, and thousands of miles away from his native place, wherever that was, John Wilkins in the fulness of his heart hoisted over our post office the Union Jack to do St. Patrick honour. And yet we are not a sentimental people. Of course while St. George and St. Andrew are honoured, we Irishmen will stand by St. Patrick, but I think in a practical age like the present we have far too much display in honour of St. George, St. Andrew and St. Patrick, two of whom, St. George and St. Andrew, possibly never existed.

In my letter last week I mentioned the fact that some of the more enterprising of our citizens were thinking of forming a debating club in town. Assuch a club flourishes better during the winter months than in the summer, I am afraid this is not the best season to discuss such a proposal. However, it certainly is the proper season to discuss our lake scheme. That this much talked of improvement would greatly aid our town goes without saying, and it only remains for some one a little more earnest than his neighbors to gather a few of his friends together to discuss the plan, and I venture to say we will see the scheme well under way at once. Had we possessed more men in our town like the father of our townsman, Jesse Ketchum, this idea would have been realized long ago. Let us have less discussion and more action on this subject and I will guarantee that in the next ten years we will not be ashamed of our increased population.

One of your contemporaries last week published an account of the way in which a farmer on the market square gained 27 feet of wood by turning a stick of wood marked 69 feet upside down. I have been making desperate efforts to find out in what way that stick was turned, but I must acknowledge defeat. Will your contemporary please print 69 in such a way that when inverted without separating the figures 96 will be the result?

We are sometimes amused when reading the reports given us by travellers of the way in which the natives of India observe the caste distinctions. It would be the greatest insult possible to ask one of the high caste to associate with his fellow-country-man of the low caste. This unfortunate state of affairs, is we are told, being gradually done away with by the introduction of the railways, which know no caste and will carry any one that has the money. But is it necessary to go so far away for our amusement? Is not the social caste in Orangeville almost as distinctly drawn as it is in India? We have already had this season the Gentlemans' ball and the Bachelors' ball and on the 25th inst., we will have the Mechanics' ball. Why was it that so few of those in attendance at the Bachelors' ball received an invitation to the Gentlemen's ball and vice versa? Simply because the social caste is here in full force, and would not allow such a thing. I have lately seen some of the so called high caste set on the street in a way that would certainly be considered the height of vulgarity if performed by those of another set. Is this the distinctive feature that distinguishes the high from the low caste in Orangeville? When I see a brainless dude pretending to be of more importance than an honest hard-working man, it reminds me of the conversation between John L. Sullivan and the Prince of Wales, as reported in an American paper. On being introduced to John L. the Prince said: "We great men of England are pleased to meet some of you great Americans." "Yes," said Sullivan, "I'm a great fighter, but what did you ever do to make you great?" to which the Prince replied, "I-oh-I-I got born." But some of our brainless dudes hardly "got born," and yet they would like to be considered the "bon-tons." Away with such pretended greatness!

How e'er it be, it seems to me,
'Tis only noble to be good,
Kind hearts are more than coronets
And simple faith than Norman blood.

PETER.

MELANCTHON STATION.

JOYFUL WEDDING.—Wednesday last was a day long to be remembered by the people of this village, being the occasion of the marriage of Miss Annie, eldest daughter of Mr. Wm. Gray, teacher, at this place, to Mr. Thomas, eldest son of Mr. John Watson of the back line. Rev. Mr. Jones of Dundalk was the officiating clergyman. The groom is one of the wealthiest and most respected young men on the back line and we join with the many friends in wishing them a long and happy journey on the life which they have just begun.

AROUND US.

Messrs. James and William Turner of Orton left last week for Manitoba.

The Messrs. Campbell of Caledon East have moved to the McBride farm, Sleswick.

Mrs. Wm. Sharpe, living about four miles from Cheltenham, gave birth to three boys on Sunday last. All doing well.

Mr. Galvin Lemoe of Mono Mills has purchased from John Irwin of Caledon East his famous roadster stallion. The price paid being $325.

On Saturday week the little four year-old son of Alex McDonald of Primrose was playing in the yard when he was kicked on the arm by a colt, causing a serious fracture between the elbow and shoulder.

On the 11th inst., the widow of the late Isaac Hunter, near Caledon lake, was united in wedlock to Mr. Montgomery. She is the mother of 13 children, and he the father of 15. We wish them long life and many happy days, and that all their troubles may be little ones.

On Monday last a young man named Murdy Bell, while chopping in the woods near Elba, was struck on the head by a falling tree, rendering him insensible and inflicting a serious scalp wound several inches in length. The tree which Bell was cutting was a tall spruce, and the young man had stepped to one side, as he thought, out of danger, when the tree in its descent struck a stump, and broke in two, one section striking him as above described. Fortunately he was not alone, and was soon conveyed to Mr. Jas. Smith's house, where Dr. Norton attended to his injuries.—Shelburne Economist.

PERSONAL.

Miss Pullman has returned from a visit to Toronto.

Mrs. Thompson of Arthur visited friends here last week.

Mr. James Dawson of this town left for the Northwest on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Robt. Carlisle of Amaranth, who was the guest of friends at Mowatt Junction, returned home last week.

Mr. Harry Culp, Mono, student at the Toronto veterinary college, has returned home after a term of hard study.

Mr. George McCluskey, son of Councillor McCluskey of Mono, who has been attending the veterinary college at Toronto, has returned home. He will practise with Mr. A. McTaggart, the well known vet. of Shelburne, during the summer months.

Mr. William Gray, G. P. R. agent at Mowtrail Junction, formerly of this town, accompanied by Mrs. Gray and family, is spending a week with friends here and at Orangeville Junction. Mr. G. stands high in the G. P. R's estimation and his many friends here are pleased to meet him again.

WHITFIELD.

EAGLES.—Two big bald headed eagles are seen hovering over the carcass of a dead lamb in Mr. Henry Grimes' field. Where is the gun?

STRONG.—The Patrons of Industry are very strong here. They meet every Wednesday at Whitfield and Cherry Grove (near Mr. J. Paul's) alternately.

AN ERROR.—Your correspondent committed an error last week in stating that Daniel McCuthcon jr. was to start for beyond Garmon to-day (Tuesday) He waits for another week.

HOME AGAIN.—Mr. John Smith's son, who has been laid up with rheumatism, in Brandon, Man., has arrived home. He is looking very pale, but is slightly improving and is now able to get around on crutches.

SICK.—We are sorry to have to report again the sudden illness of Mr. David Henderson of this place. Mr. H. was taken down suddenly a few weeks ago with hemorrage of the stomach, and had fully recovered. But, alas! he suffered a relapse a few days ago. However, we are pleased to learn that the second attack is of a milder character and we hope to soon see his smiling countenance once more amongst us.

DEAD.—We are sorry this week to have to chronicle the sudden death of Mr. Joseph Lindsay of Elba. Mr. Lindsay was taking suddenly ill last week with internal inflammation, which terminated fatally last Friday morning. Mr. Lindsay, we learn, leaves a wife and five children to mourn his loss. The funeral cortege was a long one, there being over 40 vehicles. He belonged to the Orange order and was buried at the Whitfield English church last Sabbath by that body. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Graham, from near Shelburne. The attendance was large, the three denominations here being represented.

BLOUNT.

GOING TO BOSS IT.—Your correspondent has got a private hint that a desperate attempt will be made to bust that $30000 county road grant, and we think it should be done. The majority of Munolties are against it and it will surely go.

AGAINST DANCING.—Rev. J. A. Long, the popular Methodist minister, preached two excellent sermons against dancing last Sunday and the previous Sunday. Mr. Long is an earnest preacher and the way in which he handled the subject showed that he thoroughly understood what he was tackling. I am something of the opinion of Rev. Mr. Long—that dancing is a fraud of the first water.

SHELBURNE.

TO THE HOSPITAL AGAIN.—Mr. William Shields, sr., of Mahmur, has again been compelled to go to Toronto general hospital for treatment for tumor or cancer in his leg. We hope he will not have to undergo an amputation of that member, which at present is greatly feared.

DEPARTURES.—These parties purchased tickets at the Shelburne Grand Trunk R. R. Agency this week: Wm. Agnew, Primrose, for Portage La Prairie; Alf. Bell, Primrose, for Burnside, Man.; Robt. Longhurst, for Mordon, Man.; Robt. Parsons, Violet Hill, for Moose Jaw, N. W. T.

DISGRACEFUL.—That was a disgraceful sight witnessed on Main street last Monday evening about six o'clock, when a brother and a sister, whose ages would possibly be from 20 to 25 years, were seen vainly endeavoring to secure a supply of liquor in a flask, with which to increase their intoxication. The young man was already so drunk that in endeavoring to get into the sleigh he fell over the front of the box on to the tongue and was in danger of being kicked by the horses when rescued by some bystanders and placed in the bottom of the sleigh. The sister, who was not quite so drunk, took hold of the lines and drove the poor, jaded plugs of horses in the direction of home through the storm.

A MAYBRICK WITNESS DEAD.

LONDON, March 17.—Dr. Tidy, the eminent analyst for the Government, who test ified for the prosecution in the case against Mrs. Maybrick in the trial for poisoning her husband, is dead. The testimony of Dr. Tidy as to the poison administered and the effect as shown in the analysis of the stomach and other organs had a great deal to do with securing the conviction, and his death removes an important if not essential witness in case the Home office should see fit to reopen the case for investigation.

HE DENIES IT.

Mr. Dudgeon Says He is not After Charity.

The following letter from David Dudgeon of Whittlington explains itself:

To the Editor of THE SUN

Dear Sir,—I wish to correct a statement made in your issue of March 10th, relating to the case of Dudgeon vs. Dudgeon. I deny stating I wished to be paid $3000 for the support of the deceased. When I do claim to the money he got from me to pay his debts. I also deny withdrawing any statements made by me relating to the influences used by defendant or any of his family to get the deceased to make his will in the defendant's favor, as circumstances speak louder than words, and I leave the public to judge for themselves. It was also stated that the defendant was to pay me $100 a year during my life. The offer was made, but not accepted, as I do not wish any charity from his hands.

Yours truly,
DAVID DUDGEON.

Whittington Mar. 21, '92.

For the past year I have been troubled to a very great extent with Dandruff, also a dullness of color in my hair, and through the advice of a friend (who spoke from experience) I tried your Anti-Dandruff, which upon the application of less than a bottle of your liquid I find my hair not only thoroughly cleansed but a great improvement in the color and growth.

It Leads the Leaders.

The foremost medicine of the day, Burdock Blood Bitters, is a purely vegetable compound possessing perfect regulating powers over all the organs of the system and controlling their secretions. It so purifies the blood that it cures all blood humors and diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore, and this combined with its marvelled regulating, cleansing and purifying influence on the secretions of the liver, kidneys, bowels and skin, render it unequalled as a cure for all diseases of the skin. From one to two bottles will cure boils, pimples, blotches, tetter, rash, scurf, tetter, and all the simple forms of skin disease. From two to four bottles will cure salt rheum or eczema, shingles, erysipelas, ulcers, abscesses, running sores, and all skin eruptions. It is noticeable that sufferers from skin diseases are nearly always aggravated by intolerable itching, but this quickly subsides on the removal of the disease by B. B. B. Passing on to graver yet prevalent diseases such as scrofulous swellings, tumors and scrofula, we have undoubted proof that from three to six bottles used internally and by outward application (diluted if the skin is broken) to the affected parts, will effect a cure. The general mission of B. B. B. is to regulate the liver, kidneys, bowels and blood, to correct acidity and wrong action of the stomach and to open the sinoeways of the system to carry off all clogged and impure secretions, allowing nature then to aid recovery and remove without fail bad blood, liver complaint, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick headache, dropsy, rheumatism, and every species of disease arising from disorder of the liver, kidneys, bowels, stomach and blood.

We guarantee every bottle of B. B. B. Should any person be dissatisfied after using the first bottle we will refund the money on application, personally or by letter. We will also be glad to send testimonials and information proving the effects of B. B. B. in the above-named diseases on application to T. MILBURN & Co., Toronto, Ont.

[illegible] containing more than 40,000 which towns shall have but seven councillors; more than 40 000 and less than 60,000, 9 councillors and for 60,000 or greater 11 members. Cities and towns separated from counties are not to be included in the county. None of the members of the county council will be allowed to hold office in the township council.

The mode of electing county council here in these counties which adopt the new act which Mr. Hardy has introduced includes some novel features. On or before December 1 of each year assessors pass signed by at least twenty ratepayers are to be deposited with the county clerk. If the number nominated equals the number to be elected, the county clerk on the expiration of the time shall forwith declare them elected. If the number nominated exceeds those to be elected, the clerk shall advertise in newspapers the names of those nominated, display the names in public places, etc. The county clerk will then forward voting papers to the clerk of each local municipality. The reeves and deputy reeves are the persons to elect the county councillors and shall fill in those voting papers at the first meeting of their respective councils in each year. Each reeve and deputy reeve will have as many votes as there are councillors to be elected, 7, 9 or 11 as the case may be. He may give all his votes to one person or may divide them as he pleases. The voting papers are then deposited with the clerk of the local municipality who will forward them to the county clerk, who will count them in the presence of the county judge, sheriff or other official. If there are any ties, the election is to be decided by lot.

MR. MCMULLEN ON TEMPERANCE.

(Mt. Forest Representative.)

Mr. McMullen has been giving himself away down at Ottawa on the temperance question. In a caucus held to consider the advisability of submitting a prohibition resolution in the House this session, Mr. McMullen said that one township (meaning Amaranth) in his riding was composed so largely of temperance people that they would not allow the granting of a license in the township. Still that township gave a majority of 212 in favor of his opponent, a brewer and large maltster, and against him, a man who had voted for every temperance resolution that had come up during the ten years he had sat in Parliament. One report says this statement on the part of North Wellington's member clinched the cowardly proposal not to bring a prohibition resolution into Parliament this session. The temperance people can, therefore, thank Mr. Mac. for helping to knock out a movement in the interest of their cause

But that is not all. Twelve men decide whether a man is guilty or not guilty in courts of law. Here we have a case where a majority of two hundred more than that number pronounce against Mr. McMullen and as he says they are temperance men we will believe him, but will not turn around and insult them by saying they voted against a temperance man. No, the electors of Amaranth knew both candidates and by a big majority pronounced "a brewer and large maltster" as good a temperance candidate as the other, and they made no mistake either, "the man who has voted for every temperance resolution in the House for the past ten years" to the contrary notwithstanding. In support of this, briefly, and without prying into where considerable of Mr. McMullen's money is invested, we ask the question, what right has he to single out the vote in one township in his riding in order to cast discredit on the way temperance people vote? He was elected for the riding, not for any particular part thereof. If he is a sincere temperance man why didn't he use his position to give himself another opportunity of again supporting a temperance resolution, and not flimsily try to shirk his responsibility because every municipality in the riding failed to give him a majority.

Mr McMullen has by this action once more given himself away as a true temperance candidate, and proved that the Amaranth people knew how much dependence to place on his temperance principles

EDITORIAL NOTES

The deluge promised by the Liberals after Sir John Macdonald's death is here. The counties are getting into the Tory ark to be out of the wet.

During a session of the Senate the other day Hon. Mr. Abbott stated to Mr. O'Donohoe that Sir Charles Tupper had informed the Government that the report that he had stated at a public gathering that a vital blow was to be dealt by Canada to the United States in retaliation for the McKinley bill was absolutely false. Sir Charles had neither said such a thing, nor thought of such a thing.

Two Irish parliamentary banquets were held in London on St. Patrick's day, and at neither of them was an indication given or hint dropped that the factions are coming nearer to reconciliation with the approach of the general elections. The memory of the late Mr. Parnell was honored by the rival camps and that was all. It is probable now that the dispute will not be settled until the people have repudiated one party or the other, and when it comes to a choice the minority will have to go. If the Liberals, as they say, have the sympathy of the country, Mr. Justin McCarthy's following will be the men to dictate the terms of the next Home Rule bill. Therein lies the secret of the uncompromising attitude of Messrs. McCarthy, Dillon, O'Brien, Davitt, Sexton and Sullivan towards Mr. John E. Redmond and his friends. Otherwise, there would be no reason in their arguments and speeches The McCarthy party are staking their all upon the Liberals in the coming elections.

There was nothing very exciting taking place when THE SUN's municipal representative got down to the mysterious chamber where Orangeville's "sinners," the chosen eleven, were directing the destinies of a flourishing town. Nothing turned up during the evening to mar the harmony of the proceedings, and business was transacted a little more rapidly than at previous meetings. After the last occasion the press gallery kicked vigorously against the insufficiency of light, but this time the old era was turned on and the executive reporters had no ground for complaint.

ACCOUNTS

from T. Hendersen, $2.15; Geo. Grey, $2.12½; H. Flesher, $2.25; Jno. Kilpatrick $2 93; J. M. Bennett, $17 50; W. R. Kent, $17 50; ordered to be paid. A bill from Patrolmen Parkin, $5.50, was referred to the Finance committee.

THOSE TREES.

A communication was read from Clerk Henry of Mono in reply to the town's request for permission to remove trees and shrubbery at the west Broadway C. P. R. crossing. Mr. Still moved that the obstructions be removed under the supervision of the R & B chairman. Mr. S. Wallace will remove them free of charge.

A GOOD IDEA.

The city of Brantford enclosed a petition, to be forwarded to the Ontario Legislature, with a letter asking Orangeville's co-operation in putting a stop to giving bonuses, throwing off taxes, etc. The Brantfordites gave a number of strong reasons why the bonus system should be discontinued, and they want to make illegal for municipalities to grant bonuses. On motion of Reeve Endacott the matter was left over till the next meeting.

UNPAID FINES.

Chairman Endacott submitted the Finance committee's report. In reference to P. M. Pattullo's communication regarding the grant to the Dufferin lacrosse club the committee thought that was a matter between him and the boys Regarding the P. M's request for $25 due him from the town, the report recommended that he be paid $10 to be applied on taxes on this lot. There is $1004 to the credit of the sinking fund in the Bank of Commerce and the committee asked permission to invest it more profitably. Mr. Endacott also handed in the auditors' report, which showed that there were a great many unpaid fines, the amount of which was $161 for this and a portion of last year. Mr. Still wanted to know whose duty it was to collect the fines, and the mayor replied he thought it should be done under the supervision of the Finance committee. Mr. Still then moved that the Finance committee furnish the constable with a list of the delinquents and instruct him to collect the fines. Mr. Endacott said the council should do the instructing, because if it came from a committee it would be looked upon as a kind of personal matter. Mr. Mann thought so too, and moved in amendment that the council instruct the constable to collect the fines. The amendment carried.

Ald. Brown brought in a kind of a report from the Charity committee which, since the last report, expended $18.11. The expenditure so far this year is $40.28, and the committee has $4 72 to its credit. Adopted.

Mr. Mann asked further time to bring in a F & W. report. He said owing to the absence of a proper file at the clerk's office it took him over two hours looking up some papers, and then he could not find what he wanted. Mr. Still knew where a second hand file could be procured very cheaply, but it was thought better to let the T. P. committee see what was really wanted.

Mr. Endacott introduced a by law to appoint two collectors for the town, and it was read a first and second time. This is a new departure, and little 1 16 sheet bills will be scattered around town asking for applicants. The council should their enterprise by planting an ad. in the local papers.

FOREMAN OF WORKS.

Ald Green introduced a bylaw amending the bylaw governing R. & B matters. The engaging of the foreman of works will be made at second meeting of the council in April instead of the first, and all purchases made by the foreman have to be confirmed by the R. & B. committee. It was read a third time passed.

THE BOVINE WAS RUN IN.

Ald. Gordon said James Bennett had complained to him about his cow breaking away and getting run in the pound. Gordon moved, seconded by Mesary, that $1 be refunded to Mr. Bennett. The motion was not put, but the T. P. committee was instructed to hold a post mortem examination and an inquest on the matter.

The collector has paid in all the taxes that he has collected. His salary will be paid.

Canada's former governor general, Lord Dufferin, the new British Ambassador to France, presented his credentials to President Carnot on Monday afternoon. The ceremony was conducted with great pomp. A squadron of cuirassiers escorted Lord Dufferin from the embassy to the courtyard of the palace of the Elysee. In the courtyard were massed detachments of infantry, and as the British Ambassador drove into the square drums were beaten and bugles sounded, This greeting was followed by the band playing the British national anthem, "God Save the Queen." After Lord Dufferin had made the formal presentation of his credentials to the President he and M. Carnot entered into a cordial conversation. When Lord Dufferin left the palace he was given the same honors that marked his coming, the only difference being that the band played the Marseillaise.

I have and do recommend it as highly beneficial to the profession and public generally as an agreeable and welcome innovation in the remedies put forth for public favor.

THE RAILWAY DISPUTE.

(Shelburne.)

Into the merits of the dispute pending between two great railway corporations of this country and their employes, it is difficult to enter now, because the data on which to base intelligent and fair opinions are in great measure lacking. It appears, however, that on a portion of the road, one of the lines, a partial strike has been inaugurated and the traffic, if not stopped, has been, at least, greatly impeded. Now, this is a matter of vital concern to almost every interest in the community. It profoundly affects the comfort, the convenience, the business of the people. Railways in these days are an almost indispensable link in the chain of everyday life. To inaugurate a strike on a great railway is a serious step. It challenges public attention and criticism, and the merits of the controversy will be examined with a vigilance never employed in a dispute between a mere private enterprise and its servants. But a railway performs a public service, and a suspension of that service is an extreme measure only justified as a last resort. If the railway employes in the present case have as fair and reasonable a statement to put before the public as the railway company they ought to do so at once. They cannot take action too soon. In the meantime they run the risk of misrepresentation and public condemnation, and of alienating the sympathies of all those who are well disposed toward the labor cause,

MARSVILLE.

Farm Rented.—Mr. John Preston, our township clerk, has rented his valuable farm to Mr. William Simpson of Orton. Mr Preston has reserved part of the house, but as he has not been enjoying the best of health he purposes taking a trip to the Old Country. There is no doubt but that such a trip would regain him his wonted health, and hope he will have a pleasant time. We welcome Mr. Simpson to our midst.

Married.—On Wednesday last Mr. George A. East of Reading and Miss Eliza, eldest daughter of Wm. Irwine, Esq., near Waldemar, were united in matrimony by Rev. H. Crozier of Grand Valley. After the ceremony a very enjoyable evening was spent by the guests. Many beautiful and useful presents were received by the bride, from her numerous friends. We wish them much happiness in their journey through life.

Court Marsville Organized — The Orange hall at this place presented a lively scene on Friday evening last. The occasion was the organization of a lodge of the Canadian Order of Foresters, and to say that it was a success would not be half telling the story. Mr. T. W. Chapman, chief ranger of the Orangeville court, conducted the ceremony in his usual good style, and there was not a hitch in the proceedings. Orangeville brethren to the number of twenty-five were present and their attendance added immensely to the evening's proceedings. Sixteen charter members were enrolled and initiated into the mysteries of Canadian Forestry, after which officers were elected as follows: Wm. Rowan, C. R.; Andrew Nodwell, V. C. R.; Robt. Nodwell, F. S.; Geo. Lawson, R. S.; Charles Boyle, treas.; Geo. Simpson, chap.; Wm. Nodwell, S W.; Wm. Morrow, J. W.; D. Scott, S. B.; Jas. Madagan, J. B. After the election of officers had taken place it was decided to call the lodge "Court Marsville, No 351." The newly elected officers were then installed and Chief Ranger Chapman instructed them in their duties. The new Court starts off well, financially and otherwise, and the brethren predict that before long the membership will be twenty five We sincerely trust that their prediction may be borne out by results.

AMARANTH.

Happily Wed. — A very pretty wedding was celebrated at "Auburn Manor," the residence of Mr. James Braiden, on Wednesday afternoon, the 9th inst., when his accomplished second eldest daughter, Miss E. Annie, and Mr. John S. Hunter were made one. The bride was one of Shelburne's most popular young ladies and her friends of that place remembered her on her wedding day. THE SUN wishes the young couple every success and happiness. A list of the presents will be found below:

Groom's present to the bride, gold brooch; bride's mother, pink dinner set; groom's parents, parlor lamp and set of table linen; Dr. and Mrs. Barr, silver ice pitcher and cup; Mr. and Mrs. E. Berwick, table linen; Mr. and Mrs. Schafer, silver fruit; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. ## AROUND US.

Messrs. James and William Turner of Orton left last week for Manitoba.

The Messrs. Campbell of Caledon East have moved to the McBride farm, Stewick.

Mrs. Wm. Sharpe, living about four miles from Cheltenham, gave birth to three boys on Sunday last. All doing well.

Mr. Galvin Lemon of Mono Mills has purchased from John Irwin of Caledon East his famous roadster stallion. The price paid being $325.

On Saturday week the little four year-old son of Alex McDonald of Primrose was playing in the yard when he was kicked on the arm by a colt, causing a serious fracture between the elbow and shoulder.

On the 11th inst., the widow of the late Isaac Hunter, near Caledon lake, was united in wedlock to Mr. Montgomery. She is the mother of 13 children, and he the father of 15. We wish them long life and many happy days, and that all their troubles may be little ones.

On Monday last a young man named Murdy Bell, while chopping in the woods near Elba, was struck on the head by a falling tree, rendering him insensible and inflicting a serious scalp wound several inches in length. The tree which Bell was cutting was a tall spruce, and the young man had stepped to one side, as he thought, out of danger, when the tree in its descent struck a stump, and broke in two, one section striking him as above described. Fortunately he was not alone, and was soon conveyed to Mr. Jas. Smith's house, where Dr. Norton attended to his injuries.—Shelburne Economist.

Diseases of the Chest and Lungs.

These diseases are too well-known to require any description. How many thousands are carried every year to the silent grave by that dreadful scourge, consumption, which always commences with a slight cough. Keep the blood pure and healthy by taking a few doses of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills each week, and diseases of any kind is impossible. All medicine dealers sell Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

St. George's Society, Toronto, has no Irishman will stand by St. Patrick, but I think in a practical way. For the present it have far too much display in honour of St. George, St. Andrew and St. Patrick, two of whom, St. George and St. Andrew, probably never existed.

In my letter last week I mentioned the fact that some of the more energetic lads of our village were thinking of forming a debating club in town. As such institution better during the winter months than in the summer, I am afraid this is not the best season to discuss such a proposal. However, it certainly is the proper season to discuss our lake scheme. That this much talked of improvement would greatly add our town goes without saying, and it only remains for some one a little more earnest than his neighbors to gather a few of his friends together to discuss the plan, and I venture to say we will see the scheme well under way at once. Had we possessed more men in our town like the father of our townsman, Jesse Ketchum, this idea would have been realized long ago. Let us have less discussion and more action on this subject and I will guarantee that in the next ten years we will not be ashamed of our increased population.

One of your contemporaries last week published an account of the way in which a farmer on the market square gained 27 feet of wood by turning a stick of wood marked 69 feet upside down. I have been making desperate efforts to find out in what way that stick was turned, but I must acknowledge defeat. Will your contemporary please print 69 in such a way that when inverted without separating the figures 96 will be the result?

We are sometimes amused when reading the reports given us by travellers of the way in which the natives of India observe the caste distinctions. It would be the greatest insult possible to ask one of the high caste to associate with his fellow-country-man of the low caste. This unfortunate state of affairs, is we are told, being gradually done away with by the introduction of the railways, which know no caste and will carry any one that has the money. But is it necessary to go so far away for our amusement? Is not the social caste in Orangeville almost as distinctly drawn as it is in India? We have already had this season the Gentlemans' ball and the Bachelors' ball and on the 25th inst., we will have the Mechanics' ball. Why was it that so few of those in attendance at the Bachelors' ball received an invitation to the Gentlemen's ball and vice versa? Simply because the social caste is here in full force, and would not allow such a thing. I have lately seen some of the so called high caste set on the street in a way that would certainly be considered the height of vulgarity if performed by those of another set. Is this the distinctive feature that distinguishes the high from the low caste in Orangeville? When I see a brainless dude pretending to be of more importance than an honest hard-working man, it reminds me of the conversation between John L. Sullivan and the Prince of Wales, as reported in an American paper. On being introduced to John L. the Prince said: "We great men of England are pleased to meet some of you great Americans." "Yes," said Sullivan, "I'm a great fighter, but what did you ever do to make you great?" to which the Prince replied, "I—sh—I—I got born." But some of our brainless dudes hardly "got born," and yet they would like to be considered the "bon-tons." Away with such pretended greatness!

How e'er it be, it seems to me,
'Tis only noble to be good,
Kind hearts are more than coronets
And simple faith than Norman blood.

MELANCTHON STATION.

Joyful Wedding.—Wednesday last was a day long to be remembered by the people of this village, being the occasion of the marriage of Miss Annie, eldest daughter of Mr. Wm. Gray, teacher, at this place, to Mr. Thomas, eldest son of Mr. John Watson of the back line. Rev. Mr. Jones of Dundalk was the officiating clergyman. The groom is one of the wealthiest and most respected young men on the back line and we join with the many friends in wishing them a long and happy journey on the life which they have just begun.

Mr. Thomas Gordon, of Toronto, has been [illegible] Mr. A. McTaggart, who will leave out of Shelburne, during the summer months.

Mr. William Gray, C. P. R. agent at Montreal Junction, formerly of this town, accompanied by Mrs. Gray and family, is spending a week with friends here and at Orangeville Junction. Mr. G. stands high in the C. P. R's estimation and his many friends here are pleased to meet him again.

WHITFIELD.

Ragium.—Two big bald headed eagles are seen hovering over the carcass of a dead lamb in Mr. Henry Grimes' field. Where is the gun?

Strong.—The Patrons of Industry are very strong here. They meet every Wednesday at Whitfield and Cherry Grove (near Mr. J. Peel's) alternately.

An Error.—Your correspondent committed an error last week in stating that Daniel McCutcheon jr. was to start for beyond Garson to-day (Tuesday) He waits for another week.

Home Again.—Mr. John Smith's son, who has been laid up with rheumatism, in Brandon, Man., has arrived home. He is looking very pale, but is slightly improving and is now able to get around on crutches.

Sick.—We are sorry to have to report again the sudden illness of Mr. David Henderson of this place. Mr. H. was taken down suddenly a few weeks ago with hemorrage of the stomach, and had fully recovered. But, alas! he suffered a relapse a few days ago. However, we are pleased to learn that the second attack is of a milder character and we hope to soon see his smiling countenance once more amongst us.

Dead.—We are sorry this week to have to chronicle the sudden death of Mr. Joseph Lindsay of Elba. Mr. Lindsay was taking suddenly ill last week with internal inflammation, which terminated fatally last Friday morning. Mr. Lindsay, we learn, leaves a wife and five children to mourn his loss. The funeral cortege was a long one, there being over 40 vehicles. He belonged to the Orange order and was buried at the Whitfield English church last Sabbath by that body. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Graham, from near Shelburne. The attendance was large, the three denominations here being represented.

BLOUNT.

Going to Beat It.—Your correspondent has got a private hint that a desperate attempt will be made to beat that $10000 county road grant, and we think it should be done. The majority of Monoites are against it and it will surely go.

Against Dancing.—Rev. J. A. Long, the popular Methodist minister, preached two excellent sermons against dancing last Sunday and the previous Sunday. Mr. Long is an earnest preacher and the way in which he handled the subject showed that he thoroughly understood what he was tackling. I am something of the opinion of Rev. Mr. Long—that dancing is a fraud of the first water.

SHELBURNE.

To the Hospital Again.—Mr. William Shields, sr., of Mulmur, has again been compelled to go to Toronto general hospital for treatment for tumor or cancer in his leg. We hope he will not have to undergo an amputation of that member, which at present is greatly feared.

Departures.—These parties purchased tickets at the Shelburne Grand Trunk R. R. Agency this week: Wm. Agnew, Primrose, for Portage La Prairie; Alt. Bell, Primrose, for Burnside, Man.; Robt. Longhurst, for Mordon, Man.; Robt. Parsons, Violet Hill, for Moose Jaw, N. W. T.

Disgraceful.—That was a disgraceful sight witnessed on Main street last Monday evening about six o'clock, when a brother and a sister, whose ages would possibly be from 20 to 25 years, were seen vainly endeavoring to secure a supply of liquor in a flask, with which to increase their intoxication. The young man was already so drunk that in endeavoring to get into the sleigh he fell over the front of the box on to the tongue and was in danger of being kicked by the horses when rescued by some bystanders and placed in the bottom of the sleigh. The sister, who was not quite so drunk, took hold of the lines and drove the poor, jaded pluge of horses in the direction of home through the storm.

A MAYBRICK WITNESS DEAD.

London, March 17.—Dr. Tidy, the eminent analyst for the Government, who testified for the prosecution in the case against Mrs. Maybrick in the trial for poisoning her husband, is dead. The testimony of Dr. Tidy as to the poison administered and the effect as shown in the analysis of the stomach and other organs had a great deal to do with securing the conviction, and his death removes an important if not essential witness in case the Home office should see fit to reopen the case for investigation.

HE DENIES IT.

Mr. Dudgeon Says He is not After Charity.

The following letter from David Dudgeon of Whittington explains itself:

To the Editor of THE SUN

Dear Sir,—I wish to correct a statement made in your issue of March 10th, relating to the case of Dudgeon vs. Dudgeon. I deny stating I wished to be paid $3000 for the support of the deceased. What I do claim is the money he got from me to pay his debts. I also deny withdrawing any statements made by me relating to the influences used by defendant or any of his family to get the deceased to make his will in the defendant's favor, as circumstances speak louder than words, and I leave the public to judge for themselves. It was also stated that the defendant was to pay me $100 a year during my life The offer was made, but not accepted, as I do not wish any charity from his hands.

Yours truly,
DAVID DUDGEON.

Whittington Mar. 21, '92.

For the past year I have been troubled to a very great extent with Dandruff, also a dullness of color in my hair, and through the advice of a friend (who spoke from experience) I tried your Anti-Dandruff, which upon the application of less than a bottle of your liquid I find my head and only thoroughly cleansed but a vast improvement in the color and growth.

COMING ANNIVERSARIES. — Palm Sunday will be on April 10; Good Friday, April 15; Easter Sunday, April 17; the 24th of May and July 12 on Tuesday; Dominion Day is on Friday and Christmas day on Sunday.

H. S. L. S.—The usual weekly meeting of the High School Literary Society was held on Thursday afternoon, the program consisting of the following: Male quartette; reading, Miss A. Story; impromptu speeches, several students; reading, Mr. Edgar; reading, Miss A. Clingan.

HEARTS MADE HAPPY.—Mr. Thos. Dawson was married yesterday to Miss Emily Glover at the residence of the bride's sister, Aston. The newly wedded couple will reside on the Dawson farm, South ward. Both bride and groom are well known in town and vicinity and will have the best wishes of their friends for a long life of wedded bliss.

EARLY DEMISE.—On Monday morning, Mr Blair H Crowe, a young man 23 years of age, died at the residence of his brother-in-law, Registrar Wm. McKim, on Mill street. The young man had been suffering from consumption for some time and his death, therefore, was not unexpected. The interment took place in the Forest Lawn cemetery on Tuesday afternoon.

OUT FOR A DRIVE.—The teachers and scholars of the Methodist Sabbath school took their annual sleigh ride on Saturday. It took twenty or twenty-five rigs to accommodate the crowd, and the drive lasted nearly three hours. The willing teachers and scholars had a pleasant afternoon "doing" the town and surrounding country, and altogether this year's outing was one of the most enjoyable they ever had.

"LOADED" CIGARS.—If you pick a cigar out of a friend's vest pocket, be careful; there's danger in it—not the pocket but the cigar. This is an old fake revived and it is becoming extremely popular around this town. You may light one of these fine looking cigars, but before you take many puffs a little explosion is liable to take place which generally annihilates the cigar and frightens the smoker. It would be a bad thing if one of those cigars was 'over loaded.'"

C. O. F. AT MARSVILLE.—Chief Ranger T. W. Chapman and about twenty-five members of Court Gardiner, No. 159, Canadian Order of Foresters, drove out to Marsville on Friday night and organized a lodge at that place, which will be known as Court Marsville, 351. Sixteen charter members were initiated into the mysteries of Canadian Forestry and the prospects of the new lodge are very bright. A complete report will be found in the Marsville correspondence.

SAYS THEY'RE A BENEFIT.—Mr. Samuel Corbit dropped in our sanctum the other day and had a little chat about those much talked of trees near the west Broadway C. P. Railway crossing. Mr. Corbit considers the trees are a benefit instead of a sorce of danger to travellers; because, he says, if a person's horse gets frightened at the train it cannot jump into the ditch on account of the trees being there. He thinks if the trees were removed a greater number of accidents would occur.

WEDDING BELLS.—Last Wednesday afternoon the residence of Michael Armstrong, Esq., Caledon, was the scene of a brilliant gathering, the occasion being the marriage of his third daughter, Miss Eliza, to Mr. Henry Davis a prosperous young farmer of the same township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Henderson, M. A. The bride and bridesmaid were very prettily attired, and, as usual on such occasions, were the admired of all admirers. The numerous and elegant presents and the congratulations from many friends, testified to the high esteem in which the bride was held by her numerous friends. They will reside in Caledon. Along with a legion of friends, THE SUN offers sincere congratulations.

FINANCIALLY INVOLVED.—Quite a little sensation was created in town last week when it was announced that Mr. Robt. Beatty, the leading implement man of Orangeville, had made an assignment to Mr. J. M. Bennett for the benefit of his creditors. The liabilities are in the neighborhood of $30,000, but it is expected the assets are above that sum. Mr. Beatty was a pushing business man and an enterprising citizen and his present financial difficulty is to be deeply regretted. The assignee is preparing a statement and a meeting of the creditors will take place in Toronto tomorrow. There are no local creditors.

NEARLY CHOKED.—Shortly after 1 o'clock on Thursday afternoon the dining room of the Queen's hotel was the scene of what might have been a tragic event. Ex Deputy reeve James McMaster of Mono was eating his dinner when a piece of beef lodged in his throat and those who ran to his assistance experienced a great deal of difficulty in removing the obstacle. A messenger was hastily despatched for Dr. Lewis, who arrived in a few minutes, but before he came the meat was dislodged. The affair created quite a little excitement, but we are pleased that Mr. McMaster experienced no evil results of the mishap.

"SCOTTY" SCOOPED IN.—Yesterday morning Chief Shields landed the itinerant Malcolm McPherson, otherwise known as "Scotty," in the toils for taking a drop too much. P. M. Pattullo sent him up to Gov. Sutherland for 30 days. "Scotty" is one of the handiest men on record with the crayon or brush and his services are urgently needed at the "castle." At the assizes a few days ago the loyalist judge, Mr. Justice Falconbridge, threw out the hint a British coat of arms should be displayed over the judicial chair, it mattered not a bit that it was painted or sculptured. P. M. Pattullo heard about the judge's hint and he could not rest until he found a man to do the job. There's no doubt now about the P.M.'s loyalty, but when did he dissolve partnership with Laurier, Cartwright & Co.?

A RELIC OF 1812.—There was dug up near the old brassworks at Burlington cemetery on Monday a bit of verdigris-covered brass which, eighty years ago ornamented the cross belt of a soldier of the Royal Scots Grenadiers. A detachment of the Royal Scots was at the battle of Stoney Creek, and the night before the battle the soldiers were engaged in throwing up breastworks on Burlington heights in anticipation of an attack. It is likely that this belt plate dropped off the belt of one of the soldiers while he was at work on the breastworks. Upon it is stamped the royal cypher within the collar of St. Andrew, and below it are the Scotch thistle, the shamrock, and a figure of the Sphinx with the word "Egypt" under it, and a scroll with the words "The Royal Scots." At the top is a crown.

THE REGISTRAR'S RUBBER.—There was a terrific crowd in the postoffice on Saturday evening and the crushing, shoving and horse laughs was something that will be remembered for some time by those who participated in the event. Postmaster Bradley made several appeals for order, but that was not obtained until the crowd diminished in size. When the amusement was at its height some young kid hung a rubber on the gas jet, and at this the crowd laughed long and loud. Caretaker Wilkins, when he perceived the disorder, became riled and in a minute or two had the rubber dissected and strewn over the sidewalk. Registrar McKim enjoyed the fun immensely, but a few minutes afterwards he was plunged into the deepest grief—it was one of his own little rubbers! But joking aside. The postmaster justly finds fault, for it is the next thing to impossibility for him and his clerks to rapidly and accurately assort mail matter amid such a din and confusion. Such proceedings, we hope, will not soon be repeated.

A "RIB ROASTER."—On Thursday afternoon Mr. John Kidney, an old resident of this town, was out shooting and met with a painful accident. John is a sport of the first water and enjoys the distinction of being the best shot outside the gun club. He can also spin a lively yarn, but he wasn't spinning yarns when the accident, which we are about to relate, occurred. John had been gunning for some hours in the huntsman's paradise, a mile down the C. P. R. track, and was returning when the accident befel him. He was in the act of crossing the Credit river on a log when he lost his equilibrium and was precipitated to the river-bed. In the descent, however, Mr. Kidney's body came in violent contact with the log and the former being the weaker the result was disastrous. Mr. Kidney sustained three fractured ribs, besides being otherwise painfully bruised. He walked home and a doctor was sent for and attended to his injuries. It will be some days before Mr. K. can resume work.

BOWLING GREEN.

AT IT AGAIN.—Well Mr. Editor, we are all pretty well around here, but news is as scarce as weddings—that's why we've been silent for the past couple of weeks.

REVIVAL.—Revival meetings are being held in the P. M. church here, and we are glad to say they are well attended. We wish them success in carrying the good work on.

A HEAVY LOSS.—Our friend, Mr. John Ewing, lost a valuable mare by death a few days ago from some unknown cause. He will greatly miss it as it was a splendid animal.

GONE HOME.—Mr. George Keefer left for his home at Vancouver, B. C., on Friday. He came here last fall and spent a fine joival winter with his old friends, and we hope to see him back in October again. A safe journey home, George.

GONE WEST.—Mr. Albert Dodds left on Tuesday, the 15th, for Portage-la-Prairie, Man., to seek his fortune. Ab. was a lively coon and was well liked by everybody, and he will be greatly missed around here. We hope he will have better success than Dick Whittington.

CLOSED.—The great and only debating club of Bowling Green, Canada, closed on Saturday night for the season. There were some good essays read at the last meeting and Mr. Graham brought down the house by one of his comic songs, which he rendered in capital style. I. J. Durkin, mastered the harmonica in his own immicial way.

WOOD BEE.—On Friday Councillor Driver had one of the most successful wood bees ever held in this part of the country. The boys began to assemble at an early hour, and before evening a great part of the bush was ripped and torn up into short wood, and when 6 o'clock came some of the men guessed that they had about 100 cords cut, more or less. But when they reached the house it was full of charming ladies from the Green and an inviting supper was partaken of. After tea the tables were removed and thirty couples tripped the light fantastic until all was slowly next morning, when the company dispersed, hoping that Mr. Driver would want some more wood cut next year. Mr. and Mrs Driver were given a hearty vote of thanks for the pleasant manner in which they entertained the visitors.

There was great excitement in Hamilton yesterday and to-day over a rumor that was started nobody knew how, and which flew like the wind. The rumor was that Mayor Blaicher was dead, having died on the voyage from New York to Nassau. There was no foundation for the report whatever.

On Saturday last local option was defeated in the township of Foley, district of Parry Sound, by a majority of 20.

Fire broke out in the basement of the Talbot street public school, one of the largest in London, Ont., on Monday and totally destroyed the building.

The Paisleyville, Ohio, Savings and Loan Association Bank has closed its doors. The depositors, mostly working people, crowded around the building on Monday and threatened violence to the officials.

Probably in March more than any other month in the year are the ravages of cold in the head and catarrh most severely felt. Do not neglect either for an instant, but apply Nasal Balm, a time-tried, never-failing cure. Easy to use, pleasant and agreeable. Try it. Sold by all dealers or sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price—50c and $1 a bottle. Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont.

It is stated on good authority that Mrs. Osborne, who is serving a nine months' sentence for perjury in connection with the famous "pearl case," will be released before the end of May on the prison physician's certificate that further confinement will end or endanger her life.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

IS the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

THE BEST FAMILY PILL IN USE

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS

Keep the Works in good order.

NORWICH, Ont., January 15, 1891.

W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time piece; frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and what is the result?—at first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but week year; as the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been remedied with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until when could, in the beginning, these rapidly, until when could, in the beginning, these have been cured with little trouble, a serious disease is fixed. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality.

Yours faithfully,

H. F. ATWELL.

JACK'S JOLLY JOKE.

"Oh, I am a jolly old tar," he said,
"And I've got my sea legs on;
And they call me Jack as they slap my back,
Though I was christened John.

"I walk with a lurch on the solid earth
Though when I am on the sea
Not a single ship is made by the ship
That isn't as well by me.

"Oh, yes! It's funny as such fun goes;
But I don't laugh, 'Haw, haw!'
As much as you old land lubbers do,
That's right!—give me your paw.

"And you want to know why I walk straight
On the ship, and not on shore?
It's because on the ship I'm o'er each trip,
While on land I'm but half-seas o'er.

"And you want to know how I got my name?"
And he gave his trousers a hitch,
"We don't go far for the name Jack Tar;
It comes from the vessel's pitch."

And that was the gruff old sailor's joke,
Which he made as he tuffed aboard,
And which steadied his jog and sweetened his grog
When the wind through the rigging roared.

SUNBEAMS.

The man who loves his neighbor as himself is not the one who smokes on a street car platform.

"When you have leisure," said a caller to the city editor, "I would like to speak to you."

"All right; come round after I am dead."

Life is made of compensations. By the time a man is old enough to realize what a lot he does not know he is too old to worry over it.

Mother-in-law jokes, once in great demand at $1, are now practically unsalable. We quote 3 cents per dozen as the price.

Prisoner, who has just been successfully defended by his attorney on a charge of burglary, eagerly—"You'll defend me next time, too, won't you?"

Teacher of physiology—"What ingredient which is highly essential in the composition of the human body does sugar possess?" Pupils (in one voice) —"Sand."

"How do you stand with your father?" he asked. "I don't think, George," she answered after some thought, "that you had better stand at all when you are with father. You had better run."

It is the business of the newspaper editor to "make a long story short."

The man who is the architect of his own fortune usually builds it on his sand.

Prominence has its drawbacks. The drum major doesn't see near as much of the parade as the man on the curb stone.

Old Gentleman (opening parlor door just as the young man stole a kiss) "Well, I am surprised!" Young man (confused.) "So am I."

"Cheer up, old boy; a woman's 'no' is not always final!" "It is this time, I guess. She even went to the trouble of registering the letter.

"Oh, Isaac, baby has swallowed a penny!" cries mamma in great alarm, Isaac—"Calm yourself. One would think he had swallowed a gold piece."

"So you proposed to her? Accepted, of course?" "Accepted! Why, she treated me like a dog. "Allow me to congratulate you, old fellow. I saw how she treated one the other day, and by Jove, how I envied that dog!"

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Bilious affections, with all their concomitant annoyances induced by atmospheric changes, or too liberal diet, should be checked at once, or serious consequences may ensue. When any one finds his ideas less clear than usual, his eyesight dimmed, and his head dizzy, accompanied by a disinclination for all exertion, physical or mental, he may be quite sure that he is in immediate need of some alterative medicine. Let him at once send for a box of Holloway's Pills, a mild course of which will remove the symptoms, and speedily renew his usual healthful feeling. If the bowels be irritable, Holloway's Ointment should be diligently rubbed over the stomach and liver every night and morning.

It is not the amount of food consumed, but that digested, which keeps the horse strong and plump. I put two quarts of stones the size of small hen eggs in one of my managers lately. The horse did not digest them—in fact he did not eat them, but he eats his oats more slowly now because he can't them so rapidly, and as a result digests them fully. It is as easy for an animal to waste food by bolting it as to poke it through a hole in the manager.—Farm Journal.

I have and do recommend it as highly beneficial to the profession and public generally as an agreeable and welcome innovation in the remedies put forth for public favor.

The Rest of Rock Salt, for Stock.

Read what Prof. Robertson, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, says regarding percent mixt of milking stock:—"Dairy cattle should have access to salt every day. A series of experiments has convinced me that when cows are denied salt for a period of from one week they will yield from 10½ to 15 per cent less milk, and that of an inferior quality. Stock milk with, as all or every, have ever in twenty year been equal to salt

But I don't laugh, 'haw, haw?'
As much as you oil lead bickers do,
That's right!—give me your paw.

"And you want to know why I walk straight
On the ship, and not on shore?
It's because on the ship I'm o'er such trip,
While on land I'm bot half-seas o'er.

"And you want to know how I got my name?"
And he gave his trousers a hitch,
"We don't go far for the name Jack Tar;
It comes from the vessel's pitch."

And that was the gruff old sailor's joke,
Which he made as he faffed aboard,
And which steadied his jog and sweetened his grog
When the wind through the rigging roared.

SUNBEAMS.

The man who loves his neighbor as himself is not the one who smokes on a street car platform.

"When you have leisure," said a caller to the city editor, "I would like to speak to you."

"All right; come round after I am dead."

Life is made of compensations. By the time a man is old enough to realize what a lot he does not know he is too old to worry over it.

Mother-in-law jokes, once in great demand at $1, are now practically unsalable. We quote 3 cents per dozen as the price.

Prisoner, who has just been successfully defended by his attorney on a charge of burglary, eagerly—"You'll defend me next time, too, won't you?"

Teacher of physiology—" What ingredient which is highly essential in the composition of the human body does sugar possess?" Pupils (in one voice) —"Sand."

"How do you stand with your father?" he asked. "I don't think, George," she answered after some thought, "that you had better stand at all when you are with father. You had better run."

It is the business of the newspaper editor to "make a long story short."

The man who is the architect of his own fortune usually builds it on his sand.

Prominence has its drawbacks. The drum major doesn't see near as much of the parade as the man on the curb stone.

Old Gentleman (opening parlor door just as the young man stole a kiss) "Well, I am surprised!" Young man (confused.) "So am I."

"Cheer up, old boy; a woman's 'no' is not always final!" "It is this time, I guess. She even went to the trouble of registering the letter.

"Oh, Isaac, baby has swallowed a penny!" cries mamma in great alarm, Isaac—"Calm yourself. One would think he had swallowed a gold piece."

"So you proposed to her? Accepted, of course?" "Accepted! Why, she treated me like a dog. "Allow me to congratulate you, old fellow. I saw how she treated one the other day, and by Jove, how I envied that dog!"

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Bilious affections, with all their concomitant annoyances induced by atmospheric changes, or too liberal diet, should be checked at once, or serious consequences may ensue When any one finds his ideas less clear than usual, his eyesight dimmed, and his head dizzy, accompanied by a disinclination for all exertion, physical or mental, he may be quite sure that he is in immediate need of some alterative medicine. Let him at once send for a box of Holloway's Pills, a mild course of which will remove the symptoms, and speedily renew his usual healthful feeling. If the bowels be irritable, Holloway's Ointment should be diligently rubbed over the stomach and liver every night and morning.

It is not the amount of food consumed, but that digested, which keeps the horse strong and plump. I put two quarts of stones the size of small hen eggs in one of my managers lately. The horse did not digest them—in fact he did not eat them, but he eats his oats more slowly now because he can't them so rapidly, and as a result digests them fully. It is as easy for an animal to waste food by bolting it as to poke it through a hole in the manger.—Farm Journal.

I have and do recommend it as highly beneficial to the profession and public generally as an agreeable and welcome innovation in the remedies put forth for public favor.

One of the effects of the Mail's sensational canard re Loretto will be that no credence whatever can be placed in items of news appearing in the public press. Thus will the just be punished with the unjust.—Tottenham Sentinel.

The Rest of Rock Salt, for Stock.

Read what Prof. Robertson, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, says regarding proper ways of salting stock:—"Dairy cattle should have access to salt every day. A series of experiments has convinced me that when cows are denied salt for a period of two or three weeks, they will yield from 5½ to 7½ per cent less milk, and that of an inferior quality. Such milk will, as we are every day learning, turn sour in twenty four hours instead of three days, as is the case with that of healthy cows receiving salt every day, all other conditions of treatment being equal."

THE only chemically pure Salt ever discovered, analysed 99 84-100 Pure Salt. All kinds of stock will do better where this Salt is used; one ton will go four times as far as common salt, hence it is cheaper. It is the finest Salt in the world for the preservation of all kinds of meat, all the large packers are using it. It is sold cheaper than any other lump salt. We guarantee this Salt as advertised. Make a trial and you will always use it; we have in stock fine and coarse, at

The Safest

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old can alike be benefited by its use. For the eccentric diseases peculiar to children nothing else is offered as this medicine, which in agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents, for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Wiggs, Arkansas.

THE LOOM OF LIFE.

All day, all night, I can hear the jar
Of the loom of life, and near and far
It throbs with its deep and resistless sound,
As the shuttles the wheels go always round.

Busily, cunningly goes the loom,
In the light of day and midnight gloom,
The wheels are turning early and late,
And the woof is wound in the warp of fate.

Click, click! there's a thread of love wove in!
Click, click! and another of wrong and sin!
What a checkered thing this life will be
When we see it unrolled in eternity!

Time, with a face like mystery,
And hands as busy as hands can be,
Sits at the loom with arms outspread,
To catch in its meshes each glancing thread.

When shall this wonderful web be done?
In a thousand years, perhaps in one;
Or to-morrow—Who knows this? Not you or I;
But the wheels turn on and the shuttles fly.

Ah, sad-eyed weavers, the years are slow,
But each one is nearer to the end I know;
And some day the last thread shall be woven in,
God grant it be love instead of sin!

Are we spinners of wool in this life-web—say?
Do we furnish the weaver a thread each day?
It were better, then, oh, my friend, to spin
A beautiful thread than a thread of sin.

The Story Teller.

Grandpa Skinner's Buckskin Purse.

'Charlie,' exclaimed grandfather Skinner, 'where did you find that buckskin purse, which you have in your hand?'

'I found it in a drawer in the back garret, grandpa. It is so nice to keep my marbles in.

'Yes, but it looks like the very purse I had when I left the gold mines, so many years ago. Let me see if my name is not inside.'

Emptying the marbles into his hat, Charlie handed grandpa Skinner the purse. When the old gentleman had turned it inside out he exclaimed: 'Indeed it is the very one! See where I wrote my name thirty years ago next fall.'

'But it is so old and stained, grandpa, that you will let me have it for my marbles, won't you?' asked Charlie.

'No, my son, I fear you might lose it. I would rather give you a dozen new purses than part with this, although it is so stained and old. Do you wish me to tell the reason why I prize it so highly, Charlie?'

'Yes, sir,' replied the boy who was always ready to hear grandfather's stories; as were the rest of us children; and we five gathered around the dear old man as he began:

'When your mother was about five years old, and her sister two,' said grand father, 'I left them on this very farm and started for California. My wife did not like me to go so far away, but I hoped to find gold there to pay off the debt on our place, and then come back and feel independent.

'The next day after sailing from port we were all very seasick, a gale sprang up in the night which caused our heads to roll about sadly. But the storm was not very severe, and we sailed along down the Atlantic coast until we had almost reached Cape Horn, where we encountered another tornado. Then our vessel became so disabled that we had to return nearly a thousand miles to Rio de Janeiro for repairs.'

'Did you see any whales?' asked Charlie.

'Yes, indeed, Charlie, we saw whales as well as sharks, porpoises, and a large kind of a bird called an albatross. The sailors killed a young shark and an albatross one day, and the captain had portions of their flesh cooked for our dinner.'

'Were they good, grandfather?' he inquired.

'Yes, Mabel, the bits of meat that I got from both the shark and bird were very tender. The taste of the latter reminded me of our Thanksgiving turkey. Well, it was four or five weeks before we were on our voyage again, and those were some of the longest weeks I ever knew. At length however, we were sailing towards Cape Horn once more, and again we had another fearful gale. How the wild wind howled through the shrouds! How they whistled! The billows tossed up until we seemed to be on a mountain top; the next moment coming down, down, into the deep trough of the sea.

'Ah, it was so fearful, but it was also grand and majestic, and I loved to watch the billows and feel that God could take care of our tiny bark and keep us from all harm. When the storm was over, we had no more trouble until we were near the equator. Then there was a calm of ten days' length. The long sails hung in a lifeless way against the tall masts; the sun shone so bright by that it was oppressively warm; the sea was as smooth as glass, and the vessel was nearly as stationery as though it had been resting on land. But at length the breeze sprang up and, after an eight months voyage, we arrived safely at San Francisco. Then I hastened to the gold mines. For two years I lived alone in a rough wood cabin with only one faithful watch dog for company. By the strictest economy I managed to send home enough gold to keep my family from want; but I was not very successful. Like so many other miners I hoped to do better in the near future.

'Fresh letter from home made me strangely homesick; every little girl I heard of reminded me of the two little ones far away across the continent, while the sight of a miner's child in our camp always brought tears to my eyes. My wife wrote me to come home, gold or no gold, but pride forbade my going empty handed, therefore I lingered on from summer to winter, then from winter to fall. Two years had thus nearly passed when I went with others on a prospecting tour. We were successful in finding a rich mine and were to hold it as a company. Knowing however, that I was anxious to return home, the miners proposed to strike a legal number of feet for themselves and pay me a certain sum of money, thus buying my share of the mine. I agreed to this; the gold was paid over to me and I hastened away to deposit it in one of the miner's banks of those days. Guess where that was Charlie?'

'A big brick house, grandfather?'

'Oh, no, there was no such banks as you have now, in that out of the way place. The good miners were fond of oysters, and when the tin cans in which they came were empty they made good strong boxes for holding gold. When filled, the can was buried in a well marked spot in the ground and placed in an old hollow tree, or else hidden beneath the stones of a cabin hearth.'

'Which place did you choose for a bank, grandpa?' asked Charlie.

'My hearth stone in the cabin. How joyous I felt that night as I deposited my well filled can in its place, and humbly concealed all traces of my wealth. 'Going home at last!' I exclaimed aloud. Keep a sharp watch to-night, old Carlo, and you shall never suffer from hunger while your master lives.' My one roomed cabin was dimly lighted by a single candle, as I spoke and I can remember how Carlo raised his eyes to mine in his knowing way and with a wag of his tail and a sharp bark gave me to understand that he felt his responsibility.

'I then started to prepare my evening meal. As I whistled a cheerful song and stirred my biscuit dough with a wooden spoon carved with my own jacknife, my thoughts flew across the continent to my quiet home, where I pictured my two little girls sweetly sleeping in their low trundle bed, and my good wife sitting alone by the fire watching and praying for the return of their long absent father. When my biscuits were in the oven, I fried my bacon and eggs, and before long sat down to eat my hearty dinner, only now and then stopping to share my food with faithful Carlo. Before retiring for the night, however, I took pen and paper and wrote to my wife of my good fortune, and that I should return with gold enough to pay off our farm. Then I folded the letter, and climbed into my hammock, which was swung from the bare rafters, and where I was soon fast asleep.'

'It was past midnight when I was aroused by the barking of my dog, but as this was not unusual, after listening for a few moments I again dropped into a sound slumber from which I did not awake until long after daylight. I raised my head, but I felt so queer and drowsy from head to foot that I could not arouse myself enough to get out of my hammock. At length, however, the mist cleared somewhat and I managed to sit up, but what a sight met my eyes! The door stood ajar, and over in the corner lay my faithful watch dog dead! My first thoughts were of my gold, and hastily searching for it, I found my suspicions confirmed. My money was all gone!'

'Oh, grandpa, what did you do then?' inquired Charlie.

'I hardly know. I was sick and almost desperate. I had no way of getting back to my family and could only see more years of sorrow and separation before me. But I determined to make diligent search for the the thief, so I went over to a friend's cabin to ask his advice in regard to the best steps to be taken to recover the money. He told me that it would be in vain to search for the fellow, who must know that lynching would certainly be his fate if found by the miners. There are no jails here to put thieves in, he added, 'and a thief when caught is always hung to the nearest oak, and without waiting for judge and jury, otherwise none of the gold would be safe. This scamp doubtless knew of your fortune and was peeping through the window when you deposited your gold.'

'Did you find him?' inquired Charlie.

'Never!' replied grandpa; 'I had to content myself and go to work in another mine for two years more.'

'But why didn't you hear the thief when he got into your cabin, grandpa,' I enquired.

'Oh, he had chloroformed me to make me sleep. Probably he killed the dog with the same stuff.

'Well, I worked on in this mine until I had accumulated a fortune larger than the first, and then started for home. To make my gold secure, I put it in this long buckskin purse and fastened it with my belt around my waist. The steamer went homeward by the Isthmus, and we had a pleasant and quick passage on the Pacific, but the Atlantic ocean was rough, and it was stormy enough much of the way. We had just passed the perilous Cape Hatteras, when one night after passengers were asleep in our berths, there sudden ly arose a cry of fire. Tumbling half awake from my berth, I hastily went on deck to find it in a terrible confusion. Women were screaming, children crying and men making every exertion to put out the flames, which were gaining headway. It was soon evident that the steamer would burn at the water's edge, and the passengers must be saved, if at all, by means of the boats. Some of the boats were overturned, as they struck the water, and all the others were crowded with women and children. It was getting hotter and hotter and those men who could swim were preparing to jump into the water, first throwing out mattresses, chairs, or anything handy to cling to, if necessary.

'There was little time for consideration, but I remembered that the weight of my gold would make it harder swimming but how could I leave that behind? I was on the point of jumping and taking my chance with it when a little girl, who seemed to have just awakened, ran toward me crying, Mamma, mamma, where's my mamma?' Coming nearer, the little thing caught hold of my hand, and piteously begged, 'Don't let me burn up! Can't you swim me, too? Do carry me to my mamma!'

'Did you do it, grandpa?' asked baby Susie, anxiously.

'I could not save my gold and the child too, Susie. Do you think I ought to have left the money my one little girl needed, to rescue that little stranger?'

'Yes,' said we all, 'you ought to have tried to save her anyway.'

'I hesitated a moment, but when the pleading trustful eyes of the little one were again turned up to mine, the fire was already making her garments smoke as she said, 'Do let me swim on your back.' It was not in my heart to throw her away. It was but the work of half a moment to throw my belt and gold upon the deck, to strap the child to my back and jump into the ocean with one of the other struggling passengers. I swam away from the steamer as fast as possible and for several hours managed to keep the child and myself from drowning. Many sank to rise no more. At last I just realized that vessels were coming to our relief and the half drowned girl was slipping from my back when I became insensible.'

'You didn't get drowned, did you grandpa?' said baby Susie as she patted his cheeks, to reassure herself that he was safe.

'No, dear Susie, God saved my life through a sailor who rescued me and bore me to one of the vessels. My first thoughts were of the little girl. How sorry I felt that I could not have saved her after all. Her pleading look haunted me day and night. When I thought of my bag of gold, also at the bottom of the sea, and of the good it might have done, I was sometimes tempted to regret for a moment that I had left it for a mite of a child that I might have known could not survive such a shipwreck; but then, if it had been one of my little ones, wouldn't I have tried to save her instead of the gold?

'At length the vessel we were on arrived in New York, and I sent word to my wife that although my gold was gone, my life was saved, but I had no means of getting home. She borrowed money of a neighbor and sent it to me, writing that she did not care for the gold I had lost, but was thankful enough that my life was not sacrificed also. How gladly I started homeward, and was just stepping upon the train when I heard a sweet childish voice near by shout, 'There he is, mamma! there he is, the man who strapped me on his back when I was almost burned up!' I turned to see the very child whom I had borne from the wreck!'

'Oh, grandpa, I am so glad she was not drowned after all,' said Susie, and the rest of us drew sighs of relief. 'How did she get out of the big ocean, grandpa?'

'The little one, continued grandpa, 'ran toward me when I sat down, and throwing her arms about my neck she kissed my cheek, declaring that I was the best man that ever lived excepting her own dear papa.'

'Poor, dear child,' I exclaimed, 'where and how did you get her?' From the mother I learned that the child had been seen to fall from my shoulders by a sailor, who by great exertion had succeeded in getting her on board the other vessel, which was the very one on which the mother had been taken from one of the small boats. The mother cried, and thanked me over and over again, as she related the story, saying she would never forget the heroic deed, as she called it. Especially was she touched when I let her know that I left my gold to save her child. Soon after getting home I received a letter from the father of the little girl inclosing a check for two thousand dollars! He said he was called a wealthy man, but his dearest treasure was the sweet little daughter whom I had saved from death. The money could not repay me, he added, but it would show that he was grateful. I took the money and paid for this farm, feeling that God had more than rewarded me for doing my duty in saving the child.'

'But, grandpa, how did you ever get this purse again? You said you left it on the burning steamer.'

'Yes, Charlie, I did leave it on the deck, but an honest man named Mc Donald found it. He strapped the belt around his waist and brought it safe to land. He discovered my name and place of residence marked inside the purse, and when he reached his home he wrote to me. I answered the letter and told him what a struggle it had cost me to leave all my worldly goods to save the child of a stranger, but that God had rewarded me already for doing as I would be done by, and that he himself had earned the purse of gold by his own exertions in saving it. The honest Scotchman would not hear of it, and one day I received this stained purse, filled with all the gold, just as I had left it on the steamer, and all I could do was to reward with a handsome gift the man who had thus befriended me.'

'No wonder you prize this old purse, grandpa,' said Charlie, 'I must go and put it back in the garret.'

'No' Charlie, I will take care of it now, but when I go to town I will buy you a fine, new one to keep your marbles, in place of this dear old affair.'

ASTRONOMICAL NOTES FOR MARCH.

The aurora borealis is not well understood. Its delays have been numerous during the times of the largest number of sun spots. Its displays are usually numerous and more magnificent in March and October than the other months of the year. February has its share. Of the great displays of the past 200 years quite a number have fallen on February 13. There is much need of accurate observations of absence as well as presence of auroras to determine its periodicity and its geographical distribution.

During the first half of March the planet Mercury will be near the sun during the greater part of month, reaching the greatest distance from the sun on the 30th. For a few days about the time it will be visible to the naked eye for more than an hour after sunset.

Venus remains in excellent position for observation. Its illuminated portion will diminish about one-seventh during the month of March. Its brightness, however, will not diminish, but will increase about one fifth by reason of the planet's approaching the earth.

Mars is a morning star, rising a little before 3 o'clock, far to the southeast. It is, consequently, not in a very good position for observation during March.

Jupiter will be too near to the sun to be seen. Saturn is in the constellation Virgo. The rings are very nearly edgewise towards the earth, so that they cannot be seen to advantage. Uranus is also in the constellation Virgo. Neptune is north of the Hyades, a V-shaped group of stars, of which Aldebaran is the principal star, being a first magnitude red star.

Envelopes in all the latest colors, amber, canary, cherry, rose, green, blue and yellow at THE SUN office.

COMING SPRING BONNETS.

Milliners predict that large hats and small bonnets will have the same vogue given them during the spring month that has been shown them all winter, writes Mrs. Isabel A. Mallon in her timely article on "Pretty things for Toilet and Toilette," in the March Ladies' Home Journal. However, a medium-sized poke bonnet will certainly be one of the features of the summer. On the broad-brimmed hats loaded with feathers, Mademoiselle puts a bit of color in the form of a velvet flower, pink or sapphire blue being most fashion. If possible, this is placed under the brim just in front, so that it rests on the hair, and looks more coquettish. If the shape will not permit this, then the flower may be nestled among the plumes themselves, and look out saucily and effectively from their darkness. A hat that is just now very popular in England, and one which will undoubtedly obtain here, is of fine black straw with a somewhat low, square crown and a rolling brim, that is, a brim after the fashion of the English walking hat. The only trimming is a broad band of white satin ribbon quite the height of the crown; it is drawn around smoothly, and the two ends lap over each other just in front, a long slender jet buckle seeming to fasten it. Somewhat severe in shape, these hats will only be becoming to women who do not need to show their bangs to soften their faces.

BERNHARDT ON DRESSING.

When Bernhardt talks about dress she almost always says something worth having. Here's her latest: "Whatever you do, dress becomingly. That is my rule. See that what you wear suits you—your person, your individuality. Make your costume to suit you. Not yourself to suit the costume. It is wise economy to have one's clothes made by the best modistes, who are themselves artists in their own special line. But it is not wise to rely upon the uniform judgment of one person or to advocate eternally the skill of a certain law. Now, talent is always making itself felt, and from the individuality of some one who sees you for the first time you may get valuable hints and fresh suggestions.

"It does not take a good costumer long to see and learn just what you need, but if you cling to him monotonously you will always wear the same stamp, like your goddess on the American dollar.

CRISP AND CASUAL.

A ton of coal yields nearly 10,000 feet of gas.

The greatest depth of ocean yet discovered is a little over five miles.

There are but few cases on record where would be suicides have made a second attempt.

There is a colony of darkies in western Alabama which is ruled over by its own queen.

The cocoanut trees of Florida are due to nuts washed ashore from a wrecked vessel sixteen years ago. Now the State furnishes nearly all the cocoanuts used in the United States.

Experiments in instaneous photography have proved to us that the shots not only spread out, comet like, as they fly, but they string out one behind the other to a much greater distance than they spread. Thus, with a cylinder gun when the first shot of a charge reaches a target that is forty yards away the last shot is lagging along ten yards behind. Even with the chokebore gun some of the shot will lag behind eight yards in forty.

CLEVER DEFINITIONS OF WIT

Wit is the power to say what everybody else was just going to have said, if they had happened to think of it.

Wit is the sweet accomplishment which makes an orator popular, a caller welcome and a lover successful.

The friction flash of humor and ability.

ex What should be used to season, not to tinguish common sense.

A piquant sauce for the feast of reason.

Wit is the expression of thought which, by its originality and fitness, creates spontaneous mirth.

Wit is a runaway knock at laughter's door.

An electric flash in the atmosphere of thought which few can strike but all can see.

A parcel of sense wrapped up in nonsense and tied together with humor.

A ray of light, the cardinal colors of which are wisdom, pleasure and surprise.

The lightning flash of humor succeeded by the thunderclap of hilarity.

Wit is the sparkle in the wine of conversation.

The salt of conversation.

Intellectuosity without verbosity.

An arrow of humor shot from the bow of genius by the hand of wisdom.

A lubricant by the judicious use of which the user moves through this world with the least possible friction.

A HINT TO BACHELORS.

Agree with the girl's father in politics and the mother in religion. If you have a rival, keep an eye on him. If he is a widower, keep two eyes on him. Don't put too much on paper. If you do you will hear it read in after years, when your wife has some special purpose in inflicting upon you the severest punishment known to a married man.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Vicissitudes of climate, exposure and hardships, fall heavily on soldiers and sailors, showing the seeds of diseases which may ultimately break up the constitution. Naturally circumstances of their health a word in season may avert many evils, and may come to them to resort to timely measures without any difficulty or publicity. Holloway's celebrated remedies are so suitable, and are so easily adapted for the varied complaints to which our soldiers and sailors are liable, that a supply should always be obtained before proceeding abroad. It may with confidence be stated that many a valuable life might have been saved, or confirmed cripple prevented from begging in the streets, if Holloway's remedies had been used in time.

The one potent argument in favor of the "Greater New York" is that by the consolidation of the two local governments into one the municipal expenses would be lessened and the tax rate made lower.

The Story Teller.

Grandpa Skinner's Buckskin Purse.

'Charlie,' exclaimed grandfather Skinner, 'where did you find that buckskin purse, which you have in your hand?'

'I found it in a drawer in the back garret, grandpa. It is so nice to keep my marbles in.'

'Yes, but it looks like the very purse I had when I left the gold mines, so many years ago. Let me see if my name is not inside.'

Emptying the marbles into his hat, Charlie handed grandpa Skinner the purse. When the old gentleman had turned it inside out he exclaimed 'I indeed it is the very one! See where I wrote my name thirty years ago next fall.'

'But it is so old and stained, grandpa, that you will let me have it for my marbles, won't you?' asked Charlie.

'No, my son, I fear you might lose it. I would rather give you a dozen new purses than part with this, although it is so stained and old. Do you wish to tell the reason why I prize it so highly, Charlie?'

'Yes, sir,' replied the boy who was always ready to hear grandfather's stories; as were the rest of us children; and we five gathered around the dear old man as he began:

'When your mother was about five years old, and her sister two,' said grand father, 'I left them on this very farm and started for California. My wife did not like me to go so far away, but I hoped to find gold there to pay off the debt on our place, and then come back and feel independent.

'The next day after sailing from port we were all very seasick, a gale sprang up in the night which caused our heads to roll about easily. But the storm was not very severe, and we sailed along down the Atlantic coast until we had almost reached Cape Horn, where we encountered another tornado. Then our vessel became so disabled that we had to return nearly a thousand miles to Rio de Janeiro for repairs.'

'Did you see any whales?' asked Charlie.

'Yes, indeed, Charlie, we saw whales as well as sharks, porpoises, and a large kind of a bird called an albatross. The sailors killed a young shark and an albatross one day, and the captain had portions of their flesh cooked for our dinner.'

'Were they good, grandfather?' he inquired.

'Yes, Mabel, the bits of meat that I got from both the shark and bird were very tender. The taste of the latter reminded me of our Thanksgiving turkey. Well, it was four or five weeks before we were on our voyage again, and those were some of the longest weeks I ever knew. At length however, we were sailing towards Cape Horn once more, and again we had another fearful gale. How the wild wind howled through the shrouds! How they whistled! The billows tossed up until we seemed to be on a mountain top; the next moment coming down, down, into the deep trough of the sea.

'Ah, it was so fearful, but it was also grand and majestic, and I loved to watch the billows and feel that God could take care of our tiny bark and keep us from all harm. When the storm was over, we had no more trouble until we were near the equator. Then there was a calm of ten days' length. The long sails hung in a lifeless way against the tall masts; the sun shone so bright by that it was oppressively warm; the sea was as smooth as glass, and the vessel was nearly as stationary as though it had been resting on land. But at length the breeze sprang up and, after an eight months voyage, we arrived safely at San Francisco. Then I hastened to the gold mines. For two years I lived alone in a rough wood cabin with only one faithful watch dog for company. By the strictest economy I managed to send home enough gold to keep my family from want; but I was not very successful. Like so many other miners I hoped to do better in the near future.

'Fresh letter from home made me strangely homesick; every little girl I heard of reminded me of the two little ones far away across the continent, while the sight of a miner's child in our camp always brought tears to my eyes. My wife wrote me to come home, gold or no gold, but pride forbade my going empty handed, therefore I lingered on from summer to winter, then from winter to fall. Two years had thus nearly passed when I went with others on a prospecting tour. We were successful in finding a rich mine and were to hold it in a company. Knowing however, that I was anxious to return home, the miners proposed to strike a legal number of feet for themselves and pay me a certain sum of money to do so. I was writing that who did not care for the gold I had lost, but was thankful enough that my life was not sacrificed also. How gladly I started homeward, and how I kept stepping upon the train when I heard a sweet childish voice near by shout, 'There he is, mamma! Better look in, the man who strapped me on his back when I was almost burned up!' I turned to see the very child whom I had borne from the wreck!

'Oh, grandpa, I am so glad she was not drowned after all,' said Susie, and the rest of us drew sighs of relief. 'How did she get out of the big ocean, grandpa?'

'The little one, continued grandpa, 'ran toward me when I sat down, and throwing her arms about my neck she kissed my cheek, declaring that I was the best man that ever lived excepting her own dear papa.'

'Poor, dear child,' I exclaimed, 'where and how did you get her?' From the mother I learned that the child had been seen to fall from my shoulders by a sailor, who by great exertion had succeeded in getting her on board the other vessel, which was the very one on which the mother had been taken from one of the small boats. The mother cried, and thanked me over and over again, as she related the story, saying she would never forget the heroic deed, as she called it. Especially was she touched when I let her know that I left my gold to save her child. Soon after getting home I received a letter from the father of the little girl inclosing a check for two thousand dollars! He said he was called a wealthy man, but his dearest treasure was the sweet little daughter whom I had saved from death. The money could not repay me, he added, but it would show that he was grateful. I took the money and paid for this farm, feeling that God had more than rewarded me for doing my duty in saving the child.'

'But, grandpa, how did you ever get this purse again? You said you left it on the burning steamer.'

'Yes, Charlie, I did leave it on the deck, but an honest man named Mr. Donald found it. He strapped the belt around his waist and brought it safe to land. He discovered my name and place of residence marked inside the purse, and when he reached his home he wrote to me. I answered the letter and told him what a struggle it had cost me to leave all my worldly goods to save the child of a stranger, but that God had rewarded me already for doing as I would be done by, and that he himself had earned the purse of gold by his own exertions in saving it. The honest Scotchman would not hear of it, and one day I received this stained purse, filled with all the gold, just as I had left it on the steamer, and all I could do was to reward with a handsome gift the man who had thus befriended me.'

'No wonder you prize this old purse, grandpa,' said Charlie, 'I must go and get it back in the garret.'

'No' Charlie, I will take care of it now, but when I go to town I will buy you a fine, new one to keep your marbles, in place of this dear old affair.'

ASTRONOMICAL NOTES FOR MARCH.

The aurora borealis is not well understood. Its delays have been numerous during the times of the largest number of sun spots. Its displays are usually numerous and more magnificent in March and October than the other months of the year. February has its share. Of the great displays of the past 200 years quite a number have fallen on February 18. There is much need of accurate observations of absence as well as presence of auroras to determine its periodicity and its geographical distribution.

During the first half of March the planet Mercury will be near the sun during the greater part of month, reaching the greatest distance from the sun on the 30th. For a few days about the time it will be visible to the naked eye for more than an hour after sunset.

Venus remains in excellent position for observation. Its illuminated portion will diminish about one seventh during the month of March. Its brightness, however, will not diminish, but will increase about one fifth by reason of the planet's approaching the earth.

Mars is a morning star, rising a little before 3 o'clock, far to the southeast. It is, consequently, not in a very good position for observation during March.

Jupiter will be too near to the sun to be seen. Saturn is in the constellation Virgo. The rings are very nearly edgewise towards the earth, so that they cannot be seen to advantage. Uranus is also in the constellation Virgo. Neptune is north of the Hyades, a V-shaped group of stars, of which Aldebaran is the principal star, being a first magnitude red star.

BERNHARDT ON DRESSING.

When Bernhardt talks about dress she almost always says something worth having. Here's her latest: 'Whatever you do, dress becomingly. That is my rule. See that what you wear suits you—your person, your individuality. Make your costume to suit you. Not yourself to suit the costume. It is wise economy to have one's clothes made by the best modistes, who are themselves artists in their own special line. But it is not wise to rely upon the uniform judgment of one person or to advocate eternally the skill of a certain law. Now, talent is always making itself felt, and from the individuality of some one who sees you for the first time you may get valuable hints and fresh suggestions.

'It does not take a good costumer long to see and learn just what you need, but if you cling to him monotonously you will always wear the same stamp, like your goddess on the American dollar.'

CRISP AND CASUAL.

A ton of coal yields nearly 10,000 feet of gas.

The greatest depth of ocean yet discovered is a little over five miles.

There are but few cases on record where would be suicides have made a second attempt.

There is a colony of darkies in western Alabama which is ruled over by its own queen.

The cocoanut trees of Florida are due to nuts washed ashore from a wrecked vessel sixteen years ago. Now the State furnishes nearly all the cocoanuts used in the United States.

Experiments in instantaneous photography have proved to us that the shots not only spread out, comet like, as they fly, but they string out one behind the other to a much greater distance than they spread. Thus, with a cylinder gun when the first shot of a charge reaches a target that is forty yards away the last shot is lagging along ten yards behind. Even with the chokebore gun some of the shot will lag behind eight yards in forty.

CLEVER DEFINITIONS OF WIT

Wit is the power to say what everybody else was just going to have said, if they had happened to think of it.

Wit is the sweet accomplishment which makes an orator popular, a caller welcome and a lover successful.

The friction flash of humor and ability.

Wit should be used to season, not to tinguish common sense.

A piquant sauce for the feast of reason.

Wit is the expression of thought which, by its originality and fitness, creates spontaneous mirth.

Wit is a runaway knock at laughter's door.

An electric flash in the atmosphere of thought which few can strike but all can see.

A parcel of sense wrapped up in nonsense and tied together with humor.

A ray of light, the cardinal colors of which are wisdom, pleasure and surprise.

The lightning flash of humor caused by the thunderclap of hilarity.

Wit is the sparkle in the wine of conversation.

The salt of conversation.

Intellectuosity without verbosity.

An arrow of humor shot from the bow of genius by the hand of wisdom.

A lubricant by the judicious use of which the user moves through this world with the least possible friction.

A HINT TO BACHELORS.

Agree with the girl's father in politics find the mother in religion. If you have a rival, keep an eye on him. If he is a widower, keep two eyes on him. Don't put too much on paper. If you do you will bear is paid in after years, when your wife has some special purpose in inflicting upon you the severest punishment known to a married man.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Wholesome of climate, exposure and hardships, tell heavily on soldiers and sailors, shaking the seeds of disease which may ultimately break up the constitution. Naturally carriers of their health a word in season may avert many evils, and may cause them to report to timely measures without any difficulty or publicity. Holloway's celestial remedies are so suitable, and too so easily adapted for the varied complaints to which our soldiers and sailors are liable, that a supply should always be obtained before proceeding abroad. It may with confidence be stated that many a valuable life might have been saved, or confirmed cripple prevented from hobbling in the streets, if Holloway's remedies had been used in time.

The one potent argument in favor of the "Greater New York" is that by the consolidation of the two local governments into one the municipal expenses would be lessened and the tax rate made lower.

SURROGATE COURT RULES.

The judges of the supreme court of judicature have promulgated a new set of rules regulating the procedure and fixing the fees in the surrogate courts, to take effect on and after 1st. of April 1892, after which date the present rules are rescinded. We call special attention to rule 46. This rule after prohibiting the registrar from preparing applications for probate of administration where the value of property devolving exceeds $400. Proceeds as follows:

"And in no other case shall any person other than the applicant or his solicitor either directly or indirectly prepare the application or other papers to be used in any application or matter of the surrogate court.

Nor shall any person other than a solicitor be permitted to practice in the surrogate court.

This rule absolutely prohibits all persons other than solicitors from preparing papers for applicants for probate or administration. We are informed that our surrogate judges will enforce strict observance of the new rules after April 1st.

PATRONS OF INDUSTRY.

(Walkerton Herald.)

THE Shareholder and Insurance Gazette, of Montreal, in its issue of 11th inst., discusses the platform of the Patrons in so far as they demand access to the merchants' invoices and require them to supply them with all classes of goods at 12½ per cent. advance on cost. This, it holds, cannot be done, and those merchants who profess to do so, are compelled to resort to some means of fraud and trickery to add to the profit agreed upon. It says, that within its knowledge a number of the very largest and best known wholesale merchants of Montreal have been approached by retail merchants from Ontario requesting to be supplied with blank invoices to be filled in by themselves with their own figures. On this request being refused they then asked that their figures be increased 15 per cent. above actual prices, and that amount deducted at settlement.

We make no comment on this. The paper which makes the statements is a reliable one, and we presume they are prepared to substantiate whatever they give currency to. They fortify themselves in their charges by publishing the following:

"We have full knowledge of the facts stated respecting the Patrons of Industry, and entirely approve of the views expressed by the Shareholder.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A protest has been entered against the recent election of Mr. W. B. Northrup, Conservative M. P. for East Hastings.

Hon. D. L. Hanington, leader of the Opposition in the New Brunswick Legislature, has been appointed to the bench of the supreme court of that Province.

IT is said that Hugh J. Macdonald, member of the Commons for Winnipeg, son of the late Premier, says he will resign his seat in the House after the session, provided Premier Abbott consents.

IN a letter Sir John Thompson says the man who accused him of intriguing with the Catholic votes to secure the premiership is a fertile liar or a hopeless fool. The Toronto Globe and the Winnipeg Tribune are understood to know the personality of the individual in question. They should out with his name so that the country will know which of the caps he is best qualified to wear.

MR MEREDITH and his supporters in the Legislature have brought out one vital point in connection with the finances of this province that it behooves the taxpayers to note. Despite the loud boasts of a substantial surplus; of a buoyant revenue; of resources inexhaustible, and no shortage of money till posterity takes possession at some distant period—despite all this, the Government are now actually not only face to face with direct taxation, but are actually resorting to it in a sneaking and under hand way. After all their confident assertions and bragging declarations of solvency and even wealth, this very session witnesses two determined attempts to raise cash by direct taxation. There is the measure providing for a tax on inheritances, which Mr. Meredith showed—and there was no one to answer his challenge—was a plain confession that resort must be made to direct taxation. There is also the measure proposing to regulate the registrars' fees which—like its predecessors, the license grabs—is another levy upon the municipalities to help carry on a Government professing to be rolling in affluence. Could anything be more complete than this confession that direct taxation is actually upon us?—Empire

THE C. P. R. SETTLEMENT.

The Arbitrators Make Known Their Decision—Satisfactory all Round.

WINNIPEG, March 23.—The arbitrators in the question of trainmen's and conductors' wages, which caused the late Canadian Pacific strike, made the result of their deliberations known to night.

The two points on which they gave their decision are: Freight conductors are to receive $3 90 per hundred miles and detention time is to count after 11 hours' work at the rate of 25 cents per hour for conductors and 17 cents for brakemen, the $2.90 rate to hold good for one year.

The result is agreeable to both men and company.

A son of Mr. Geo. Yeoman of Bolinafad had a foot badly crushed the other day. He was mounting the horse-power when it was in motion and, slipping, got caught in the cogs. The sole of his boot was torn off and the foot so badly crushed that it will be some time before it can be of use to the unfortunate boy.

Mr. Enoch Price has purchased the east half of lot No. 3, in the 9th con Amaranth, from Mr. George Thomas, the price paid was $3,600. This farm is an excellent one, all cleared and adjoining the the village of Waldemar. Mr. Price having bought the farm on speculation and considerably below its value.

MONO MILLS.

A SEVERE LOSS.—The stallion, Bonnie Scotland, the property of Mr. John Aldous, died recently from inflammation. It is a great loss to Mr. Aldous as the animal was a valuable one.

DEATH OF MRS. OWEN GARVEY.—With deep regret we record the death of Mrs. Garvey, wife of Mr. Owen Garvey, which occurred at her residence, Mono, on Tuesday, the 22nd, inst She had resided for over 40 years in the neighborhood and was well known and highly esteemed by all. Deceased leaves a husband and grown up family to mourn her loss. The large number of sorrowing friends and neighbors who followed the remains to their last resting place, on Thursday last, testified in a small measure the deep respect in which the deceased lady was held. A solemn service was conducted in St. Peter's church, Orangeville, by Rev. Father McPhillips, on the arrival of the corpse. After the service the remains were laid at rest in the Forest Lawn cemetery, beside those of her daughter who died several years ago. The removal of one so dear to family and friends is a loss one cannot realize, and heartfelt sympathy is widely expressed.

SHELBURNE.

SOLD.—Messrs. E. Berwick & Co. have sold the wildcat they had on exhibition to John Jelly. It is rumored that Mr. Jelly intends to settle the question "whether a bulldog or wildcat is the better fighter."

A MEAN TRICK.—Last Friday evening a load of young people from Hornings Mills drove down to Shelburne to attend the Skating rink. Ed Huxtable was among the number. He left his fur coat hanging up in the Queen's hotel, and when he returned for it he found that someone had cut it in nine or ten places with a knife. A borrowed fur coat which John Harrison also had hanging up in the hotel received like treatment. A robe belonging to the Hornings Mills crowd was taken out of the sleigh and hid The damage is supposed to have been done by someone barboring spite. We understand strong suspicion rests on certain parties who may yet be summoned before justices of the peace.

NOT GUILTY!

The Ancaster Suspects Acquitted of the Charge of Murder.

As THE SUN of last week predicted that Jack Bertram and Jack Lottridge, who were being tried at Hamilton for the murder of Treasurer John Heslop of Ancaster township, would escape the gallows by the strong case presented by the defence, our prediction has come to pass. The trial was a prolonged one and was brought to a close on Thursday night. The jury moved like one man and returned a verdict of "not guilty."

The authorities secured information which led them to believe the missing girl was in the Sacred Heart convent here, hence the visit of Mrs. Hopkins here They were admitted to the convent this afternoon and found the girl.

SIX BOYS AT A BIRTH.

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss., March 29.—Mrs C. K. Smith, wife of a white labourer, living on a farm near this city, has given birth to six babies.

They are all boys, well developed, and weigh in the aggregate 45 pounds. Mother and babies are doing well.

It has been conjectured that the secret of antediluvian longevity was some method of keeping the blood pure, warm and vigorous. Modern necessities attain the same purpose by using Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best blood purifier ever brought to light.

PETER'S OPINIONS.

I hear it rumoured around that a meeting will shortly be held in town for the purpose of freely discussing the subject of Political Union with the United States of America. I am very glad to hear this and hope that the meeting will be held without delay. This question is now being discussed by a very large number of Canadians who claim that such a union between Canada and the United States is the only scheme that is bound to secure for Canada future prosperity. Before coming to any decided decision on the subject, I would like to hear the question discussed. I have no sympathy whatever with that class of people who are afraid of discussion on any subject of this nature. If by Political Union we would be benefited in the way in which those in favor of the idea declare, then the sooner we are a part of the United States the better. If the idea is bad, having no solid foundation to stand on, as is claimed by those opposed to it, then the sooner we know it and dismiss it from our minds for ever, the better. But by all means let us hear the question discussed. If those in favor of the scheme can show that it would be of advantage to an inland place like Orangeville it would be a comparatively easy matter for them to show it in the border counties. If persons from a distance are brought here to discuss this question it would speak little for the intelligence of our citizens if they were not accorded a most attentive hearing, and I have too much confidence in the people of Orangeville to think that anything approaching rowdyism would take place at such a meeting.

Why is it that the town papers are not putting forth more strenuous efforts to induce the town council to send back the excuse for a town bell that we have swinging over our waterworks? That the bell is not what it should be is well known to all, but that the council is at liberty to exchange it for a better one may not be so well known. I have not heard a single individual say that it is all that it was expected to be, and I have heard it denounced on every side. Which of our councillors will take this in hand and supply us with a bell that the town will be proud of? The expense of paying the freight of the old bell to the foundry etc., would be but trifling and I am very sure our citizens would be willing to pay it twice over for the sake of getting a first-class bell.

It is about time that the Dufferin lacrosse club was holding a meeting for the purpose of organizing for the coming summer. Last year the club made an excellent showing, and as a large number of the team were quite young players we may look for something more than ordinary this year. I see that the association meets on April 9th, and the Dufferins should certainly have a representative there, either to make the club a member of the association for the coming season or to demand from Mount Forest's representatives the $8.00 still owing the Dufferins from that club, and state clearly why the Dufferins wished to withdraw from the association. Let the Dufferins organize at once and have the secretary communicate with Brampton, Georgetown, etc., to find out the intention of these clubs as to joining the association. If these clubs are willing to remain outside of the association I am sure that with Brampton, Georgetown, Orangeville and one or two other clubs, a series could be formed much more interesting and vastly more profitable than any ever formed under the control of the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

"He died in the harness" has been said of a great many public men, but of none can it be said more timely than of the late H. E. Clarke. Whether we think much or little of the man, every person is compelled to admire one who, like H E Clarke, died in the act of "serving his country." And yet the world moves on, and before the body of Mr Clarke had been placed in the grave the Toronto papers were discussing the question of who his successor is likely to be. I hope the citizens of Toronto, instead of considering party first, will choose a representative worthy to be the successor of one of the most upright and straightforward men that ever sat in the halls of the Legislature of Ontario.

MELVILLE.

SPICY SQUIBS.—Mr. John Graham, who spent the winter with his parents at Port Perry, is around here once more.....Mr. Stavely, who has been running the Lynn farm on the centre road for the past four years, has removed to Mr. John Harshaw's farm on the Prince of Wales road, Mono.....Mr. J. M. Smith of Orangeville has rented Mr. George Thompson's farm, and will use it for stock raising purposes.....Mr. John Corbit is thinking about taking a trip to the Northwest in a couple of weeks.....George was very active last week; what does it mean?

LEAVING.—The residence of Mr. Jno. Mitchell was the scene of a brilliant gathering on Monday evening. He is about removing to Orangeville and his friends and neighbors thought before he went they would present him with something by which he would remember them. Accordingly during the evening Mr. McNeil read an address and Mr. Mitchell was made the recipient of an armchair, hanging lamp and a goatskin robe. Dancing and other amusements were indulged in and altogether a very enjoyable evening was spent.

MARSVILLE.

MARRIAGE.—Mr. John McCauley of the township of Flos was united in holy wedlock on Wednesday, the 23rd inst., to Miss Sarah E. eldest daughter of Mr. Richard Anthony of this place. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's father and Rev. Mr. Elliott tied the knot. The happy couple have the good wishes of all.

Died on His Wedding Trip.

The Union station, Toronto, on Tuesday evening was the scene of a large gathering of Foresters under most distressing circumstances. Mr. John Renton, Court Lord Dufferin No. 6364, New Westminster, B.C., was married Feb. 17, and was in Toronto on his wedding tour, when he died suddenly on Saturday last. The bereaved bride, widow took the remains back to New Westminster Tuesday evening at 11 14 by the C. P. R. Great sympathy was expressed for her in her peculiarly distressing affliction, and representatives of all the courts in Toronto, to the number of a 150, marched to the station to testify their feeling for the unfortunate sister.

BOWLING GREEN.

TAPPED.—Some people have tapped a great number of trees, but the sap does not run very freely yet. When warmer weather comes, however, the taffy pails will begin in earnest. They'll be the times.

SICK.—Mr. Thomas G. Bates is, we are sorry to say, laid up with an attack of congestion of the liver, but we hope that under the skilful treatment of Dr. Lewis he will soon be smiling around again.

CALLED HOME.—We are sorry this week to have to inform THE SUN and its many readers of the death of Miss Sara J Ritchie, daughter of Mr. Robt. Ritchie. The deceased lady, for which she was in word and deed, contracted la grippe about two years ago, but at first it was not thought that it would result as sadly as it did. However, in spite of everything that could be done the attack terminated in Miss Ritchie's death on Wednesday night. A large concourse of people followed the remains to the Bowling Green burying ground on Friday. We deeply sympathise with the rest of the family, who are all down with la grippe but at last accounts were on the mend.

The following letter received by one of our ministers confirms the believe:—This is to give you notis that I and Miss—is coming to your church on Saturday afternoon nex to undergo the operation of matrimony at your hands. Plese be promp, as the cab is hired by the hour Windsor Record.

The committee of the hospital and house of industry, met on Saturday to open tenders received for the erection of an hospital at the poor house. The estimates put the building at $5 995 The actual contracts bring it down to about $3,600 or $3,700. The Gore of Ferguss get the mason work for about $1,850; Mr. Weddell of Elora the carpenter work; Kerr of Fergus the tin smithing; J. Phelan of Arthur painting, and a man from Guelph, the plumbing, the work being well distributed over the country.—Harriston Tribune.

A week or so ago in Toronto political social and police circles were turned topsy turvy by the publication of an expose, purporting to be a record of a successful blackmailing scheme levied by a police officer against a physician and a minister who had got into some immoral scrape. The officer hearing of the case blackmailed both, obtaining $2,000 from the clergyman and $1,000 from the physician. The affidavits and the deed of settlement are published. The names are disguised but thinly. The exposure was produced in book form entitled "The Social Scourge, by Paul Emarcon," and was scattered broadcast throughout the city. In addition to this the bulky volume contains a strong denunciation of alleged gambling practices at the political clubs, and also describes a promoting business which is alleged to flourish there because a certain police officer participates in the profits.

In my endorsement of Anti-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is a perfect remover of Dandruff, not only in the first stages, but even where the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair-dresser during which time I have experimented with with every recommended preparation, not one has (now, I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti Dandruff has.

It positively removes Dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair-dressing place, at Balmoral Hotel, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.

PATRONS OF INDUSTRY.

(Wellerton Herald.)

THE Shareholder and Farmers' Gazette, of Montreal, in its issue of 11th inst., complains the platform of the Patrons is so far as they demand access to the merchants' invoices and require them to supply them with all classes of goods at 12½ per cent advance on cost. This, it holds, cannot be done, and those merchants who profess to do so, are compelled to resort to some means of fraud and trickery to add to the profit agreed upon. It says, that within its knowledge a number of the very largest and best known wholesale merchants of Montreal have been approached by retail merchants from Ontario requesting to be supplied with blank invoices to be filled in by themselves with their own figures. On this request being refused they then asked that their figures be increased 15 per cent above actual prices, and that amount deducted at settlement.

We make no comment on this. The paper which makes the statements is a reliable one, and we presume they are prepared to substantiate whatever they give currency to. They fortify themselves in their charges by publishing the following:

"We have full knowledge of the facts stated respecting the Patrons of Industry, and entirely approve of the views expressed by the Shareholder.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A protest has been entered against the recent election of Mr. W. B. Northrup, Conservative M. P. for East Hastings.

Hon. D. L. Hanington, leader of the Opposition in the New Brunswick Legislature, has been appointed to the bench of the supreme court of that Province.

IT is said that Hugh J. Macdonald, member of the Commons for Winnipeg, son of the late Premier, says he will resign his seat in the House after the session, provided Premier Abbott consents.

IN a letter Sir John Thompson says the man who accused him of intriguing with the Catholic votes to secure the premiership is a fertile liar or a hopeless fool. The Toronto Globe and the Winnipeg Tribune are understood to know the personality of the individual in question. They should out with his name so that the country will know which of the caps he is best qualified to wear.

MR MEREDITH and his supporters in the Legislature have brought out one vital point in connection with the finances of this province that it behooves the taxpayers to note. Despite the loud boasts of a substantial surplus; of a buoyant revenue; of resources inexhaustible, and no shortage of money till posterity takes possession at some distant period—despite all this, the Government are now actually not only face to face with direct taxation, but are actually resorting to it in a sneaking and underhand way. After all their confident assertions and bragging declarations of solvency and even wealth, this very session witnesses two determined attempts to raise cash by direct taxation. There is the measure providing for a tax on inheritances, which Mr. Meredith showed—and there was no one to answer his challenge—was a plain confession that resort must be made to direct taxation. There is also the measure proposing to regulate the registrars' fees which—like its predecessors, the license grabs—is another levy upon the municipalities to help carry on a Government professing to be rolling in affluence. Could anything be more complete than this confession that direct taxation is actually upon us? —Empire

ADJALA COUNCIL.

The council met on March 21, pursuant to adjournment. All the members present. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Bills and accounts were presented and read.

Petition signed by A. W. Burke and ten other ratepayers asking the council to instruct the township engineer to locate the road in the proper place on 5th line, div. 40. Presented and read. Petition allowed to stand over until next meeting.

The following orders issued:

Small—Wilson—That the following accounts be paid and that the reeve issue his order for the payment of the same: John Lindsay $1.50, for repairing bridge on west townline, Mono paying same amount; Robert Baxter $1.50, for repairing scraper, div. 31; Harts & Co., $6.40, for two blank assessment and one collectors roll and assessment notices; Miller Hamilton, treasurer, $81.85, for witness fees, Johnston vs. Adjala.

Small—Ryan—That the Clerk be instructed to send a list of the officers appointed to each overseer of roads in the township.

Council then adjourned to meet at Colston's hotel, Loretto, May 28th, '92, as court of revision.

THOS MCCABE,
Clerk.

It is said that Lord Lansdowne intends to leave India in December, when he will have completed four years in the office of viceroy

The result is agreeable to both men and company.

Messrs J. Hill, Samuel McKee, Thos. McKee, and Miss Brown, Mrs Robert Armstrong, Mrs. Fox and family, Mrs. Wm Henderson and Mrs. McCutcheon and family of Melmur left on Tuesday last week for Manitoba.

The many friends of Mr. Jas. Mitchell of Caledon, who is about removing to Orangeville, assembled at his residence, near Melville, on Monday night and presented him with a beautiful plush chair.

A son of Mr. Geo. Yeman of Ballinafad had a foot badly crushed the other day. He was mounting the horse-power when it was in motion and, slipping, got caught in the cogs. The sole of his boot was torn off and the foot so badly crushed that it will be some time before it can be of use to the unfortunate boy.

Mr. Enoch Price has purchased the east half of lot No. 3, in the 9th con. Amaranth, from Mr. George Lomas, the price paid was $3,600. This farm is an excellent one, all cleared and adjoining the village of Waldemar. Mr. Price having bought the farm on speculation and considerably below its value.

MONO MILLS.

A SEVERE LOSS.—The stallion, Bonnie Scotland, the property of Mr. John Aldous, died recently from inflammation. It is a great loss to Mr. Aldous as the animal was a valuable one.

DEATH OF MRS. OWEN GARVEY.—With deep regret we record the death of Mrs. Garvey, wife of Mr. Owen Garvey, which occurred at her residence, Mono, on Tuesday, the 22nd, inst. She had resided for over 40 years in the neighborhood and was well known and highly esteemed by all. Deceased leaves a husband and grown up family to mourn her loss. The large number of sorrowing friends and neighbors who followed the remains to their last resting place, on Thursday last, testified in a small measure the deep respect in which the deceased lady was held. A solemn service was conducted in St. Peter's church, Orangeville, by Rev. Father McPhillips, on the arrival of the corpse. After the service the remains were laid at rest in the Forest Lawn cemetery, beside those of her daughter who died several years ago. The removal of one so dear to family and friends is a loss one cannot realize, and heartfelt sympathy is widely expressed.

SHELBURNE.

SOLD.—Messrs. E. Berwick & Co. have sold the wildcat they had on exhibition to John Jelly. It is rumored that Mr. Jelly intends to settle the question "whether a bulldog or wildcat is the better fighter."

A MEAN TRICK.—Last Friday evening a load of young people from Hornings Mills drove down to Shelburne to attend the Skating rink. Ed Huxtable was among the number. He left his fur coat hanging up in the Queen's hotel, and when he returned for it he found that someone had cut it in nine or ten places with a knife. A borrowed fur coat which John Harrison also had hanging up in the hotel received like treatment. A robe belonging to the Hornings Mills crowd was taken out of the sleigh and hid. The damage is supposed to have been done by someone harboring spite. We understand strong suspicion rests on certain parties who may yet be summoned before justices of the peace.

NOT GUILTY!

The Ancaster Suspects Acquitted of the Charge of Murder.

As THE SUN of last week predicted that Jack Bertram and Jack Lottridge, who were being tried at Hamilton for the murder of Treasurer John Heslop of Ancaster township, would escape the gallows by the strong case presented by the defence, our prediction has come to pass. The trial was a prolonged one and was brought to a close on Thursday night. The jury moved like one man and returned a verdict of "not guilty."

A MOTHER'S JOY.

A Daughter Who Was Kidnapped in 1839 Recovered From a Convent.

LONDON, Ont., March 29.—Mrs. S. Hopkins and C. C. Woodruff of Chicago arrived in the city last evening. The lady is the mother of Isabel Hopkins, a 15 year-old girl, who was kidnapped from her home in 1889 by a woman, who is now under arrest there. The authorities secured information which led them to believe the missing girl was in the Sacred Heart convent here, hence the visit of Mrs. Hopkins here. They were admitted to the convent this afternoon and found the girl.

SIX BOYS AT A BIRTH.

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss., March 29.—Mrs C. K. Smith, wife of a white labourer, living on a farm near this city, has given birth to six babies.

They are all boys, well developed, and weigh in the aggregate 45 pounds. Mother and babies are doing well.

It has been conjectured that the secret of antediluvian longevity was some method of keeping the blood pure, warm and vigorous. Modern consumption the same purpose by using Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best blood purifier ever brought to light.

Canada future prosperity. Believing as I do in any decided decision on the subject, I would like to hear the question discussed. I have no sympathy whatever with that class of people who are afraid of discussion on any subject of this nature. If by Political Union we would be benefited in the way in which those in favor of it claim the clearer, then the sooner we are a part of the United States the better. If the idea is bad, having no solid foundation to stand on, as is claimed by those opposed to it, then the sooner we know it and discuss it from our minds for ever, the better. But by all means let us hear the question discussed. If those in favor of the scheme can show that it would be of advantage to an island place like Orangeville it would be a comparatively easy matter for them to show it to the border counties. If persons from a distance are brought here to discuss this question it would speak little for the intelligence of our citizens if they were not accorded a most attentive hearing, and I have too much confidence in the people of Orangeville to think that anything approaching rowdyism would take place at such a meeting.

Why is it that the town papers are not putting forth more strenuous efforts to induce the town council to send back the excuse for a town bell that we have swinging over our waterworks? That the bell is not what it should be is well known to all, but that the council is at liberty to exchange it for a better one may not be so well known. I have not heard a single individual say that it is all that it was expected to be, and I have heard it denounced on every side. Which of our councillors will take this in hand and supply us with a bell that the town will be proud of? The expense of paying the freight of the old bell to the foundry etc., would be but trifling and I am very sure our citizens would be willing to pay it twice over for the sake of getting a first-class bell.

It is about time that the Dufferin lacrosse club was holding a meeting for the purpose of organizing for the coming summer. Last year the club made an excellent showing, and as a large number of the team were quite young players we may look for something more than ordinary this year. I see that the association meets on April 9th, and the Dufferins should certainly have a representative there, either to make the club a member of the association for the coming season or to demand from Mount Forest's representatives the $8.00 still owing the Dufferins from that club, and state clearly why the Dufferins wished to withdraw from the association. Let the Dufferins organize at once and have the secretary communicate with Brampton, Georgetown, etc., to find out the intention of these clubs as to joining the association. If these clubs are willing to remain outside of the association I am sure that with Brampton, Georgetown, Orangeville and one or two other clubs, a series could be formed much more interesting and vastly more profitable than any ever formed under the control of the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

"He died in the harness" has been said of a great many public men, but of none can it be said more timely than of the late H. E. Clarke. Whether we think much or little of the man, every person is compelled to admire one who, like H. E. Clarke, died in the act of "serving his country." And yet the world moves on, and before the body of Mr Clarke had been placed in the grave the Toronto papers were discussing the question of who his successor is likely to be. I hope the citizens of Toronto, instead of considering party first, will choose a representative worthy to be the successor of one of the most upright and straightforward men that ever sat in the halls of the Legislature of Ontario.

MELVILLE.

SPICY SQUIBS.—Mr. John Graham, who spent the winter with his parents at Port Perry, is around here once more.....Mr. Stavely, who has been running the Lynn farm on the centre road for the past four years, has removed to Mr. John Harshaw's farm on the Prince of Wales road, Mono.....Mr. J. M. Smith of Orangeville has rented Mr. George Thompson's farm, and will use it for stock raising purposes.....Mr. John Corbit is thinking about taking a trip to the Northwest in a couple of weeks.....George was very active last week; what does it mean?

LEAVING.—The residence of Mr. Jas. Mitchell was the scene of a brilliant gathering on Monday evening. He is about removing to Orangeville and his friends and neighbors thought before he went they would present him with something by which he would remember them. Accordingly during the evening Mr. McNeil read an address and Mr. Mitchell was made the recipient of an armchair, hanging lamp and a goatskin robe. Dancing and other amusements were indulged in and altogether a very enjoyable evening was spent.

MARSVILLE.

MARRIAGE.—Mr. John McCauley of the township of Flos was united in holy wedlock on Wednesday, the 23rd inst., to Miss Sarah E. eldest daughter of Mr. Richard Anthony of this place. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's father and Rev. Mr. Elliott tied the knot. The happy couple have the good wishes of all.

Died on His Wedding Trip.

The Union station, Toronto, on Tuesday evening was the scene of a large gathering of Foresters under most distressing circumstances. Mr. John Easton, Court Lord Dufferin No. 6204, New Westminster, B.C., was married Feb. 17, and was in Toronto on his wedding tour, when he died suddenly on Saturday last. The bereaved bride-widow took the remains back to New Westminster Tuesday evening at 11 15 by the C. P. R. Great sympathy was expressed for her in her peculiarly distressing affliction, and representatives of all the courts in Toronto, to the number of a 150, marched to the station to testify their feeling for the unfortunate widow.

Mr. Samuel J Wallace, V. S., and wife of Warren, Pa., visited the former's parents here last week. Mr. W. left for home on Saturday morning, but Mrs. Wallace will visit here and at Owen Sound for a few weeks.

BOWLING GREEN.

TAPPED.—Some people have tapped a great number of trees, but the sap does not run very freely yet. When warmer weather comes, however, the taffy pulls will begin in earnest. They'll be the times.

SICK.—Mr. Thomas G. Bates is, we are sorry to say, laid up with an attack of congestion of the liver, but we hope that under the skilful treatment of Dr. Lewis he will soon be smiling around again.

CALLED HOME.—We are sorry this week to have to inform THE SUN and its many readers of the death of Miss Sara J Ritchie, daughter of Mr. Robt. Ritchie. The deceased lady, for which she was in word and deed, contracted is grippe about two years ago, but at first it was not thought that it would result as badly as it did. However, in spite of everything that could be done the attack terminated in Miss Ritchie's death on Wednesday night. A large concourse of people followed the remains to the Bowling Green burying ground on Friday. We deeply sympathise with the rest of the family, who are all down with la grippe but at last accounts were on the mend.

The following letter received by one of our ministers confirms the belief:—This is to give you notis that I and Miss—is coming to your church on Saturday afternoon next to undergo the operation of matrimony at your hands. Pleas be promp, as the cab is hired by the hour Windsor Record.

The committee of the hospital and house of industry, met on Saturday to open tenders received for the erection of an hospital at the poor house. The estimates put the building at $5 995 The actual contracts bring it down to about $3,600 or $3,700. The Gows of Fergus get the mason work for about $1,850; Mr. Waddell of Elora the carpenter work; Kerr of Fergus the tinsmithing; J. Phelan of Arthur painting, and a man from Guelph, the plumbing, the work being well distributed over the country.—Harriston Tribune.

A week or so ago in Toronto political social and police circles were turned topsy turvy by the publication of an exposé, purporting to be a record of a successful blackmailing scheme levied by a police officer against a physician and a minister who had got into some immoral scrape. The officer hearing of the case blackmailed both, obtaining $2,000 from the clergyman and $1,000 from the physician. The affidavits and the deed of settlement are published. The names are disguised but thinly. The exposure was produced in book form entitled "The Social Scourge, by Paul Emarose," and was scattered broadcast throughout the city. In addition to this the bulky volume contains a strong denunciation of alleged gambling practices at the political clubs, and also describes a procuring business which is alleged to flourish there because a certain police officer participates in the profits.

IS IT A GO?—Mr. Fletcher Byal takes possession of his farm this spring, which has been rented for some time past. Fletcher is a gay bachelor and the question naturally arises is he going to do it?

In my endorsement of Anti-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is a perfect remover of Dandruff, not only in the first stages, but even where the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair-dresser during which time I have experimented with with every recommended preparation, not one has (nor, I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti Dandruff has.

It positively removes Dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair-dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair-dressing place, at Balmoral Hotel, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.

THE TRUE POETRY.—The constant drop of water wears away the hardest stone; The constant gnaw of Tooser ameliorates the hardest bone; The constant wooing lover carries off the blushing maid; And the constant advertiser is the one that gets the trade.

COME, ROUND, COME.—There was quite a call at the town clerk's office this month to comply with the law regarding the registration of births, deaths and marriages. More than the usual number being registered, there being 9 births, 7 marriages and 8 deaths.

THE LATEST VET.—Mr. B. M. Perdue, son of Mr. John Perdue, V. S., has succeeded in passing all the examinations entitling him to practice as a veterinary surgeon, and the Toronto Veterinary college handed him his diploma last week. "Bree" is to be congratulated on his success.

A LEAP YEAR SOCIAL.—A "leap year" social will be given in the lecture room of the Methodist church to-morrow (Friday) evening by Mrs. Thos. Parsons' class. Tea will be served from 6 to 8, after which a good program will be rendered and an enjoyable time is anticipated. Admission 25cts., children 15cts.

A WALL COLLAPSED.—The upper portion of the front wall of the Eagle house on east Broadway collapsed about 4 o'clock yesterday morning, carrying away the verandah and breaking several windows in the bar room. Workmen are repairing the damage, which will amount to about $200.

SALE OF STOCK.—Mr. Richard McFadden of lot 18, con. 5, Mono, has leased a portion of his property and, therefore, will hold a clearing auction sale of horses, cattle, etc., on Wednesday, April 6, and every stockman should attend. Auctioneer Patterson will preside and extra easy terms will be given.

WHERE NEEDLES GO.—The other day Mr. Fremlin ran across a pin cushion in his garden and seeing several needles beside it he picked it up and took it to the house. When the article was dissected it was found that it contained 870 needles. The domestic economist would score another by stripping the pin cushion before throwing it out.

PASSED WITH HONORS.—Mr Thomas C. Wallace, youngest son of Mr. Samuel Wallace of this town, has just completed a very creditable course at the Toronto Veterinary college, and he now has the privilege of writing V. S. after his name. Mr. W. took honors in pathology, and he will practice with his brother Samuel J. in Warren, Pa., U. S. A.

S. O. E. CONCERT.—The Sons of England concert will be held in the town hall on Thursday evening, April 21. The following eminent artists have been engaged for the occasion: Mrs. Blight, Mrs. Caldwell, and Mr. H. M. Blight, Toronto's great baritone, and the well-known comique, W. E. Ramsay. Full particulars next week. The Orangeville orchestra will also be present.

LEFT THE FARM.—Last week Mr. Thomas Dawson, sr., and family moved from the old homestead in the South ward to their other residence on Church street. The family resided on the farm for 49 years and it was, no doubt, with some sorrow that they left it. The homestead, however, will still be controlled by a Dawson, the old gentleman having presented it to his son Thomas, who has just taken unto himself a bride.

A COPPER SWINDLER.—If this gentleman gives you a call treat him to a chase, but be sure and let the dogs loose before you commence: A slick tongued swindler is abroad among the farmers, selling them 25 pound cans of coffee for a ridiculously small sum. When the farmer gets his can he finds instead of coffee he has some nicely browned navy beans with a little coffee essence poured over them.

HULSE—PERRY.—Mr. J. J. Hulse of this town led to the altar on Wednesday of last week, Miss Isabella, daughter of Henry Perry, Esq., of King township. The ceremony took place in St Mary Magdelene church, Lloydtown, Rev. E W. Sibbald officiating. The bridesmaids were Miss D Thompson and Miss E. a Perry, and Mr. W. Hulse and Mr. F. Perry supported the groom The happy couple have taken up their residence on west Broadway.

FOR MANITOBA.—Among the crowd of people who left for Manitoba and the Northwest on Tuesday afternoon were Messrs. Robert Kyle and Samuel Tait, who expect to hold up at W. J. Price's boot and shoe emporium at Millie, Man. Mr. K took a trip through the prairie provience last year and was more than pleased with the country. THE SUN generally gets there once a week, too, and former Orangevillians are kept posted in the events that are continually occurring in their old home.

"HECK" ON THE LOOK OUT.—Seneca G. Ketchum, the wit, poet, humorist, declaimer, and last, but not least, printer, "kept his eagle optic on Pasco" for a few days this week and let his auburn locks mingle their brightness with the sunshine of this salubrious climate. Seneca G. is all he is and several other things besides, and when it comes to single, double, or "small pica" leaded, his leading editorials would rustle the cogs of the latest improved presses. He is looking for a location in some promising town with "a long felt want" for a rattling good newspaper.—Pasco Headlight, Wash, U. S.

MARRIAGE.—A very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mrs. Montgomery, William street, on Wednesday of last week, when her daughter Miss Martha A., and Mr. William Richardson of the C. P. R. were made one. The bride, who is the youngest daughter of the late John Montgomery of East Garafraxa, was assisted by Miss Maggie Reid and Mr John Richardson supported the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jos. Simpson in the absence of the Rev. M. L. Pearson. An inviting repast was partaken of and the young couple left for Toronto and other places on a wedding tour. The presents were numerous and costly.

A GRAND CONCERT.—The young men of the R. C. B. S. intend holding a second concert on the evening of Friday, April 8th. The program will consist of moral music to be furnished by the best town talent, together with suitable recitations by Miss T. Reid of Toronto. A very enviable autograph quilt, which will bear the names of the most important ladies of the town, will be displayed and offered for sale. The society will do their best to make the entertainment interesting and enjoyable. Admission 25cts. Full particulars hereafter.

H. S. L. S.—This society's regular meeting was held on Thursday afternoon, the attendance being very good, nearly all the meetings this term being unusually well attended. The first piece on the program was a male quartette, which was so well rendered that they had to respond to an encore, Miss Annie Leighton gave a recitation in her usual good style. The debate, Resolved—"That Cæsar was a great man," was then commenced by Robert Brenner for the affirmative, who had as his colleague John McMurchy. The negative side of the question was upheld by Norman McMillan and George McQuarrie. While the judges were summing up the debate Miss Hannah Babe gave a recitation which was heartily encored. Then it was announced that the judges' decision was in favor of the negative. After some excellent selections on the violin by Mr. W. McLean, the meeting was brought to a close.

FELL DOWN STAIRS.—Assessor Andrew Hughson met with a painful accident on Thursday night, and it is almost a miracle that he escaped as well as he did. The assessor had been fixing up his books in his son's law office in the Drury block, and was just stepping down the rear stairs when he missed his footing and fell to the bottom. Patrolman Parkin was in the vicinity at the time and discovered Mr. Hughson lying in an unconscious state at the foot of the stairs, bleeding profusely from several wounds in the head. The assessor was carried home and Dr. T. H. Henry summoned. The doctor put several stitches in the cuts, but the injured man has not sufficiently recovered to resume his duties, and it will be several days before he can get around again. Since the above was put in type Andy made his appearance on the streets, and he says it's almost impossible to kill an Irishman.

A LONG LIFE ENDED.—Mr. Joseph Leighton, father of Mr. J. S. Leighton and Mr. James Leighton, merchants of this town, died at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. John Carson, Mulmur township, early Sunday morning. The deceased was born in the county Sligo, Ireland, 86 years ago. At the early age of 19 years he commenced to teach school in his native county, afterwards teaching for a year or so at the Meeting of the Waters, county Wicklow. In 1829 he removed to the county of Longford where he continued to teach school and at the same time engaged in farming until 1865 when he emigrated to Canada, purchasing lot 22, 2nd con. E. H. S., Caledon township. Deceased taught school in Canada for over 8 years and was always considered a good mathematician. He leaves a family of 6 children to mourn his loss. The funeral took place to the Forest Lawn cemetery on Monday afternoon, a large concourse of friends assembling to pay their respects to one who had walked in every day life fearing God and in harmony with his neighbors. Many in Orangeville will bear pleasant recollections of one who has just passed away, his warm friendly greeting and as an honest, worthy gentleman Mr. Leighton carried to his grave the warm sympathy of many old and valued friends.

WHERE A REPORTER GETS THE WORST OF IT.—I sometimes think that the newspaper reporter has a little more to contend with than almost any other man in business. Take the commercial drummer for instance. He goes into a town to sell goods. If he finds his man out of sorts all he has to do is to move on to some other town and try another, or he can wait for his customer to get in the proper mood. If the deal between two speculators is of any moment the man who is engineering the deal can manœuver it according to circumstances. He may wait until he gets his man down to a dinner where the wine is flowing freely. But the newspaper reporter must tackle his man wherever he can find him. The man may have had some terrible misfortune, trouble, or a death in his family, or he may have had an addled poor dinner. But that is none of the reporter's business. He goes at the man with questions. He must tackle him where he finds him. If the man has had a smooth day of it, all right and well. But if he hasn't, the reporter must get him some way. In doing so he runs a risk of making an enemy for life and losing his reputation as an interviewer. The commercial man has the time to work his customer to the proper pitch. The reporter must get his man instanter, no matter what obstacles are in the way.

MAC AND COMMERCE.—Mr. J. P. MacMillan, ex crown attorney of Dufferin, has established a commercial college at Arthur, being assisted by the leading citizens of that place. The rooms formerly occupied as Lillico's bank on main street are to be utilized for the purpose, in which will be taught, by a competent professor, among other subjects the most improved systems of stenography and typewriting. Already Mr. MacMillan has completed arrangements for the requisite supply of machines with the Parish Manufactory of New York, through Mr. W. T. Brownridge of Boston, the supervisor of agencies—this company having succeeded in bringing to greater perfection than has yet been attained in that line the International typewriter, specially adapted for educational purposes, and at prices reduced to at least half those which have been hitherto paid for such on the market; and to provide which Mr. McMillan has become the sole representative in Canada of that wealthy and extensive concern, and in furtherance of which he will establish an office in Toronto for the purpose of introducing into the different high schools throughout the province this machine; also of affording those interested the advantage of the moderate prices set upon them under the arrangement.

We guarantee every bottle of B. B. B. Should any person be dissatisfied after using the first bottle we will refund the money on application, personally or by letter. MEDITATION MAKE MERRY.

Thirty Busts annual Ball on Friday Night an Enjoyable Affair.

The mechanics of this town had their ninth annual ball on Friday evening, and it is safe to say that it was enjoyed as well as any similar event ever held under the auspices of the Orangeville mechanics, thanks to the efforts of Secretary Laing, Treasurer Biddell and the energetic committee who had the affair in charge. The hall was most beautifully decorated for the occasion. The bright glance of the electric tights, the joyful countenances of the dancers, and the stirring music rendered by Bandmaster Bees' orchestra, constituted a very pretty scene indeed. Guests were received on the platform, on which there were easy chairs, sofas, etc., for the convenience of the merrymakers and their friends.

Shortly after 9 o'clock dancing commenced, and it was 12:30 before the first half of the program was completed, but the sixty five gay couples did not show the least sign of weariness. At that hour the gentlemen escorted their ladies down stairs to the dining-hall, where three large tables fairly groaned under the weight of good things prepared by Mine Host Shaw & Young of the Commercial hotel. After the guests had done ample justice to the excellent repast they returned to the hall and dancing was commenced again, and it looked but a few minutes to 5 on Saturday morning before the program was finished. This was without doubt one of the most enjoyable balls ever given.

The attendance would have been much larger had it not been the festive season, but the mechanics could not very well have had their ball earlier owing to the gentlemen's ball and the bachelors' assembly coming so close to one another. However, the event was very successful, financially and every other way.

Like Magic,

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children have been subject."—Capt. D. Ostby, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best recommendations of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it being more generally used now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great merit was considered marvelous."—H. S. Drake, M. D., Buffalo, Kans.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skillful man and of large practice, pronounced it impossible to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—O. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

LEFT THE FARM.—Last week Mr. Thomas Dawson, sr., and family moved from the old homestead in the South ward to their other residence on Church street. MARRIAGE.—A very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mrs. Montgomery, William street, on Wednesday of last week, when her daughter Miss Martha A., and Mr. William Richardson of the C. P. R. were made one. The bride, who is the youngest daughter of the late John Montgomery of East Garafraxa, was assisted by Miss Maggie Reid and Mr John Richardson supported the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jas. Simpson in the absence of the Rev. M. L. Pearson. An inviting repast was partaken of and the young couple left for Toronto and other places on a wedding tour. The presents were numerous and costly.

dent on Thursday night, and it is almost a miracle that he escaped as well as he did. The assessor had been fixing up his books in his one's law office in the Drury block, and was just stepping down the rear stairs when he missed his footing and fell to the bottom. Patrolman Parkin was in the vicinity at the time and discovered Mr. Hughson lying in an unconscious state at the foot of the stairs, bleeding profusely from several wounds in the head. The assessor was carried home and Dr. T. H. Henry commenced. The doctor put several stitches in the cuts, but the injured man has not sufficiently recovered to resume his duties, and it will be several days before he can get around again. Since the above was put in type Andy made his appearance on the streets, and he says it's almost impossible to kill an Irishman.

A LONG LIFE ENDED.—Mr. Joseph Leighton, father of Mr. J. S. Leighton and Mr. James Leighton, merchants of this town, died at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. John Carson, Mulmur township, early Sunday morning. The deceased was born in the county Sligo, Ireland, 86 years ago. At the early age of 19 years he commenced to teach school in his native county, afterwards teaching for a year or so at the Meeting-of-the Waters, county Wicklow. In 1829 he removed to the county of Longford where he continued to teach school and at the same time engaged in farming until 1865 when he emigrated to Canada, purchasing lot 22, 2nd con. E. H. S., Caledon township. Deceased taught school in Canada for over 8 years and was always considered a good mathematician. He leaves a family of 8 children to mourn his loss. The funeral took place to the Forest Lawn cemetery on Monday afternoon, a large concourse of friends assembling to pay their respects to one who had walked in every day life fearing God and in harmony with his neighbors. Many in Orangeville will hear pleasant recollections of one who has just passed away, his warm friendly greeting and an honest, worthy gentleman Mr. Leighton carried to his grave the warm sympathy of many old and valued friends.

WHERE A REPORTER GETS THE WORST OF IT.—I sometimes think that the newspaper reporter has a little more to contend with than almost any other man in business. Take the commercial drummer for instance. He goes into a town to sell goods. If he finds his man out of sorts all he has to do is to move on to some other town and try another, or he can wait for his customer to get in the proper mood. If the deal between two speculators is of any moment the man who is engineering the deal can manouver it according to circumstances. He may wait until he gets his man down to a dinner where the wine is flowing freely. But the newspaper reporter must tackle his man wherever he can find him. The man may have had some terrible misfortune, trouble, or a death in his family, or he may have had an allfired poor dinner. But that is none of the reporter's business. He goes at the man with questions. He must tackle him where he finds him. If the man has had a smooth day of it, all right and well. But if he hasn't, the reporter must get him some way. In doing so he runs a risk of making an enemy for life and losing his reputation as an interviewer. The commercial man has the time to work his customer to the proper pitch. The reporter must get his man instanter, no matter what obstacles are in the way.

MAC AND COMMERCE.—Mr. J. P MacMillan, ex crown attorney of Dufferin, has established a commercial college at Arthur, being assisted by the leading citizens of that place. The rooms formerly occupied as Lillico's bank on main street are to be utilised for the purpose, in which will be taught, by a competent professor, among other subjects the most improved systems of stenography and typewriting. Already Mr. MacMillan has completed arrangements for the requisite supply of machines with the Parish Manufactory of New York, through Mr. W. T. Brownridge of Boston, the supervisor of agencies—this company having succeeded in bringing to greater perfection than has yet been attained in that line the International typewriter, specially adapted for educational purposes, and at prices reduced to at least half those which have been hitherto paid for such on the market; and to provide which Mr. MacMillan has become the sole representative in Canada of that wealthy and extensive concern, and in furtherance of which he will establish an office in Toronto for the purpose of introducing into the different high schools throughout the province this machine; also of affording those interested the advantage of the moderate prices set upon them under the arrangement.

Poetry.

OUT OF THE HURLY BURLY.

Out of the hurly burly,
Far from the toil and strife,
Away from the care which is everywhere
Making a curse of this life,
Come to the grave's oblivion—
None need your pity there—
Keep all the tears of the mourning years
For the living whom pain yet must share.
Freight to the winds of heaven,
Pray to the empty air,
Who weep and the small must go to the wall.
Might rights itself everywhere.
There's love—in the misty future;
There's justice—beyond the grave;
The rich and the strong their pleasure prolong
By the promises given the slave.
There's heaven for hopeful Christians,
Who're naught to expect from to-day;
But death alone can we make our own,
With no one to say us nay.
Out of the hurly burly,
Away from the feast and fast,
Into the gloom of the silent tomb,
Where all find one level at last.

CHEERING WORDS.

If any little word of mine
Can make some life the brighter,
If any little song of mine
May make some heart the lighter,
God help me speak that little word,
And take the song I'm singing
And bear it to some lonely dale
To set the echoes ringing;
Echoes that thrill in joyous tone,
To some one comfort bringing.

SERENE.

It takes a good deal to disturb the even tenor of certain well ordered and serene minds, in illustration of which the following incident is given:

An old lady was going down a flight of stairs when she fell and went rolling to the very bottom of the stairs, where she burst open the door and came rolling out into the kitchen.

Her servant girl, Jane, screamed in affright, and various members of the house came running into the kitchen, breathless with alarm.

Before any of them could speak a word the old lady lifted herself to a sitting position on the floor, and holding one finger up warningly and sniffing at the air, said calmly:

"Jane, them biscuits in the oven are burning, and I know it!"

VALUE OF LEMON JUICE.

A writer in the London Lancet remarks:—"Few people know the value of lemon juice. A piece of lemon bound on a corn will cure it in a few days. A free use of lemon juice and sugar will always relieve a cough. Most people feel poorly in the spring, but if they would eat a lemon before breakfast every day for a week—with or without sugar, as they like—they would find it better than any medicine. Lemon juice used according to this recipe will sometimes cure consumption. Put a dozen lemons into cold water and slowly bring to a boil; boil slowly till the lemons are soft, then squeeze until all the juice is extracted, add sugar to your taste and drink. In this way use one dozen lemons a day. If they cause pain, or loosen the bowels too much, lessen the quantity and use only five a day until you are better, and then begin with a dozen a day. After using five or six dozen, the patient will begin to gain flesh and enjoy food. Hold on to the lemons, and still use them freely several weeks more."

The above are by no means homœopathic doses; but the remedy is a natural and innocent one, and the dose can readily be reduced, as directed, if any disagreeable symptoms arise. For colds I can confidently recommend lemon juice made thick with sugar. This softens and thins the mucus which collects about the throat, thus promoting expectoration, while the sugar soothes the irritation of the membrane over which it passes, making the cough less frequent and painful. This treatment is much more safe and pleasant than the use of opiates and nauseous cough mixtures which often do great harm; the latter by checking the cough too soon do so, and the latter by deranging the stomach and the whole system.

In using lemons for a cold or cough, about a half pint of lemonade, well sweetened, should be taken hot on retiring at night; and if the cough continues troublesome, a spoonful of this syrup should be sipped frequently, and slowly swallowed. Its efficacy will be much increased if preceded by a hot foot bath.

DIRT CHEAP.

He is a foreigner and speaks English indifferently, but has a fine appreciation of art. Strolling along the avenue the other day, he bought some pictures at an auction sale, and meeting a group of ladies whom he knew, he began to descant on their merits, adding as a final commendation their price:

"I bought them myself for. They were so dirty cheap," he concluded, while the ladies smiled audibly.

No medicine has had greater success in checking consumption, in its early stages, than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It stops coughing, soothes the throat and lungs, and induces much-needed repose. Hundreds have testified to the remarkable virtues of this preparation.

"Isn't it peculiar that women are so fond of perfume?" asked Squildig.

"Not at all," replied his wife; "women are fond of scents and men are fond of dollars."

Doctor—I see what the matter is. You do not get sleep enough. Take this prescription to the druggist's.

Mr. Blinkers—Thank you. I presume that's what the matter is.

Doctor (next day)—Ah, good morning! You are looking much better to-day. Slept last night, didn't you?

Mr. Blinkers—Slept like a top. I feel first rate.

Doctor—How many doses of that opiate did you take?

Mr. Blinkers (in surprise)—I didn't take any. I gave it to the baby.

Mr. C. Harper, Ottawa, Ont., writes:—"I have pleasure in stating that your Pink Pills are a wonderful tonic and reconstructor of the system. Since beginning their use, I have gained an average, a pound of flesh a week. I have recommended them to a number of my friends, who declare that they are the only medicine that they have ever used that does all that is claimed for it. Sold by all dealers.

Dr. Agnew, the celebrated Philadelphia surgeon, who attended the late President Garfield after the shooting by Guiteau died Tuesday.

PERSONALS.

Shakespeare has no more steady reader and apt quoter than Prince Bismarck.

It is said that Lord Lansdowne intends to leave India in December, when he will have completed four years in the office of viceroy.

Leslie Stephen, in a letter to the London Times, proposes a fund to erect to the memory of James Russell Lowell a monument to be placed in Westminster Abbey.

Prince George is likely to choose as his wife one of two women, Princess Victoria, daughter of Prince Christian, or Princess Victoria of Hesse, the youngest daughter of Princess May. Both are charming and popular girls.

Mme. de Novikoff, who has attracted much attention by her labors in London in behalf of the oppressed Slavs of Turkey, is a Russian woman of high birth, the widow of General Novikoff, who was one of the bravest soldiers in the Servian Turkish war.

The Paris Geographical Society has awarded its grand gold medal to M. Reclus. The distinction is rarely conferred on authors, being nearly always given to explorers. Another gold medal has been awarded to the Prince of Monaco for his researches on marine currents.

Dr. George Kingsley was the last survivor of the distinguished trio of brothers of whom Charles Kingsley was the best known to the outer world. He was a man of extensive scientific attainments, an able physician and a brilliant wit. He had his reverend brother's insatiable love of travelling.

Disraeli had no rival in the art of making graceful compliments. When the Chinese embassador once conveyed to him through an interpreter his regret that he could not speak English Disraeli replied: "Pray tell his excellency that I hope he will remain in the country until I can speak Chinese."

Dr. Henry Schliemann's widow will continue the explorations on the site of Troy. She sent to Berlin some time ago the collections of antiquities amassed in their house at Athens, which he left by will to the German empire, and these will so soon as convenient, be arranged in the great Schliemann collection in the Royal Museum.

DETROIT, March 18.—The ladies of Otsego in this state are running riot, a new scheme for catching the elusive dime having become epidemic among the society ladies of the town. The Library Association is in need of money, and forty of the most attractive maids and matrons agreed to earn the money by their individual efforts, the more eccentric the better.

Mrs. N. W. Mills, in appropriate costume, was to-day a street peddler of doughnuts, while Mrs. C. W. Edsell, wife of the wealthy banker, washed windows at twenty cents a piece. Mrs. L. D. Williams appeared as a good samaritan, selling corn salve, while Maggie Smith, prominent in W. C. T. U. circles, scooped in the dimes as a beggar. Mrs. George Easton was arrayed as a bootblack, and on the street corner "shined 'em up" for a nickle, a dime or a dollar, as the case might be.

Among the most profitable schemes that engineered by Mrs. Frank Lindsey and Mrs. C. E. Drew might be named. Their clothes were ragged in the extreme and with two hand organs and a monkey they captured the town and the most of the loose change in it. G. S. Bardeen, president of the Bardeen Paper Company, announces that he will pay fifty cents per kiss for not less than twenty kisses, not more than one kiss from any one lady. It is understood to night the entire forty ladies will put Bardeen to the test to-morrow.

A horse will travel 400 yards in 4½ minutes at a walk, 400 yards in 2 minutes at a trot, 400 yards in 1 minute at a gallop. The usual work of a horse is taken at 22,500 pounds raised 1 foot per minute for 8 hours per day. A horse will carry 250 pounds 25 miles per day of 8 hours. An average draft horse will draw 1,600 pounds 23 miles per day on a level road, weight of wagon included. The average weight of a horse is 1,000 pounds, his strength is equivalent to that of five men. In a horse mill moving at 3 feet per second, track 25 feet diameter, he exerts with the machine the power of 4½ horses. The greatest amount a horse can pull in a horizontal line is 900 pounds, but he can only do this momentarily; in continued exertion probably half of this is the limit. He attains his growth in five years, will live 25, average 16 years. A horse will live 25 days on water without solid food, 17 days without eating or drinking, but only 5 days on solid food without drinking.

Men never break down in health so long as they keep a happy, joyous heart. It is the sad and despondent heart that tires, and, whatever the load, we should always keep a cheerful spirit within. There two ways of meeting a hard experience. One is to struggle and resist, refusing to yield. The result of this is the wounding of the soul and intensifying the hardness. The other is to quietly to accept the circumstances or restraints and make the best of them by enduring all cheerfully. Those who live in the first way grow old in the middle of life. Those who take the other way keep a young and happy heart down to old age, and often find the last days the best days and old age the happiest time of life.

It Leads the Leaders.

The foremost medicine of the day, Burdock Blood Bitters, is a purely vegetable compound possessing perfect regulating powers over all the organs of the system and controlling their secretions. It so purifies the blood that it cures all blood humors and diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore, and this combined with its unrivalled regulating, cleansing and purifying influence on the secretions of the liver, kidneys, bowels and skin, render it unequalled as a cure for all diseases of the skin. From one to two bottles will cure boils, pimples, blotches, nettle rash, scurf, tetter, and all the simple forms of skin disease. From two to four bottles will cure salt rheum or eczema, shingles, erysipelas, ulcers, abscesses, running sores, and all skin eruptions. It is noticeable that sufferers from skin diseases are nearly always aggravated by intolerable itching, but this quickly subsides on the removal of the disease by B. B. B. Passing on to graver yet prevalent diseases such as scrofulous swellings, humors and scrofula, we have undoubted proof that from three to six bottles used internally and by outward application (diluted if the skin is broken) to the affected parts, will effect a cure. The general mission of B. B. B. is to regulate the liver, kidneys, bowels and blood, to correct acidity and wrong action of the stomach and to open the sluiceways of the system to carry off all clogged and impure accretions, allowing nature then to side-track every and repair without fail bad blood, liver complaint, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick headache, dropsy, rheumatism, and every species of disease arising from disorder of the liver, kidneys, bowels, stomach and blood.

TRIPPED ON A SPINSTER.

A Matrimonial Sharper, Whose Specialty has Widows, Supposed in New York.

PITTSBURG, March 17.—P. Denton, who married Mrs. M Walker of Mansfield in Pittsburg on Oct. 21 last, and ran away a day later after getting $300 from her, is under arrest in New York for a similar matrimonial adventure.

Denton, who is under arrest as James Taylor, was his Pittsburg bride with stories of his wealth. He said he was a rich Californian and induced her to sell her little property to go West with him. The couple spent a night at the St. James Hotel and in the morning Denton took $300 belonging to his wife and went out to buy tickets. He never returned.

On Nov. 21, 1881, under the name of James Taylor, he married Henrietta Coste, a French woman, 38 years old, who owns a hair-dressing establishment at 51 East Twenty-first street, New York.

He told her that he owned a large orange grove at Taylorville, Cal., and that he was very rich. Being, as she thought, a shrewd woman and seeing a good chance to step into a position of wealth, she was married to him by Bishop Flynn, after a few days' acquaintance, and they went to Niagara Falls on their wedding tour. On their way he contrived to get possession of $850, which she had drawn from the bank before leaving New York, at his instigation and two diamond rings.

Denton gave the woman the slip at Niagara Falls, but she put detectives on his track and he was captured in New York on Friday night. He had $650 of his wife's money and the two diamond rings left. From papers on his person it appeared that he was about to marry Mrs. Julia E Johnson, a widow with considerable property, and had also been corresponding with two other women.

Taylor has only one arm and tells numerous stories about how he lost the other. He was married in Chicago a year ago under the name of Tome to a widow, whom he fleeced out of $2000.

It is said that the Alliston constable "gets fall" and a "Ratepayer" communicates to the local paper calling for his dismissal.

The new American post card recently issued is large enough to write a letter on. It is 6 x 3½ inches. The Canadian card is 5 x 2¾ inches.

Merchants complain of hard times and while they, the heaviest taxed portion of the community, find money scarce, a stranger can jump into the town and rake in more ready money in a day or two than some of the store keepers see in a week. A few days ago a peddler sold over 100 volumes of a $2 50 book that would be dear at $1 and not long since an agent sold a large number of carpet sweepers at 50c. more than our house-furnishing men ask. The home men should be the men to receive support.—Orillia Times.

In a cave in the Pantheon the guide, by striking the flaps of his coat, makes a noise equal to that produced by firing a twelve pound cannon. In the cave of Smellin, near Viborg, Finland, a stone thrown down a certain abyss makes a reverberating echo which sounds like the dying wail of some wild animal. Pliny, the rare old gossip, tells of a cave somewhere in Dalmatia where a stone thrown in raised a regular din of noises. Fingal's Cave, on the Isle of Staffa, has an abnormally developed echo.

The death is announced of Alexander McLaren, the venerable reeve of Hibbert township, and ex warden of Perth county. Mr. McLaren always took an active part in municipal politics, and represented his township in the county council the first years the county was set apart in 1853, holding his seat for only a year. In 1881 he was re elected, and has sat in the county council continuously ever since. In 1888 he was elected to the warden's chair, and filled the office with satisfaction and credit for a year.

Capt. Clarke on Thursday afternoon came upon a shocking case of poverty and squalor, where a woman was almost dead from hunger and neglect. The woman referred is Mrs. Whiteside, who resides in what is known as Hatch's Block. Some time ago her husband left her and her little child to fight life's battles as best they could. She is now very low from prostration and when she was found by the relief officer she was in bed famishing from the cold, being covered with a few old rags. A medical man was called and he had the woman removed to the hospital, where she will be properly cared for. As to the child, it has been given over by the relief officer to the care of a suitable party.—Guelph Herald.

At the Walkerton division court, last week, a case of considerable importance to farmers and cattle men, came up for trial. The case was substantially as follows: In June last John Rowland bought 40 head of cattle from Richard Donnelly of Pinkerton, about half of which were allowed to remain with Donnelly for some months before removal. On the day on which he was notified that the cattle were to be taken away, Donnelly got up early and gave them a liberal supply of salt. Salt produces thirst, and thirst is best satisfied with water. Donnelly's cattle naturally drank their fill of water, and Rowland maintained that as a consequence they registered an abnormally heavy weight. The case went to a jury and a verdict for the full amount of the claim, $60, was awarded to Rowland. The defendant was assessed with the costs.

Diseases of the Chest and Lungs.

These diseases are too well known to require any description. How many thousands are carried every year to the silent grave by that dreadful scourge, consumption, which always commences with a slight cough. Keep the blood pure and healthy by taking a few doses of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills each week, and diseases of any kind is impossible. All medicine dealers sell Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mrs. Spleasy—"They say it's an ill wind that blows nobody good. What would you doctors do were it not for sickness?" Dr. Bolus—"Ah, there you make a great mistake, Mrs. Spleasy. It is the people who think themselves sick who curse the doctors."

"Dad's to a class," is advice about full of wisdom. It is discovered in well stocked tobacco by Mitchell, one leaf and crown, is sealed in same made into stars and shavings, twisted in big plug on the numbers, twisted in free leaf, harmonic, and dog for fourteen a bit. There are ways and ways of smoking the disagreement of them abominable ways. Clean juice and clean breath are both good, but clean shavings and clean stars are short cuts to dyspepsia. The sweet people, who ought to know, say that the clean should be cooked in this way:—Put half a peck of fresh clams into no less kettle and pour over them a quart of water. Let the water boil over the clams three times, then extract the white meats, dip them into a dish of melted butter, and swallow them.

Easter may come as early as March 22nd and as late as April 25th. Since 1803 Easter has occurred three times on the 19th, five times on the 18th, five times on the 1st, four times each on the 2nd, 11th and 12th, four times on March 31, four times on April 6, three times on the 4th, 5th, 7th, 8th, 10th, 13th, 14th and 22nd of April and 27th and 28th of March. March 22, 1818, was the earliest date upon which it has occurred. Nine days in March are represented, viz.: 22nd, 23rd, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th and 31st.

"Where," asks the American man, "are our wives?" "In the street," he answers, "at teas, luncheons, dinners, in the slope, travelling abroad, at Browning clubs, faith cure seances, women's rights meetings, Boon receptions, Meredith mornings, Blavatsky circles, indigent female recitals, arriving immigrants, shelters, mothers' meetings, Jewish refugees, Bulgarian bazaars—anywhere, everywhere, except at home."

Modjeska tells of the first appearance in public of the great tenor, Jean de Reszke. "It seems so funny to hear of him now as a celebrity," she said a few days ago. "I remember so well the first time he ever sang in public. He was then such a wee bit of a tot that he was afraid to go on the stage alone, and I went on with him and held his hand while he sang. Even then Jean's voice was sweet enough to make one cry." Now he gets $1,200 a night in New York.

The lily was sacred to Juno; the myrtle and the rose were emblems of Venus; to Minerva were given the violet and the olives; dittany was the flower of Diana; Ceres had the poppy; Mars, the ash; Bacchus, the grape leaf; Hercules, the poplar, and Jupiter, the monarch of trees, the oak. Translating this floral code, we may conclude that among the Romans the lily and the oak stood as the emblems of power; the myrtle and the rose, of love; the olive and the violet, of learning; the ash of war, and the grape leaf, of festivity.

It is asserted that the electric heater is so nearly developed on a thoroughly practical basis that it can be available at a slight increase in cost over present methods, an increase which the electricians say should be more than made up for in the superiority in cleanliness and convenience.

In the broiling and wilting July days of the near future the housewife in her cool kitchen may press a button and have the strongest, hottest fire she needs at a moment's notice. The cooking done, a touch on another button will set the same power that has cooked the dinner to work on the electric fans. On cold winter mornings the fire may be started by a touch on a button beside the pillow and the domestic infelicities caused by discussions as to whose duty it is to get up and start the fire will be avoided.

GENTLEMEN,—Your Anti-Dandruff should be used by all who are troubled with Dandruff and falling of the hair. I have used it only a few times and it has wrought a wonderful change. I also am fully convinced that Anti-Dandruff promotes growth of the hair.

A veteran soldier who participated in the battle of Waterloo is now a resident of Alles township. He came to Daniel Witt and he is in his 95th year. He is believed to be the last survivor of that famous battle.

Twenty-one Italian desperadoes from Italy arrived at New York on Sunday, including two murderers. The 19 were allowed to land but the two will be sent back.

An old man named Alexander Hall has occupied a small shanty at the foot of Charleston Lake, near Brockville, all winter. A day or two ago a farmer visited the house to borrow an axe and found Hall's body lying on the floor by the stove and frozen stiff. A little dog sat by the corpse.

Queen Victoria and party arrived at Hyeres, France, on Tuesday. They were received quietly by the mayor and prefect on behalf of the town and Government. The Queen, in reply to the welcome extended to her, graciously expressed her thanks. The route to the hotel was decorated with arches of flowers and was filled with a cheering multitude. President Carnot has sent to Queen Victoria a most cordial telegram of welcome. Among other things M. Carnot expressed the hope that her Majesty would find in the beautiful province an amelioration of the sorrows that have lately afflicted her maternal heart.

The Rest of Rock Salt, for Stock.

Read what Prof. Robertson, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, says regarding proper ways of salting stock:—Every cattle should have access to salt every day. A series of experiments has convinced me that when animals are denied salt for a period of even one week, they will yield from 10 to 15 per cent. less milk, and that of an inferior quality. Such milk will, on an average, turn sour in twenty four hours sooner than milk from animals which have had a supply of salt every day, all other conditions of treatment being equal."

THE only chemically pure Salt ever discovered, analyzed 99 84-100 Pure Salt. All kinds of stock will do better where this salt is used; one ton will go four times as far as common salt, hence it is cheaper. It is the finest salt in the world for the preservation of all kinds of meat, all the large packers are using it. It is sold cheaper than any other lump salt. We guarantee this salt as advertised. Make a trial and you will always use it; we have in stock fine and coarse, at

WHEN they find how speedily health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.

Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians prescribed my principal ailments. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

"We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement, made by Mrs. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence."—O. P. Chamberlain, G. W. Waring, C. A. Wells, Druggists.

"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his face. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using it a little while, he was cured, and is now a well man, working in a sugar mill at Brisbane, Queensland, Australia."—A. Attewell, Sherbot Lake, Ontario.

KATHALEENA.

Kathaleena! Kathaleena!
Through the green, bird-haunted valley,
Through the brook bright, windy meadow,
Through the dim, mysterious forest,
All the birds are calling thee;
All the breezes their voices rally,
Shout thy name through sun and shadow,
Cry: Bring back the light thou bearest
From our fields, Astore Machree!
Kathaleena!

Kathaleena! Kathaleena!
In the land where now thou strayest
Have the cumbro hills grown brighter?
Have the birds a sweeter singing
Since thy lovely nest is there?
Surely, surely, skies the grayest
Hearts the saddest, must grow lighter
Where thy tender voice is bringing Blessed dreams and visions fair,
Kathaleena!

Kathaleena! Kathaleena!
Ah, return to those who call thee!
Come once more to those who wander
Through the heart that loves for lonely,
Faths that wait for love and thee;
Let no strange lands enthral thee,
Dream no foreign hearts are fonder
Than the heart that loves for only
Thy low voice, Astore Machree!
Kathaleena!

The Story Teller.

The Dummy Detective.

I was the youngest detective on the force and was bursting to distinguish myself.

So far chance had not favored me with a first class murder or robbery, because the older and more experienced officers were always detailed to ferret out those cases.

Sometimes, through the aid given them by the wideawake newspaper reporters, these sides foxes were successful and then, of course claimed and took all the credit for superior skill and shrewdness. If they failed—as they often did—to bag their game they laid the fault to the papers for making the affair public and thus giving the rogues an opportunity to slip away or cover up their tracks.

One day while I was meditating if it wouldn't pay me to go to England and catch Mr. Jack, the Ripper, I was called into the inner sanctum by our chief and ordered to report for duty on the morrow at one of the largest and most fashionable retail dry-goods stores in the city.

I was there to see the head of the house and from him learn what I was to do.

Although it didn't look like a job wherein I should run a risk of life or gain a great reputation, I was well pleased with the commission and resolved that my part of it shouldn't be a failure. Accordingly the next morning found me in the private office of the grand store having a strictly confidential interview with its senior partner.

I was informed that in their cloak department many thefts had recently taken place, and that in spite of careful watching there was not the slightest clue to the thief.

The garments stolen had been fur-trimmed cloaks of great value, and were all taken from the dummies standing about the floor, on which said articles were hung to show them to advantage and also beautify the saleroom.

I asked the usual questions concerning the many and decidedly pretty young ladies employed in the department but the firm scouted the thought that any of them had anything to do with the robberies and gave me to infer that the thefts were committed by professional shoplifters.

After a little more talk, which helped me not at all, I was introduced to the gentleman at the head of the cloak room and left to follow my own way of nabbing the culprit.

The thefts had all, as far as my cloak manager knew, been done during the business part of the day, when the floor was thronged with lady shoppers. The handsomest and most expensive garments were displayed on the dummies and frequently removed each day, for, owing to their catching the ladies' eyes by hanging naturally from the shapely skeleton forms, they sold much quicker than if left undistinguished among the hundreds of others.

Taking my position in the establishment as the new floor walker and being so pointed out to the young lady employes, I began my rather unexciting and too easy task.

In my best suit and necktie, with my good looks enhanced by a tonsorial artist, and all smiles and bows, I made out to be tolerably busy at doing nothing, and meeting and greeting the stylishly dressed crowds of eager shoppers and directing them, as well as my short knowledge of mercantile business let me, to the objects of which they were in search.

I also put on airs of authority for the benefit of the young saleladies so they wouldn't by their manners cause any suspicion to the party or parties I was expecting to capture.

I watched everybody and everything—noted that each cloak-arrayed dummy was generally being examined by one or more admiring and enthusiastic female shoppers, who not out only used their sparkling eyes, but also their daintily gloved fingers in obtaining a knowledge of the garments displayed as a bait for their husbands' hard earned money.

I noticed, too, that probably half of the shoppers came there without the faintest idea of buying—merely to enjoy the intoxication of hunting for bargains and giving the polite and attentive saleladies as much trouble as possible.

I saw many more things which aroused my suspicions and curiosity during the day and I never for a moment left my station—not even for lunch—till the place was closed for the night and all the hands had gone.

Then, to my surprise and chagrin, I was informed by the manager that two valuable cloaks had been stolen right under my nose.

The job of catching the thief wasn't as easy as I supposed and I began to think I wasn't much of a detective, after all,—at least, when there was a woman in the case.

But I dared not show my signs of not knowing my business, and, assuming an "all-right" manner, I told my cloak man that on the next day the bird would be trapped, as it always took a while to make observations and form theories, and then I arranged to meet him on the floor early in the evening morning before any of the employes arrived.

Before I went to sleep that night I laid my plans.

In the morning bright and early I was around, and with the manager a lone went on the cloak floor to make the needful preparations to distinguish or extinguish myself.

Selecting one of the largest dummies and seeing that the brown muslin dress over its skeleton frame was in good order and reached to the floor, I told my astonished dry goods man that I intended to hide under it and then lie in wait for the thief who I meant to nab when the cloak over me was removed, being, of course, able to know that by the light of the saleroom shining through the thin muslin covering.

He smiled at the queerness of the proceeding, but told me to go ahead and promised to be on hand in case I wanted assistance.

Putting on the dummy an elegant cloak for bait, he helped me to hide securely under it, and wishing me success, he left me with a laugh which, I must say, I didn't feel like echoing.

Soon I heard the store people tramping in and the young saleladies tripping by me and chatting gaily as they laid aside their wraps and hats preparatory to commencing the labors of the day.

They seemed immensely merry over something very funny, and their peals of musical laughter sounded sweet to eager ears until, alas, I sadly discovered that I, the new floor walker, was the subject of their witticisms and ridicule.

How I wanted to suddenly pop out from my ignoble hiding place and squelch them as they deserved, but the certainty of only making myself more ridiculous and being met with redoubled laughter kept me in my mean and unhappy position—under a female skirt.

By and by, and greatly to my mind's relief, the smart remarks followed by peals of merriment gave way to the sober hum and bustle of business.

For hours I sat in my cramped and uncomfortable hiding place, feeling like a fool and, no doubt, looking like one. Crazily excited shoppers brushed against the dummy, beneath which a bigger dummy squatted, and several times nearly knocked it over, so I had plenty of occupation in holding it down. Once the cold sweat came out all over me and my hair stood up straight when some one tried to lift my strange tent from the floor and expose the "handsome new floor walker," squatting like a tailor and looking like a boiled lobster under it.

You may believe I held on with a grip which death itself couldn't unclasp till the danger was gone.

Noon time came. Hungry, thirsty, tired and with bones aching from cramp, there I was and there I had to stick till night or my anxiously hoped for shoplifter came—if that was her day.

I heard the clock strike "2" and "3," and "4" and in spite of patience and grit, and pride, and everything, I swore at myself and laughed at myself and and vowed to myself that never more would I undertake to be smarter than a woman. Henceforth I should confine my detective abilities exclusively to male "Jack the Rippers" or bank cashiers, or else peddle peanuts for a living.

While thus engaged in sorrowful meditations and trying painfully to ease my cramped body without exciting attention, I was aroused by someone tugging at the cloak, and lifting the dummy's skirt I could just see a pair of dainty feet. Then, in an instant, off the cloak slipped—the dim light shining through the dummy's muslin covering telling me—and like a flash I grabbed the ankles of the pretty feet I was watching, sprung from my hiding hole and—of all the shrieks and blushes and indignation I ever knew, those from the elegantly dressed and exquisitely beautiful young lady I had so unceremoniously and, meanly captured took the prize.

At once I was the center of a panic-stricken and terrible angry mob of females who wanted to kill me, and toss what was left of my miserable carcass out the window. And if the big department manager had not promptly rescued me from their clutches, after my coat-tails had been ripped off and my fine side whiskers badly damaged, they'd have done it.

During the battle, and careless of my injuries, I kept tight hold of my fair prisoner—only instead of grasping her pretty ankles I shifted to her equally pretty wrists.

Her sweet, innocent and beautiful indignation seemed so real that I feared an awful mistake had been made, and began to figure how many years' salary I should have to pay for damages. But when she was searched, with due apologies for the apparent necessity, the amount of pawn tickets for cloaks found in her stocking—by the female searcher of course—saved my bacon and put me in the papers as one of the most skilful detectives on record.

But no more dummies for me.

The San Antonio Express points with pride to its achievement in suppressing Garza. It claims to have published his portrait, and that the famous brigand saw it and fled to Mexico.

In my endorsement of Anti-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is a perfect remover of Dandruff, not only in the first stages, but even when the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair-dresser during which time I have experimented with with every recommended preparation, not one has (now, I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti Dandruff has.

It positively removes Dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair-dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair-dressing parlors, at Belmont House, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.

THE RIGHT HAND.

Some Curious and Valuable Information about this Organ.

Whether the greater aptitude of the right hand has been gradually acquired or is a gift of nature has always been a disputed question. Aristotle and Sir Thomas Brown believed it to have been acquired; Benjamin Franklin, pronouncing the left hand, wrote a popular article urging the claims of this member to greater consideration. The left hand is made to say:

"There are two sisters of us, and the two eyes of men do not resemble, nor are capable of being on better terms with each other, than my sister and myself, were it not from the partiality of our parents, who made the most injurious distinctions between us. From my infancy I have been led to consider my sister as being of more elevated rank. I was suffered to grow up without instruction, while nothing was spared for her education. She had masters to teach her writing, music, drawing and other accomplishments; but if by chance I touch a pencil, a pen, or a needle, I was rebuked, and more than once I have been beaten for being awkward, and wanting a graceful manner."

The left hand contended that she should be instructed equally with the right in order that if the right should be disabled the left might take her place.

Many arguments may be brought forward in support of the theory that the greater strength of the right hand has been gradually developed. In warfare the shield would naturally be held in the left hand to protect the heart while the right was used for fighting and all military training, necessitating uniform movements, would tend to increase that distinction.

If the tendency to use the right hand were inborn, it should appear, from analogy, that other animals possess greater strength on one side, and this does not appear to be the case. On the contrary, it is maintained that nature shows the tendency to be her own provision, in many ways.

The direction of the worm of the screw is not arbitrary, but is an evidence of the adaptation of parts to each other in the economy of nature.

The greater strength belongs to the whole right side and not to the hand alone. Opera dancers, it is said, are obliged to give double the practice to the left side to obliviate awkwardness.

Innumerable expressions own their significance to this distinction. A left handed blow implies treachery, and a left handed compliment, insincerity. "Stand thou, on my left hand," is equivalent to condemnation.

The Chinese assign honor to the left hand in ceremonials; this may be in accordance with the Asiatic tendency to value dexterity and cunning above physical strength.

The question affords occasion for endless discussions, for the same facts are used as arguments on both sides, with varying interpretations according to the different points of view.

EVERY DAY ENGLISH.

You can order three meals and a half with twenty-five words and still have a remaining surplus of verbiage to devote to other and more luxurious ends.

A tassy after dinner speech may be made out of a total capital of 500 nouns, pronouns, verbs, adjectives, conjunctions and participles. Our minor poets find 10,000 words a rich sufficiency for the manufacture of ballads and triolets for the trade, and most of the terms are only needed in the hunting down of elusive rhymes.

In view of all these things it is somewhat remarkable to reflect that the last set dictionary of the English language shows that our total verbal wealth sums up over 315,000 words. Johnson's dictionary defines between 40,000 and 50,000 words.

The philologists who spend much cerebral matter in devising uncouth world languages and weird phonetic systems, which pains and puzzles both eye and ear, will do well to reflect on the growth of the English tongue throughout the world. When the present century began French was spoken by about 31,000,000 people, German by 30,000,000, Russian by 30,000,000, Spanish by 27,000,000, Italian by 16,000,000, Portuguese by 9,000,000 and English by 21,000 000.

At the present time over 120,000,000 people use the English language, with 45,000,000 speaking French, 70,000,000 German and 75,000,000 Russian. That is to say, the English tongue has risen among the languages named from fifth place to first. It has also gained on the rest in relative amount of usage, expanding from about one-eighth of the total to one third.

THE DOG HOWLED ON HIS GRAVE.

An Uncanny Story From the Township of Rosebeth.

BRACEBRIDGE, Oct., March 31.—Mr. William Gohm, clerk of the township of Macaulay, a reliable and truthful man, relates this story, which can be substantiated by several of his neighbors, viz., the Zimmermans, Longfords and Phillips.

On the corner of the Longford farm and north of Mr. Gohm's there is a small graveyard. About two months ago an unknown white dog was seen in the daytime and heard howling and crying at night in and around the graveyard.

About three weeks thereafter it was ascertained that the dog belonged to Robert Cooper. On this day Robert was passing the graveyard when the dog saw him and ran to him and followed him home. Robert had been unwell for some time, but got much worse the next day and died in about a week.

His remains were interred in this graveyard and the dog has been there nearly all the time since and makes the nights hideous by its mournful howling; It has been taken home and tied, but returns to the grave as soon as let loose.

The people around there are not given to superstition, being level-headed kind of Methodists, but they are puzzled to know why the dog visited the graveyard and remained there howling before his master died.

TEACH CHILDREN TO WORK.

Teach the children habits of industry while they are yet very young, and they will always be industrious. Give them at first only very light tasks, and try to find the work to which each child inclines. Don't let them work so long that they become tired and so disgusted with all work, but long enough to accomplish something, and if it is of use so much the better. Do not teach children that it is a sin to be idle, but rather that there is a time to be idle as well as a time to be at work. The apparently idle time of the systematically busy man, or woman is often the most fruitful in result, for it is then that many things are thought over and planned. When it is possible, let the children feel that they are working for some definite end. They wish to see the use and profit of their labor as much as older people do of theirs. Deny them that, and the very highest incentive to habits of labor is removed. A good and industrious woman once said: "One of the most bitter memories of my childhood is that my mother, who was one of the best and most conscientious women that ever lived, was without tact or judgment as to my tasks. On the long, beautiful summer days, when I longed to be at play, and when I ought to have been, since there are always enough dreary days in which to give a child work, she would give me two yards and a half of unbleached muslin which I was required to hem. It was always stiff and rough and disagreeable. If it had been fine, pretty work, I would not have minded half so much. Those hems had to be turned and measured and basted, until my poor little fingers ached, and my very soul rebelled at the task. When my work was badly done, I had to pick it all out and do it over; when it was well done the piece was torn off without a word of approval and thrown into the ragbag. I was in a state of bitter rebellion all the time, because my toil was of no use to any one. When I said so I was severely reprimanded, and told that children were no judges of what was good or bad for them. That is a great mistake, for children are much keener judges than grown people, as a rule, think them. Then I thought my mother was very wrong and very cruel, but now I know she was."

THE VERY SMALLEST HORSE.

What was supposed to be the smallest specimen of the equine species ever brought to this country was "Queen Mab," who was brought from the London Zoological Gardens to New York in 1848. "Mab" was then 12 years old and only survived her ocean voyage about three months. The writer of this department has two descriptions of this "equine in miniature," one of which says that she was but sixteen inches high, and the other that she was "two inches over two feet." Even though the 19 inch account be the correct one "Mab's" smallness has been exceeded by a good half dozen other ponies. A few years ago the Baroness Burdett Coutt's came into possession of an abbreviated addition of a pony which was only fourteen inches in height and was but 18½ inches in length, counting from the end of the nose straight across to the root of the tail. At the present time of the Shah of Persia is the owner of a Shetland pony which is but 12½ inches high. This pampered pet of royalty wears gold shoes worth $20 each.

Large, oddly shaped hats, made of lace and spring blossoms, are a fashionable Parisian novelty. They are dainty light and becoming. An unusually pretty one was seen of white Chantilly lace. The wide brim was composed of three tiny ruffles. Delicately tinted apple blossoms were scattered here and there on the crown and over the brim, and a green leaf or two peeped from amid the lace. One spray of apple blossoms held in place at the back of the hat long chiffon streamers of a faint pink hue, which fell below the waist.

Another hat of point de Gene lace was extremely pretty. The crown of the hat was of point de Gene folds and a wide fold of the lace formed the brim. A great bunch of yellow tulips were artistically arranged at the side of the hat and stood up very straight with a stately dignity all their own. Wide yellow moire ribbon was used for the streamers.

An old hunter and frontiersman, named George Darling, reports the discovery of a long-abandoned village in Mexico. Several brick buildings still remain, and the surroundings show it must at one time have been a large town. The ruins are situated west of the ancient city of Temosachic, in the Sierra Madre Mountains.

Writing poetry is really no art, although some people seem to think it is a trade.

EDITORIAL NOTES

ON Monday the supreme court considered the North Perth election case, Campbell v. Grieve. The chief justice held that there had been corrupt practices at the election, and it was therefore void. Chief Justice Ritchie and Justices Gwynne, Taschereau and Patterson all held that the payment of $2 to Gowan constituted a bribe.

AT Melbourne, Australia, men are being employed half-time on Government relief works. There are so many applicants that full work cannot be provided for them. This will serve to recall to Montrealers the doleful days of the Liberal free trade regime, when the smoke of the charity soup kitchen ascended on high and men broke stones on the mountain for seventy cents a day.

DISCUSSING the enlargement orders, the Boston Herald says the state should make good the losses to their unfortunate victims out of the treasury of the commonwealth, for having given its endorsement to a fraud and thereby induced innocent and trusting persons to invest and lose their money. There are a number of the swindlers yet at work in Canada, and if the legislatures have not given them an endorsement they have a certain guilt resting on their heads in that they have taken no steps to suppress them.

HON. Mr. Hardy proposes to reduce the number of county councillors to seven in a county the size of Dufferin. We heartily concur in the proposal. About all our county council of seventeen does is too raise sufficient money to pay themselves and the county officials, and to meet the interest on the debenture debt. It is simply monstrous that for mere formal work like that seventeen men should be required at $3 a day each for ten days in the year. It is a wonder the tax payers have put up with the expensive humbug.—Grand Valley Star. Why, friend, don't the overworked county fathers do more than that. We were under the impression that they gave you twenty-fourth class rates for doing the county printing.

PETER'S OPINIONS.

There is much discussion at present in the city of Toronto as to the best system for running the street cars by electricity, and I see that an attempt has been made by certain parties to insert in the contract of the company a clause that the people be not allowed to vote on the question of Sunday cars for thirty years to come. Now, although I am strongly opposed to Sunday cars and if the question was before the people I would likely give my reasons for such an opposition, yet I can find no excuse for such a proceeding as shutting the mouths of the people on any question. This is a democratic country and we pretend to and should be ruled by the voice of the majority. If the majority of the people think as I think on any subject, so much the more pleasant for me, but if I am in the minority I must accept the decision and allow the majority to rule. To tell the people they cannot vote on a subject that so closely affects them all is a proceeding almost high-handed enough to come from such a semi civilized country as Russia, and not from the Dominion of Canada which prides itself in its freedom and democracy.

I understand that my remarks a few weeks ago on Orangeville society caused some to wonder who Peter is. Now I think I will start a prize competition this week and in imitation of our Canadian periodicals, I will give to the first one correctly answering the questions: Who, what, where and why Peter is? $4 50 in cash, to the second $4.00, etc. The rules of this competition are that each one sending in an answer must send with it $5.00 in cash to secure a short conversation with Peter. No answer will be considered unless accompanied by the $5 00 required by the rules. Should any one object to the severity of the rules I can only say it is a little way we people that give away cash prizes have. I answered a prize question published in a Canadian periodical a few weeks ago and was informed that I had been successful in winning a prize, which would be forwarded to me on receipt of $2 75 to pay for two subscriptions of the periodical and packing of the present. I didn't send the $2 75 and I won't blame you if you do not take any stock in my competition.

In last week's Advertiser my friend "Chris" takes me to task for allowing my Irish sentiments to get the better of me when I intimated that such a person as St. Patrick once existed. That I am Irish I have no desire to deny; in fact I am proud of the land of warriors, heros and potatoes. But that my belief in a St Patrick is the result of Irish sentiment I most emphatically deny. For proof of the existence of such a personage I refer Chris to to Green's history of the English people and if he is not satisfied with what he finds there I must ask him to read Chamber's encyclopædia on the subject and he will find that Patrick was born about A. D. 387 although there is no certainty as to the place of his birth his original name is supposed to have been Succath Patricius, being the Roman appellative by which he was known. For a time he was a monk in France and in the year A. D. 431 he went to Rome, whence he was sent by Pope Celestine as a missionary to Ireland. He is said to have founded 365 churches and with his own hand baptized 12,000 persons. The date of his death is uncertain, but Dr. Todd is of the opinion that he died about A. D. 493. The literary remains of St. Patrick are his "confessions" and a letter addressed to Coroticus, who was probably a Welsh chieftain. I might go on and give a much more extended history of this eminent apostle of Ireland, but I think that this will be sufficient to convince "Chris" that my Jermer assertion was not the result of Irish sentiment. PETER.

The San Antonio Express points with pride to its achievement in suppressing Garza. It claims to have published his portrait, and that the famous brigand saw it and fled to Mexico.

HALEY'S CLAIM!

Comes Before the Council and an Investigation is Now On.

TWO COLLECTORS APPOINTED!

Chief Shields' Duties Increased.

FIREMEN AND THE BELL.

Loose Business in Giving Orders on the Treasurer.

The rulers of this great corporation, in accordance with the constitution of the town, assembled at the enchanted chamber at the usual hour on Monday evening to transact the half month's business. Here and there in the auditorium a familiar face could be seen, but when the accounts were read it was anything but hard work to figure out why they were there. Some important legislation was enacted, by which two tax collectors were appointed instead of one as formerly. All the councillors were present, although Ald. West and Gordon were some few minutes late in arriving on the scene.

Strange as it may seem no minutes of the previous meeting were read owing to the clerk's absence at Toronto, and Reeve Endacott was then and there appointed acting-clerk. The chief-magistrate read from M. Gray, $6; W. Fremlin, $2 90; Geo. McKenney, 35cts.; S. Wallace, $11; J. Kilpatrick, $2 75, ordered to be paid; Jno. Patterson, $3 50; M. Gray, 50cts; A. & W. Johnston, $8.28; referred to the various committees.

One item in A. & W. Johnston's account, a box of parlor matches at 25cts, created a little amusement and brought the chairman of the F. & W. to his feet. He said the engineer at the waterworks exceeded his instructions in buying a box of parlor matches when he was told to get common every day lucifers.

HALEY'S GRIEVANCE.

Mr. H. Haley was present to see about his claim for damages caused by a creek running through his lot on Church street. On motion of Deputy-reeve Green, seconded by Ald. West, the council went into committe of the whole and listened to what Mr. Haley had to say about the matter. He said he would not accept $40 offered him by the R. & B. committee on the condition that he would sign a release to the town for damages that might be done by future storms. All he wanted was the town to fix up the breakwater as it was before the flood last spring; he'd do it himself for $45. Mayor Lindsey remarked that he was under the impression that a number of years ago the stream was changed and that Haley got $200 damages. Mr. Haley admitted he received the money for damages at the time, but that had nothing to do with the present case—he wanted his property left as it was and he was not going to wait any longer. If the council would repair it he would give them 3 feet of his ground, but would not bind himself. Ald. Mann said he didn't believe in paying damages every year and thought it should be finally settled; any person having such claims had a regular gold mine, and wanted to know what sum Haley would take to have the business finally settled. Mr. Haley wouldn't name it. The mayor objected to the question, saying the council should not assume any liability in the matter. Several other members of the council aired their opinions and then Ald. West rang down the curtain by moving a special committee consisting of the mayor, Ald Gordon, and the mover to investigate the whole business and report to the council. The motion was adopted and the committee rose.

The H. S. Girls' Beneficient Society sent in a petition asking for the free use of the town hall for a sacred concert to-morrow evening. A motion granting their request was carried and a bylaw confirming it will be passed at the next meeting.

ARCS THAT TWINKLE.

An account from the Electric Light Co., amounting to $337.50 for lighting the streets, was read by the mayor and it was thought advisable to go into committee of the whole on the bill. Several weeks ago the dynamo got out of kilter and the lights were not in working order for 5 nights and the company credited only 4. Mr. J. S. Leighton, on behalf of the company, pointed out that the contract allowed them 10 days in which to repair the machinery, but they did not want to take advantage of that and receive pay for work they did not do. It was finally arranged to dock the company for 5 nights and the matter was allowed to drop.

WANT TO BE FOREMAN.

There are plenty of applicants for the office of foreman of works, and one would think there "was millions in it." John Bailey would boss the job for $1.50 per diem and James Babe would do likewise. Dan McBride, last year's overseer, would do business at the old stand for the same money. J. J. Hall was willing to go all of them 10c. better and would tackle the job for $1.40. D. Nicholson, was ready for the fray at the popular price, but all of their letters will be considered at the next meeting of the council.

THEY WANT A NEW BELL.

Captain Patterson, Lieut. Aiken and the members of the fire-brigade petitioned the council to have the present town bell exchanged for one which they can hear when an alarm is sounded. The firemen want the change made at once, and for that matter so does every citizen. The petition was referred to the Town Property, and a report will be presented at the next meeting.

A London dog tag firm sent quotations on dog tags and are willing to supply the town this year. The town will give them an order—by and by.

Ald. Still read an unimportant report from the T. P. committee, as did Reeve Endacott from the Finance committee, both of which were adopted.

THE SAME NAME DID IT.

Ald. Mann brought down the F. & W. committee's report. It appears that some time ago an order was issued for James Morrison of Toronto and James Morrison, coal and wood dealer of this town, who had two accounts against the town and for which orders on the treasurer had been issued, got the order by mistake and it was not discovered until a week or so ago, when the Toronto man sent another dunner after his money. Hereafter the name, occupation and residence will be written on all orders on the treasurer.

A DUAL FAKE.

The council went into committee of the whole on a bylaw to appoint tax collectors for the town. Ald. West and Riddell moved that the word "collector" be struck out and the word "collectors" be substituted. A vote was taken, but the mover and the seconder were alone, all the other members voting against it. A prolonged debate took place on the new fake and finally Messrs. Wm. Nixon was appointed for the North and East wards and D. O. Lamont for the West and South, the salary being $60 each, $20 more than the old collector received.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

The chief of police was instructed to collect all unpaid taxes.

In answer to a question Ald. Gordon replied that the trees at the O. P. R. west Broadway crossing were nearly all cut down.

Odil Pattalle is one of committed papers, but if he calls at Crown Attorney Myers' office he will get a supply, so says the mayor.

The council's attention was called to a defective crossing on Faulkner street and $15 was placed to the credit of the R. & B. committee to repair it.

Chief Shields should resign the police business and come out as collector. Besides collecting taxes he will have to hunt up offenders who have failed to pay their fines.

Just before the wisemen concluded their deliberations Ald. Brown, head pusher on the Charity committee, got in a motion that $15 be handed over to that committee, and his request was complied with.

MILLINERY OPENINGS.

Excellent Displays in Every Shop.

This was a week of millinery openings and all the show rooms were thrown open to the public gaze. A representative of THE SUN called around to the different places and the grand displays on every side fairly took our breath away. Green, Bowles & Co. started the ball rolling on Tuesday evening by opening their millinery department to the public, and what a grand night it was! Miss Penfold is in charge of this branch and received many compliments for the grand and tasty display which the vast throng beheld. The Orangeville orchestra was present and discoursed music during the evening. The next place our reporter called was at Judge, Chapman & Co's, whose spring opening took place yesterday. It is only necessary to mention the name of Miss Robertson to get an idea of the many prettily trimmed hats that met our gaze, as that amiable young lady ushered us through the rooms. This year's display discounts that of previous years and both Miss Robertson and the firm are to be congratulated on the success of the millinery opening of '92. Endacott Bros. opening also took place yesterday and, as usual, was most successful. Miss Stevens, the popular head milliner, was well prepared for the occasion and everything was up to the Queen's taste. Beautifully trimmed hats and bonnets were everywhere to be seen and the well-filled room presented a very fascinating scene indeed. The genial head of this department does not require any recommendation from THE SUN, her work speaks for itself. Gilchrist, Kent & Co., who have been out of the millinery business for some time, reopened their showrooms yesterday. Miss Fitzgerald has charge of this department of the business and had a very creditable display to commence with. We would advise any who have not yet visited the various show-rooms to do so at an early date, as they are well worth seeing.

HORNING'S MILLS.

LOCAL BRIEFS.—At present writing the roads are impassable, mud and slush prevailing.

Since we last wrote another matrimonial knot has been tied. Mr Brown, a popular young man of this burg and Miss Emma Webster are the important couple. May happiness and prosperity crown their efforts through life.

The Patrons of Industry are wiping everything out of the place.

You Orangeville lights have talked about annexation until we are becoming affected up here.

TUB MAPLES.—The industrious yeomen around here have tapped their trees and the sap is abundant. Shall we send you down a stick of taffy Mr. Editor? It is very sweet.

TOWNSHIP TREASURER.—This heading is sufficient and important enough to occupy a place in your editorial columns, as it is at present the all absorbing question, not only here, but all over the township. As your readers are aware, this office became vacant by the death of Mr. Richard Slack, and a successor is to be appointed. We understand that aspiring candidates are scattered all over the township and a close race is expected. Now, Horning's Mills was left out in the cold at the last municipal election, and those in the New Survey took the big plum; so they cannot blame us for putting our noses in when we get an opportunity. There are several good competent men in and around Horning's Mills to fill that important position, and one of them is going to get it, or we miss our guess. There is one feature about it, that is it requires a very shrewd person, and we have the best public men in the municipality. Who will it be?

NOTORIOUS TOM CHANEY!

His Mother-in-law Secures Him of Assaulting Her Little Daughter, But Fails Disgracefully the Charge.

The regular weekly afternoon sitting of Odil Pattalle was held in the grand jury-room on Saturday, the auditorium of the court house being litered with benches, ladders and easel folding erected by Scotty McPherson in his great work of painting the royal arms above the seat where their lordships, the Queen's high justices, are wont to sit when dispensing justice to the loyal citizens of Dufferin.

The case for inquiry was an information laid by Catherine Chaney against her stepson, the original and only Tom Chaney, for committing a criminal assault on the former's daughter, a girl of tender years. The complainant was present as was also the prisoner Tom. Crown Attorney Myers represented the crown while the prisoner conducted his own case. Dr. Simpson and the complainant were the only witnesses examined, but no evidence was produced to show that an assault had taken place and the prisoner was acquitted. Tom's acquittal, however, cannot be considered an honorable discharge, for the cadi insisted that he should give security for his future behavior if he intended to reside in town. Apparently Tom was prepared for any emergency for he announced that Mr. Tipping would go his security. The magistrate observed that it might be safer for Doctor Tipping to advance money to pay the prisoner's expenses to some territory where he would be better appreciated, and no doubt the doctor has acted on the suggestion, as the amiable Tom has folded his tent and quietly stole away. His not auburn but living amber locks were last seen flattering to the breeze as he proudly strode o'er Purple Hill on his way towards the classic hamlet of Mono Mills, and let us fondly hope that the haunts which have known Tom will know him no more forever.

John Linton of the firm of Linton Bros. was clearing the sawdust away from the saw with a stick, in the firm's mill near Wiarton, when the carriage returned, shoving him against it. One arm was cut off at the wrist and the other near the elbow. He is also badly cut on the breast. There is very little hope of his recovery.

THE YOUNG HUSSAR.

The most thrilling narration of extraordinary that has ever been placed before the public, is the book entitled "The Young Hussar or Lady Irle's Adventures." This lord's daughter for such she is doffed her female attire and donned that of a rustic youth, and enlisted as a trumpeter in the 11th Hussars in order to follow the idol of her heart and thereby escaping the ministration of her father and her lover's rival. How she served as a trooper in a cavalry regiment with honor and distinction. How she was taken prisoner by the Cossack's at the charge of the Light Cavalry at Balaclava. How she escaped by the interposition of the redoubtable Pat McAvoy. How she was promoted by Lord Raglan to court. The book abounds in truthful incidents and laughable anecdotes native Irish wit and humor which lends a charm to every page which only an Irishman and British Soldier can produce. This book is well written in a racy style that will cause many a hearty laugh at very little expense for the price is only one dollar. We prophesy for it a large sale and take pleasure in recommending it to the citizens. The author is himself in town and bears on his breast three handsome medals the heraldic badges of his fidelity, gallantry, long service and good conduct, indicating that he has proved himself worthy of recognition by Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen.

CAMILLA.

MONO CENTRE.

Mrs. Jas. McDonald of Farmington paid her old home a visit last week.

PERSONAL.—Miss Kate Kidney, after spending two very enjoyable weeks in Albion, returned home last week in the same old guise.

GETTING READY.—Mud, mud, everywhere; snow all gone; farmers dragging their implements out and preparing for spring work. These are the chief features of our spring days.

ALF. IS BON TON.—Our county assessor, Mr. Alf. Glover, has finished his duties and has, we believe, won the title of the bon ton assessor of Dufferin. We wonder if "Dandy Bob" is not just slightly jealous of Alf's captivating powers.

SAD.—Mrs. Turnbull, who was reported so ill some time ago, has been removed to the Toronto asylum, latest reports as to her condition were favorable and we hope to be able to chronicle her complete recovery ere long. Mr. Turnbull and family have our sincere sympathy.

PATRONS NUMEROUS.—The chief topic of conversation among our yeomen at present is the Patrons of Industry. A lodge has been organized here with a membership of between 40 and 50. As every person seems to take an interest in this society it will in all probility be a success.

WHITFIELD.

J. M. Carson, late of of Orangeville, arrived home from the woods carrying a large fox by the heels. Foxes are numerous in this vicinity.

IMPROVING.—We are pleased to report this week that Mr. David Henderson, who was so low last week with hemorrage of the bowels, is now convalescent.

JIMMY'S PONY.—James M. Carson has purchased a pure Indian pony from Mr. Kilburn of Shelburne. It is about two years old and is a dark cream color with black mane and tail.

DEATH.—We are sorry to have to chronicle the rather sudden death of Mrs. James Boyle which occurred here last Friday. Mrs. Boyle was a daughter of James Porterfield, who was well known in Caledon and Orangeville. The remains were interred in the Whitfield cemetery last Monday. The funeral was largely attended.

James Miller of East Trenton climbed upon the top of a box car while some shunting was being done in the Grand Trunk yards Monday morning. A car struck the one on which he was standing and he lost his balance. In falling it is supposed he struck his chin on the edge of a car, breaking his neck and killing him instantly.

It Leads the Leaders.

The foremost medicine of the day, Burdock Blood Bitters, is a purely vegetable compound possessing perfect regulating powers over all the organs of the system and controlling their secretions. It so purifies the blood that it cures all blood humors and diseases from a common pimple to the most scrofulous sore, and this combined with its unrivalled regulating, cleansing and purifying influence on the secretions of the liver, kidneys, bowels and skin, render it unequalled as a cure for all diseases of the skin. From one to two bottles will cure boils, pimples, blotches, nettle rash, scurf, tetter, and all the simple forms of skin disease. From two to four bottles will cure salt rheum or eczema, shingles, erysipelas, ulcers, abscesses, running sores, and all skin eruptions. It is noticeable that sufferers from skin diseases are usually always aggravated by intolerable itching, but this quickly subsides on the removal of the disease by B. B. B. Passing on to graver yet prevalent diseases such as scrofulous swellings, humors and scrofula, we have undoubted proof that from three to six bottles used internally and by outward application (diluted if the skin is broken) to the affected parts, will effect a cure. The general mission of B. B. B. is to regulate the liver, kidneys, bowels and blood, to correct acidity and wrong action of the stomach and to open the sluiceways of the system to carry off all clogged and impure secretions, allowing nature (her vis medicatrix) and remove without fail bad blood, liver complaint, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick headache, dropsy, rheumatism, and every species of disease arising from disorder of the liver, kidneys, bowels, stomach and blood.

AT Melbourne, Australia, men are being employed half-time on Government relief works. There are so many applicants that full work cannot be provided for them. This will serve to recall to Montrealers the doleful days of the Liberal free trade regime, when the smoke of the charity soup kitchen ascended on high and men broke stones on the mountain for seventy cents a day.

DISCUSSING the endowment orders, the Boston Herald says the state should make good the losses to their unfortunate victims out of the treasury of the commonwealth, for having given its endorsement to a fraud and thereby induced innocent and trusting persons to invest and lose their money. There are a number of the swindlers yet at work in Canada, and if the legislatures have not given them an endorsement they have a certain guilt resting on their heads in that they have taken no steps to suppress them.

HON. Mr. Hardy proposes to reduce the number of county councillors to seven in a county the size of Dufferin. We heartily concur in the proposal. About all our county council of seventeen does is too raise sufficient money to pay themselves and the county officials, and to meet the interest on the debenture debt. It is simply monstrous that for mere formal work like that seventeen men should be required at $3 a day each for ten days in the year. It is a wonder the tax payers have put up with the expensive humbug.—Grand Valley Star. Why, friend, don't the overworked county fathers do more than that. We were under the impression that they gave you twenty-fourth class rates for doing the county printing.

PETER'S OPINIONS.

There is much discussion at present in the city of Toronto as to the best system for running the street cars by electricity, and I see that an attempt has been made by certain parties to insert in the contract of the company a clause that the people be not allowed to vote on the question of Sunday cars for thirty years to come. Now, although I am strongly opposed to Sunday cars and if the question was before the people I would likely give my reasons for such an opposition, yet I can find no excuse for such a proceeding as shutting the mouths of the people on any question. This is a democratic country and we pretend to and should be ruled by the voice of the majority. If the majority of the people think as I think on any subject, so much the more pleasant for me, but if I am in the minority I must accept the decision and allow the majority to rule. To tell the people they cannot vote on a subject that so closely affects them all is a proceeding almost high-handed enough to come from such a semi civilized country as Russia, and not from the Dominion of Canada which prides itself in its freedom and democracy.

I understand that my remarks a few weeks ago on Orangeville society caused some to wonder who Peter is. Now I think I will start a prize competition this week and in imitation of our Canadian periodicals, I will give to the first one correctly answering the questions: Who, what, where and why Peter is? $4 50 in cash to the second $4.00, etc. The rules of this competition are that each one sending in an answer must send with it $5.00 in cash to secure a short conversation with Peter. No answer will be considered unless accompanied by the $5 00 required by the rules. Should any one object to the severity of the rules I can only say it is a little way we people that give away cash prizes have. I answered a prize question published in a Canadian periodical a few weeks ago and was informed that I had been successful in winning a prize, which would be forwarded to me on receipt of $2 75 to pay for two subscriptions of the periodical and packing of the present. I didn't send the $2 75 and I won't blame you if you do not take any stock in my competition.

In last week's Advertiser my friend "Chris" takes me to task for allowing my Irish sentiments to get the better of me when I intimated that such a person as St. Patrick once existed. That I am Irish I have no desire to deny; in fact I am proud of the land of warriors, heros and potatoes. But that my belief in a St. Patrick is the result of Irish sentiment I most emphatically deny. For proof of the existence of such a personage I refer Chris to Green's history of the English people and if he is not satisfied with what he finds there I must ask him to read Chamber's encyclopædia on the subject and he will find that Patrick was born about A. D. 387 although there is no certainty as to the place of his birth his original name is supposed to have been Succath Patricius, being the Roman appellative by which he was known. For a time he was a monk in France and in the year A. D. 431 he went to Rome, whence he was sent by Pope Celestine as a missionary to Ireland. He is said to have founded 365 churches and with his own hand baptized 12,000 persons. The date of his death is uncertain, but Dr. Todd is of the opinion that he died about A. D. 493. The literary remains of St. Patrick are his "confessions" and a letter addressed to Corotious, who was probably a Welsh chieftain. I might go on and give a much more extended history of this eminent apostle of Ireland, but I think that this will be sufficient to convince "Chris" that my former assertion was not the result of Irish sentiment. The San Antonio Express points with pride to its achievement in suppressing Garza. It claims to have published his portrait, and that the famous brigand saw it and fled to Mexico.

FIREMEN AND THE BELL

Loose Business in Giving Orders on the Treasurer.

The rulers of this great corporation, in accordance with the constitution of the town, assembled at the enchanted chamber at the usual hour on Monday evening to transact the half month's business. Here and there in the auditorium a familiar face could be seen, but when the accounts were read it was anything but hard work to figure out why they were there. Some important legislation was enacted, by which two tax collectors were appointed instead of one as formerly. All the councillors were present, although Ald. West and Gordon were some few minutes late in arriving on the scene.

Strange as it may seem no minutes of the previous meeting were read owing to the clerk's absence at Toronto, and Reeve Endacott was there and there appointed acting-clerk. The chief-magistrate read from M. Gray, $6; W. Fremlin, $2 90; Geo. McKenney, 35cts.; S. Wallace, $11; J. Kilpatrick, $2 75, ordered to be paid; Jno. Patterson, $3 50; M. Gray, 50cts; A. & W. Johnston, $3.28; referred to the various committees.

One item in A. & W. Johnston's account, a box of parlor matches at 25cts, created a little amusement and brought the chairman of the F. & W. to his feet. He said the engineer at the waterworks exceeded his instructions in buying a box of parlor matches when he was told to get common every day lucifers.

HALEY'S GRIEVANCE.

Mr. H. Haley was present to see about his claim for damages caused by a creek running through his lot on Church street. On motion of Deputy-reeve Green, seconded by Ald. West, the council went into committee of the whole and listened to what Mr. Haley had to say about the matter. He said he would not accept $40 offered him by the R. & B. committee on the condition that he would sign a release to the town for damages that might be done by future storms. All he wanted was the town to fix up the breakwater as it was before the flood last spring; he'd do it himself for $45. Mayor Lindsey remarked that he was under the impression that a number of years ago the stream was changed and that Haley got $200 damages. Mr. Haley admitted he received the money for damages at the time, but that had nothing to do with the present case—he wanted his property left as it was and he was not going to wait any longer. If the council would repair it he would give them 3 feet of his ground, but would not bind himself. Ald. Mann said he didn't believe in paying damages every year and thought it should be finally settled; any person having such claims had a regular gold mine, and wanted to know what sum Haley would take to have the business finally settled. Mr. Haley wouldn't name it. The mayor objected to the question, saying the council should not assume any liability in the matter. Several other members of the council aired their opinions and then Ald. West rung down the curtain by moving a special committee consisting of the mayor, Ald Gordon, and the mover to investigate the whole business and report to the council. The motion was adopted and the committee rose.

The B. S. Girls' Beneficient Society sent in a petition asking for the free use of the town hall for a sacred concert to morrow evening. A motion granting their request was carried and a bylaw confirming it will be passed at the next meeting.

ARCS THAT TWINKLE.

An account from the Electric Light Co., amounting to $337.50 for lighting the streets, was read by the mayor and it was thought adrisable to go into committee of the whole on the bill. Several weeks ago the dynamo got out of kilter and the lights were not in working order for 5 nights and the company credited only 4. Mr. J. S. Leighton, on behalf of the company, pointed out that the contract allowed them 10 days in which to repair the machinery, but they did not want to take advantage of that and receive pay for work they did not do. It was finally arranged to dock the company for 5 nights and the matter was allowed to drop.

WANT TO BE FOREMAN.

There are plenty of applicants for the office of foreman of works, and one would think there "was millions in it." John Bailey would boss the job for $1.50 per diem and James Babe would do likewise. Dan McBride, last year's overseer, would do business at the old stand for the same money. J. J. Hall was willing to go all of them 10c. better and would tackle the job for $1 40. D. Nicholson, was ready for the fray at the popular price, but all of their letters will be considered at the next meeting of the council.

THEY WANT A NEW BELL.

Captain Patterson, Lieut. Aiken and the members of the fire-brigade petitioned the council to have the present town bell exchanged for one which they can hear when an alarm is sounded. The firemen want the change made at once, and for that matter so does every citizen. The petition was referred to the Town Property, and a report will be presented at the next meeting.

A London dog tag firm sent quotations on dog tags and are willing to supply the town this year. The town will give them an order—by and by.

Ald. Still read an unimportant report from the T. P. committee, as did Reeve Endacott from the Finance committee, both of which were adopted.

THE SAME NAME DID IT.

Ald. Mann brought down the F. & W. committee's report. It appears that some time ago an order was issued for James Morrison of Toronto and James Morrison, coal and wood dealer of this town, who had two accounts against the town, but the mover and the seconder were alone, all the other members voting against it. A prolonged debate took place on the new fake and Scully Messrs. Wm. Nixon was appointed for the North and East wards and D. C. Lamont for the West and South, the salary being $650 each, $250 more than the old collector received.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

The chief of police was instructed to collect all unpaid taxes.

In answer to a question Ald. Gordon replied that the trees at the C. P. R. west Broadway crossing were nearly all cut down.

Cadi Pattulle is out of committal papers, but if he calls at Crown Attorney Myers' office he will get a supply, so says the mayor.

The council's attention was called to a defective crossing on Faulkner street and $15 was placed to the credit of the R. & B. committee to repair it.

Chief Shields should resign the police business and come out as collector. Besides collecting taxes he will have to hunt up offenders who have failed to pay their fines.

Just before the wisemen concluded their deliberations Ald. Brown, head pusher on the Charity committee, got in a motion that $15 be handed over to that committee, and his request was complied with.

MILLINERY OPENINGS.

Excellent Displays in Every Shop.

This was a week of millinery openings and all the show rooms were thrown open to the public gaze. A representative of THE SUN called around to the different places and the grand displays on every side fairly took our breath away. Green, Bowles & Co. started the ball rolling on Tuesday evening by opening their millinery department to the public, and what a grand sight it was! Miss Penfold is in charge of this branch and received many compliments for the grand and tasty display which the vast throng beheld. The Orangeville orchestra was present and discoursed music during the evening. The next place our reporter called was at Judge, Chapman & Co's, whose spring opening took place yesterday. It is only necessary to mention the name of Miss Robertson to get an idea of the many prettily trimmed hats that met our gaze, as that amiable young lady ushered us through the rooms. This year's display discounts that of previous years and both Miss Robertson and the firm are to be congratulated on the success of the millinery opening of '92. Endacott Bros. opening also took place yesterday and, as usual, was most successful. Miss Stevens, the popular head milliner, was well prepared for the occasion and everything was up to the Queen's taste. Beautifully trimmed hats and bonnets were everywhere to be seen and the well-filled room presented a very fascinating scene indeed. The genial head of this department does not require any recommendation from THE SUN, her work speaks for itself. Gilchrist, Kent & Co., who have been out of the millinery business for some time, reopened their showrooms yesterday. Miss Fitzgerald has charge of this department of the business and had a very creditable display to commence with. We would advise any who have not yet visited the various show-rooms to do so at an early date, as they are well worth seeing.

HORNING'S MILLS.

LOCAL BRIEFS.—At present writing the roads are impassable, mud and slush prevailing.

Since we last wrote another matrimonial knot has been tied. Mr. Brown, a popular young man of this burg and Miss Emma Webster are the important couple. May happiness and prosperity crown their efforts through life.

The Patrons of Industry are wiping everything out of the place.

You Orangeville lights have talked about annexation until we are becoming affected up here.

THE MAPLES.—The industrious yeomen around here have tapped their trees and the sap is abundant. Shall we send you down a stick of taffy Mr. Editor? It is very sweet.

TOWNSHIP TREASURER.—This heading is sufficient and important enough to occupy a place in your editorial columns, as it is at present the all absorbing question, not only here, but all over the township. As your readers are aware, this office became vacant by the death of Mr. Richard Slack, and a successor is to be appointed. We understand that aspiring candidates are scattered all over the township and a close race is expected. Now, Horning's Mills was left out in the cold at the last municipal election, and those in the New Survey took the big plum, so they cannot blame us for putting our nises in when we get an opportunity. There are several good competent men in and around Horning's Mills to fill that important position, and one of them is going to get it, or we miss our guess. There is one feature about it, that is it requires a very shrewd person, and we have the best public men in the municipality. Who will it be?

are want to sit when disposing justice to the loyal citizens of Dufferin.

The case for inquiry rest on information laid by Catharine Chaney against her stepson, the original and only Tom Chaney, for committing a criminal assault on the farmer's daughter, a girl of tender years. The complainant was present as was also the prisoner Tom. Crown Attorney Myers represented the crown while the prisoner conducted his own case. Dr. Simpson and the complainant were the only witnesses examined, but no evidence was produced to show that an assault had taken place and the prisoner was acquitted. Tom's acquittal, however, cannot be considered an honorable discharge, for the cadi insisted that he should give security for his future behavior if he intended to reside in town. Apparently Tom was prepared for any emergency for he announced that Mr. Tipping would go his security. The magistrate observed that it might be safer for Doctor Tipping to advance money to pay the prisoner's expenses to some territory where he would be better appreciated, and no doubt the doctor has acted on the suggestion, as the amiable Tom has folded his tent and quietly stole away. His not auburn but living amber locks were last seen flattering to the breeze as he proudly strode o'er Purple Hill on his way towards the classic hamlet of Mono Mills, and let us fondly hope that the haunts which have known Tom will know him no more forever.

ALF. IS BOSS TON.—Our county assessor, Mr. Alf. Glover, has finished his duties and has, we believe, won the title of the boss ton assessor of Dufferin. We wonder if "Dandy Bob" is not just slightly jealous of Alf's captivating powers.

SAD.—Mrs. Turnbull, who was reported so ill some time ago, has been removed to the Toronto asylum, latest reports as to her condition were favorable and we hope to be able to chronicle her complete recovery ere long. Mr. Turnbull and family have our sincere sympathy.

PATRONS NUMEROUS.—The chief topic of conversation among our yeomen at present is the Patrons of Industry. A lodge has been organized here with a membership of between 40 and 50. As every person seems to take an interest in this society it will in all probility be a success.

WHITFIELD.

J. M. Carson, late of of Orangeville, arrived home from the woods carrying a large fox by the heels. Foxes are numerous in this vicinity.

IMPROVING.—We are pleased to report this week that Mr. David Henderson, who was so low last week with hemorrage of the bowels, is now convalescent.

DEATH.—We are sorry to have to chronicle the rather sudden death of Mrs. James Boyle, which occurred here last Friday. Mrs. Boyle was a daughter of James Porterfield, who was well known in Caledon and Orangeville. The remains were interred in the Whitfield cemetery last Monday. The funeral was largely attended.

James Miller of East Trenton climbed upon the top of a box car while some shunting was being done in the Grand Trunk yards Monday morning. A car struck the one on which he was standing and he lost his balance. In falling it is supposed he struck his chin on the edge of a car, breaking his neck and killing him instantly.

It Leads the Leaders.

The foremost medicine of the day, Burdock Blood Bitters, is a purely vegetable compound possessing perfect regulating powers over all the organs of the system and controlling their secretions. It so purifies the blood that it cures all blood humors and diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore, and this combined with its unrivalled regulating, cleansing and purifying influence on the secretions of the liver, kidneys, bowels and skin, render it unequalled as a cure for all diseases of the skin. From one to two bottles will cure boils, pimples, blotches, nettle rash, scurf, tetter, and all the simple forms of skin disease. From two to four bottles will cure salt rheum or eczema, chingles, erysipelas, ulcers, abscesses, running sores, and all skin eruptions. It is noticeable that sufferers from skin diseases are nearly always aggravated by intolerable itching, but this quickly subsides on the removal of the disease by B. B. B. Passing on to graver yet prevalent diseases such as scrofulous swellings, humors and scrofula, we have undoubted proof that from three to six bottles used internally and by outward application (diluted if the skin is broken) to the affected parts, will effect a cure. The general mission of B. B. B. is to regulate the liver, kidneys, bowels and blood, to correct acidity and wrong action of the stomach and to open the sluiceways of the system to carry off all clogged and impure secretions, allowing nature then to aid recovery and remove without fail bad blood, liver complaint, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick headache, dropsy, rheumatism, and every species of disease arising from disorder of the liver, kidneys, bowels, stomach and blood.

Two of Milkman Wright's cows were run into the pound on Monday by Signor Charles de Coulter while the animals were taking a drink at the creek on Third street. The bovines broke out of their prison and now Monsieur Henderson threatens to set the powerful machinery of the law in motion against something.

There are the many people in this part of the country who will not eat their bread upon the waters unless they are assured beforehand that it will come back again in a few days a full grown sandwich, all trimmed with ham, butter and mustard, rolled up in a warranty deed for one half of the earth and a mortgage on the other.

☞ WANTED—At once, Apprentices and Improvers to Dressmaking, to learn the New System of cutting the Seamless Waist. MISS SHELL.

NOW FOR THE CROCKS.—Mr. Harry Collins has assumed control of the Orangeville pottery and says he will have things booming in a short time time. A first class pottery will undoubtedly do a great business here.

PATTULLO BOUGHT IT.—The extensive egg warehouse of Mr. George Hawkins was disposed of by public auction on Tuesday afternoon for the sum of $3,500. Cadi Pattullo, acting for A. P. Zoeller of New York, was the purchaser. We hope soon to see business booming at the big building as of yore.

BLEW DOWN.—During the heavy gale on Monday a portion of the front wall of the McMaster foundry on east Broadway blew down on to the street, but fortunately there was no person passing at the time. Had the brickwork fallen inwards it is altogether probable some of the workmen would have been seriously injured.

A LEAP YEAR SUCCESS.—The leap year social given by Mrs. Thos. Parsons' class in the basement of the Methodist church on Friday evening last was a very enjoyable and successful affair. A good musical program and an excellent tea were provided and the ladies, as usual, had everything prepared for the occasion. The receipts amounted to over $30.

PULLED HIS GUN.—On Saturday evening the trainmen of the Tecumseh express had a rather lively time at the station here. Two slick passengers, fairly-well loaded with "red eye" got it into their heads to convert a first-class coach into a smoking car and forthwith proceeded to carry their intentions into effect. The conductor objected, but the men persisted in their undertaking. The conductor called a brakeman to his assistance and endeavored to eject the men from the car. One of the desperadoes drew a revolver and threatened to fill the C. P. R. men full of lead, but before he used the weapon he was sprawling on the platform. The coons didn't ride any farther on that train.

B. S. L. S.—A most enjoyable and interesting meeting of this society was held, as usual, on Thursday afternoon last, the president, Mr. Steele, occupying the chair. Some of the students whose names appeared on the program were unable to respond when called on owing to colds, etc. The program consisted of a quartette by Messrs. Seymour, McClellan, Atkinson and Crozier; reading, Miss Ethel Thompson; a quartette by several students and a debate: Resolved that the reign of Queen Elizabeth was superior to that of Queen Victoria. The affirmative side was ably supported by Messrs. Pinkney and Gillespie, while the negative was championed by Messrs Sibley and McKinnon, decided in favor of affirmative.

A RIPE OLD AGE.—On Friday morning last Mr. John Shields, father of Chief-of-Police Shields, died at the latter's residence, Amanda street, at the ripe old age of 78 years. Mr Shields was born in county Cavan, Ireland, and emigrated to this country when 8 years old, settling with his parents on the 4th line, Chinguacousy. He remained there for 15 years, when he moved to Tullamore and commenced farming for himself. In 1838 he married Mary Foster and they lived happily together for 9 years, when her death occurred, leaving a husband and one son, our present chief of police. A year or so later he was married to Miss Frances Elliott, daughter of Geo. Elliott, Esq., of Chinguacousy, and sister of Mrs. Robt. Quinn of Edmonton. His second wife, however, lived only a year, leaving a daughter, who afterwards married Mr. Robt. Hodgson, who conducted a blacksmith shop in Orangeville and Farmington. During the four succeeding years his father and mother resided with him, but both dying he married Mrs. Brown, mother of the late Mrs. J. M. Bennett and Mrs. W. J. Morrison. A family of five children was the result of this union, the mother dying about 8 years ago. Mr. Shields, who was well off in this world's goods, was a charitable, kind-hearted man and his old friends will deeply regret his death. On Sunday the remains were conveyed to his old home in Chinguacousy and were laid at rest in the family plot in Harrison's cemetery.

JIM BRYAN "IN!"

A BIG DISTILLERY IN THE CELLAR.

He was Fined $200, and will "Do Time" for the Next Two Months.

Our readers will remember James Bryan, a former hotelkeeper of this town. During the past 25 years he conducted an hotel in Orangeville at different periods, his last venture being in the American hotel three or four years ago. Well, James is in great trouble at present, all on account of manufacturing "tangle leg" contrary to law. Jim moved from Orangeville to to Annan near Owen Sound, and last fall swooped down on the "Liverpool of Canada."

$200 AND 2 MONTHS

The following report of the case is taken from Tuesday's Owen Sound Advertiser:

Mr. James Bryan, formerly hotelkeeper at Annan, moved to town last fall and took possession of the Clifton house, which, not being possessed of a license, he has since conducted as a temperance hotel. Lately the vigilant inland revenue officers have been inclined to suspect the presence of a deep dark secret in this teetotal establishment, and on Saturday afternoon Inspector Graham, Deputy Chisholm and Constable Herron made a sociable call together and inspected the premises. In the cellar they found two whiskey stills, two or three mash tubs, a barrel of molasses, and six stone jars full of a very medium quality of firewater, presumably the manufacture of this outfit. The visitors confiscated the articles and they were taken up town in a wagon under officer Herron's guardianship. Mr. Bryan was also arrested but was released on giving bail to appear in police court. On Monday he was brought before the Police Magistrate, found guilty, and fined $200 and two months' imprisonment.

NEIL MCGILL DEAD.—Neil McGill, aged 82, one of the oldest residents of East Garafraxa, died at his home, a short distance from town, on Tuesday. Several years ago Neil distinguished himself by entering into a matrimonial contract with a gay young hotel domestic of this town, but the alliance did not prove a happy one and Neil had to disgorge many shekels to have the contract cancelled.

'TWAS EVER THUS.—An exchange says: A newspaper may put in its best licks for its town, may champion the cause of its merchants, may call attention to abuses and have them corrected, but let it once express an opinion with which one or more of its patrons may disagree and all its past benefits and support have been forgotten. Patrons of newspapers seem to forget also that if a paper expresses opinions with which they do not agree its columns are always open to those who differ from it. From the fate that overtakes newspapers we sometimes think it would be better for a newspaper never to have an opinion, never to take up anybody's fight, never to call attention to any abuses, never to make a suggestion or offer a criticism. Of course such a paper would be simply a nonentity, but it would have no enemies. The enemies of a paper will always do more against than its friends will ever do for it.

DUNK MCLEAN JUGGED.—Readers of THE SUN, no doubt, are familiar with the details of the charge against Duncan McLean, the man who forged his brother's name to a $50 promissory note given to John Chambers, a cloth peddler of this town, in payment for a horse which he afterwards disposed of for the magnificent sum of one dollar and fifty cents. McLean managed to get away at the time, but nevertheless the warrant was placed in Constable Fremlin's hands for execution. Nothing further was heard of the alleged forger until last week, when the constable heard that the man he wanted had been jugged at Georgetown. The officer went to that place and secured his prisoner and brought him to Orangeville. McLean appeared before P. M. Pattullo on Saturday, but was remanded until Monday afternoon. At Monday's session of the police court the prisoner was again on hand as was Chambers and his partner, Wisner. The charge was about to be investigated, but the note, the most important factor of the case, could not be found. Chambers affirmed that he had given it to his partner and the latter maintained that he had returned it to Chambers, consequently no evidence establishing the charge of forgery could be produced and McLean was accordingly acquitted. It looks as if the case had been "fixed," but who can tell? No mention was made about the costs, but the account will no doubt turn up at the next county audit. Lawyer W. J. L. McKay conducted the case for the prisoner in a creditable manner.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Sudden transitions from heat to cold, or from raw inclement weather, to oppressive climates, favor the development of manifold diseases, which may in most instances be checked and rendered abortive by an early resort to these purifying, regulating and strengthening Pills. The well-known and highly esteemed medicine affords a safe and easy remedy for almost every constitutional wrong which unhealthy climates, rapid changes, or dietetic errors, can engender, and effectually removes any weakness self-indulgent habits may have induced. In all conditions of the system bordering on disease such as are indicated by apathy, listlessness, and restlessness, Holloway's Pills will prove especially serviceable in begetting the vivacity of mind and body appreciated by both sound and sick.

At the last meeting of the East Luther council a petition signed by 136 ratepayers was presented, praying the council to rescind the statute labor motion, which provided for the acceptance of 60 cents per day instead of statute labor. The councilors, however, were almost unanimous in favor of giving the new scheme a fair trial.

On Monday last at Inglewood the friends of Mr. Wm. Shannon assembled at his residence and presented him with a handsome gold watch valued at $50, and to Mrs. Shannon, and son and daughter suitable presents were presented, previous to their departure for Clinton, where Mr. Shannon has purchased the electric light plant of that town. A very pleasant time was spent, and Mr. Shannon being an old and respected resident of the neighborhood, deep regret was expressed at the removal of the family from amongst them.

Joseph Robins had Councillor Wilson, Adjala, up before Squire Barton yesterday on a question of wages. Both parties agreed that defendant had hired plaintiff for a year at the rate of $143 per annum, but plaintiff deposed that there was a bargain that in case they disagreed plaintiff might leave and was to be paid winter wages. This was denied by defendant. Plaintiff left service some weeks ago and sued for $23. Defendant refused to pay anything, hence the suit. The magistrate awarded $10.—Tottenham Sentinel.

One of the bears in connection with the circus, which was not allowed to exhibit in Guelph on Saturday, was killed near Sandilands crossing on the march from the town towards Hespler. The crossing watchman saw the animal on the track as a train came along and supposed it to be a calf, and ran to arouse it. The bear was also aroused and gave chase to the watchman. The train came up in time to save the watchman from capture, but captured the bear, whose carcass now lies at the side of the track.

An Ontario farmer going to Manitoba with his family of nine children missed his 9-year-old son when the train was between Chapleau and White River. It was in the night time and the father immediately entered on a search for him, which revealed the fact that the boy was not on the train. A hand car was sent back to bring in the mangled remains. The men had to go back five miles before coming on any traces of the boy, and when the latter was discovered he was not awake. He had stepped off the train when in full motion and had not even fallen!

FROM Stomach and Liver derangements, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick-Headache, and Constipation—find a safe and certain relief in Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.

Dr. T. B. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my profession."

Dr. John W. Brown, of Cocoa, W. Va., writes: "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."

"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which almost destroyed my health. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. S. Wanderlich, Scranton, Pa.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—L. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 56 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

HAMILTON, ONT., January 12, 1891.

W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Yours "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best medicine for the system that humanity can use. Little in size, they act quick and quietly and are every of its worth. A box purchased of druggist Robinson adhered to the medicine chest in the steamer, and when in Bermuda I—at first, only a slight difference in a possibility in my constitution, but week year as the disease fastened, I felt a propriety knowing of greater relief in use. What would have been prevented with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care to thoroughly eradicate the malady within. So it is in human life—a slight derangement in your system, if you use Morse's Indian Root Pills, will prevent, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so prevent a vigor and vitality.

Poetry.

ALMOST.

Ah, as the annual bursting time is here,
When Earth will burst its bonds and wake again,
When body will burst and with new feelings cheer
The long-barred continents of hill and plain;
When songs will burst anew from throats of birds
And brooks burst o'er the cliffs with fuller gush,
When barns will burst their long-barred doors, and herds
Burst from their prisons and to pastures rush.

Ah, yes! and not to be outdone in this,
The annual bursting carnival, you'll see
The old waste basket gorge its deep abyss,
And burst with lyric, ode and epopee.

The world is never interested in a man who talks about his wrongs, or a woman who talks about her rights.

Girls are of three kinds: The girl who is awfully pretty, but hasn't any sense; the girl who is mighty nice, but isn't very pretty, and the girl who is neither.

The green domestic is always with us. She was sent out last week by her up town mistress to give the grocer an order. "And while you are there," she was told, "hurry the meat up through the telephone; I'm afraid it will be late. The order was duly received by the grocer, who wondered at the girl's further delaying, while she cast frequent glances at the instrument behind his desk.

"Is there anything more?" he finally asked.

"Not from you," said the girl. "I'm waitin' for the beef to come through the telliphone, as the mistis bid me."

Oats sown early nearly always make the best growth and yield, hence it is an item to sow as early in spring as the soil can be worked into a good condition.

If the farmer desires to speculate by holding his crops for higher prices than he can get when they are first ready for market, he should be out of debt. Then he can speculate or gamble with his own money, and not with that of some other man.

A Colorado prospector was passing through a narrow defile in the mountains the other day when he suddenly came face to face with a magnificent lion. He was unarmed, and determining to put the best face possible on the matter, advanced slowly. The lion crouched and then sprang high in the air and landed on the other side of the man and made off more scared than a ducked hen.

There are about 6,000 varieties of postage stamps now used by the different nations of the world. The museum of the Berlin post office alone contains a collection of between 4,000 and 5,000 different specimens of these little pasters. Half of this number are European stamps, the remainder divided between America, Asia, Africa and Australia.

The burro is not a pretty beast, but in the wild western plains he is some times very useful. The burros instinctively know where water is to be found, and if miners have been out a day or so without water they are very liable to be deserted by their jacks, the animals breaking away and rushing off in the direction of the nearest pool. More than one party of prospectors or travelers has been saved from perishing of thirst by the instinct —or intelligence, or whatever else you please to call it—of the burros, for these animals, even if haltered, will smell the water when they cannot go to it, and gives brays of joy at its proximity. If one of them is released when they exhibit these signs of enthusiasm and his steps are followed, he will be sure to lead the travelers to the nearest water.

Dr. Livingstone once said he had walked for weeks through a region in Africa where a lake ought to be, according to the maps. Joseph Thomson reported when he returned to England a while ago that, if the maps were accurate, he had been sleeping in the middle of Lake Bangwelo; and now Mr. Fortin writes that there is something wrong with the big island mapped in the Gulf of Paria, on the north-east coast of Venezuela, for he has walked all over it, and is unable to find where it is detached from the mainland; all of which goes to show that he is a great cartographer who can satisfy every explorer.

Every one who has been to Japan catches the witchery of the Japanese woman. They are just as sweet and pretty as they can be, at least that is the verdict of all the men who go there and see them in their own homes. They are so clean, too, and so willing and so obliging. When a Japanese belle gets herself up to slaughter hearts she stains her teeth black—jet black. Now this doesn't sound very pretty, but to off set the blackness she puts a dash of red pomade right upon her mouth, making such a tempting beauty spot that no man can resist admiring the bit of loveliness.

THEY KEPT THEIR SEATS.

An Ohio paper tells a story of two young girls who were recently travelling on a train in that state. As the train stopped at a station two ladies entered and took seats in front of them, and kept up a lively conversation until the train started. Then one of the two said:

"Sit down near us, and tell those girls to sit somewhere else."

So the stout lady turned and said, in freezing tones:

"I wish to converse with my friends, and would like that seat. I am Mrs. President R. of this road."

The girls stared at her an instant, and then one of them drawled, "Pleased to meet you I'm sure. I suppose you know I am Mrs. President Harrison of Washington."

The other girl said, 'And I am Mrs. Queen Victoria.' Neither of them moved and Mrs. President R had to go back to her own seat.

As a prime blood remedy there is nothing equals Dr. Williams' Pink pills. They supply in a condensed form the elements necessary to enrich the blood, stimulate the nerves and build anew the system enervated by being "housed up" during the winter months. ### HOW MICHAEL WAS SANCTIFIED.

What did the Prince do with the Funds he Had?

DETROIT, March 31.—The tribe of Israellites having become somewhat scattered, there was a gathering of the clans at G. W. Bell's house Tuesday morning, and at the meeting which followed it was decided that they would remain in Hamilton-avenue through weal or woe.

Much speculation has been indulged in as to the disposition of the money which Prince Michael was supposed to possess. The wary prince anticipated the trouble in which he now finds himself and intrusted his wealth to one of the satellites, in all probability G. W. Bell. This money, which amounts to about $3000, it is said by young Rodebaugh, was at this meeting divided between Bell, Richardson and Hamilton. The last named disciple is an importation from Toronto, and when he came here he invested $6000 in the Israelitish bank, Prince Michael, it is alleged.

Michael spends his time in jail reading The Firing Roll. He says it will be impossible for him to procure bail.

The property real and personal, of Michael is valued at $10000. An injunction has been issued restraining Mills from interfering with his legal wife in disposing of it.

HOW PRINCE MICHAEL WAS 'PURIFIED.'

Eliza Counts seems to think that everything she and Mills have done was for the Glory of God and by His commands, at least if she really means what she says. Last evening she was telling Roundsman Shoemaker a long story of the terrible sufferings of the "Prince" while the devil was being driven out of him.

"You do not know what the poor man suffered," she said. "It was some time before he went to England that one day he told me that God had spoken to him and that he would drive out the devil spirits. God told him to eat nothing and drink water for a week. Oh, how he suffered! When the week was up he asked me to kiss him. I did so and that was the first time I kissed him. The moment it was done he began to howl and shout: 'Oh, Jesus! Oh, Jesus!' Then he began to rub his hands and he howled still louder. Oh, how he suffered! Then he cried, 'It's coming!' He threw himself down, pulling his beard, and I saw in what terrible agony he was. He kept on crying 'It's coming' and——"

"What was coming?" interrupted Shoemaker.

"Why, the spirit of God was entering him and he was cleansed. His body is purified and no matter what he did it would be no sin."

KISSES SAVED UP.

A travelling man, who was also the head of a prosperous firm, promised his newly wedded wife that he would give her a dollar every time he kissed her, and in that way she could save plenty of money. Things went on in this way for several years, and, as he made plenty of money, he faithfully kept up his promise. Finally reverses came and he the once prosperous travelling man found that he was virtually a pauper. He went home to his wife and told her all. She, however, did not seem to feel worried, and he was somewhat surprised when she asked him to take a ride with her that after noon, but he accepted her invitation.

Passing a large block on a well known street she said, "That's mine." Soon she came to a handsome flat and said, "That's mine." Well, she showed him several places with the same remark until he began to be suspicious, and inquired: "How in the deuce did you accumulate so much wealth?" 'Do you remember the contract you made when we were first married?' she said. 'Yes,' he replied, 'I do.' 'Well, I invested it and it has made us rich.' The traveling man hung his head and said nothing. This was kept up for thirty minutes, until his wife became alarmed, and she asked: "What in the world is the matter, and what are you thinking about?" He said: "I was thinking of how rich we would be if I had done all my kissing at home."

A case of a man being conscience stricken is reported by a physician of Areprior. Thirty years ago a physician sued a debtor for $10; the debtor perjured himself and the doctor lost the suit. This week the man sent the amount to his creditor, saying that he knew God had forgiven him the deed and hoping the doctor would do the same. The conscience stricken man said nothing about any interest, simple or compound.

MEDICAL HINTS.

Cure for Dyspepsia.

As is well-known, this troublesome complaint arises from over eating, the use of too much rich food, neglected constipation, lack of exercise, bad air, etc. The food should be thoroughly chewed and never bolted or swallowed in haste, stimulants must be avoided and exercise taken if possible. A remedy which has rarely failed to give prompt relief and effect permanent cures, even in the most obstinate cases, is Burdock Blood Bitters. It acts by regulating and toning the digestive organs, removing costiveness and increasing the appetite and restoring health and vigor to the system. As a case in point we quote from a letter written by Miss L. A. Kuhn, of Hamilton, Ont:—"Two years ago life seemed a burden. I could not eat the simplest food without being in dreadful misery in my stomach, under my shoulders and across the back of my neck. Medical advice failed to procure relief and seeing B. B. B. advertised, I took two bottles of it, and have been entirely free from any symptoms of my complaint since."

This gives very conclusive proof of the efficiency of this wonderful remedy.

A TRAIN HELD UP.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 31.—The passenger train for Atlanta on the Pacific Railroad was held up by masked robbers at 1 o'clock this morning at Woods, ten miles east of here. As the train moved from the station a robber mounted the engine and covered the engineer with a rifle, compelling him to stop the train on the trestle. One man stood guard over the engineer while several others opened fire on the inside of the train to frighten the passengers. Another robber knocked on the door of the mail car, demanding entrance, but was refused. He then broke open the door, firing at the postal clerk, who was slightly wounded. Registered letters supposed to contain about $8,000 were taken. The express car was not molested. The robbery was done in a few minutes, in which time several of the gang kept up firing and Flagman Quincy Adams was wounded. The engineer says the robber on the engine was a white man, and the mail clerk says the one who robbed him was a mulatto. The police started on the trail of the robberies with bloodhounds.

Prominent Divorce Suits.

Senator Sanford of Hamilton has charge of two of the most important divorce bills which will come before the Senate this session. The son of ex Governor Aikins of Manitoba seeks divorce from his wife, who was a daughter of Mr. McLelan, the late Postmaster-General and Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia. The daughter of Mr. E. D. Tilson of Tilsonburg is seeking divorce from her husband, Mr. Harrison, who after three months' occupation of the press gallery in the House of Parliament married a young lady in Ottawa and then skipped out.

Another valuable thing is celery. This is soothing to the nerves, and if eaten in time will often avert a nervous headache. Keep the roots that are usually thrown away and fly to them for quick relief in the hour of need. Eat celery on every occasion and brace up your nerves in advance for the worries that are sure to come. Then if your digestion is reliable and you can eat a soft boiled egg every day you need fear no bodily ill. A witty and wise woman once said that if the ladies of old had known the value of eggs and celery they would have accompanied on their knees the pilgrims of Rome, supposing that only there were the two articles named to be obtained.

A two year old heifer belonging to Mr. George Hurd, 10th line Erin, gave birth to a calf that was probably the smallest one that ever lived. When it was calved it was not much larger than an ordinary rabbit. For two months after its birth it slept all the time giving no other evidence of life than a very gentle breathing and only taking such sustenance as was poured down its throat. In order to protect it from the cold and give it better care it was placed in the corner of the wood box in the kitchen and when it was required to feed it, it was lifted out with one hand like a kitten. At the end of two months it seemed to wake up and is now as lively and healthy a calf as you would wish to see and is growing finely.—Hillsburg Beacon.

The Restof Rock Salt, for Stock.

Read what Prof. Robertson, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, says regarding proper ways of salting stock.—"Dairy cattle should have access to salt every day. A series of experiments has convinced me that cows have desired salt for a period of one week; they will yield from ½ to ¾ per cent. less milk, and that of an inferior quality. Fresh milk will, on an average, turn sour in twenty hour longer if cows are given a supply of salt every day, all other conditions of treatment being equal."

THE only chemically pure Salt ever discovered, analysed 99 84-100 Pure Salt. All kinds of stock will do better where this Salt is used; one ton will go four times as far as common salt, hence it is cheaper. It is the finest Salt in the world for the preservation of all kinds of meat, all the large packers are using it. It is sold cheaper than any other lump salt. We guarantee this Salt as advertised. Make a trial and you will always use it; we have in stock fine and coarse, at

The world is never interested in a man who talks about his wrongs, or a woman who talks about her rights.

Girls are of three kinds: The girl who is awfully pretty, but hasn't any sense; the girl who is mighty nice, but isn't very pretty, and the girl who is neither.

The green domestic is always with us. She was sent out last week by her up town mistress to give the grocer an order. "And while you are there," she was told, "hurry the meat up through the telephone; I'm afraid it will be late. The order was duly received by the grocer, who wondered at the girl's further delaying, while she cast frequent glances at the instrument behind his desk.

"Is there anything more?" he finally asked.

"Not from you," said the girl. "I'm waitin' for the beef to come through the telliphone, as the missus bid me."

If the farmer desires to speculate by holding his crops for higher prices than he can get when they are first ready for market, he should be out of debt. Then he can speculate or gamble with his own money, and not with that of some other man.

A Colorado prospector was passing through a narrow defile in the mountains the other day when he suddenly came face to face with a magnificent lion. He was unarmed, and determining to put the best face possible on the matter, advanced slowly. The lion crouched and then sprang high in the air and landed on the other side of the man and made off more scared than a ducked hen.

There are about 6 000 varieties of postage stamps now used by the different nations of the world. The museum of the Berlin post office alone contains a collection of between 4,000 and 5,000 different specimens of these little pasters. Half of this number are European stamps, the remainder divided between America, Asia, Africa and Australia.

The burro is not a pretty beast, but in the wild western plains he is some times very useful. The burros instinctively know where water is to be found, and if miners have been out a day or so without water they are very liable to be deserted by their jacks, the animals breaking away and rushing off in the direction of the nearest pool. More than one party of prospectors or travelers has been saved from perishing of thirst by the instinct —or intelligence, or whatever else you please to call it—of the burros, for these animals, even if haltered, will smell the water when they cannot go to it, and gives brays of joy at its proximity. If one of them is released when they exhibit these signs of enthusiasm and his steps are followed, he will be sure to lead the travelers to the nearest water.

Dr. Livingstone once said he had walked for weeks through a region in Africa where a lake ought to be, according to the maps. Joseph Thomson reported when he returned to England a while ago that, if the maps were accurate, he had been sleeping in the middle of Lake Bangweolo; and now Mr. Fortin writes that there is something wrong with the big island mapped in the Gulf of Paria, on the north-east coast of Venezuela, for he has walked all over it, and is unable to find where it is detached from the mainland; all of which goes to show that he is a great cartographer who can satisfy every explorer.

Every one who has been to Japan extolles the witchery of the Japanese woman. They are just as sweet and pretty as they can be, at least that is the verdict of all the men who go there and see them in their own homes. They are so clean, too, and so willing and so obliging. When a Japanese belle gets herself up to slaughter hearts she stains her teeth black—jet black. Now this doesn't sound very pretty, but to offset the blackness she puts a dash of red pomade right upon her mouth, making such a tempting beauty spot that no man can resist admiring the bit of loveliness.

An Ohio paper tells a story of two young girls who were recently travelling on a train in that state. As the train stopped at a station two ladies entered and took seats in front of them, and kept up a lively conversation until the train started. Then one of the two said:

"Sit down near us, and tell those girls to sit somewhere else."

So the stout lady turned and said, in freezing tones:

"I wish to converse with my friends, and would like that seat. I am Mrs President R. of this road."

The girls stared at her an instant, and then one of them drawled, "Pleased to meet you I'm sure. I suppose you know I am Mrs. President Harrison of Washington."

The other girl said, 'And I am Mrs. Queen Victoria.' Neither of them moved and Mrs President R had to go back to her own seat

As a pring blood remedy there is nothing equals Dr. Williams' Pink pills. They supply in a condensed form the elements necessary to enrich the blood, stimulate the nerves and build anew the system enervated by being "housed up" during the winter months. Sold by all dealers or sent on receipt of price—50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50—by addressing the Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont., or Morristown, N. Y.

in as to the disposition of the money which Prince Michael was supposed to possess. The very prince anticipated the trouble in which he now finds himself and intrusted his wealth to one of the satellites, in all probability G. W. Bell. This money, which amounts to about $3000, it is said by young Rodebaugh, was at this meeting divided between Bell, Richardson and Hamilton. The last named disciple is an importation from Toronto, and when he came here he invested $6000 in the Israelitish bank, Prince Michael, it is alleged.

Michael spends his time in jail reading The Flying Roll. He says it will be impossible for him to procure bail.

The property real and personal, of Michael is valued at $10000. An injunction has been issued restraining Mills from interfering with his legal wife in disposing of it.

HOW PRINCE MICHAEL WAS 'PURIFIED.'

Eliza Courts seems to think that everything she and Mills have done was for the Glory of God and by His commands, at least if she really means what she says. Last evening she was telling Roundsman Shoemaker a long story of the terrible sufferings of the "Prince" while the devil was being driven out of him.

"You do not know what the poor man suffered," she said. "It was some time before he went to England that one day he told me that God had spoken to him and that he would drive out the devil spirits. God told him to eat nothing and drink water for a week. Oh, how he suffered! When the week was up he asked me to kiss him. I did so and that was the first time I kissed him. The moment it was done he began to howl and shout: 'Oh, Jesus! Oh, Jesus!' Then he began to rub his hands and he howled still louder. Oh, how he suffered! Then he cried, 'It's coming!' He threw himself down, pulling his beard, and I saw in what terrible agony he was. He kept on crying 'It's coming' and——"

"What was coming?" interrupted Shoemaker.

"Why, the spirit of God was entering him and he was cleansed. His body is purified and no matter what he did it would be no sin."

KISSES SAVED UP.

A travelling man, who was also the head of a prosperous firm, promised his newly wedded wife that he would give her a dollar every time he kissed her, and in that way she could save plenty of money. Things went on in this way for several years, and, as he made plenty of money, he faithfully kept up his promise. Finally reverses came and he the once prosperous travelling man found that he was virtually a pauper. He went home to his wife and told her all. She, however, did not seem to feel worried, and he was somewhat surprised when she asked him to take a ride with her that afternoon, but he accepted her invitation.

Passing a large block on a well known street she said, "That's mine." Soon she came to a handsome flat and said, "That's mine." Well, she showed him several places with the same remark until he began to be suspicious, and inquired: "How in the deuce did you accumulate so much wealth?" "Do you remember the contract you made when we were first married?" she said "Yes," he replied, "I do." "Well, I invested it and it has made us rich." The traveling man hung his head and said nothing. This was kept up for thirty minutes, until his wife became alarmed, and she asked: "What in the world is the matter, and what are you thinking about?" He said: "I was thinking of how rich we would be if I had done all my kissing at home."

A case of a man being conscience stricken is reported by a physician of Arnprior. Thirty years ago a physician sued a debtor for $10; the debtor perjured himself and the doctor lost the suit. This week the man sent the amount to his creditor, saying that he knew God had forgiven him the deed and hoping the doctor would do the same. The conscience stricken man said nothing about any interest, simple or compound.

MEDICAL HINTS.

Cure for Dyspepsia.

As is well-known, this troublesome complaint arises from over eating, the use of too much rich food, neglected constipation, lack of exercise, bad air, etc. The food should be thoroughly chewed and never bolted or swallowed in haste, stimulants must be avoided and exercise taken if possible. A remedy which has rarely failed to give prompt relief and effect permanent cures, even in the most obstinate cases, is Burdock Blood Bitters. It acts by regulating and toning the digestive organs, removing costiveness and increasing the appetite and restoring health and vigor to the system. As a case in point we quote from a letter written by Miss L. A. Kuhn, of Hamilton, Ont:—"Two years ago life seemed a burden. I could not eat the simplest food without being in dreadful misery in my stomach, under my shoulders and across the back of my neck. Medical advice failed to procure relief and seeing B. B. B. advertised, I took two bottles of it, and have been entirely free from any symptoms of my complaint since."

This gives very conclusive proof of the efficiency of this wonderful remedy.

Another robber knocked on the door of the mail car, demanding entrance, but was refused. He then broke open the door, flung at the postal clerk, who was slightly wounded. Registered letters supposed to contain about $8,000 were taken. The express car was not molested. The robbery was done in a few minutes, in which time several of the gang kept up firing and Flagman Quinsy Adams was wounded. The engineer says the robber on the engine was a white man, and the mail clerk says the one who robbed him was a mulatto. The police started on the trail of the robberies with bloodhounds.

Prominent Divorce Suits.

Senator Sanford of Hamilton has charge of two of the most important divorce bills which will come before the Senate this session. The son of ex Governor Aikins of Manitoba seeks divorce from his wife, who was a daughter of Mr. McLelan, the late Postmaster-General and Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia. The daughter of Mr. E. D. Tilson of Tilsonburg is seeking divorce from her husband, Mr. Harrison, who after three months' occupation of the press gallery in the House of Parliament married a young lady in Ottawa and then skipped out.

Another valuable thing is celery. This is soothing to the nerves, and if eaten in time will often avert a nervous headache. Keep the roots that are usually thrown away and fly to them for quick relief in the hour of need. Eat celery on every occasion and brace up your nerves in advance for the worries that are sure to come. Then if your digestion is reliable and you can eat a soft-boiled egg every day you need fear no bodily ill. A witty and wise woman once said that if the ladies of old had known the value of eggs and celery they would have accompanied on their knees the pilgrims of Rome, supposing that only there were the two articles named to be obtained.

A two year old heifer belonging to Mr. George Hurd, 10th line Erin, gave birth to a calf that was probably the smallest one that ever lived. When it was calved it was not much larger than an ordinary rabbit. For two months after its birth it slept all the time giving no other evidence of life than a very gentle breathing and only taking such sustenance as was poured down its throat. In order to protect it from the cold and give it better care it was placed in the corner of the wood box in the kitchen and when it was required to feed it, it was lifted out with one hand like a kitten. At the end of two months it seemed to wake up and is now as lively and healthy a calf as you would wish to see and is growing finely.—Hillsburg Beaver.

The Best of Rock Salt, for Stock.

Read what Prof. Robertson, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, says regarding proper ways of salting stock:—"Dairy cattle should have access to salt every day. A series of experiments has convinced me that other cows are denied salt for a period of only one week they will yield from ½ to 1½ per cent less milk, and that of an inferior quality. Such milk will on standing, turn sour in twenty four hours sooner than milk drawn from the same or similar cows receiving salt every day, all other conditions of treatment being equal."

THE only chemically pure Salt ever discovered, analyzed 99 84-100 Pure Salt. All kinds of stock will do better where this Salt is used; one ton will go four times as far as common salt, hence it is cheaper. ### Cure for Dyspepsia.

As is well-known, this troublesome complaint arises from over eating, the use of too much rich food, neglected constipation, lack of exercise, bad air, etc. The food should be thoroughly chewed and never bolted or swallowed in haste, stimulants must be avoided and exercise taken if possible. A remedy which has rarely failed to give prompt relief and effect permanent cures, even in the most obstinate cases, is Burdock Blood Bitters. It acts by regulating and toning the digestive organs, removing costiveness and increasing the appetite and restoring health and vigor to the system. As a case in point we quote from a letter written by Miss L. A. Kuhn, of Hamilton, Ont.:—"Two years ago life seemed a burden. I could not eat the simplest food without being in dreadful misery in my stomach, under my shoulders and across the back of my neck. Medical advice failed to procure relief and seeing B. B. B. advertised, I took two bottles of it, and have been entirely free from any symptoms of my complaint since."

This gives very conclusive proof of the efficiency of this wonderful remedy.

Greatest Scandal of Hamilton has charge of two of the most important divorce bills which will come before the Senate this session. The son of ex Governor Aikins of Manitoba seeks divorce from his wife, who was a daughter of Mr. McLelan, the late Postmaster-General and Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia. The daughter of Mr. E. D. Tilton of Tilsonburg is seeking divorce from her husband, Mr. Harrison, who after three months' occupation of the press gallery in the House of Parliament married a young lady in Ottawa and then skipped out.

Another valuable thing is celery. This is soothing to the nerves, and if eaten in time will often avert a nervous headache. Keep the roots that are usually thrown away and fly to them for quick relief in the hour of need. Eat celery on every occasion and brace up your nerves in advance for the worries that are sure to come. Then if your digestion is reliable and you can eat a soft boiled egg every day you need fear no bodily ill. A witty and wise woman once said that if the ladies of old had known the value of eggs and celery they would have accompanied on their knees the pilgrims of Rome, supposing that only there were the two articles named to be obtained.

A two year old heifer belonging to Mr. George Hurd, 10th line Erin, gave birth to a calf that was probably the smallest one that ever lived. When it was calved it was not much larger than an ordinary rabbit. For two months after its birth it slept all the time giving no other evidence of life than a very gentle breathing and only taking such sustenance as was poured down its throat. In order to protect it from the cold and give it better care it was placed in the corner of the wood box in the kitchen and when it was required to feed it, it was lifted out with one hand like a kitten. At the end of two months it seemed to wake up and is now as lively and healthy a calf as you would wish to see and is growing finely.—Hillsburg Beacon.

The Rest of Rock Salt, for Stock.

Read what Prof. Robertson, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, says regarding proper ways of salting stock and why cattle should have access to salt every day. A series of experiments has convinced me that cattle never are denied salt for a period of only one week they will yield from 1½ to 2½ per cent. less milk, and that of an inferior quality. Such milk will, on standing, have none in twenty four hours, while that from cattle fed salt every day, all other conditions of treatment being equal."

THE only chemically pure Salt ever discovered, analyzed 99 84-100 Pure Salt. All kinds of stock will do better where this Salt is used; one ton will go four times as far as common salt, hence it is cheaper. It is the finest Salt in the world for the preservation of all kinds of meat, all the large packers are using it. It is sold cheaper than any other lump salt. We guarantee this Salt as advertised. Make a trial and you will always use it; we have in stock fine and coarse, at

WORTH knowing is that blood disease which all other remedies fail to cure, yields to Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Frank confirmation of this statement comes to hand daily. Even such deep-seated and stubborn complaints as Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout, and the like, are thoroughly eradicated by the use of this wonderful alterative.

Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 126th street, New York, certifies:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months. I am pleased to say that it effected a complete cure, and that I have since had no return of the disease."

Mrs. L. A. Scott, Nashua, N. H., writes: "One year ago I was taken ill with rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."

"I have taken a great deal of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I felt its beneficial effects before I had quite finished one bottle, and can freely testify that it is the best blood-medicine I know of."—L. W. Ward, Sr., Woodland, Texas.

THE SONG OF THE TYPE.

Slightly while the millions sleep,
Spinners sheet, the wretched weep,
And the watch lone nights keep,
The printer works away;
With a click! click! click!
The type in his stick
Records the needs of the day.

Heeds the poet with glowing face
That the lines he sets space
Demand need with no disgrace?
They care for him no smart,
And the click! click! click!
Of the type in his stick
Times with his joyous heart.

Thrills you, man with sunken eye,
As his nimble fingers fly,
Forming words that glorify?
They to him no joy impart;
And the click! click! click!
Of the type in his stick
Outrunes his aching heart.

Does the reader realize,
Glancing o'er with rapid eyes,
Countless types those lines comprise,
Picked separate from the case,
And the click! click! click!
Of that type in the stick,
All night kept up its pace?

Thus it is through life we go,
Feeling not the joy, the woe,
Or the toiling others know;
Ah, better it is so.
For the click! click! click!
Of the type in the stick
Tells less of joy than woe.

The Story Teller.

Miss Vervain's Mistake.

March in the mountains! Freshets roaring down the ravines; great thickets of pines tossing their green crests to and fro in the rush of the tempestuous wind; snow shining off on the plateaus, and pink clusters of trailing arbutus breaking into bloom in southern nooks and sheltered places where last winter's dead leaves had not yet drifted away. And Lucy Vervain standing in her russet walking dress on the porch of the little mountain inn, wondered if the famous Bernese Alps were grander than these same Catskill heights.

Lucy Vervain was small and slight and brown-skinned, but she had large wistful eyes of so large a hazel that they seemed to melt into black around the iris, and there were quick roses ready to deepen in her cheeks if any one spoke to her. She was pretty, in her way, like a wild flower, or a little brown-winged bird; and she looked around with a troubled air, as the sound of an excited feminine voice floated out from the one unpretentious little "best parlor" of the inn.

"It's outrageous!" said Miss Clara Vervain.

"I'm very sorry ma'am," said Mr. Mixit who kept the house.

"Unendurable!" cried Miss Vervain.

"It does happen, sometimes, ma'am, when the streams is high, at the spring of the year," the landlord pleaded. "You see, there ain't no bridge can stand the freshets, if—"

"And we have got to stay here, in this horrid hole of a place, until your tumble-down bridge is mended?"

"I don't see any other way for you, ma'am," said Mr. Mixit, meekly.

"It's the most provoking thing I ever knew in my life," said Miss Vervain.

She stalked about the room like a second Lady Macbeth, as she spoke. For Clara was as unlike her blushing shrinking little sister as the tall popular is to the humble corn-flower. She was handsome and stately, and wore long trains to her dresses and bangles on her wrists, and used perfume on her handkerchiefs and "did" her hair after the latest fashion plates.

"It ain't my fault ma'am," said the landlord, driven to the very confines of despair. "I can't stop the freshet, nor yet I can't build a new bridge."

"Clara, dear, don't allow yourself to be so annoyed," soothed Lucy, coming like a noiseless little gray shadow in the room "We shall only be detained a day, after all, and I am sure it is very pleasant here."

"I am not accustomed to delays," said Miss Vervain, loftily.

"I know, dear, but—"

"And if I am compelled to remain in such a place as this," added Clara, glancing superciliously around her, "I must really insist upon privacy."

"Eh?" said Mr. Mixit.

"That old person in the snuff colored coat," said Miss Vervain, with a royal motion of her head toward an old gentleman in a wig and spectacles who was reading the paper by a distant window, "I dare say he will do very well in your kitchen or bar-room, and I prefer this department to myself."

"Oh, Clara!" pleaded Lucy, crimson to the very roots of her hair.

The landlord looked puzzled, but the old man himself folded his newspaper, returned his spectacles to their case, and rose slowly to his feet.

"Certainly miss," said he; "certainly. If I'm intruding, I'll go to the kitchen. There's always room for me there. Eh, Mixit?"

And he trudged with alacrity out of the room, followed by mine hosts.

"I'm afraid you've hurt his feelings, Clara," said Lucy piteously.

"Who cares for his feelings?" said Miss Vervain, sniffing at her scent bottle. "Mine are much more to the purpose. And I don't choose to associate with every country farmer in the Catskills."

"Clara, dear!"

"Well?"

"We are only a bookkeeper's daughters ourselves."

"As if that signified," said Miss Vervain, scornfully. "We are going to our aristocratic relations, aren't we?"

"But perhaps they won't care to keep us"

"That is neither here nor there," said Miss Vervain. "But you never had any proper pride, Lucy."

Little Lucy Vervain was still pondering, with a puzzled brow, over the distinction between proper pride and pride that was not proper, when the landlord's wife, a buxom dame in mad dowlas calico and a frilled white apron, came to summon the guests to dinner.

"We've only a roast fowl, with bread sauce and a little cranberry jelly," said Mrs. Mixit; "but it ain't often as folks stop here over a meal, and I hope, ladies, as you'll kindly pardon any shortcomings."

But Miss Vervain stopped short on the very threshold of the dining room.

"I should prefer a table to myself," said she haughtily.

"Ma'am!" said Mrs. Mixit.

"Dear Clara," pleaded Lucy, in an agony of distress, as she saw the red flush rise to the forehead of the old man in a snuff colored coat, who sat at the head of the well spread board.

"I prefer dining with my sister only," insisted Miss Vervain, delighted with an opportunity of asserting her exclusiveness. "Really, I cannot imagine how people can obtrude themselves in this sort of way."

The old man rose quietly.

"Do I understand, young woman," said he, "that you object to me?"

"Yes, sir, I do object to you—if you compel me to put it in that way," said Miss Vervain.

"Indeed!" the old man lifted his grizzled brows. "I may not be one of your fashionable fops—"

"That is easily to be seen," contemptuously interpolated the young lady.

"But I am clean and decent," added the stranger. "However, I dare say Mrs. Mixit can accommodate me with a plate and knife and fork in another room, if my presence is really obnoxious to these young women."

"Young ladies, sir, if you please," said Miss Vervain with a toss of her head.

He smiled a shrewd, sagacious smile.

"As to that," said he, 'opinions may perhaps differ." And he followed Mrs. Mixit into the kitchen.

Clara Vervain took her seat com placently at the table.

"These people will begin after a while to comprehend the difference between a lady and a shop-girl," said she. "It is quite evident that they are not favored with many travellers.

Half an hour afterward, as the old man in the snuff colored suit was step ping into his plain, little carriage, a soft hand touched his sleeve, and turning, he found himself looking into Lucy Vervain's trouble brown eyes.

"Well, my dear," said he, kindly, "what is it?"

"I—I only wanted to beg your pardon, sir," faltered the little brunette. "I am sure my sister did not mean to, hurt your feelings, and—"

"I am sure, at all events, that you did not," said the old man kindly. "And I dare say that your sister will be wiser one of these days!"

And thus speaking, he nodded good-humoredly and drove away."

"It was nearly dark, however, before the clumsy carryall which was to convey the two New York ladies to their destination arrived, and they entered in.

"To Cliff Hall," said Miss Vervain, haughtily, as she leaned back in the seat, and settled her skirts languidly around her.

"Cliff Hall?" said Mr. Mixit staring.

"You don't never mean as you're going to Cliff Hall?" echoed Mrs. Mixit.

"I think we have considerably astonished these good people," said Miss Vervain, with a smile, as the coach rattled away from the door.

"I only hope our Uncle Cliff will receive us kindly," sighed poor Lucy.

Cliff Hall was a substantial old mansion built of gray stone, with a succession of terraces falling down the mountain's side, and exquisitive groups of statuary half-hidden in the forest trees; and the lights were already beginning to gleam hospitably along its front as they drove up. An old man servant opened the outside door just far enough to reveal the cheery glow of a wood fire, and the deep tints of a crimson Axminster carpet within.

"Is my Uncle Cliff at home?" said Miss Vervain with an air and a grace.

"Mr. Cliff is—ay, mem," answered the servant, with a strong Scotch accent.

"Tell him his nieces from New York are here—the Misses Vervain," said Clara, as she swept into the ante chamber.

As she entered, an old man dressed in snuff brown rose from before the blazing logs.

"My nieces from New York, eh?" said Caleb Cliff. "They are welcome."

And to Miss Vervain's surprise and dismay, she found herself face to face with the old man of Catskill wayside inn.

"You are astonished?" said he, slightly arching his brows. "So am I. It is not always best judge by appearances. Sit down, Sanders," to the servant, "let dinner be served."

Miss Clara Vervain left Cliff Hall the next day, with all her bright anticipations shattered to the dust. But little brown faced Lucy stayed to keep house for her uncle.

"She's too genteel for us, isn't she?" chuckled old Caleb Cliff, as the carriage drove away which was to carry Miss Vervain to the New York station.

Clara went back to her teacher, and if the bitter tears of repentant mortification can wash out the past, that day in the Catskills would have been erased long ago.

"If I had only known who he was," said Miss Vervain.

Alas! this world is full of "if's!"

In my endorsement of Anti-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is a perfect remover of Dandruff, not only in the first stages, but even where the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair-dresser during which time I have experimented with with every recommended preparation, not one has (nor, I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti Dandruff has.

It positively removes Dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair-dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair-dressing place, at Balmoral Hotel, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.

SOME NOTED IRISHMEN.

Some of the Immortals into Whose Names Stand High on the Roll of Fame.

From The Kansas City Times.

Since Prof. Goldwin Smith, the avowed enemy of the Irish, has at the hundred and second anniversary of the St. George Society, New York, manifested in good taste to put forth his bigotry, and the splendid speaker, Chauncey Depew, meantime abandoned the toast, "The Genius of Shakespeare," to express his entire disapproval and opposition to the Professor's sentiments, it may not be amiss to say something of the nationality to which I belong. "Inventive and imaginative" is the phrase usually applied to the Irish. Well, they have imagination, I suppose, because it is a glorious thing, but can anyone read the works of Edmund Burke, Richard Sheridan, Daniel O'Connell, Dean Swift, Thomas Moore, Oliver Goldsmith and others, all Irishmen, without seeing something real as well as imaginary? As to "inventive"—it was an Irishman's son, Robert Fulton, that gave to America the credit of inventing steam navigation it was an Irishman's grandson, Samuel Morse, that invented telegraphy; it was the descendant of an Irishman, McCormack that invented the reaping and mowing machines; and another descendant of an Irishman, Horace Greeley, with no meagre inventive talent, that founded the Tribune. Numerous names worthy of mention are connected with science: Crawford, the sculptor; Vincent Wallace, the composer; John Roach, the shipbuilder.

The highest but one is rank in our army is Irish, and the second in command in our navy, Rowan, is a native of Ireland, as is the first in command, Porter, the descendant of an Irishman. The greatest British painter was Irish; the greatest British dentist, Joseph Black, was Irish; the greatest British philosopher, Robert Boyle, was Irish; the greatest British statesman, Edmund Burke, was Irish; the greatest British satirist, Sir Philip Francis, was Irish; the great at British naturalist, Hans Sloane, was Irish; John Tyndall is not a British scientist, but an Irish scientist in Britain. Spranger Barry is an Irish tragedian entertaining British with Irish plays. It was an Irishman, John Knox, that first read the Declaration of Independence. John Dunlap, an Irishman, first published that declaration, and the same John Dunlap first printed and published the first daily paper in the United States. An Irishman wrote the first history of the United States; John Sullivan "fired the first shot at the King's power;" John Bay, an Irishman, was the first commander of the American Navy. An Irishman, Gen. Richard Montgomery, fell while commanding an American army and fighting for America's independence. Henry Knox, an Irishman, fought in every battle with Washington, and was the first Secretary of War.

The Demosthenes of the Revolution, Patrick Henry, was Irish. Then may glory be around the graves of the Knoxes, Clintons, Butlers, Irvings, Hands, Starks, Moylands, Thompsons, Sullivans, Montgomerys and Waynes, whose Irish swords flashed brightest in the contest that won American independence: bright be the light that clusters around the solitary ray of English patriotism that glistened on the blade of Yates, McClellan, McPherson, Cook, famous Phil Kearny, Lee, Jackson, Scott, Gilmore, McDowell, Rowan, Porter, Shields and Logan are all Celts, and why not pay a passing tribute to our own Irish hero of Winchester—Phil Sheridan? We, the people of the United States, are said to be Anglo Saxon. We are not, but are in a truer sense of Celtic extraction. The great branch of the Anglo Saxon amounts to no more than 5,000,000. The Celtic element is 30,000,000. Of the thirty nine States and eleven Territories more than thirty were settled by France and Spain. Nor were the original thirteen States settled by Saxons. These are historical facts, and yet Prof. Goldwin Smith quarrels with Home Rule and the members of the House of Commons. To be brief, these same members are admitted to be the brightest set of legislators in the world, but Mr. Smith says that, although they legislate for England, they are unequal to the task of legislating for Ireland.

'My mother gets up, builds the fire and gets my breakfast, and sends me off,' said a bright youth. 'Then she gets father up, gets his breakfast, and sends him off Then she gives the other children their breakfast, and sends them off to school; and then she and the baby have their breakfast.'

'How old is the baby? asked the reporter.

'Oh, she is most two, but she can talk and walk as well as any of us.'

'Are you well paid?'

'I get $2 a week, and father gets $2 a day.'

'How much does your mother get?' With a bewildered look the boy said: 'Mother! Why she don't work for anybody.'

'I thought you said she worked for all of you.'

'Oh, yes, for us she does; but there is no money in it.'

Too many boys and men who earn much larger sums than those mentioned above, act as though "mother" not only had no right to share their earnings, but received what she did by some special grace on their part.

Among others factors in home happiness the right management of home finances is an important one. The silent partner in the world—business, the wife who takes care of the husband keeps the home bright and sunny, and manages the children, is entitled to what she thinks fit regarding the disposal of funds, and to have her own share of them to spend as she pleases.

Miss Elliott, a young lady formerly of Dundas, who has been waiting on invalids lady at Niagara Falls for the past five months, returned to her home at Caledonia on Saturday last and is lying ill from the effects of a blow on the head from a club in the hands of her patient.

DEAR SIRS,—This fall and winter I suffered from neuralgia in my face and had the best medical advice without avail. I at last thought of trying B B B, and after using one bottle have not felt any symptoms of neuralgia since. I regard it as a fine family medicine.

LOVE ALL AWRY.

WINNIPEG, APRIL 8.—Chief Clarke has arrived from Moosejaw with a woman named Mrs. Dale, whom he arrested there on a charge of bigamy.

Last July the accused was married in this city to a farmer named Stephen Burk, who lived at Rutswell. During the past winter she packed up her effects and went off with a man named Dale, who was a business partner of Burk, and married him, and the couple have since been living at Moosejaw.

She is an Irish-Canadian, but came here from London, Ont.

IS HE CHARLIE ROSS?

ST. LOUIS, APRIL.—S. There is a young man, aged 23 years, working on the farm of H. G. Sparks of Benton, Mo., whom Mr. Sparks believes to be Charlie Ross who was stolen from his home in Germantown, Philadelphia, on July 1, 1874.

A relative of the Ross family is now on his way to see the young man and investigate his story.

Aikins Secures His Divorce.

OTTAWA, APRIL 8.—The Divorce Committee of the Senate this morning granted Mr. J. A. M. Aikins, son of the ex-Lieut. Governor of Manitoba, a divorce from his wife, the daughter of the late Lieut Governor of Nova Scotia. Mr. B. B. Osler, Q. C., appeared for Mr. Aikins and proved a bigamous marriage in New York between Mrs. Aikins and one Blanchard.

Col. Ingersoll can talk eloquently if not positively of death and the grave hereafter. In his oration at the funeral of Walt Whitman he said:

He was not afraid to live; not afraid to speak his thoughts. Neither was he afraid to die. For many years he and death were near neighbors. He was always willing and ready to meet and greet this thing called Death. And for many months he sat in the deepening twilight waiting for the night—waiting for the light. In his brain were the blessed memories of the day, and in his heart were mingled the dawn and dusk of life. He was not afraid—cheerful every moment, the laughing nymphs of day did not desert him. They remained that they might clasp the hand of the veiled and silent sisters of the night when they should come. And when they did come Walt Whitman stretched out his hands to both—on one side the nymphs of day, on the other the silent sisters of the night. And so, hand in hand, between smiles and tears, he reached his journey's end. From the frontier of life, from the western wave kissed shore, he sent us messages of content and hope. And those messages seem now like strains of music blown by the mystic Trumpeter from death's pale realm,

Edith Brown, aged 14, charged at Brantford police court with not attending school, said she had no shoes to go to school and that the other girls laughed at the shoes she wore. The magistrate told the girl she must go to school or jail and she chose the former.

There exists in some parts of South Dakota, Colorado and Texas, a singular variety of grass, called the "sleepy grass." When in a fresh green state, this plant is strongly charged with narcotic properties, so much so, that horses and cattle grazing on it are thrown into a profound sleep.

In his sermon Sunday morning, touching on religion in business, Rev. Dr. Cochrane of Brantford said there were some people who would not shave themselves on Sunday who shaved their neighbors all the week, and there were some people who would not blacken their boots on Sunday who blackened their neighbors' characters all the week.

While a cow was being weighed on the market scales at Owen Sound on Thursday last, she took fright, swam across the river and ran through the park to Patterson St. where she made a savage attack on Miss Bessie Sadler who happened to be passing. The animal's horns got tangled in Miss Sadler's cloak, and dragged her some distance before she was released by the garment giving away. The young lady had one hand and shoulder slightly injured.

Something to go home upon,
Something to put from Home comforts,
Picked separate from the cone,
And the click! click! click!
Of that tape in the stick,
All night kept up its pace?

Then it is through life we go,
Feeling not the joy, the woe,
Or the telling others know:
Ah, better is it so.
For the click! click! click!
Of the tape in the stick
Tells less of joy than woe.

The Story Teller.

Miss Vervain's Mistake.

March in the mountains! Freshets roaring down the ravines; great thickets of pines tossing their green crests to and fro in the rush of the tempestuous wind; snow shining off on the plateaus, and pink clusters of trailing arbutus breaking into bloom in southern nooks and sheltered places where last winter's dead leaves had not yet drifted away. And Lucy Vervain standing in her russet walking dress on the porch of the little mountain inn, wondered if the famous Berouse Alps were grander than these same Catskill heights.

Lucy Vervain was small and slight and brown-skinned, but she had large wistful eyes of so large a hazel that they seemed to melt into black around the iris, and there were quick roses ready to deepen in her cheeks if any one spoke to her. She was pretty, in her way, like a wild flower, or a little brown-winged bird; and she looked around with a troubled air, as the sound of an excited feminine voice floated out from the one unpretentious little "best parlor" of the inn.

"It's outrageous!" said Miss Clara Vervain.

"I'm very sorry ma'am," said Mr. Mizit who kept the house.

"Unendurable!" cried Miss Vervain.

"It does happen, sometimes, ma'am, when the streams is high, at the spring of the year," the landlord pleaded. "You see, there ain't no bridge can stand the freshets, if—"

"And we have got to stay here, in this horrid hole of a place, until your tumble-down bridges is mended?"

"I don't see any other way for you, ma'am," said Mr. Mizit, meekly.

"It's the most provoking thing I ever knew in my life," said Miss Vervain.

She stalked about the room like a second Lady Macbeth, as she spoke. For Clara was as unlike her blushing shrinking little sister as the tall popular is to the humble corn-flower. She was handsome and stately, and wore long trains to her dresses and bangles on her wrists, and used perfume on her handkerchiefs and "did" her hair after the latest fashion plates.

"It ain't my fault ma'am," said the landlord, driven to the very confines of despair. "I can't stop the freshet, nor yet I can't build a new bridge."

"Clara, dear, don't allow yourself to be so annoyed," soothed Lucy, coming like a noiseless little gray shadow in the room "We shall only be detained a day, after all, and I am sure it is very pleasant here."

"I am not accustomed to delays," said Miss Vervain, loftily.

"I know, dear, but—"

"And if I am compelled to remain in such a place as this," added Clara, glancing superciliously around her, "I must really insist upon privacy."

"Eh?" said Mr. Mizit.

"That old person in the snuff colored coat," said Miss Vervain, with a royal motion of her head toward an old gentleman in a wig and spectacles who was reading the paper by a distant window, "I dare say he will do very well in your kitchen or bar-room, and I prefer this department to myself."

"Oh, Clara!" pleaded Lucy, crimson to the very roots of her hair.

The landlord looked puzzled, but the old man himself folded his newspaper, returned his spectacles to their case, and rose slowly to his feet.

"Certainly miss," said he; "certainly. If I'm intruding, I'll go to the kitchen. There's always room for me there. Eh, Mizit?"

And he trudged with alacrity out of the room, followed by mine host.

"I'm afraid you've hurt his feelings, Clara," said Lucy piteously.

"Who cares for his feelings?" said Miss Vervain, sulking at her worst bottle. "Mine are much more to the purpose. And I don't choose to associate with every country farmer in the Catskills."

"Clara, dear!"

"Well?"

"We are only a bookkeeper's daughters ourselves."

"As if that signified," said Miss Vervain, scornfully. "We are going to our aristocratic relations, aren't we?"

"But perhaps they won't care to keep us"

"That is neither here nor there," said Miss Vervain. "But you never had any proper pride, Lucy."

"Pray, sir, I do object to you—if you compel me to put it in that way," said Miss Vervain.

"Indeed!" the old man lifted his grizzled brows. "I may not be one of your fashionable fops—"

"That is easily to be seen," contemptuously interpolated the young lady.

"But I am clean and decent," added the stranger. "However, I dare say Mrs. Mizit can accommodate me with a plate and knife and fork in another room, if my presence is really obnoxious to these young women."

"Young ladies, sir, if you please," said Miss Vervain with a toss of her head.

He smiled a shrewd, sagacious smile.

"As to that," said he, "opinions may perhaps differ." And he followed Mrs. Mizit into the kitchen.

Clara Vervain took her seat composedly at the table.

"These people will begin after a while to comprehend the difference between a lady and a shop-girl," said she. "It is quite evident that they are not favored with many travellers.

Half an hour afterward, as the old man in the snuff colored suit was step ping into his plain, little carriage, a soft hand touched his sleeve, and turning, he found himself looking into Lucy Vervain's trouble brown eyes.

"Well, my dear," said he, kindly, "what is it?"

"I—I only wanted to beg your pardon, sir," faltered the little brunette. "I am sure my sister did not mean to hurt your feelings, and—"

"I am sure, at all events, that you did not," said the old man kindly. "And I dare say that your sister will be wiser one of these days!"

And then speaking, he nodded good-humoredly and drove away."

"It was nearly dark, however, before the clumsy carryall which was to convey the two New York ladies to their destination arrived, and they entered in.

"To Cliff Hall," said Miss Vervain, haughtily, as she leaned back in the seat, and settled her skirts languidly around her.

"Cliff Hall?" said Mr. Mizit staring.

"You don't never mean as you're going to Cliff Hall?" echoed Mrs. Mizit.

"I think we have considerably astonished those good people," said Miss Vervain, with a smile, as the coach rattled away from the door.

"I only hope our Uncle Cliff will receive us kindly," sighed poor Lucy.

Cliff Hall was a substantial old mansion built of gray stone, with a succession of terraces falling down the mountain's side, and exquisitive groups of statuary half-hidden in the forest trees; and the lights were already beginning to gleam hospitably along its front as they drove up. An old man servant opened the outside door just far enough to reveal the cheery glow of a wood fire, and the deep tints of a crimson Axminister carpet within.

"Is my Uncle Cliff at home?" said Miss Vervain with as air and a grace.

"Mr. Cliff is—ay, mem," answered the servant, with a strong Scotch accent.

"Tell him his nieces from New York are here—the Misses Vervain," said Clara, as she swept into the ante chamber.

As she entered, an old man dressed in snuff brown rose from before the blazing logs.

"My nieces from New York, eh?" said Caleb Cliff. "They are welcome."

And to Miss Vervain's surprise and dismay, she found herself face to face with the old man of Catskill wayside inn.

"You are astonished?" said he, slightly arching his brows. "So am I. It is not always best judge by appearances. Sit down, Sanders," to the servant, "let dinner be served."

Miss Clara Vervain left Cliff Hall the next day, with all her bright anticipations shattered to the dust. But little brown faced Lucy stayed to keep house for her uncle.

"She's too genteel for us, isn't she?" chuckled old Caleb Cliff, as the carriage drove away which was to carry Miss Vervain to the New York station.

Clara went back to her teacher, and if the bitter tears of repentant mortification can wash out the past, that day in the Catskills would have been erased long ago.

"If I had only known who he was," said Miss Vervain.

Alas! this world is full of "if's!"

In my endorsement of Anti-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is a perfect destroyer of Dandruff, not only in the first stages, but even where the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair-dresser during which time I have experimented with with every recommended preparation, not one has (now, I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti Dandruff has.

It positively removes Dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair-dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair-dressing place, at Balmoral Hotel, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.

Boots and Shoes damaged by water, big bargains at MacADAM'S.

OTTAWA, APRIL 3.—The Divorce Committee of the Senate this morning granted Mr. J. A. H. Aikins, son of the ex-Lieut. Governor of Manitoba, a divorce from his wife, the daughter of the late Lieut Governor of Nova Scotia. Mr. B. B. Osler, Q. C., appeared for Mr. Aikins and proved a bigamous marriage in New York between Mrs. Aikins and one Blanchard.

Col. Ingersoll can talk eloquently if not positively of death and the great hereafter. In his oration at the funeral of Walt Whitman he said:

He was not afraid to live; not afraid to speak his thoughts. Neither was he afraid to die. For many years he said death were near neighbors. He was always willing and ready to meet and greet this thing called Death. And for many months he sat in the deepening twilight waiting for the night—waiting for the light. In his brain were the blessed memories of the day, and in his heart were mingled the dawn and dusk of life. He was not afraid—cheerful every moment, the laughing nymphs of day did not desert him. They remained that they might sleep the hand of the veiled and silent sisters of the night when they should come. And when they did come Walt Whitman stretched out his hands to both—on one side the nymphs of day, on the other the silent sisters of the night. And so, hand in hand, between smiles and tears, he reached his journey's end. From the frontier of life; from the western wave kissed shore, he sent us messages of content and hope. And those messages seem now like strains of music blown by the mystic Trumpeter from death's pale realm,

Edith Brown, aged 14, charged at Brantford police court with not attending school, said she had no shoes to go to school and that the other girls laughed at the shoes she wore. The magistrate told the girl she must go to school or jail and she chose the former.

There exists in some parts of South Dakota, Colorado and Texas, a singular variety of grass, called the "sleepy grass." When in a fresh green state, this plant is strongly charged with narcotic properties, so much so, that horses and cattle grazing on it are thrown into a profound sleep.

In his sermon Sunday morning, touching on religion in business, Rev. Dr. Cochrane of Brantford said there were some people who would not shave themselves on Sunday who shaved their neighbors all the week, and there were some people who would not blacken their boots on Sunday who blackened their neighbors' characters all the week.

While a cow was being weighed on the market scales at Owen Sound on Thursday last, she took fright, swam across the river and ran through the park to Patterson St. where she made a savage attack on Miss Bessie Sadler who happened to be passing. The animal's horns got tangled in Miss Sadler's cloak, and dragged her some distance before she was able to free herself by the garment giving away. The young lady had one hand and shoulder slightly injured

A Sault Ste. Marie despatch says:—Six prominent young women of this city adopted a novel way to night of punishing Fred. Clayton, a young man who has been scattering scandalous tales regarding them: Dressed in old clothes and armed with brushes and two buckets of bright red paint, they sallied at his home and divvigled him out. Four of the young women seized and dragged him half a block down the street and held him while the remaining two vigorously plied the paint brush. When they finally released him there was not a spot on his clothes, face or head that was not covered with a coat of fiery red paint.

A very severe snowstorm raged in Nebraska on Friday. Much damage was done.

DEAR SIRS,—This fall and winter I suffered from neuralgia in my face and had the best medical advice without avail. I at last thought of trying B. B. B., and after using one bottle have not felt any symptoms of neuralgia since. I regard it as a fine family medicine.

EDITORIAL NOTES

THE Quebec Government is dismissing a large number of officials appointed by the Mercier Government. Several minor officials in the Montreal court house have been discharged, and it is expected that the axe will shortly fall on the heads of some of the leading office holders who were too public in their defence of Mr. Mercier and his Government.

THE Manitoba Government introduced its Redistribution bill on Wednesday afternoon. It increases the representation from 38 seats to 40, giving an extra one in Southern Manitoba. Its distribution is based entirely on the system of representation by population. As the redistribution is made it is doubtful if the French can carry more than three seats, possibly four. They now have six.

THE young Conservatives of Kingston have organized a Macdonald club, to commemorate the name and continue the work of the old Conservative chief. It is a good thing to see the young men taking an active interest in the government of the country, and a promising thing to see them organising on the Conservative side. Just now the Conservative side in Canada is the national side.

NEWS comes from Ottawa that Mr. Charlton's Sunday Observance bill has been referred to a committee of the House of Commons, from whence, if it emerges at all, it will come forth in a greatly curtailed shape. Mr. Charlton makes the mistake of asking too much in his measure. Modern civilization has outgrown the enactments of Moses' time. At least, those who live under it think it has, and the majority rules in this as in worse things.

IT is reported at Ottawa that the attention of the Government has been called to the fact that E. A. Macdonald, who is running as an annexationist candidate for the Legislature in Toronto, is a lieutenant in the York Rangers. The right of his holding a commission in the militia, while at the same time advocating separation from the Empire and disloyal sentiments to the crown, is being questioned. All the papers in his case have been laid before Major General Herbert.

THE Dominion Government has decided to go to the supreme court, and, if necessary, to the Privy Council, on the question as to whether the Lieut. Governor of Ontario has a right to exercise the pardoning power and commute and remit sentences for offences against Ontario law. Hon. Mr. Mowat claims this right for Ontario. Exhaustive arguments had taken place for four months before, and counsel for the Dominion Government held that the prerogative of pardon was vested only in the Sovereign power of the country.

THAT Mr. Abbott is paving the way for the assumption of the leadership by Sir John Thompson was the main item of news from the Capital yesterday. As things now are this is the only forecast possible. Sir John has shown himself a wonderfully able man, equal to all occasions, full of resource, and extremely popular with the Conservative members. He has developed remarkable strength in Ontario since he assumed the leadership of the Commons. But Mr. Abbott is not going to retire just yet. He is a grand old man with lots of work in him and enough of the guile of statecraft to steer the ship for many a day.

THE adoption by the Legislature of the principle of a bill admitting women to the study and practice of the law, puts Ontario in this matter in advance of all the British empire. The idea of women doctors has become tolerably familiar, and there are not many American colleges which do not number some among their graduates. No doubt public opinion will take as readily to female barristers, attorneys, solicitors and notaries. Indeed, they are so common in the United States as to attract little attention. Their qualifications to practice the law being admitted, there can be no logical ground for denying their ability to administer it. It may be a long time before an Ontario Portia is hailed as Miss or Mrs. Justice, but the Legislature has set her feet at the foot of the steps that lead up to the Bench, and if asked why she should not ascend, the western Solons would be at loss for a legal answer.

JOHN BURNS is a well known name among labor agitators, and he attained special prominence during the great dockers' strike in London a few years ago. By trade he is an engine fitter, and earned about $10 a week. When he was elected a member of the London county council, he had to give up his employment, and then he stipulated that the labor organizations should pay him that modest salary for his municipal labors. This sum has been faithfully raised until a few weeks ago, when it began to fall in arrear. Great difficulty has been experienced in raising the salary, the difficulty being attributed to Mr. Burns' extreme Socialistic views. The older and richer Trades Unions do not approve of these views, and therefore cut off the supplies. Socialism is not at all popular among the British workingmen, especially if their Unions have a full treasury, and thus Mr. Burns will have to go to work again if he desires to live.

THE House of Commons, says the Montreal Gazette, discussed the armament of the militia yesterday, and quite a strong feeling was evinced in favor of discarding the present Sniders, which have been in the hands of the force for over twenty years. During that time Great Britain has changed its infantry arm twice. The Martini-Henry replaced the Snider, and now the new magazine rifle has superseded the Martini-Henry. Theoretically, the force should be supplied with the latest and most improved weapon. That, however, would involve an expenditure of $800,000, and Parliament is not prepared to assume such a financial responsibility. The chances are that, if the Snider is supplanted, it will be by the Martini Henry, which, while not the best, is a good rifle. Whatever is done, the whole force should be treated alike. They are not friends of the militia who want the country navy abolished or degraded.

JOHN PRESTON, Clerk.

MONO MILLS.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. Alexander Stinson of Albion who was suddenly taken ill on Sunday, died on Wednesday last week. Deceased leaves a wife, one son, and two daughters to mourn his death. The remains were interred in Snell's burying-ground.

SAD DEATH.—It is with regret we announce the death of Ellen Speers, beloved wife of Mr. James Bracken, which occurred at her residence, town line, Mono and Adjala on Thursday last. The deceased had been sick but a week and her sudden death has cast a gloom over all. She leaves a family of 7 children, the youngest being only 2 years old. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Bracken, who has so suddenly been bereft of his kind helpmate, and the children who have been left without the guidance of a kind, loving and indulgent mother—their dearest friend on earth. The funeral took place to St John's burying-ground on Friday last and was largely attended. Rev. A. U. Watt officiated and preached a touching sermon.

SHELBURNE.

PERSONAL.—Dr. G. G. McRobbie, of Shelburne, will be a delegate to the general assembly of Presbyterians in Montreal. He will represent the Orangeville Presbytery.

MARRIED.—Mr. Joseph Noble, of the 5th line, Melmur, was married on Wednesday of last week to Miss Elizabeth Hogg, daughter of Mr. Thos. Hogg, of Violet Hill. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's father by the Rev. Thos. Leonard, of Rosemont.

INTIMIDATION.—There is quite a scheme on foot in Mono to frighten the representatives of that township so they will vote against the $20,000 by-law at the next meeting of County Council. We much mistake the character of Messrs. Snell, Dyson and Still were they to allow a few chronic growlers to influence their actions in the matter.

AN UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE.—Mr. Wm. Morby, who lives a short distance west of Shelburne, had a somewhat unpleasant experience last Tuesday. While partaking of some porridge at breakfast something stuck in his throat, and notwithstanding all his efforts to remove the obstruction it remained there and caused him considerable discomfort until extracted by Dr. Burton. The obstruction proved to be a sewing machine needle, and it is fortunate for Mr. Morby that the needle stuck as it did, that the doctor was able to remove it.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. (Dr.) Henry is visiting friends at Toronto.

Councillor Wilson of Adjala gave THE SUN a call on Monday afternoon.

Squire Wilson's many friends will be glad to hear that he is recovering rapidly.

Miss Josie Snell has returned home from Toronto, where she has been attending school.

Miss Maggie Thompson, daughter of Mr W. Thompson of East Garafraxa, left last evening for the Northwest.

Miss H. McMartney leaves this evening for Emerson, Manitoba, where she will spend the summer with her brother.

Dr. Geo. B. Corbett of Kilbride, son of Dr. Corbett formerly of Orangeville, arrived in town last Tuesday evening.

Mr. George McCloskey of Mono, who will be able to write V. S. after his name next fall, left last week for Shelburne, where he will practice with Vet. McTaggert during the summer.

Mr. Arthur Shey of the Bank of Hamilton here has been removed to the Toronto branch of the Bank, Mr. Carmichael of the Toronto branch taking Mr. Shey's place as ledger keeper here.

John McCormack of Chicago has been spending a few days in town. He returns to Chicago next Saturday morning. His sister, Miss Jessie McCormack, formerly of Mr. A. A. Hughson's law office, will accompany him.

MONO COUNCIL.

A special meeting of the council was held on the 8th of April. Members all present. The Reeve in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Referred petition of Joseph Temple and others, praying that school section No. 8 be divided into two sections, and that a new section be formed from the north part of said school section, was laid before the council. The minutes of a meeting held by the ratepayers of said school section was also laid before the council, and also a petition from the ratepayers of school section No. 12 praying that no reduction from their school section be made as it is already a poor, small section.

By law No. 187 for the purpose of dividing school section No. 8 into two separate sections was laid before the council. The northern section to be known as school section No. 19 and to be divided from school section No. 8 as follows: Commencing at the west town line between lots 17 and 18 and running between said lots across the Third and Second and the west half of the first concessions W. H. St. Then between lots 18 and 19 across the East half of the first con., W. H. St., and the first concession E. H. St., to the concession line between the 1st and 2nd. concessions, E. H. St. Said bylaw was read the usual number of times and on motion of Mr. Still, seconded by Mr. McCluskey, was ordered to pass, be engrossed by the clerk and signed and sealed by the Reeve.

Moved by Mr. Still, seconded by Mr. McCluskey, that the sum of $10 be granted to George Hewitt, indigent, and that Mr. Snell be appointed to expend the same for his benefit.

The council then adjourned.

ANDREW HENRY, Clerk.

CAMILLA.

Mr. E. J. Cobean, our popular and enterprising merchant, has just received a large shipment of beautiful spring goods.

WHERE THE WEARY ARE AT REST.—On Monday last another resident of Mono passed away to her long home. Mrs. Margaret Frame, mother of Mr. Robt. Frame. The deceased has been a kind mother, a faithful wife, and a good neighbor and had the respect, we believe, of all who were acquainted with her. She had reached the ripe old age of 88 years.

DEATH OF MR. JAMES IRWIN.—The old pioneers of Mono township have nearly all gone to render their account in the great hereafter. It is with feelings of sadness that we part with these old landmarks who have hewn out homes from the forest for themselves and their children after them. It is with deep regret that we chronicle the death of Mr. James Irwin who died on Friday last at the advanced age of 81 years. Several months ago he was stricken with la grippe and had recovered sufficiently to be around, and was out the day previous to his demise; but he took a relapse which caused his death. Mr. Irwin was a very kind hearted gentleman and all who knew him will hear with regret of his death. The funeral took place on Monday. The sorrowing relatives have the sympathy of all in their sorrow.

GAMBLERS IN COURT.

A Case at Whitby Which Proved to Be Very Interesting.

WHITBY, April 12.—The case of Doble v. Webb, heard here yesterday before Judge Burnham, was found highly interesting. Webb keeps a licensed hotel at Uxbridge, and last summer spent several nights playing poker at this hotel with one Morgan, alias Herriman, from Owen Sound. In the end Morgan had Webb's note for $250, and this note he sold to one Doble, of Toronto. When the note became due payment was demanded. Webb refused to honor it, claiming that it was given as a gambling debt and was illegal. Doble proved by Morgan that Webb borrowed the money straight from him, and asserted that he owned a farm and his hotel. Oak Armstrong, who was consulted by Morgan before loaning the money, testified that he saw the transaction, and that it was regular enough. The testimony was conflicting from the gang of gamblers on both sides, but the judge gave judgment for plaintiff for the note and costs.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Self Help.—Prior to the discovery of these remedies an easy, ready and reliable remedy for outward disfigurements and inward complications was, practically speaking, unknown. No one need now be at a loss if they should unfortunately suffer from piles, ulcers, sores, tumors, boils, bruises, sprains, &c. Enveloping Holloway's medicines are very intelligible printed directions for using them, which should be attentively read and immediately followed by all who resort to his treatment. Sooner or later the sufferer will assuredly triumph over the worst disease. This searching Ointment disperses all those malignant humours which aggravate disorders of the skin, prevent the cicatrization of ulcers, and excite inflammatory tendencies in the system.

AN IMPORTANT WARNING.

To the Editor of THE SUN.

Dear Sir,—The following paragraph, which recently appeared in the legal reports of the Toronto newspapers, is of vital importance to the people of Canada:

G. H. KIRK, Q. C., for defendant.
Before Street, J.

FRIBERG v. HOWE.—Hayes, Q. C., for the plaintiff, George Taylor Fribberg, of the town of Brockville, druggist, moved for an injunction restraining the defendants, S. S. Howe and W. A. Howe, from selling pills in imitation of those sold by the plaintiff under the name of "Doctor Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," and thereby infringing the plaintiff's trade mark for such pills registered under that name which, the plaintiff alleges, by reason of his extensive advertising, is well known throughout Canada. Judgment granted for a perpetual injunction.

An old adage has it that "imitation is the sincerest flattery," but when imitation takes the form of palming off upon the public worthless, perhaps positively harmful drugs, in imitation of a popular remedy, it is quite time the public is aroused to a sense of the injustice done them. There is no other proprietary remedy in Canada to-day that approaches Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the esteem and confidence with which it is regarded by the people. And justly so, as this remedy has to its credit cures in cases where even the most eminent men in the ranks of medical science had pronounced the patients incurable. These cases have been thoroughly investigated by such leading newspapers as the Toronto Globe, Hamilton Times, Spectator, and Herald, Halifax Herald, Detroit News, Albany Journal, LeMonde, Montreal, and others, and their accuracy vouched for. Thus Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have achieved a continental reputation, with the result that we find dealers here and there imposing upon the public by selling, in their stead, for the sake of extra profit, worthless imitations. These imitations are given names somewhat approaching the original, while in other cases the dealer, while not openly offering an imitation, imposes upon the customer by declaring that he can give him something "just as good." In still other cases Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are openly imitated in size, color and shape, and are sold in loose form by the dozen or hundred as the genuine Pink Pills. Against all these imitations the public should be constantly on their guard. There is absolutely no other pill, or no other remedy, that can take the place of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a nerve tonic and blood builder. To purchase any imitation, any substitute, or any remedy said to be "just as good" is a worse than useless expenditure of money. The public can protect themselves against all imitations of this great remedy if they will remember that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are never sold in bulk, or by the dozen or hundred. They are always put up in neat round boxes about two and a half inches in length, the wrapper around which is printed in red ink, and bears the trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." If offered to you in any other form depend upon it they are worthless imitations and should be rejected as such. If your dealer does not keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not let him persuade you to take any substitute he may say is "just as good." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may be had by mail, post paid, on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2 50, by addressing, The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Morristown, N. Y.

REINHART ACQUITTED.

A Verdict of "Not Guilty" in the New Germany Murder Case.

BERLIN, Ont., April 7.—The celebrated New Germany murder case closed to day. In summing up the evidence His Lordship charged against the prisoner. The jury retired at 12.30, and were out until 6.40, finally bringing in a verdict of "not guilty." The Judge thereupon addressed the prisoner, and discharged him, and remarked that he trusted he would live the rest of his life a better man. Reinhart is over 60 years of age.

HOCKLEY.

SEEDING.—The farmers in this section of the country are busy seeding, and by this we are sure that spring has come. The fall wheat looks better this spring than it has for many a year, and no doubt the crops will be fully up to last year.

HORSES SOLD.—Mr. Wm. McFarland last week sold a horse to a Manitoba buyer for $98. Henry Storey disposed of his team to the same purchaser for the sum of $180. These prices are hardly as high as the farmers would like to see them, but who says horse breeding has gone to the dogs?

A NEW RESIDENT.—This village is growing and frequently THE SUN chronicles the arrival of new residents. This week we have to say that Mr. John Quigley of Rosemont has removed to this village. The people make a town and Hockley will not take second place.

FINISHED.—Samuel Fleming has just finished cutting a large stock of logs on lot 25, con. 1, Adjala, and it is needless to say he has done his work well. He is going up to Mansfield next week to surprise the natives of Melmur and you bet he'll do it. Sam is the boy.

A HUSTLER.—Mr. W. H. Moffatt is one man who we would like to see in the township council this year, but if he runs next year he will undoubtedly get in. The people around here evidently see that it is a mistake not to send a councillor from this neighborhood.

KEEP IT UP.—Since THE SUN has been supplied weekly with the news of Hockley and vicinity it is anxiously looked for every week, and your subscribers are becoming numerous here. Give good news and keep scandal and gossip out of your paper and you will be sure to succeed.

The Commercial Man's Grip.

I have long looked for a preparation that would keep my head clear of Dandruff, but always failed to receive any material benefit until a friend recommended Anti-Dandruff, which I used with perfect success. It not only removed the Dandruff with three applications, but stopped the annoying itching of the scalp and rendered the hair soft and pliable without leaving an appearance of a dressing being used. It now occupies a permanent position in my grip. It is pleasant to use, and with pleasure I recommend it.

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

Albert, son of Mr. Henry Wright, of Mount Forest, met with distressing accident on Saturday, which it is feared will cost him the sight of one of his eyes. He was chopping wood to a beak in the neighborhood of Mono Road, when a chip flew up and hit him in the eye, inflicting a wound which prevents him seeing out of that eye.

G. and J. Scott of the 6th con. of Emerson, sons of Mr. John Scott, J. P., commenced ploughing on Tuesday of last week. The frost is off out of the ground, the land was in good condition, and their ploughs run very nicely. This, so far as we have heard, is the earliest ploughing in this section this season.

M. V. Molesse, Esq., an agent of the Dominion Government, has been in Port Huron for some weeks past working up a boom for the Saskatchewan Valley, and will start with a train load of Michigan settlers for that region shortly. The exodus would thus appear to be beginning to work up the other way.

The Divorce committee of the Senate sat Thursday for the purpose of hearing the evidence in support of the petition of Ada Desilvas for a divorce from her husband, Joseph Desilvas, now residing in New York, on the ground of adultery. Her case was conducted by Mr. J. Neville, and the evidence showed she had been subjected to great cruelty and insult by her husband. A witness said that Desilvas had been cohabiting the past four years under immoral circumstances with a woman in New Hampshire. It is understood the committee decided to report in favor of granting the divorce.

Some time ago Mr. Hugh Cargill, of Foley Township, picked up what he thought was a new kind of lead pencil. Taking it home he gave it to the baby to play with. Last week while the little one was playing with the supposed "lead pencil" it discovered something bright in the end of the "pencil" and began trying to pick it out. Mrs. Cargill's attention was drawn to the matter and she continued the investigation with a darning needle. After picking at the object for some time the "lead pencil" proved to be a dynamite cartridge which exploded with terrific force blowing the thumb and fore finger off her left hand and stripping the flesh off one side of the middle finger. The sufferer is doing as well as can be expected.

Monday evening one McWilliams, well known here and about Hespeler, was found by constable Atkerv lying on North Water street. He had been drinking, but appeared to be suffering from great pain and the constable got a medical man to examine him, who advised his being taken to the lock-up. This was done, but the chief found McWilliams afterwards suffering so much that he again secured medical attention, the doctor after an examination advising his immediate removal to the hospital. This was done, but McWilliams rapidly sank and died on Tuesday evening. A post mortem was held next day when it was discovered that McWilliams must at some previous time have suffered severly from inflammation of the bowels, which had weakened them so much, that, through a fall lately received, one of his bowels had been ruptured, which was the cause of death, in fact, death was inevitable from such an injury.—Galt Reporter.

There is a case of special interest before the div. court to-day. For some time Chinguacousy has done the road work and made all repairs on the dividing line between Brampton and Chinguacousy, known as the 1st line east. The Township contends that along a certain distance they get taxes from one side of the road only, and that the town which gets the taxes from the other side ought to pay its share of the cost of keeping up the road along its limit. Heretofore Chinguacousy has paid all the costs of the road, but there have been some murmurings which this year have broken into action when they sued the town for $30, one half of the cost of putting in a new culvert at the corner where Queen St. meets the town line. The town is defending on the ground that the corporation only extends to the 1st line, and further, that if they are legally liable the township has not gone the right way about asserting their rights. After considerable evidence the case was adjourned until next court.—Brampton Times.

A wonderful circumstance took place at the Commercial hotel, Arthur, Saturday afternoon, relative to Benjamin Stewart, who resides within a short distance of the village, who from his infancy has been deaf and dumb. Mr. A. R. Hopper engaged rooms in the hotel for the purpose of exhibiting an Edison phonographic machine, and created considerable interest by the variety of speeches, songs and tunes drawn from the wonderful contrivance. Among those attracted Stewart appeared on the scene, and he was requested by the courteous operator to place the sounding tubes in his ears. To the surprise of everyone when the phonograph began working he in ecstacy conveyed by his usual signs that for the first time in his life he was enabled to hear the tune played by the instrument. The occurrence suggested that by some similarly contrived process Stewart might yet be restored to hearing. He left for home delighted with the prospect in that direction, and with an indisputable knowledge that his ears still retain the natural faculties, although owing to the length of time they have remained inactive it may require great skill and patience to quite restore his hearing.

Consumption and Lung Difficulties.

Always arise from particles of corrupt matter deposited in the air-cells, by impure blood. Purify that stream of life and it will very soon carry off and destroy the poisonous matter, and like a crystal river flowing through a desert, will bring with its and leave throughout the body the elements of health and strength. As the river, leaving the elements of fertility in its course, causes the before barren waste to bloom with flowers and fruit, so pure blood causes the frame to rejoice in strength and health, and bloom with unfading beauty. fold on the heads of some of the leading office holders who were too public in their defence of Mr. Mowat and his Government.

THE Manitoba Government introduced its Redistribution bill on Wednesday afternoon. It increases the representation from 38 seats to 46, giving an extra one in Southern Manitoba. Redistribution is based entirely on the system of representation by population. As the redistribution is made it is doubtful if the French can carry more than three seats, possibly four. They now have six.

THE young Conservatives of Kingston have organized a Macdonald club, to commemorate the name and continue the work of the old Conservative chief. It is a good thing to see the young men taking an active interest in the government of the country, and a promising thing to see them organizing on the Conservative side in Canada is the national side.

NEWS comes from Ottawa that Mr. Charlton's Sunday Observance bill has been referred to a committee of the House of Commons, from whence, if it emerges at all, it will come forth in a greatly curtailed shape. Mr. Charlton makes the mistake of asking too much in his measure. Modern civilization has outgrown the enactments of Moses' time. At least, those who live under it think it has, and the majority rules in this as in were things.

IT is reported at Ottawa that the attention of the Government has been called to the fact that E. A. Macdonald, who is running as an annexationist candidate for the Legislature in Toronto, is a lieutenant in the York Rangers. The right of his holding a commission in the militia, while at the same time advocating separation from the Empire and disloyal sentiments to the crown, is being questioned. All the papers in his case have been laid before Major General Herbert.

THE Dominion Government has decided to go to the supreme court, and, if necessary, to the Privy Council, on the question as to whether the Lieu. Governor of Ontario has a right to exercise the pardoning power and commute and remit sentences for offences against Ontario law. Hon. Mr. Mowat claims this right for Ontario. Exhaustive arguments had taken place for four months before, and counsel for the Dominion Government held that the prerogative of pardon was vested only in the Sovereign power of the country.

THAT Mr. Abbott is paving the way for the assumption of the leadership by Sir John Thompson was the main item of news from the Capital yesterday. As things now are this is the only forecast possible. Sir John has shown himself a wonderfully able man, equal to all occasions, full of resource, and extremely popular with the Conservative members. He has developed remarkable strength in Ontario since he assumed the leadership of the Commons. But Mr. Abbott is not going to retire just yet. He is a grand old man with lots of work in him and enough of the guile of statecraft to steer the ship for many a day.

THE adoption by the Legislature of the principle of a bill admitting women to the study and practice of the law, puts Ontario in this matter in advance of all the British empire. The idea of women doctors has become tolerably familiar, and there are not many American colleges which do not number some among their graduates. No doubt public opinion will take as readily to female barristers, attorneys, solicitors and notaries. Indeed, they are so common in the United States as to attract little attention. Their qualifications to practise the law being admitted, there can be no logical ground for denying their ability to administer it. It may be a long time before an Ontario Portia is hailed as Miss or Mrs. Justice, but the Legislature has set her feet at the foot of the steps that lead up to the Bench, and if asked why she should not ascend, the western Solons would be at loss for a legal answer.

JOHN BURNS is a well known name among labor agitators, and he attained special prominence during the great dockers' strike in London a few years ago. By trade he is an engine fitter, and earned about $10 a week. When he was elected a member of the London county council, he had to give up his employment, and then he stipulated that the labor organizations should pay him that modest salary for his municipal labors. This sum has been faithfully raised until a few weeks ago, when it began to fall in arrear. Great difficulty has been experienced in raising the salary, the difficulty being attributed to Mr. Burns' extreme Socialistic views. The older and richer Trades Unions do not approve of these views, and therefore cut off the supplies. Socialism is not at all popular among the British workingmen, especially if their Unions have a full treasury, and thus Mr. Burns will have to go to work again if he desires to live.

THE House of Commons, says the Montreal Gazette, discussed the armament of the militia yesterday, and quite a strong feeling was evinced in favor of discarding the present Sniders, which have been in the hands of the force for over twenty years. During that time Great Britain has changed its infantry arm twice. The Martini-Henry replaced the Snider, and now the new magazine rifle has superseded the Martini-Henry. Theoretically, the force should be supplied with the latest and most improved weapon. That, however, would involve an expenditure of $800,000, and Parliament is not prepared to assume such a financial responsibility. The chances are that, if the Snider is supplanted, it will be by the Martini Henry, which, while not the best, is a good rifle. Whatever is done, the whole force should be treated alike. They are not friends of the militia who want the country navy abolished or degraded.

Moved by E. Hamilton, seconded by D. McVanel, that the west half of the sixth concession from lot 1 to lot 5 inclusive be detached from polling subdivision No. 3, and attached to sub division No. 2.—Carried.

Moved by E. Hamilton, seconded by D. McVanel, that the clerk be instructed to notify Messrs. Robert Ritchie and Hugh Bond to remove all obstructions which they have caused or allowed to accumulate to drain on 6th line, lot 29 and lot 21, con. 6.—Carried.

The council then adjourned to meet again on Saturday, May 23th, at the usual hour.

EAST GARAFRAXA COUNCIL.

Council met March 18, according to adjournment of January 18. Members all present. Minutes of last meeting read and adopted. Messrs. Simpson and Hall, auditors, presented their report and on motion of Messrs. Carroll and Smith it was received as correct for the year ending 31st, Dec, 1891.

Moved by M. Smith, seconded by T. Carroll, that the name of Alex. Park be substituted as pathmaster instead of Wm. Park, and that of John McBride for that of Enoch Price.—Carried.

Moved by M. Smith, seconded by T. Carroll, that each commissioner expend the sum of fifty dollars for improving the roads and in no case to exceed that amount without an order of this council.—Carried.

Moved by J. Turner, seconded by D. Carroll, that no action be taken on the accounts of Dr. Hamilton at present.—Carried.

Moved by D. Carroll, seconded by J. Turner, that leave be given to introduce a by-law at the next sitting of this council to prohibit the running at large of all horses, cows, calves, bulls, oxen, rams, pigs, geese and turkeys.—Carried.

Moved by T. Carroll, seconded by J. Turner, that the collector and treasurer hand in their bonds at the next meeting of this council.—Carried.

Moved by T. Carroll, seconded by M. Smith, that this council now adjourn to meet again at Marsville on Friday, May 27th, as a court of revision on the assessment and other business.—Carried.

JOHN PRESTON, Clerk.

MONO MILLS.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. Alexander Stinson of Albion who was suddenly taken ill on Sunday, died on Wednesday last week. Deceased leaves a wife, one son, and two daughters to mourn his death. The remains were interred in Snell's burying-ground.

SAD DEATH.—It is with regret we announce the death of Ellen Speers, beloved wife of Mr. James Bracken, which occurred at her residence, town line, Mono and Adjala on Thursday last. The deceased had been sick but a week and her sudden death has cast a gloom over all. She leaves a family of 7 children, the youngest being only 2 years old. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Bracken, who has so suddenly been bereft of his kind helpmate, and the children who have been left without the guidance of a kind, loving and indulgent mother—their dearest friend on earth. The funeral took place to St John's burying-ground on Friday last and was largely attended. Rev. A. C. Watt officiated and preached a touching sermon.

SHELBURNE.

PERSONAL.—Dr. G. G. McRobbie, of Shelburne, will be a delegate to the general assembly of Presbyterians in Montreal. He will represent the Orangeville Presbytery.

MARRIED.—Mr. Joseph Noble, of the 5th line, Mulmur, was married on Wednesday of last week to Miss Elizabeth Hogg, daughter of Mr Thos. Hogg, of Violet Hill. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's father by the Rev. Thos. Leonard, of Rosemont.

INTIMIDATION.—There is quite a scheme on foot in Mono to frighten the representative of that town-ship so they will vote against the $20,000 by-law at the next meeting of County Council. We much mistake the character of Messrs. Snell, Dynes and Still were they to allow a few chronic growlers to influence their actions in the matter.

AN UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE.—Mr. Wm Morby, who lives a short distance west of Shelburne, had a somewhat unpleasant experience last Tuesday. While partaking of some porridge at breakfast something stuck in his throat, and notwithstanding all his efforts to remove the obstruction it remained there and caused him considerable discomfort until extracted by Dr. Dorsey. The obstruction proved to be a bowing machine needle, and it is fortunate for Mr. Morby that the needle stuck as it did, that the doctor was able to remove it.

Miss E. Mathewson leaves this evening for Emerson, Manitoba, where she will spend the summer with her brother.

Dr. Geo. B. Cartwright of Kilbride, son of Dr. Cartwright formerly of Orangeville, arrived in town last Tuesday evening.

Mr. George McCluskey of Mono, who will be able to write V. S. after his name next fall, left last week for Bloomburg, where he will practice with Wm. McTaggart during the summer.

Mr. Arthur Shey of the Bank of Hamilton here has been removed to the Toronto branch of the Bank, Mr. Carmichael of the Toronto branch taking Mr. Shey's place as ledger keeper here.

John McCormack of Chicago has been spending a few days in town. He returns to Chicago next Saturday morning. His sister, Miss Jessie McCormack, formerly of Mr. A. A. Hughes's law office, will accompany him.

MONO COUNCIL.

A special meeting of the council was held on the 6th of April. Members all present. The Reeve in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Referred petition of Joseph Temple and others, praying that school section No. 8 be divided in to two sections, and that a new section be formed from the north part of said school section, was laid before the council. The minutes of a meeting held by the ratepayers of said school section was also laid before the council, and also a petition from the ratepayers of school section No. 12 praying that no reduction from their school section be made as it is already a poor, small section.

By law No. 187 for the purpose of dividing school section No. 8 into two separate sections was laid before the council. The northern section to be known as school section No. 19 and to be divided from school section No. 8 as follows: Commencing at the west town line between lots 17 and 18 and running between said lots across the Third and Second and the west half of the first concessions W. H. St. Then between lots 18 and 19 across the East half of the first con., W. H. St., and the first concession E. H. St., to the concession line between the 1st and 2nd. concessions, E. H. St. Said bylaw was read the usual number of times and on motion of Mr. Still, seconded by Mr. McCluskey, was ordered to pass, be engrossed by the clerk and signed and sealed by the Reeve.

Moved by Mr. Still, seconded by Mr. McCluskey, that the sum of $10 be granted to George Hewitt, indigent, and that Mr. Snell be appointed to expend the same for his benefit.

The council then adjourned.

ANDREW HENRY, Clerk.

CAMILLA.

Mr. E. J. Cobean, our popular and enterprising merchant, has just received a large shipment of beautiful spring goods.

WHERE THE WEARY ARE AT REST.—On Monday last another resident of Mono passed away to her long home. Mrs. Margaret Frame, mother of Mr. Robt. Frame. The deceased has been a kind mother, a faithful wife, and a good neighbor and had the respect, we believe, of all who were acquainted with her. She had reached the ripe old age of 88 years.

DEATH OF MR. JAMES IRWIN.—The old pioneers of Mono township have nearly all gone to render their account in the great hereafter. It is with feelings of sadness that we part with these old landmarks who have hewn out homes from the forest for themselves and their children after them. It is with deep regret that we chronicle the death of Mr. James Irwin who died on Friday last at the advanced age of 84 years. Several months ago he was stricken with la grippe and had recovered sufficiently to be around, and was out the day previous to his demise; but he took a relapse which caused his death. Mr. Irwin was a very kind hearted gentleman and all who knew him will hear with regret of his death. The funeral took place on Monday. The sorrowing relatives have the sympathy of all in their sorrow.

GAMBLERS IN COURT.

A Case at Whitby Which Proved to Be Very Interesting.

WHITBY, April 13.—The case of Doble v. Webb, heard here yesterday before Judge Burnham, was found highly interesting. Webb keeps a licensed hotel at Uxbridge, and last summer spent several nights playing poker at this hotel with one Morgan, alias Herriman, from Owen Sound. In the end Morgan had Webb's note for $250, and this note he sold to one Doble, of Toronto. When the note became due payment was demanded. Webb refused to honor it, claiming that it was given as a gambling debt and was illegal. Doble proved by Morgan that Webb borrowed the money straight from him, and asserted that he owned a farm and his hotel. One Armstrong, who was consulted by Morgan before loaning the money, testified that he saw the transaction, and that it was regular enough. The testimony was conflicting from the gang of gamblers on both sides, but the judge gave judgment for plaintiff for the note and costs.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT and PILLS.—Self Help.—Prior to the discovery of these remedies an easy, ready and reliable remedy for outward disfigurations and inward complications was, practically speaking, unknown. No one need now be at a loss if they should unfortunately suffer from piles, ulcers, sores, tumors, boils, bruises, sprains, &c. Enveloping Holloway's medicines are very intelligible printed directions for using them, which should be attentively read and immediately followed by all who resort to his treatment. Sooner or later the sufferer will assuredly triumph over the worst diseases. This soothing Ointment disperses all those malignant humours which aggravate disease of the skin, prevent the cicatrization of ulcers, and excite inflammatory tendencies in the system.

REINHART ACQUITTED.

A Verdict of "Not Guilty" in the New Germany Murder Case.

BERLIN, Ont., April 7.—The celebrated New Germany murder case closed to day. In summing up the evidence His Lordship charged against the prisoner. The jury retired at 12.30, and were out until 6.40, finally bringing in a verdict of "not guilty." The Judge thereupon addressed the prisoner, and discharged him, and remarked that he trusted he would live the rest of his life a better man. Reinhart is over 60 years of age.

HOCKLEY.

SEEDING.—The farmers in this section of the country are busy seeding, and by this we are sure that spring has come. The fall wheat looks better this spring than it has for many a year, and no doubt the crops will be fully up to last year.

HORSES SOLD.—Mr. Wm. McFarland last week sold a horse to a Manitoba buyer for $98. Henry Storey disposed of his team to the same purchaser, for the sum of $180. These prices are hardly as high as the farmers would like to see them, but who says horse breeding has gone to the dogs?

A NEW RESIDENT.—This village is growing and frequently THE SUN chronicles the arrival of new residents. This week we have to say that Mr. John Quigley of Rosemount has removed to this village. The people make a town and Hockley will not take second place.

FINISHED.—Samuel Fleming has just finished cutting a large stock of logs on lot 25, con. 1, Adjala, and it is needless to say he has done his work well. He is going up to Mansfield next week to surprise the natives of Mulmur and you bet he'll do it. "Sam" is the boy.

A HUSTLER.—Mr. W. H. Moffatt is one man who we would like to see in the township council this year, but if he runs next year he will undoubtedly get in. The people around here evidently see that it is a mistake not to send a councillor from this neighborhood.

KEEP IT UP.—Since THE SUN has been supplied weekly with the news of Hockley and vicinity it is anxiously looked for every week, and your subscribers are becoming numerous here. Give good news and keep scandal and gossip out of your paper and you will be sure to succeed.

I have long looked for a preparation that would keep my head clear of Dandruff, but always failed to receive any material benefit until a friend recommended Anti-Dandruff, which I used with perfect success. It not only removed the Dandruff with three applications, but stopped the annoying itching of the scalp and rendered the hair soft and pliable without leaving an appearance of a dressing being used. It now occupies a permanent position in my grip. It is pleasant to use, and with pleasure I recommend it.

The young people of St. Andrew's church held a bracelet social on Tuesday evening which was well attended.

The Young Diamond baseball club of the West ward have re-organized with H. McCormack, sec., and W. Monkman, treas.

A foreman of works will be appointed at Monday evening's council meeting and many applicants will be disappointed.

St. Mark's church Easter decorations this year will be something grand and on Sunday the church will present a beautiful appearance.

Mrs. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Blight, and Mr. Ramsay, Toronto's popular artists, will be at the town hall a week from to-night.

The charge against Noble Wright for rescuing two of his cows from the pound one day last week has been dropped by the prosecutor, Mons. Henderson, the defendant paying costs.

Just as we go to press we learn that our old friend Mr. Noble Moore, is dangerously ill from the effects of blood poisoning, superinduced by erysipelas Dr. Henry is in attendance and says it's a question if Mr. Moore recovers.

The ladies of Markdale are giving a leap year party next Tuesday evening and a number of our young men were favored with invitations. The young men are undecided as to accepting the invitations as they are almost afraid to risk being wall flowers.

ERROR.—In our Whitfield news last week no error appeared in the report of the death of Mrs Boyle, who was referred to as a daughter of Mr. James Porterfield. The deceased lady was a daughter of Mr. John Porterfield, not James.

☞ WANTED—At once, Apprentices and Improvers to Dressmaking, to learn the New System of cutting the Seamless Waist. MISS SPELL.

CLEAN UP.—Now is the time to clean up the accumulations of the past winter before the hot weather sets in, and thus avoid malaria arising from decayed vegetable and other matter. There are a few places in town—even on the leading thoroughfares—which require a good cleaning up.

THE FARTHER SHORE.—On Tuesday morning George Barefoot, who has been employed in McDonald's factory here for some time past, died at the residence of his father, Mr. John Barefoot, East Garafraxa. Deceased was ill but a very brief time and was only 19 years of age. The remains were laid at rest in the Town cemetery yesterday afternoon. Rev. A. Henderson officiated.

RESCUED.—A special meeting of the high school board was held in the council chamber on Monday afternoon last for the purpose of dealing with Assistant Teacher Seymour's resignation. It was decided to accept the resignation and Secretary Irwin was instructed to advertise for another teacher. Mr. Seymour goes to Chatham, where a higher salary awaits him.

MASONIC BENEFIT.—One of the best concerts of the season will be given under the auspices of Harris lodge, A. F. & A. M., in the town hall on Friday evening, April 29. The best talent of Toronto has been secured for the occasion, and as the entertainment has been got up for a worthy object it should, and undoubtedly will be well patronized. The admission fee was been fixed at the popular price of 25cts, reserved seats 35cts.

DUFFERINS ONCE MORE.—A fairly well attended meeting of lacrosse enthusiasts was held in the Citizens' band-room on Friday evening last for the purpose of reorganizing the Dufferin lacrosse club. The election of officers resulted thus: W. L. Walsh, honorary president; J. W. Aikes, president; C. R. McKeown, 1st vice president; A. Jones, 2nd vice-president; H. Gillespie, captain; A Jones, J. Irving, S. Marsh, committee.

REORGANIZED. — The Orangeville High School football club has reorganized for the season of '92 and start out with good prospects of a successful season. Outside clubs wishing to arrange matches with this club are requested to write to the secretary for dates as soon as possible. The officers elected are: W. L. Walsh, honorary president; A. Steele, B. A., president; A. Skey, captain; A. McKitrick, treasurer; S. M. Brown, secretary; J. Willoughby, curator; W. Pearson, H. Henderson, W. McLean, committee.

M. I. DIRECTORS.—A meeting of the directors of the Mechanics' Institute took place in the reading-room on Friday evening last. A committee was appointed to wait upon the council regarding the annual grant after which the following gentlemen were delegated collectors for the wards: W. Howat, R. Mann, North ward; C. B Dorland, W. Wallace, South ward; Alex. Johnston, Jas Foulds, East ward; Jno McLaren, R. E Denison, West ward. The annual meeting will be held on Thursday, the 28th.

COLONISTS GET LEFT.—The usual Tuesday Northwest colonist train arrived down with a large number of people who were bound for the prairie province. The train did not leave the station here until nearly 6 o'clock, and when the wheels revolved only one man was on board. What happened the others? Well, some of them were partaking of their evening meal at the restaurants and some others were viewing the slaughter of a hog in the rear of Pat Kelly's hotel when the train started off and left them. They boarded the regular express and expected to overtake the colonist at Inglewood.

NEW DUTIES OF THE ASSESSORS.—This year, for the first time, the assessors of Ontario are required, when making their assessments, to enter in a book, to be provided by the clerk, the name, age and residence of every child between the ages of 8 and 14 years, resident in their respective municipalities and the name and residence of the child's parents or guardian and return the said book to the clerk of the municipality, with the assessment roll, for the use of the truant officer. This is in accordance with a clause of the Truancy Act, passed last year. The said act also provides the penalty for non-compliance with this duty.

THAT SPUR LINE.—After all the spur line to the Mono quarries may be built. During the past couple of weeks surveyors have gone over the proposed line, and we are informed they have reported favorably. Should the road be constructed it is the intention to use the old C. V. R. road from Melville to Orangeville, thence a new road to the quarries. It is whispered that the C. P. R. Co. are seriously thinking of changing their present line from here to the Junction by utilizing and extending the old C. V. R. to the latter place, but the report lacks confirmation.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.—On Wednesday last a private but pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Wm. Bennett, Mono, when Miss Dottie Paisley, second daughter of Mrs. Bennett, and Mr. E. McKim of Mono were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Henderson, M. A., pastor of St. Mark's church, Orangeville. Miss Jennie Paisley, sister of the bride, made a charming bridesmaid while Mr. Hamilton McKim had the happiness of being groomsman. Only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were present. Mr. and Mrs McKim who will reside in Mono have the best wishes of all for their future welfare and happiness.

these who attended were well satisfied with it.

(P. S.) I'm going to bee Chamber Maid in the Livery."

STILL AGAINST IT.—The many Orangeville friends of Rev. C. E. McIntyre, formerly pastor of the Methodist church here, will be pleased to know that he still remains one of King Alcohol's greatest enemies. During his sermon on Sunday night last the London Free Press reports the rev. gentleman as saying: "Rev. C. E. McIntyre spoke vigorously from his pulpit in the Askin street Methodist church, last evening against allowing the Sixth ward to be invaded by a licensed hotel. He said that the ward was the most moral, peace loving of any part of the city, but could not remain so if a license to sell liquor was granted to any one in the ward. Poor people were scarce in the neighborhood; they were found near the hotels. A respectable man would not live near a hotel, because of his family. "Where the carrion is there will the vulture be," said the rev. gentleman, and protested against the one place in the ward petitioning for a license and having its request granted, and he believed the commissioners would not accede to the prayer of the petition, but would rather have in mind the strong public sentiment against such a proceeding. The place was not wanted for travellers' accommodation, unless by some fugitive from justice who did not want to go further into the city."

A FIREMAN'S WORK.—In the early hours of Friday morning Patrolman Parkin, the vigilant nightwatchman, discovered a fire in the rear of ex-Ald. Ketchum's leather store, owner of First street and First avenue, and from all that can be learned the conflagration was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary. The firebug applied his torch near a partition close by which stood a barrel partly filled with coal oil. A high wind was blowing at the time and the building being a frame one, the fire spread with startling rapidity. Patrolman Parkin immediately sounded the alarm, but very few of our citizens heard the bell. A portion of the fire brigade responded to the call and succeeded in subduing the flames, but not before the rear structure was totally wrecked. Mr. Ketchum was at Mt. Forest at the time and did not hear of the blaze until 10 o'clock in the morning, when a friend telephoned him the news. He had the building insured for $100 and will lose about $50. Stock to the amount of $40 was consumed on which there was no insurance. We imagined the irrepressible firebug had left this town long ago, but it appears he has only been taking his holidays. The town council should hustle along and replace the present bell, as it gives the poorest satisfaction to the ratepayers.

THE UNEXCELLED SINGER.—Mr. L. C. Leishley, the popular Singer sewing-machine man of Barrie, has an exhibition of the work done by that well known machine in full blast in the McKeown block, west Broadway, which will continue until the 23rd inst., and every lady in town should see the exhibit. Our reporter dropped in there on Tuesday afternoon and the sight that met his gaze almost took his breath away. The fancy work done by this machine is simply wonderful, rope silk embroidery, kensington stitch, white work and arrasene being superior to anything we have ever seen. Miss Fraser of New York and Mrs. King of Barrie are in attendance, and a cordial invitation is extended to all. The Singer Co. have sold over 10,000,000 machines and have just produced three new and different machines. The exhibit is worth $1,500 and it costs the company $75 per week to maintain it. The object of the exhibition is to elevate the standard of fancy needle work, and those who purchase the Singer will be taught how to do the work. Those who already have Singer machines will be taught free of charge.

WONDER IN WELLAND!

A Representative Farmer Speaks.

MR. C. C. HAUN.

The following remarkable facts are fully vouched to as being undeniably correct in every particular. Mr. Haun is well known in the vicinity, having resided here over fifty years, and is highly respected as a man of the strictest honor, whose word is as good as his bond.

As will be seen from his letter, four physicians had attended him, and it was only after he had given up hope of cure that he decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters on the recommendation of a neighbor who had been cured of a similar disease by its use. Mr. Haun writes as follows:

DEAR SIRS,—I think I have been one of the worst sufferers you have yet heard of, having been six years in the hands of four of our best doctors without obtaining permanent relief, but continually growing worse, until almost beyond hope of recovery. I tried your Bitters and got relief in a few days. Every organ of my body was deranged, the liver enlarged, hardened and torpid, the heart and digestive organs seriously deranged, a large abscess in my back, followed by paralysis of the right leg, in fact the lower half of my body was entirely useless. After using Burdock Blood Bitters for a few days the abscess burst, discharging fully five quarts of pus in two hours. I felt as if I had received a shock from a powerful battery. My recovery after this was steady and the cure permanent, seeing that for the four years since I have had no good health as ever I had. I still take an occasional bottle, not that I need it but because I wish to keep my system in perfect working order. I can think of no more remarkable case than what I have myself passed through, and no words can express my thankfulness for such perfect recovery.

C. C. HAUN,
Welland P.O.

In this connection the following letter from T. Cummer, Esq., a leading druggist of Welland, Ont., speaks for itself:

Messrs. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto.

GENTLEMEN,—I have been personally acquainted with Mr. C. C. Haun for the last 30 years, and have always found him a very reliable man. You may place the utmost confidence in anything he says with regard to your medicine. He has on many occasions within the last four years told me that it was marvellous the way the Burdock Blood Bitters had cured him, and that he now felt able to do a day's work as he ever did in his life. Although quite well he still takes some B. B. B. occasionally, as he says, to keep him in perfect health.

Yours truly,
THOMAS CUMMER,
Welland, Ont.

The steadily increasing sale of B. B. B., the length of time it has been before the people, and the fact that it cures in every case, attest the sterling merit of this nonpareil of medicines, the purifier from the blood, gentlest, surest and regulator.

ERROR.—In our Whitfield news last week an error appeared in the report of the death of Mrs Boyle, who was referred to as a daughter of Mr. James Porterfield. The deceased lady was a daughter of Mr. John Porterfield, not James.

☞ WANTED—At once, Apprentices and Improvers to Dressmaking, to learn the New System of cutting the Seamless Waist. MISS SHELL.

CLEAR UP.—Now is the time to close up the accumulations of the past winter before the hot weather sets in, and thus avoid malaria arising from decayed vegetable and other matter. There are a few places in town—even on the leading thoroughfares—which require a good cleaning up.

Rev. Dr. Ormiston, Toronto, was ill but a very brief time, and was only 19 years of age. The remains were laid at rest in the Town cemetery yesterday afternoon. Rev. A. Henderson officiated.

RESIGNED.—A special meeting of the high school board was held in the council chamber on Monday afternoon last for the purpose of dealing with Assistant Teacher Seymour's resignation. It was decided to accept the resignation and Secretary Irwin was instructed to advertise for another teacher. Mr. Seymour goes to Chatham, where a higher salary awaits him.

MASONIC BENEFIT.—One of the best concerts of the season will be given under the auspices of Harris lodge, A. F. & A. M., in the town hall on Friday evening, April 29. The best talent of Toronto has been secured for the occasion, and as the entertainment has been got up for a worthy object it should, and undoubtedly will be well patronized. The admission fee was been fixed at the popular price of 25cts, reserved seats 35cts.

DUFFERINS ONCE MORE.—A fairly well attended meeting of lacrosse enthusiasts was held in the Citizens' bandroom on Friday evening last for the purpose of reorganizing the Dufferin lacrosse club. The election of officers resulted thus: W. L. Walsh, honorary president; J. W. Aiken, president; C. R. McKeown, 1st vice president; A. Jones, 2nd vice-president; H. Gillespie, captain; A. Jones, J. Irving, S. Marsh, committee.

RECORGANIZED. — The Orangeville High School football club has reorganized for the season of '92 and start out with good prospects of a successful season. Outside clubs wishing to arrange matches with this club are requested to write to the secretary for dates as soon as possible. The officers elected are: W. L. Walsh, honorary president; A. Steele, B. A., president; A. Skey, captain; A. McKitrick, treasurer; S. M. Brown, secretary; J. Willoughby, curator; W. Pearson, H. Henderson, W. McLean, committee.

M. I. DIRECTORS.—A meeting of the directors of the Mechanics' Institute took place in the reading-room on Friday evening last. A committee was appointed to wait upon the council regarding the annual grant after which the following gentlemen were delegated collectors for the wards: W. Howat, R. Mann, North ward; C. R. Dorland, W. Wallace, South ward; Alex. Johnston, Jas Foulds, East ward; Jas McLaren, R. E Denison, West ward. The annual meeting will be held on Thursday, the 28th.

COLONISTS GET LEFT.—The usual Tuesday Northwest colonist train arrived down with a large number of people who were bound for the prairie province. The train did not leave the station here until nearly 8 o'clock, and when the wheels revolved only one man was on board. What happened the others? Well, some of them were par taking of their evening meal at the restaurants and some others were viewing the slaughter of a hog in the rear of Pat Kelly's hotel when the train started off and left them. They boarded the regular express and expected to overtake the colonist at Inglewood.

NEW DUTIES OF THE ASSESSORS.—This year, for the first time, the assessors of Ontario are required, when making their assessments, to enter in a book, to be provided by the clerk, the name, age and residence of every child between the ages of 8 and 14 years, resident in their respective municipalities and the name and residence of the child's parents or guardian and return the said book to the clerk of the municipality, with the assessment roll, for the use of the truant officer. This is in accordance with a clause of the Truancy Act, passed last year. The said act also provides the penalty for non-compliance with this duty.

THAT SPUR LINE.—After all the spur line to the Mono quarries may be built. During the past couple of weeks surveyors have gone over the proposed line, and we are informed they have reported favorably. Should the road be constructed it is the intention to use the old C. V. R. road from Melville to Orangeville, thence a new road to the quarries. It is whispered that the C. P. R. Co. are seriously thinking of changing their present line from here to the Junction by utilizing and extending the old C. V. R. to the latter place, but the report lacks confirmation.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.—On Wednesday last a private but pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Wm. Bennett, Mono, when Miss Dottie Paisley, second daughter of Mrs. Bennett, and Mr. E. McKim of Mono were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Henderson, M. A., pastor of St Mark's church, Orangeville. Miss Jennie Paisley, sister of the bride, made a charming bridesmaid while Mr. Hamilton McKim had the happiness of being groomsman. Only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were present. Mr. and Mrs McKim who will reside in Mono have the best wishes of all for their future welfare and happiness.

DANIEL LYNE.

(P. S.) I'm going to be: Chamber Maid in the Livery."

STILL AGAINST IT.—The many Orangeville friends of Rev. C. E. McIntyre, formerly pastor of the Methodist church here, will be pleased to know that he still remains one of King Mabel's greatest enemies. During his sermon on Sunday night last the London Free Press, reports the rev. gentleman as saying: "Rev. C. E. McIntyre spoke vigorously from his pulpit in the Askin street Methodist church, last evening against allowing the Sixth ward to be invaded by a licensed hotel. He said that the ward was the most moral, peace-loving of any part of the city, but could not remain so if a license to sell liquor was granted to any one in the ward. Poor people were scarce in the neighborhood; they were found near the hotels. A respectable man would not live near a hotel, because of his family. "Where the carrion is there will the vulture be," said the rev. gentleman, and protested against the one place in the ward petitioning for a license and having its request granted, and he believed the commissioners would not accede to the prayer of the petition, but would rather have in mind the strong public sentiment against such a proceeding. The place was not wanted for travellers' accommodation, unless by some fugitive from justice who did not want to go further into the city."

A FIREMO'S WORK.—In the early hours of Friday morning Patrolman Parkin, the vigilant nightwatchman, discovered a fire in the rear of ex Ald. Ketchum's leather store, corner of First street and First avenue, and from all that can be learned the conflagration was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary. The firebug applied his torch near a partition close by which stood a barrel partly filled with coal oil. A high wind was blowing at the time and the building being a frame one, the fire spread with startling rapidity. Patrolman Parkin immediately sounded the alarm, but very few of our citizens heard the bell. A portion of the fire brigade responded to the call and succeeded in subduing the flames, but not before the rear structure was totally wrecked. Mr. Ketchum was at Mt. Forest at the time and did not hear of the blaze until 10 o'clock in the morning, when a friend telephoned him the news. He had the building insured for $100 and will lose about $50. Stock to the amount of $40 was consumed on which there was no insurance. We imagined the irrepressible firebug had left this town long ago, but it appears he has only been taking his holidays. The town council should hustle along and replace the present bell, as it gives the poorest satisfaction to the ratepayers.

THE UNEXCELLED SINGER.—Mr. L. C. Laishley, the popular Singer sewing-machine man of Barrie, has an exhibition of the work done by that well known machine in full blast in the McKeown block, west Broadway, which will continue until the 23rd inst., and every lady in town should see the exhibit. Our reporter dropped in there on Tuesday afternoon and the sight that met his gaze almost took his breath away. The fancy work done by this machine is simply wonderful, rope silk embroidery, kensington stitch, white work and arrasene being superior to anything we have ever seen. Miss Fraser of New York and Mrs. King of Barrie are in attendance, and a cordial invitation is extended to all. The Singer Co. have sold over 10,000,000 machines and have just produced three new and different machines. The exhibit is worth $1,500 and it costs the company $75 per week to maintain it. The object of the exhibition is to elevate the standard of fancy needle work, and those who purchase the Singer will be taught how to do the work. Those who already have Singer machines will be taught free of charge.

WONDER IN WELLAND!

A Representative Farmer Speaks.

MR. C. C. HAUN.

The following remarkable facts are fully vouched to as being undeniably correct in every particular. Mr. Haun is well known in the vicinity, having resided here over fifty years, and is highly respected as a man of the strictest honor, whose word is as good as his bond.

As will be seen from his letter, four physicians had attended him, and it was only after he had given up hope of cure that he decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters on the recommendation of a neighbor who had been cured of a similar disease by its use. Mr. Haun writes as follows:

DEAR SIRS,—I think I have been one of the worst sufferers you have yet heard of, having been six years in the hands of four of our best doctors without obtaining permanent relief, but continually growing worse, until almost beyond hope of recovery. I tried your Bitters and got relief in a few days. Every organ of my body was deranged, the liver enlarged, hardened and torpid, the heart and digestive organs seriously deranged, a large abscess in my back, followed by paralysis of the right leg, in fact the lower half of my body was entirely useless. After using Burdock Blood Bitters for a few days the abscess burst, discharging fully five quarts of pus in two hours. I felt as if I had received a shock from a powerful battery. My recovery after this was steady and the cure permanent, seeing that for the four years since I have had as good health as ever I had. I still take an occasional bottle, not think I need it but because I wish to keep my system in perfect working order. I can think of no more remarkable case than what I have myself passed through, and no words can express my thankfulness for such perfect recovery.

C. C. HAUN,
Welland P.O.

In this connection the following letter from T. Cummins, Esq., a leading druggist of Welland, Ont., speaks for itself:

MESSRS. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto.

GENTLEMEN,—I have been personally acquainted with Mr. C. C. Haun for the last 60 years, and have always found him a very reliable man. You may place the utmost confidence in anything he says with regard to your medicine. He has on many occasions within the last four years told me that it was marvellous the way the Burdock Blood Bitters had cured him, and that he now felt as able to do a day's work as he ever felt in his life. Although quite well he still takes some B. B. B. occasionally, as he says, to keep him in perfect health.

Yours truly,
THOMAS CUMMINS,
Welland, Ont.

The steadily increasing sale of B. B. B., the length of time it has been before the people, and the fact that it comes to stay cured, attest the sterling merit of this unequaled of medicines, the people's favorite blood purifier, tonic and regulator.

A rapid writer can write thirty words in one minute. To do this he must draw his pen through the space of a rod, 16½ feet. In forty minutes his pen traces a furlong, and in 5½ hours a full mile. He makes on an average sixteen curves or turns of the pen for each word written. Writing at the rate of thirty words a minute he must make eight curves to each second; in an hour, 28,800; in five hours, 144,000; and in 300 days, working only five hours each day, he makes not less than 33,200,000 curves and turns of the pen.

It Leads the Leaders.

The foremost medicine of the day, Burdock Blood Bitters, is a purely vegetable compound possessing perfect regulating powers over all the organs of the system and controlling their secretions. It so purifies the blood that it cures all blood humors and diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore, and this combined with its unrivalled regulating, cleansing and purifying influence on the secretions of the liver, kidneys, bowels and skin, render it unequalled as a cure for all diseases of the skin. From one to two bottles will cure boils, pimples, blotches, nettle rash, scurf, tetter, and all the simple forms of skin disease. From two to four bottles will cure salt rheum or eczema, shingles, erysipelas, ulcers, abscesses, running sores, and all skin eruptions. It is noticeable that sufferers from skin diseases are nearly always aggravated by intolerable itching, but this quickly subsides on the removal of the disease by B. B. B. Pasting on to graver yet prevalent diseases such as scrofulous swellings, humors and scrofula, we have undoubted proof that from three to six bottles used internally and by outward application (diluted if the skin is broken) to the affected parts, will effect a cure. The general mission of B. B. B. is to regulate the liver, kidneys, bowels and blood, to correct acidity and wrong action of the stomach and to open the sluiceways of the system to carry off all clogged and impure secretions, allowing nature thus to aid recovery and remove without fail bad blood, liver complaint, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick headache, dropsy, rheumatism, and every species of disease arising from disorder of the liver, kidneys, bowels, stomach and blood.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails.

The Buffalo bug is a comparatively new pest in households, but hundreds of housewives have learned to fear him. He has various forms in various states of being, so that to describe a Buffalo bug is to tell that he is from worm to fly. He is best known, perhaps as a hard-shelled, dark brown thing, not unlike the lady bug in shape. The bug will eat any fabric, woollen or hempen, and what he does not eat he destroys. Sometimes he starts on the edge of a carpet or rug and eats his way around a room. Only poison can stay his course. Sometimes he gets into a crack of a floor and eats the carpet in a straight line from end to end. When the bug starts on such a tour the housewife's only resource is to saturate her carpet with turpentine.

MEDICAL HINTS.

Cure for Dyspepsia.

As is well-known, this troublesome complaint arises from over-eating, the use of too much rich food, neglected costipation, lack of exercise, bad air, etc. The food should be thoroughly chewed and never bolted or swallowed in haste, stimulants must be avoided and exercise taken if possible. A remedy which has rarely failed to give prompt relief and effect permanent cures, even in the most obstinate cases, is Burdock Blood Bitters. It acts by regulating and toning the digestive organs, removing costiveness and increasing the appetite and restoring health and vigor to the system. As a case in point we quote from a letter written by Miss L. A. Kuhn, of Hamilton, Ont.:—"Two years ago life seemed a burden. I could not eat the simplest food without dreadful misery in my shoulders and across the [illegible] Medical advice failed to relieve me, but seeing B. B. B. advertised I decided to try a bottle of it, and have been free from all those symptoms of my complaint. [illegible] conclusive proof of the efficacy of this wonderful remedy.

I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Clinton Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," Mackinaw, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of 50yr, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

WONDER IN WELLAND!

A Representative Farmer Speaks.

MR. C. C. HAUN.

The following remarkable facts are fully certified to as being undeniably correct in every particular. Mr. Haun is well known in the vicinity, having resided here over fifty years, and is highly respected as a man of the strictest honor, whose word is as good as his bond.

As will be seen from his letter, four physicians had attended him, and it was only after he had given up hope of cure that he decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters on the recommendation of a neighbor who had been cured of a similar disease by its use. Mr. Haun writes as follows:

DEAR SIRS,—I think I have been one of the worst sufferers you have yet heard of, having been six years in the hands of four of our best doctors without obtaining permanent relief, but continually growing worse, until almost beyond hope of recovery. I tried your Bitters and got relief in a few days. Every organ of my body was deranged, the liver enlarged, hardened and torpid, the heart and digestive organs seriously deranged, a large abscess in my leg, followed by paralysis of the right leg, in fact the lower half of my body was entirely useless. After using Burdock Blood Bitters for a few days the abscess burst, discharging fully five quarts of pus in two hours. I felt as if I had received a shock from a powerful battery. My recovery after this was steady and the cure permanent, seeing that for the four years since I have had as good health as ever I had. I still take an occasional bottle, not that I need it but because I wish to keep my system in perfect working order. I can think of no more remarkable case than what I have myself passed through, and no words can express my thankfulness for such perfect recovery.

C. C. HAUN,
Welland P.O.

In this connection the following letter from T. Cumines, Esq., a leading druggist of Welland, Ont., speaks for itself:

Messrs. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto.

GENTLEMEN,—I have been personally acquainted with Mr. C. C. Haun for the last 20 years, and have always found him a very reliable man. You may place the utmost confidence in anything he says with regard to your medicine. He has on many occasions within the last four years told me that it was marvellous the way the Burdock Blood Bitters had cured him, and that he now felt as able to do a day's work as he ever felt in his life. Although quite well he still takes some B. B. B. occasionally, as he says, to keep him in perfect health.

Yours truly,
THOMAS CUMINES,
Welland, Ont.

The steadily increasing sale of B. B. B., the length of time it has been before the people, and the fact that it cures to stay cured, attest the sterling merit of this monarch of medicines, the people's favorite blood purifier, tonic and regulator.

The Rest of Rock Salt, for Stock.

Read what Prof. Robertson, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, says regarding proper ways of salting stock:—"Dairy cattle should have access to salt every day. A series of experiments has convinced me that when cows are denied salt for a period of even one week they will yield from 10 to 15 per cent less milk, and that of an inferior quality. Such milk will, on an average, turn sour in twenty four hours less time than milk drawn from the same or similar cows receiving salt every day, all other conditions of treatment being equal."

THE only chemically pure Salt ever discovered, analyzed 99 44-100 Pure Salt. All kinds of stock will do better where this Salt is used; one ton will go four times as far as common salt, hence it is cheaper. It is the finest Salt in the world for the preservation of all kinds of meat, all the large packers are using it. It is sold cheaper than any other lump salt. We guarantee this Salt as advertised. Make a trial and you will always use it; we have in stock fine and coarse, at

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptions, disease germs peculiar to children, nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck, and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fairer, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

Poetry.

MUST HOE AS WELL AS PRAY.

Said Farmer Jones in a whining tone,
To his good old neighbor Gray:
"I've worn my knees through to the bone,
But it won't do me no pay.

"Your own hoeing is twice as good as mine,
Though you don't pretend to be
A shinin' light in the church to shine,
An' tell salvation's free.

"I've prayed the lord a thousand times
For to make that 'ere corn grow,
And why your's heats it so and climbs
I'd give a good deal to know."

Said Farmer Gray to his neighbor Jones,
In his easy, quiet way:
"When prayers get mixed with hay bones,
They don't make fourin' pay.

"Your weeds, I notice, are good and tall,
In spite of all your prayers;
You may pray for corn till the heavens fall
If you don't dig up the tares.

"I mix my prayers with a little toil
Along in every row,
An' I work this mixture into the soil
Quite vigorous with a hoe.

"An' I've discovered, though still in sin,
As sure as you are born,
This kind of compost, well worked in,
Makes pretty decent corn.

"So while I'm praying I use my hoe,
And do my level best
To keep down the weeds along each row,
An' the Lord He does the rest.

"It's well for to pray both night and morn,
As every farmer knows;
But the place to pray for thrifty corn
Is right between the rows.

"You must use your hands while praying, though,
If an answer you would get;
For prayer-worn knees and a rusty hoe
Never raised a big crop yet.

"An' so, I believe, my good old friend,
If you mean to win the day,
From ploughing clean to the harvest's end,
You must hoe as well as pray."

The Story Teller.

WITCHERY.

(Toronto Saturday Night.)

In a beautiful little village which nestles among the foot hills of the Tyrolese Alps, there lived many years ago a notary who was far famed both for his wit and benevolence. He was called from his native village one day to visit a certain innkeeper of Sollogne, upon professional business, and was crossing the market place of that village, towards the hostelry, when he saw a poor woman who sold crockery and whom he had known in better circumstances.

"How goes it, madam," he asked her.

"Very bad, indeed, Herr Vogel," she replied. "Even the little that one does make is swallowed up by the breakages."

"That is indeed bad," said the notary, as he rubbed his chin with his cane, "and my dear woman, I should like to help you but I have two sons at the university who spend my money and give me but little thanks for it, as I am afraid I cannot at present," and the notary continued his walk.

Presently, however, he returned and said: "Madam, do you see that hotel? I go there on business and dine with the guests in the upper room. Now, when I appear at that window and twirl my cane three times jump up and smash all your crockery to atoms, and I will see that you are well paid for your trouble."

"But what good can come of such waste?" said the woman, with Teutonic thrift.

"Don't bother about nothing; you will sell all your crockery and at a good profit," was the notary's cheery reply as he again strolled off across the square to the inn, where he quickly transacted his business.

An hour later all guests were assembled at the table. One was happy in the thought that he had sold his goods, another that he had bought them, a third that he had received his money, and a fourth that he had made a good investment, while the notary was doubly happy, inasmuch as he saw before him both a good joke and a charitable deed.

Soon knives, forks and spoons were working hard, and the clatter of dishes and ring of glasses sounded through the hall. Then the notary started the conversation by speaking of witches and witchery, and when he saw that the others took a lively interest in the topic, he dropped out of the conversation and applied himself to his dinner.

Opinions were so numerous and varied that it was not until the dessert was served that his friends noticed that he was not taking an active part in the discussion.

"But what say you, master notary?" they all asked at once. "You cannot plead ignorance. Come, speak up, and tell us what you know."

The notary answered in rather a discreet tone that he did not like to talk upon such subjects. "But since you press me I will say that there are more things between heaven and earth than you are aware of. Why, even I am a wizard and at times command the witches."

"Proofs, proofs, proofs," they all cried in a breath. "Come, Mr. Wizard, your proofs."

"Well," said the notary, "what shall I do? Make the rain descend from a clear sky, or put mule ears on the provost?"

"Mules ears!" they all shouted at once, for the provost was greatly disliked.

"No," said the notary, "that might create a disturbance. But see," and he pointed out of the window, "there is a poor woman in the square who sits beside a pile of crockery, which she offers for sale. Will it satisfy you if by bewitching her I make her smash all her stock in pieces?"

"Yes, yes. Do it, do it, and we will be perfectly satisfied."

"Death," quoth the notary, "costs one but his life, and I fear my witchery would be as dear to this good woman, for it is evident that she has no other way of making a living." So he passed round his hat and all contributed liberally to the fund to pay for the dishes should they be broken.

All crowded to points of vantage, and all eyes were fixed upon the woman by her stand in the square below, and who was knitting away, supposedly oblivious to everything else.

Then the notary leaned forward and in a very solemn tone recited the following words, while his cane was twirling in the air:

"Abra Kodabra, Kokus Pocus, Liram Loram, Liffelstool."

As he finished, the effect was truly as magic. As though stung by a bee, the woman sprang to her feet, casting her knitting upon the ground, and in the twinking of an eye was either hurling pitchers or plates into the air or dashing them directly upon the pavement where they were broken to atoms, and this she continued to do until her stock was completely exhausted, when she resumed her seat and sorrowfully gazed upon the havoc she had committed.

"Well," said the notary, as he gathered up the money and sent it to the woman with his kind regards, "I hope you are quite satisfied that there is more in witchery than 'moon-shine' and that in future you will be content to leave such matters alone."

INDIAN TALES.

The Duck Lake correspondent of the Prince Albert Saskatchewan says there is great excitement amongst the Indians just now in consequence of two strange stories that are circulating amongst them. One is this: "A child on one of their reserves, when only a month old, suddenly spoke to those who were in the tent, and said that shortly the world would be destroyed by fire, and that the end of the world was near at hand." The other story relates that "while a party of hunters were travelling they suddenly heard a great noise like thunder, and on looking up they saw two gigantic birds. One of the birds picked up one of the hunter's horses and flew away with it. While the other bird was attempting to take another horse one of the hunters shot it. The color of the bird that was killed was sky blue; the other was white. The tail of the bird that was killed measured three feet, and its wing from shoulder to tip seven feet." The correspondent got this story from One Arrow's reserve.

DEATH OF WILLIAM EDGAR.

Unlooked for Demise of the Well-Known Grand Trunk Official.

MONTREAL, April 13.—William Edgar, general passenger agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, died at 11 o'clock this morning. Mr. Edgar was born in Birkenhead, Eng., in 1841, and has been connected with railway work in Canada for the past thirty-five years, twenty-five of which were in the service of the Great Western Railway, now a part of the Grand Trunk, and the remaining ten with the latter company. He succeeded to the position he held at his death when Sir Joseph Hickson resigned the presidency of the Grand Trunk, and was succeeded by Wm. Wainright, now general manager, but then general passenger agent. Mr. Edgar was a highly esteemed citizen of Montreal, being connected with several benevolent and fraternal societies. He was a prominent member of the Sons of England and a Mason of the 32nd degree. Mr. Edgar was married but little over a year at the time of his demise.

The San Jose, Cal., Phenix gives us the sad intelligence of the death of Mr. J. C. Sanderson's daughter at that place on April 5th:

"Yesterday morning Miss Ella Sanderson died in this city at the residence of C. S. O'Bannon of consumption. Associated with her death is a most touching incident—that of a father speeding as fast as human agencies would permit to meet his daughter before her death. Miss Sanderson came to this city from Canada about a year ago. Her lungs became affected and during the past few weeks she rapidly grew worse. When she knew that the end was near she sent for her father in Canada. He started on his journey, and it was a race between him and death. The nearer he came to her bedside the nearer she was to the close of her life. She knew he was coming yesterday morning and watched the hands of the clock and listened for his footsteps. Fearful that she might not see him again, shortly before her death, she looked at the clock and whispered, "I am afraid he will be too late," then sank back and expired. Half an hour later, after travelling 3000 miles, the father arrived to find his daughter cold in death."

An excellent tonic to be taken during a tedious cold and obstinate cough is given by an Englishwomen, who laughingly added to the recipe the admonition to "begin in time, or the cold may kill you before the cure is ready." Put three whole fresh eggs in a porcelain bowl and squeeze over them through a strainer the juice of twelve large lemons. Keep the eggs immersed in this lemon bath until the shells are dissolved, which will take about three days, or perhaps four. The eggs should be turned often to let the juice do its work completely. When ready beat up with a silver fork, and add one quarter pound of sugar and half a pint of rum; shake it well and take a large wineglass full every morning. The mixture may be bottled for use.

The Commercial Man's Grip.

I have long looked for a preparation that would keep my head clear of Dandruff, but always failed to receive any material benefit until a friend recommended Anti-Dandruff, which I used with perfect success. It not only removed the Dandruff with three applications, but stopped the annoying itching of the scalp and rendered the hair soft and pliable without leaving an appearance of a dressing being used. It now occupies a permanent position in my grip. It is pleasant to use, and with pleasure I recommend it.

Beauty Thoughts.

I want to see that thoughts are things
Endowed with bodies, hands and wings,
And that we send them forth to fill
The world with good results—or ill.

Then which we call our secret thought,
Speeds to the world's remotest spot,
And moves its blessings or its woes
Like winds, behind us as it goes.

It is God's law. Remember it
In your still chamber as you sit
With thoughts you would not dare have heaven
And yet make companions when alone.

These thoughts have life; and they will fly
And leave their impress by and by,
Like some marsh house, where poisoned breath
Selection into beauty forward breath.

And after you have quite forgot
Or all outgrown some vanished thought,
Back to your mind to make its home,
A dove or raven, it will come.

Then let your secret thoughts be fair;
They have a vital part and share
In shaping worlds and molding fate—
God's system is so intricate.

WHY SHE WENT HOME.

One day Miss Hunt's accustomed haunts knew her no more.

The big policeman on the corner of Printing-House Square missed the trim little figure he had come to know as is hurried by him on her daily rounds; "the boys" in the office suddenly discovered that the quiet, serious-faced girl reporter who had often beaten them on news had vanished, and even the city editor, who was not supposed to have any emotion of any sort, suddenly roused to the fact that he had lost one of his most alert and earnest aids and actually experienced a sensation which, in any other human being, might have been termed regret.

Yes, Miss Hunt was gone. A little note of resignation found its way to the managing editor's desk—an indefinite sort of billet-doux which gave no reason whatever for the girl's sudden departure.

ONE COLD WINTER'S NIGHT.

"Little fool!" said the Awful Man, as he read the note, "she has made the mistake of her life. Just got on her feet—work attracting attention everywhere—chief delighted with her—and away she goes. I suppose to marry some worthless chap she will have to support."

"Where's little Hunt?" everybody was asking. "The office is mighty lonely," said the sporting editor, casting a kindly glance towards a closed door. "I fancy she's gone back to teaching school," said the dramatic critic. "I wonder how she could tear herself away from me," thought the beauty of the reportorial staff, who fancied Miss Hunt admired his blood bay.

The most plausible reason for Miss Hunt's going away and the one generally accepted was that she had gone back West to marry a cowboy or the owner of a silver mine, and for weeks thereafter change was hunted through the columns of marriages notices in the Western papers to see if he could find an announcement of her wedding.

But "little Hunt" had not gone away to be married nor to teach school. However, she had a reason for going—a reason she kept fast locked in her heart—while she made her plans for departure.

It was one cold, winter night she decided to go. She had been hard at work all day. She had written a new story which had actually made the city editor smile; she had interviewed a dancer who had invented a new terpsichorean wriggle; she had been to the bench show, and had done up the dogs and the dames in great shape and she had "faked" a story for the Sunday paper which was calculated to draw tears from the compositor who would set it up.

Miss Hunt was tired. Nor did it seem to rest her when she found a note on her desk from the editor-in-chief telling her that her salary was to be raised.

It was midnight when Miss Hunt let herself into the pretty little apartment she called home, flung off her wraps and sat down before the open fire to think. These four or five rooms, furnished in the dainty fashion so loved by girls, were very dear to Miss Hunt. Every nook and corner, every belonging and furnishing, were a part of her very self. She had labored ceaselessly to have, furnish and keep this home. Her thoughts, her ideas, her individuality were here. The long tramps through all kinds of weather, the struggles, the disappointments, the heartaches were here depicted, and all the triumphs, victories and successes here their fruition in this tiny home. It was on that divan with its nest of cushions that Miss Hunt flung herself for a rattling good cry the day she lost the interview with a famous and fickle actress. How much it had meant to her, how little to the capricious creature who so coolly broke the engagement she had absolutely guaranteed! There was the piano at which Miss Hunt had poured out all the moral sorrow of her heart through her fingers. There was the dainty ribbon-bedecked rattan chair bought with the proceeds of her first assignment—ah! how everything in these rooms spoke to her of the light and shade, the joy and sorrow of her checkered existence in this heartless town where she had struggled and succeeded—in gaining a footing!

But there were many other objects here which spoke so forcibly of another life—a life which caused her every now to Miss Hunt. In that pile of cushions yonder on the divan was one made of many tiny pieces of silk carefully pieced in old-fashioned shapes. There were stars and "rising suns," and blocks joined in quaint and precise manner. That cushion had come one Christmas morning with the inscription, "Just to let my little girl know that mother does not forget her." The picture over the piano!—when Miss Hunt looked at it there came always a big lump in her throat, for it used to hang over her piano in a Western home. The pretty lamp on the table—ah! could she not see two silvered heads bent close to its light? . . . a pair of thin hands fluttering over the bits of silk. . . . "piecing blocks" for "my little girl" away in New York. . . . another pair . . . sinewy, honest, toilworn hands holding the newspaper Miss Hunt had sent.

Somewhere to-night they had been sitting, old, tired out with the burden and heat of life, alone. They had worked, saved and denied themselves many luxuries so that their bright and ambitious daughter should have a chance in the world. They had placed no obstacles in her way, had listened patiently when she told them of her intention to go forth and battle for success. Ah! they had believed in her, followed her with their prayers and never murmured at her long absence.

She remembered her first days in New York, when, friendless, ignorant and unknown, she had gone about timidly, uncertainly. What a mountain of strength their letters had been! Miss Hunt sighed. She had not written home as often of late as she should—she had been so busy—and when one writes for a living one wearies at the sight of pen and ink. But their letters, breathing love, tender faith and pride, had come every week—no failure there. The fountain of parental love had remained pure and fresh and strong.

"We know you are busy," the last letter had said; "we hope you are happy and satisfied. It has occurred to us of late that your letters have a mournful tinge. Remember, daughter, that if you ever weary of your useful life the old home stands always open—yes—longing for you."

Miss Hunt stirred the blazing fire impatiently. "Let me see," she said to herself—"where is it I have to go to-morrow? The slumming assignment . . . how I dread it . . . remember daughter, . . . I must see those committee women . . . if you ever weary . . . and then, there's that interview with the woman in the Tombs . . . horrible. I was in hopes they would never send me there again . . . the old home—mistake—always open—yes, and longing."

Miss Hunt started up with a cry. The old home! Why, she was not there with her patient, gentle, heavily lined father and mother? What was she doing here—here? "A useful life," they had said. Yes, she had led a useful, heart life. She had been conscientious and painstaking. She had persevered through formidable difficulties and a succession of heart-rending disappointments. She was rewarded now. People were talking of her clever, distinctive original work. She was quoted, written about, pointed out as one of the brightest newspaper women in town. She had begun to dip into magazine work and one of the most conservative of periodicals had already published articles from her pen.

But oh! life is brief and love is mighty. A great wave of homesickness rolled over the girl as she thought of that little home—open always—yes, longing for her; of those two dear faces ever set patiently towards the East, looking for their sunlight.

What were success, admiration, work, money and independence compared to this sudden rush of feeling that shook her soul? "What does it amount to after all?" over and over again she asked her sick heart. "How little it all means, any how?"

* * * * *

"I wish," said the city editor a few days later, "I wish little Hunt had not cleared out. She would be the very one to work up the mystery surrounding the death of that girl. Hang it all! Why did she go away?"

Why? Ask that silver-haired couple away out in a little Western home, who would tell you with bated breath and a radiance like the light of heaven on their faces of one evening when, as they sat by their lonely fireside reading over one of their little girl's "pieces," they heard a quick, resolute step ring up the garden walk. Then the latch clicked, the door swung open and self-contained, well-poised, energetic Miss Hunt, who had undaunted faced every hardship and danger in her literary existence, became as a little child.

For with one big sob she flung herself on her knees between those weary watchers, and the thin, wrinkled hands met over their "little girl's" head.

"Miss Hunt had given up journalism for the home "that was always open—yes, longing for her."—Edith Sessions Tupper, in New York World.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Health's Defences. None save the strongest can with impunity pass through the sudden transitions from wet to dry, from cold to muggy weather so prevalent during the autumnal and early winter months. Influenza, bronchitis, cough, sore throat, or quinsey will attack those most watchful of their health; but they can readily arrest any of these complaints by rubbing Holloway's Ointment twice a day upon the skin over the affected parts, and by assisting its corrective action with appropriate doses of his Pills. This well known, safe, and easy mode of treatment efficiently protects the invalid both from present and future danger without wearying or even disturbing the system in the slightest degree.

Many people who pride themselves on their fine blood would be far happier with pure blood; but, while we cannot change our ancestors, fortunately, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, we can transmit pure blood to our posterity.

WITCHERY.

(Toronto Saturday Night.)

In a beautiful little village which nestles among the foot hills of the Tyrolese Alps, there lived many years ago a notary who was far famed both for his wit and benevolence. He was called from his native village one day to visit a certain innkeeper of Sollogne, upon professional business, and was wending the market place of that village, towards the hostelry, when he saw a poor woman who sold crockery and whom he had known in better circumstances.

"How goes it, madam," he asked her.

"Very bad, indeed, Herr Vogel," she replied. "Even the little that one does make is swallowed up by the breakages."

"That is indeed bad," said the notary, as he rubbed his chin with his cane, "and my dear woman, I should like to help you but I have two sons at the university who spend my money and give me but little thanks for it, so I am afraid I cannot at present," and the notary continued his walk.

Presently, however, he returned and said: "Madam, do you see that hotel? I go there on business and dine with the guests in the upper room. Now, when I appear at that window and twirl my cane three times jump up and smash all your crockery to atoms, and I will see that you are well paid for your trouble."

"But what good can come of such waste?" said the woman, with Teutonic thrift.

"Don't bother about nothing; you will sell all your crockery and at a good profit," was the notary's cheery reply as he again strolled off across the square to the inn, where he quickly transacted his business.

An hour later all guests were assembled at the table. One was happy in the thought that he had sold his goods, another that he had bought them, a third that he had received his money, and a fourth that he had made a good investment, while the notary was doubly happy, inasmuch as he saw before him both a good joke and a charitable deed.

Soon knives, forks and spoons were working hard, and the clatter of dishes and ring of glasses sounded through the hall. Then the notary started the conversation by speaking of witches and witchery, and when he saw that the others took a lively interest in the topic, he dropped out of the conversation and applied himself to his dinner.

Opinions were so numerous and varied that it was not until the dessert was served that his friends noticed that he was not taking an active part in the discussion.

"But what say you, master notary?" they all asked at once. "You cannot plead ignorance. Come, speak up, and tell us what you know."

The notary answered in rather a discreet tone that he did not like to talk upon such subjects. "But since you press me I will say that there are more things between heaven and earth than you are aware of. Why, even I am a wizard and at times command the witches."

"Proofs, proofs, proofs," they all cried in a breath. "Come, Mr. Wizard, your proofs."

"Well," said the notary, "what shall I do? Make the rain descend from a clear sky, or put mule ears on the provost?"

"Mule ears!" they all assented at once, for the provost was greatly disliked.

"No," said the notary, "that might create a disturbance. But see," and he pointed out of the window, "there is a poor woman in the square who sits beside a pile of crockery, which she offers for sale. Will it satisfy you if by bewitching her I make her smash all her stock to pieces?"

"Yes, yes. Do it, do it, and we will be perfectly satisfied."

"Death," quoth the notary, "seems one but his life, and I fear my witchery would be as dear to this good woman, for it is evident that she has no other way of making a living." So he passed

If you cover up my corn,
I mix my prayers with a little foil
Along in every row,
An' I work this mixture into the soil
Quite vigorous with a hoe.

"An' I've discovered, though still in sin,
As sure as you are sworn,
This kind of compost, well worked in,
Makes pretty decent corn.

"So while I'm praying I use my hoe,
And do my level best
To keep down the weeds along each row,
An' the Lord He does the rest.

"It's well for to pray both night and morn,
As every Elmer knows;
But the place to pray for thrifty corn
Is right between the rows.

"You must use your hands while praying, though,
If an answer you would get;
For prayer-worn knees and a rusty hoe
Never raised a big crop yet.

"An' so, I believe, my good old friend,
If you mean to win the day,
From ploughing clean to the harvest's end,
You must hoe as well as pray."

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various remedies, but the sores spread. The nurse increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until the child's head and body nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. ## INDIAN TALES.

The Duck Lake correspondent of the Prince Albert Saskatchewan says there is great excitement amongst the Indians just now in consequence of two strange stories that are circulating amongst them. One is this: "A child on one of their reserves, when only a month old, suddenly spoke to those who were in the tent, and said that shortly the world would be destroyed by fire, and that the end of the world was near at hand." The other story relates that "while a party of hunters were travelling they suddenly heard a great noise like thunder, and on looking up they saw two gigantic birds. One of the birds picked up one of the hunter's horses and flew away with it. While the other bird was attempting to take another horse one of the hunters shot it. The color of the bird that was killed was sky blue; the other was white. The tail of the bird that was killed measured three feet, and its wing from shoulder to tip seven feet." The correspondent got this story from One Arrow's reserve.

DEATH OF WILLIAM EDGAR.

Unlooked for Demise of the Well-Known Grand Trunk Official.

MONTREAL, April 13.—William Edgar, general passenger agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, died at 11 o'clock this morning. Mr. Edgar was born in Birkenhead, Eng., in 1841, and has been connected with railway work in Canada for the past thirty-five years, twenty-five of which were in the service of the Great Western Railway, now a part of the Grand Trunk, and the remaining ten with the latter company. He succeeded to the position he held at his death when Sir Joseph Hickson resigned the presidency of the Grand Trunk, and was succeeded by Wm. Wainright, now general manager, but then general passenger agent. Mr. Edgar was a highly esteemed citizen of Montreal, being connected with several benevolent and fraternal societies. He was a prominent member of the Sons of England and a Mason of the 32nd degree. Mr. Edgar was married but little over a year at the time of his demise.

The San Jose, Cal., Pioneer gives us the sad intelligence of the death of Mr. J. C. Sanderson's daughter at that place on April 5th:

"Yesterday morning Miss Ella Sanderson died in this city at the residence of C. S. O'Bannon of consumption. Associated with her death is a most touching incident—that of a father speeding as fast as human agencies would permit to meet his daughter before her death. Miss Sanderson came to this city from Canada about a year ago. Her lungs became affected and during the past few weeks she rapidly grew worse. When she knew that the end was near she sent for her father in Canada. He started on his journey, and it was a race between him and death. The nearer he came to her bedside the nearer she was to the close of her life. She knew he was coming yesterday morning and watched the hands of the clock and listened for his footsteps. Fearful that she might not see him again, shortly before her death, she looked at the clock and whispered, "I am afraid he will be too late," then sank back and expired. Half an hour later, after travelling 3000 miles, the father arrived to find his daughter cold in death."

An excellent tonic to be taken during a tedious cold and obstinate cough is given by an Englishwomen, who laughingly added to the recipe the admonition to "begin in time, or the cold may kill you before the cure is ready." Put three whole fresh eggs in a porcelain bowl and squeeze over them through a strainer the juice of two large lemons. Keep the eggs immersed in this lemon bath until the shells are dissolved, which will take about three days, or perhaps four. The eggs should be turned often to let the juice do its work completely. When ready beat up with a silver fork, and add one quarter pound of sugar and half a pint of rum; shake it well and take a large wineglass full every morning. The mixture may be bottled for use.

The Commercial Man's Grip.

I have long looked for a preparation that would keep my hand clear of Dandruff, but always failed to receive any material benefit until a friend recommended Anti-Dandruff, which I used with perfect success. It not only removed the Dandruff with three applications, but stopped the annoying itching of the scalp and rendered the hair soft and pliable without leaving an appearance of a dressing being used. It now occupies a permanent position in my grip. It is pleasant to use, and with pleasure I recommend it.

D. O. BOBLIN,

Representing H. Corby, wholesale liquors, Belleville, Ont.

Four lunatics in the asylum for insane criminals at Auburn, N. Y., attacked their keepers Saturday night, knocked an attendant senseless and attempted to escape, but the calls of the attendants for relief were heard and the maniacs were secured after a desperate struggle.

"Little fool!" said the Awful Man, as he read the note, "she has made the mistake of her life. Just got on her feet—work attracting attention everywhere—chief delighted with her—and away she goes. I suppose to marry some worthless chap she will have to support."

"Where's little Hunt?" everybody was asking. "The office is mighty lonely," said the sporting editor, casting a kindly glance towards a closed desk. "I fancy she's gone back to teaching school," said the dramatic critic. "I wonder how she could tear herself away from me," thought the beauty of the reportorial staff, who fancied Miss Hunt admired his blood bang.

The most plausible reason for Miss Hunt's going away and the one generally accepted was that she had gone back West to marry a cowboy or the owner of a silver mine, and for weeks the exchange man hunted through the columns of marriages notices in the Western papers to see if he could find an announcement of her wedding.

But "little Hunt" had not gone away to be married nor to teach school. However, she had a reason for going—a reason she kept fast locked in her heart—while she made her plans for departure.

It was one cold, winter night she decided to go. She had been hard at work all day. She had written a new story which had actually made the city editor smile; she had interviewed a dancer who had invented a new terpsichorean wriggle—she had been to the bench show, and had done up the dogs and the dames in great shape and she had "faked" a story for the Sunday paper which was calculated to draw tears from the compositor who would set it up.

Miss Hunt was tired. Nor did it seem to rest her when she found a note on her desk from the editor-in-chief telling her that her salary was to be raised.

It was midnight when Miss Hunt let herself into the pretty little apartment she called home, flung off her wraps and sat down before the open fire to think. These four or five rooms, furnished in the dainty fashion so loved by girls, were very dear to Miss Hunt. Every hook and corner, every belonging and furnishing, were a part of her very self. She had labored ceaselessly to have, furnish and keep this home. Her thoughts, her ideas, her individuality were here. The long tramps through all kinds of weather, the struggles, the disappointments, the heartaches were here depicted, and all the triumphs, victories and successes bore their fruition in this tiny home. It was on that divan with its nest of cushions that Miss Hunt flung herself for a rattling good cry the day she lost the interview with a famous and fickle actress. How much it had meant to her, how little to the capricious creature who so coolly broke the engagement she had absolutely guaranteed! There was the piano at which Miss Hunt had poured out all the sacred sorrow of her heart through her fingers. There was the dainty ribbon-bedecked rattan chair bought with the proceeds of her first assignment—ah! how everything in these rooms spoke to her of her! No wonder the big policeman on the corner of Printing-House Square asked the tribe little figure he had come to know as it hurried by him on her daily rounds, "who hoop" in the office suddenly discovered that the quiet, serious-faced girl reporter who had often beaten them on news had vanished, and even the city editor, who was not supposed to have any emotion of any sort, suddenly paused to the fact that he had lost one of his most alert and earnest aids and actually experienced a sensation which, in any other human being, might have been termed regret.

ONE COLD WINTER'S NIGHT.

THE OLD HOME.

Yes, Miss Hunt was gone. A little note of resignation found its way to the managing editor's desk—an indefinite sort of billet-doux which gave no reason whatever for the girl's sudden departure.

HOME AGAIN.

newspaper women in town. She had begun to dip into magazine work and one of the most conservative of periodicals had already published articles from her pen.

But oh! life is brief and love is mighty. A great wave of homesickness rolled over the girl as she thought of that little home—open always—yes, longing for her; of those two dear faces ever set patiently towards the East, looking for their sunlight.

What were success, admiration, work, money and independence compared to this sudden rush of feeling that shook her soul? "What does it amount to after all?" over and over again she asked her sick heart. "How little it all means, any how!"

* * * * * *

"I wish," said the city editor a few days later, "I wish little Hunt had not cleared out. She would be the very one to work up the mystery surrounding the death of that girl. Hang it all! Why did she go away?"

Why? Ask that silver-haired couple away out in a little Western home, who would tell you with bated breath and a radiance like the light of heaven on their faces of one evening when, as they sat by their lonely fireside reading over one of their little girl's "pieces," they heard a quick, resolute step ring up the garden walk. Then the latch clicked, the door swung open and self-contained, well-poised, energetic Miss Hunt, who had undaunted faced every hardship and danger in her literary existence, became as a little child.

For with one big sob she flung herself on her knees between those weary watchers, and the thin, wrinkled hands met over their "little girl's" head.

"Miss Hunt had given up journalism for the home "that was always open—yes, longing for her."—Edith Somerset Tupper, in New York World.

THE DEAD STATESMAN.

EX-PREMIER MACKENZIE is dead. On Easter bright morn his gentle and manly spirit took leave of earth to live elsewhere, and as we go to press to-day all that is mortal of one of Nature's greatest and truest noblemen is being laid in the silent grave. Canada's last ex Premier is no more; his work is done, and the world is richer by his labors and example. THE SUN does not subscribe to the old proverb, "Say nothing evil of the dead," but rather to our motto, "Speak nothing of the living which we would retract of the dead;" and in paying our humble tribute to the deceased statesman we do so with the greatest sincerity. THE SUN has always admired the sturdy independence and true nobility of his character. No knighthood or titled title could add to his greatness—he was greatness itself. He may have lacked the arts of the practical politician of the day, but he had that uprightness and firmness of principle which impelled him on the path which to him was right. And on the line of duty, even though friends should forsake him and though he should fall by the wayside, and on his ministerial defeat he was the one man of his once great party who could look back calmly, manfully and in truth say: "In this I have not sinned."

More successful politicans Canada has seen, more eloquent speakers we have had, and still have, but no man of such universal knowledge and grasp of subjects pertaining to our welfare remains in active life. Mr. Mackenzie was in the truest sense, a self made man—the Hugh Miller of the age. With scanty advantages in his youth, by persistent application, he fitted himself for the first position under the crown in the Dominion, the maker of governors, judges and officers of all grades. He himself standing before Her Majesty, the Queen, and the great ones under her, the first citizen of Britain's greatest colony, with honor to himself and credit to all Canadians. What a life to study, what a character to emulate by the youth of the country, a life which ought to be a light and studied by all who may desire to serve their country for their country's good—no chicanery, no intrigue, no meanness.

While THE SUN has not always seen eye to eye with the great deceased on many political questions, it has always admitted and admired the unshakable manner in which he went about his purposes, and the scrupulous manner with which he performed all duties falling in his path of life. He died with a name untarnished and his memory will grow brighter as the bitterness of party strife are forgotten, and to the next generation he will be held up as the man (let us fondly hope not the only one) who did his full duty as a man on all occasions. All honor to such a man and such a name! We would gladly see a national monument erected to him on Parliament Hill, side by side with the one to our great Chieftain, Sir John Macdonald, who on other lines with more success, but not with more honesty of purpose, spent his life in the interest of his adopted country.

To the widow we offer our sincere sympathy in her bereavement, and trust that in declining years her cup of happiness shall be ever overflowing.

The Grand Valley Star says THE SUN is doing municipal printing fifty per cent. cheaper than that journal gets for the county printing. Our contemporary, above all other things, should keep silent on this question. Perhaps every printer in the county has not heard of the sneaking proclivities of this newspaper prodigy.

MOVED.—Mr. Thos. Reburn moved his portable saw mill to-day to Lisle where he expects to saw a large number of pine logs.

DEATH.—Miss Lloyd of the Swamp hill, near Primrose, age 17, died on Monday morning at 1 o'clock of rheumatic fever. The young lady suffered fearfully and death, as might be expected from the nature of the disease, was a happy release. The remains were interred on Wednesday at the Whitfield cemetery.

WHERE IS HE?—Tommy Dorsey, son of Mr. Thos. Dorsey, left the sugar bush last Thursday night to visit a friend and has not since been found. The family are scouring the country for him, but up to the present writing no trace of him can be found. Tommy is a young man of about 18 or 20 years of age and owing to his peculiar manner of speech will have some difficulty in identifying himself when away amongst strangers.

UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT.—On Saturday morning last old Mrs Ferris, whose age is 93 and who is motherinlaw of Jas. Carson late of the C. P. R., in sitting down missed the chair and fell heavily to the floor, causing a fracture of the thigh bone and displacing the hip joint. The old lady is lying in rather a precarious condition and death may occur at any moment. She is being treated by Dr. Reid of Horning's Mills.

ANNUAL DOG TAG SUPPLY!

Electricity, Storage Batteries and other Things Discussed.

The council met in the council chamber at 7:30 Monday evening. Mayor Lindsay, Reeve Eadscott, Deputy reeve Green, Ald. Still, Riddell, Menary, Mason, Bell, West, Gordon and Brown were the members present on this occasion.

An account of J. W. Morrison, $1, was ordered to be paid, and a bill of W. H. Murphy, $5.60, was referred to the F. & W. committee.

GRAVEYARD DELINQUENTS.

Caretaker Franklin of the Town cemetery, per Ald. West, sent in a long list of persons whose dead are buried in the cemetery and who forgot to pay for the plots. Mr. Town Treasurer was instructed to notify the parties that if the money was not forthcoming the bodies would be removed to the potters-field.

POSTAGE WASTED.

A Toronto dog tag firm, Toronto and London Sewer Pipe companies, and a London (England) Fire-engine firm were all anxious to supply this town with their wares, but in communicating they only wasted postage.

Mr. Eadscott and Mr. Still brought in unimportant reports from the Finance and T. P. committees respectively.

THE BALLOT KNOCKED OUT.

The council went into committee of the whole on the bylaw to appoint a foreman of works with Deputy-reeve Eadscott in the chair. In THE SUN of two weeks ago we published the names of those who were desirous of becoming overseer of works.

D. McBride, D. E. Nicholson, Jas. Babe, John Bailey would take the job for $1.50 per day and J. J. Hall was willing to perform the work for $1.40 a day. Ald. Still attacked the open vote system and wanted it changed to the ballot for this particular occasion. Under the open vote, he said the best man might not be chosen. Mayor Lindsay made a rattling good reply and hoped the ballot would never be resorted to in the council. Mr. Eadscott agreed with the mayor as did Ald. Gordon. Ald. Bell, Menary and Brown were for the ballot. Mr. Sull presented his motion for secrecy and the rules governing the council were looked up. The chairman decided that it would require a two thirds vote to carry the resolution, and when the question was called Messrs. Still, Brown, Menary and Bell held up their hands in favor of it. The motion was snowed under. The mayor then explained the manner of voting. The men proposed for the office were James Babe, proposed by Deputy-reeve Green; Dan McBride, last year's overseer, proposed by Ald. Menary, and J. J. Hall was Mayor Lindsay's choice. Referring to the late foreman, Mr. L. said he did not do the work satisfactorily and there had been many complaints. Bell wanted the mayor to specify, but the latter replied that he did not like to refer to the matter. However, he said people complained that Foreman McBride kept too large a staff while doing a small job.

The first named received 3 votes. Mr. McBride received 5 and Reeve Eadscott gave the casting vote in his favor, and declared Dan duly elected. Last year McBride was chosen by ex Ald. Gillespie's casting vote. And thus the great question is settled.

MORE LIGHT WANTED.

Mr. Eadscott inquired when the town hall and council chamber would be better lighted. Mr. Green said the Electric Light Co. informed the S. L. committee that the matter would be attended to shortly.

M. I. DELEGATES.

A delegation from the Mechanics' Institute consisting of Messrs W. Hewat, Alex. Johnston and R. E. Benison waited upon the council regarding the town grant to that institution. Mr. Hewat addressed the council at some length referring to the good work being done by the free reading room, and hoped the council would increase the annual grant. On motion of Mr. Eadscott, seconded by Mr. Green, the annual $50 grant was voted to them.

EIGHT O'CLOCK.

Reeve Eadscott moved that, during the summer months, from May 1st to Oct. 1st, the council meet at 8 o'clock instead of 7:30 as at present. Mr. Still moved in amendment that the meeting hour remain as it is. The reeve's motion carried.

Ald. West moved that the mayor, Ald. Gordon and the mover be a committee to inquire in H. Haley's claim for damages and report the to council. Carried.

The usual supply of dog tags has been ordered for the year.

BOWLING GREEN.

IT'S DIPHTHERIA NOW.—The Bowling Green school has to be closed owing to the diphtheria plague. We hope soon to see the country free from disease.

WOOD BEE.—On Tuesday of last week Mr. John Hinton had a very successful wood bee. In the evening a number of young ladies came along, accompanied by a violinist, and a very happy time was spent till late next morning.

TAFFY SUCK.—Last Friday evening a party of married folks assembled at the residence of Mr. J. Whaley for the purpose of spending the evening and eating the sweet that flows from the maple. After they had devoured the good stuff it stirred the sap in their legs and toes and they had to trip around the room for a few minutes. When will the young folks' annual taffy be made? Next week, I suppose.

BRIEFS.—Master Thos. Durkin, son of Mr. Frank Durkin, is very low at present from the effects of diphtheria, but we hope to see Tom around all right again.....Seeding has commenced around here in earnest.....Gossip has it that there will soon be a wedding over on the 7th. Hustle up and give us something to talk about.....Gooseberries, blowers and a few notorious story tellers are in this vicinity, but we did not see it in the paper.....More anon.

THE END CAME!

Hon. Alex. Mackenzie Succumbs with the Dead.

NOT LONG AFTER SIR JOHN!

A Statesman's Approaches Rises to be Premier of Canada.

The end came at last. The period of hoping against hope closed in the opening hour of the grief Easter morn. At 12.40 a. m. Sunday Hon. Alexander Mackenzie breathed his last. The daily bulletins had foreshadowed dissolution, but it was only after a protracted struggle that the weary spirit found release.

Mr. Mackenzie, like so many of our prominent men, was a Scotchman, born at Logierait, near the famous Pass of Killiecrankie, January 28, 1822. He had then completed the allotted three score and ten when summoned hence. His father was in the middle walks of life, of a strong Whig family, and the future Premier got the usual schooling of a middle-class Scotch boy; some five years in all. When he was 14, his father died, and he set to work, as a stonemason's apprentice. When he was 20 he emigrated to Canada and settled in Kingston, working at his trade and taking a keen interest in politics. The late Sir John A. Macdonald and the Hon. O. Mowat were also in Kingston at the same time. In 1847 Mr. Mackenzie, together with his brother, Hope F. Mackenzie, moved to the neighborhood of Sarnia. For a time he continued in his business as a builder and contractor; then his interest in politics found a vent and in 1852 he was editing The Lambton Shield in the Liberal interest. His editorial work soon attracted attention, and in 1861 he succeeded his brother, Hope F. Mackenzie, as M. P., for Lambton. Once in Parliament, his powers of debate and acquaintance with politics present and past placed him in the forefront, and he was a prominent supporter of the Sandfield Macdonald-Sicotte and the Macdonald-Dorion ministries. That ministry having fallen, he was a supporter of Confederation. After Confederation he became leader of the Liberals in lieu of the Hon. George Brown, who had been defeated in South Ontario, and in 1873, in consequence of the Pacific Scandal, came to office.

From thence to 1878 Mr. Mackenzie was premier, and distinguished himself by the great amount of practical work he accomplished; among the acts passed by his Ministry may be mentioned the General Election Law, the Controverted Elections Act, the Postal Act, the General Insurance Act, the Independence of Parliament Act, the Public Accounts Audit Act, the Canada Temperance Act, the Homestead Exemption Act, the Acts relating to the Extradition of Criminals, the Canadian Pacific Act, etc.

In 1878 Mr. Mackenzie's Government was overthrown on the tariff question, and he became once more leader of the Opposition, until April, 1880, when his party deposed him for Mr. Blake. In 1882 he gave up his old constituency of Lambton and was elected for East York, of which he was the member up to his death.

Mr. Mackenzie was married twice, his first wife being Miss Helen Neil of Irvine, Scotland. She died in 1852, and in 1853 he married Miss Jane Sym, who still survives him. By his first wife he had one daughter, who is married to the Rev. John Thompson, Presbyterian minister of Sarnia.

A HISTORY OF HIS ILLNESS.

In April, 1879, shortly after the change of leadership took place, the first symptoms of disease made their appearance in a partial loss of speech, followed by loss of power in the left side. These symptoms did not improve, but rather steadily advanced, the infirmity of speech increasing in its severity. Mr. Mackenzie, however, was able to attend parliament and to his other duties until Feb. 2, 1892. When about to enter his carriage to go to his office he fell and was carried into the house, when it was found that the loss of power and motion was complete on the left side, and to a lesser extent on the right side; also partial loss of sensation. His articulation became more indistinct and difficult to understand. He seemed to improve somewhat occasionally until about four weeks ago, when his mind became impaired, but he would answer questions correctly occasionally.

During a great portion of his illness to within a few days of his death he was able to take some food and enjoy it. The last week he took almost nothing of any kind of nourishment.

Mr. Mackenzie possessed wonderful vitality, clinging to life as long as it was possible. His life was worn out, a case of pure exhaustion.

WIDESPREAD CONDOLENCES.

Hon. Mr. Mowat received a telegram last night from Sir John Thompson stating the House will be asked to adjourn Tuesday without transacting business as a mark of respect for the memory and public services of Mr. Mackenzie.

Mrs. Mackenzie received a telegram from the aide de camp to the Governor-General stating that "their Excellencies desire to express their sincere sympathy with Mrs. Mackenzie."

Hon. J. C. Patterson also telegraphed Mrs. Mackenzie: "Please accept my sincere condolence. The whole country sympathises with you in your great bereavement."

ST. MARK'S VESTRY.

Receipts and Expenditures for the Current Year.

The annual meeting of the vestry of St. Mark's church, Orangeville, which was held on Easter Monday, the 18th inst., at 3 p. m. in the basement of the church, was fairly attended. Rev. A. Henderson occupied the chair and Mr. W. Hewat acted as vestry clerk. The report of the church wardens was presented by Mr. A. Turner and contained a very satisfactory statement of the financial standing of the congregation. With the exception of a small balance of $29 due to the retiring wardens, and which will be more than paid out of subscriptions due, every liability was met and the church stands entirely free of debt of every description.

The incumbent appointed Mr. Geo. Endscott his warden for the current year in the place of Mr. James May, who retires after three years of faithful service. The congregation unanimously selected Mr. W. R. C. Hewat as their warden, Mr. Turner declining re-election. Fifteen of the active workers were appointed sidesmen and Messrs. R. T. Hunn and W. L. Walsh were re-elected auditors. James May was the choice of the meeting as delegate to the Synod. The special committee appointed at the last meeting to arrange for the building of the tower reported that they had purchased the necessary material and had a small balance on hand towards the cost of erection. They were reappointed with power to devise a scheme to raise the balance necessary to complete the work. It was decided that the next annual meeting should be held at 3 o'clock in the evening instead of in the afternoon as heretofore. The meeting was harmonious and agreeable throughout and all branches of the work of the church were reported to be in excellent condition.

PETER'S OPINIONS.

I am very pleased to see that some combined effort is being made to change the present excuse for a town hall for one more likely to do honor to the town. The firemen, I understand, have petitioned for a change; the citizens are anxious to see a change, and the councillors who undertake to carry the question to a successful issue in the council will deserve the praise of the ratepayers much more than one who spends the time of a council meeting finding fault with the engineer of the waterworks for paying 25 cents for a box of matches when he could have bought matches at 15 cents a box. At the last fire in town the ring of the bell was so weak that the slumbers of one, at least, of the firemen were not in any way disturbed by it. I understand that the council has now the privilege of changing the bell for one more worthy to be, as one paper has said, "a successor of Joe Bannwood." But this privilege will not last forever, and unless acted upon without much delay we will soon be in a position when it will be useless to complain.

The Dufferin lacrosse club has reorganized for the season and the prospects are certainly as bright as they have been for many seasons past. The club is composed of some very fine lacrosse players, and their success, I think, depends almost entirely on themselves. Let the members turn out for practice regularly for the first month or so and start the season as a winning club. If they do this the citizens of the town will soon begin to take an interest in their success. With the interest of the town people behind them, I'm sure the boys will then continue hard practising, and it would not be very surprising if the club would be as successful and the people as enthusiastic as in 1887 when the Dufferins carried off the intermediate championship of Ontario. Get to work, boys, and let the people see that in Orangeville Canada's national game is as popular as ever.

***

What a wonderful change is taking place in the political aspect of our country. Sir John A. Macdonald, for so many years Canada's Premier, has passed away. Sir Hector Langevin is no longer a prominent figure in Canadian party politics. Another takes the place of H. E. Clark as the financial critic on the opposition side of the Ontario Legislature, and now the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, the ex premier of the Dominion, has gone to join the great majority. It is but a matter of a few years by the course of nature, until our present premier must be numbered with the dead, and our Houses of parliament will soon be filled with new representatives, new voices will be heard, new faces seen, and the brains of other men will be at work directing the course of our noble Dominion. May the new hands prove even more successful at the work than the old, and a brilliant future is assured this growing country.

PETER.

A POSTMASTER KICKS!

He Insinuates that the Star Man is a "Blockhead."

To the Editor of THE SUN:

DEAR SIR,—The editor of the Grand Valley Star in last week's editorial got terribly indignant at country postmasters. Now, I think a little information for the benefit of this juvenile editor would perhaps be a benefit to himself and also to his subscribers. As last week's letter took up considerable space which contained nothing interesting, certainly not instructive, but rather billingsgate. Possibly there are some country postmasters who are "Blockheads" as well as some editors of country newspapers. Now, I do not propose to offer a remedy for snob, as that would be a task too hard for me, and life too short for such an undertaking. But I would suggest a remedy for the "Burden of the editor's song," viz.—the undelivery of his papers.

Now, it is not as he suggests: to post his letter up in the office to refer to at any time, as in my opinion the man who would take that for his guide should not be a postmaster, not even an editor, the former being under oath to do his duty. But a communication to the post office inspector, stating his grievances, the offence to which he refers, the nature of the offences, the frequency of them, etc., etc., when the matter will be at once looked up and any irregularity soon found out. I did not think this advice necessary until lately; all editors of papers should know it.

Yours truly,
A. P. M.

MEETINGS TO BE HELD IN MONO

To Discuss the Question—Plenty of Fun Promised.

To the Editor of THE SUN:

SIR,—Many of the ratepayers of Mono seem to think that I should give my views or express my opinion in relation to the $20000 grant by the council of the county of Dufferin to leading roads in the county. A bylaw to borrow said amount for 20 years has been passed a second time and may possibly be defeated on a vote for the third reading. I think the subject is pretty well threshed out already. Mr. Allen and others who have written here, at least to my mind, covered nearly all the ground necessary and explained matters clearly. Now, the fact is I voted against that scheme twice in the county council. My reason for doing so were because our township was just emerging out of a twenty year debenture debt, and I could see no reason for plunging into debt for another twenty years. A number of our ratepayers will remember at the nomination last December I gave it as my opinion that it was better for each township to make its own roads, and the rest of the speakers seemed to be of the same opinion.

When I went to the county council first I saw there was time wasted pulling and hauling for road grants, and yet those grants are only given according to the necessity of the case. One men from Mono might be successful in securing a grant of $200, and another township $500, as the case might be, and so on all over the county. The result would be that the township that would get help to pay $200 would have to give help to pay $500. Under that system it was very hard to have justice done to all municipalities in the county. The result was no grants were given for the last three years except what was allowed by statute.

However, I say to the ratepayers of Mono that I am now and always was in favor of doing just as to the roads in our township and if our council would expend the amount they say they are getting from the county on the leading roads of the township and pay it, say in two years or three, I would be satisfied, but I am opposed to paying interest on money for twenty years when we are able to pay as we go along. But Mr. Snell says we are getting a gift of $1000. Was there any consideration or has Mr. Snell any more work to do? A very unusual thing indeed for a county to confer such a favour on any one of its municipalities, as municipalities have very little sympathy for each other in money matters. Mr. Snell has made that statement without attempting to prove the correctness of it. I think if he would take the trouble to find the amount Mono pays to the county debt he would find his gift would not be quite so large. Mr. Snell frankly admits that if money is not worth 5 per cent. the scheme is all wrong. Now, sir, I do not wish to exaggerate, but I think that the expense incurred in the transaction before it is ended will make it 6 per cent. Now I appeal to the intelligence of the ratepayers of Mono: Is it wise for a municipality to borrow the paltry sum of $4000 (that is what they say they are getting) and pay interest for twenty years when not absolutely necessary? Moreover, I am pleased to hear that my friend, Mr. Snell, is going to act on the advice given by Mr. Erwin to hold a few meetings through the township for the purpose of getting the opinions of the ratepayers. When Mr. Snell calls his meetings it is my intention to attend some of them and perhaps state my views more clearly.

Now, Mr. Editor, I hope you will excuse me for encroaching so much on your valuable space.

Yours truly,
GROSS ISLEP.

WANTS $2000.—Crown Attorney Myers has commenced an action against Robert Corbitt of Melville to recover $2000 damages for slander. It is alleged that Corbitt made remarks to the effect that Mr. Myers would "sell" the defendant, by whom he has been retained, in the Porterfield-Pilcox law suit about a farm. The writ has been served, and it looks as if Mr. Corbitt will have a chance of proving his assertion.

THE DEAD STATESMAN.

EX-PREMIER MACKENZIE is dead. On Easter bright morn his gentle and manly spirit took leave of earth to live elsewhere, and as we go to press to-day all that is mortal of one of Nature's greatest and truest noblemen is being laid in the silent grave. Canada's last ex Premier is no more; his work is done, and the world is richer by his labors and example. THE SUN does not subscribe to the old proverb, "Say nothing evil of the dead," but rather to our motto, "Speak nothing of the living which we would retract of the dead;" and in paying our humble tribute to the deceased statesman we do so with the greatest sincerity. THE SUN has always admired the sturdy independence and true nobility of his character. No knightlond or tinseled title could add to his greatness—he was greatness itself. He may have lacked the arts of the practical politician of the day, but he had that uprightness and firmness of principle which impelled him on the path which to him was right. And on the line of duty, even though friends should forsake him and though he should fall by the wayside, and on his ministerial defeat he was the one man of his once great party who could look back calmly, manfully and in truth say: "In this I have not sinned."

More successful politicans Canada has seen, more eloquent speakers we have had, and still have, but no man of such universal knowledge and grasp of subjects pertaining to our welfare remains inactive life. Mr. Mackenzie was in the truest sense a self made man—the Hugh Miller of the age. With scanty advantages in his youth, by persistent application, he fitted himself for the first position under the crown in the Dominion, the maker of governors, judges and officers of all grades. He himself standing before Her Majesty, the Queen, and the great ones under her, the first citizen of Britain's greatest colony, with honor to himself and credit to all Canadians. What a life to study, what a character to emulate by the youth of the country, a life which ought to be a light and studied by all who may desire to serve their country for their country's good—no chicanery, no intrigue, no meanness.

While THE SUN has not always seen eye to eye with the great deceased on many political questions, it has always admitted and admired the unshakable manner in which he went about his purposes, and the scrupulous manner with which he performed all duties falling in his path of life. He died with a name untarnished and his memory will grow brighter as the bitterness of party strife are forgotten, and in the next generation he will be held up as the man (let us fondly hope not the only one) who did his full duty as a man on all occasions. All honor to such a man and such a name! We would gladly see a national monument erected to him on Parliament Hill, side by side with the one to our great Chieftain, Sir John Macdonald, who on other lines with more success, but not with more honesty of purpose, spent his life in the interest of his adopted country.

To the widow we offer our sincere sympathy in her bereavement, and trust that in declining years her cup of happiness shall be ever overflowing.

---

The Grand Valley Star says THE SUN is doing municipal printing fifty per cent. cheaper than that journal gets for the county printing. Our contemporary, above all other things, should keep silent on this question. Does the editor remember the sneaking manner in which he applied for the Amaranth and East Garafraxa printing at rates twenty per cent. below those of THE SUN? Perhaps every printer in the county has not heard of the sneaking proclivities of this newspaper prodigy.

WHITFIELD.

MOVED.—Mr. Thos Reburn moved his portable saw mill to-day to Lisle where he expects to saw a large number of pine logs.

DEATH.—Miss Lloyd of the Swamp hill, near Primrose, age 17, died on Monday morning at 1 o'clock of rheumatic fever. The young lady suffered fearfully and death, as might be expected from the nature of the disease, was a happy release. The remains were interred on Wednesday at the Whitfield cemetery

WHERE IS HE?—Tommy Dorsey, son of Mr. Thos. Dorsey, left the sugar bush last Thursday night to visit a friend and has not since been found. The family are scouring the country for him, but up to the present writing no trace of him can be found. Tommy is a young man of about 18 or 20 years of age and owing to his peculiar manner of speech will have some difficulty in identifying himself when away amongst strangers.

UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT.—On Saturday morning last old Mrs Ferris, whose age is 93 and who is motherinlaw of Jas. Carson late of the C. P. R., in sitting down missed the chair and fell heavily to the floor, causing a fracture of the thigh bone and displacing the hip joint. The old lady is lying in rather a precarious condition and death may occur at any moment. She is being treated by Dr. Reid of Horning's Mills.

CAMILLA.

BRIGHTENED UP.—The ploughshare is again bright and the plowman's whistle is heard on every field, but yet no seed is sown.

A FAILURE.—Sugar making this year was almost a total failure. The Patrons are getting sugar so cheap that they think it is not worth while bothering with the maple. Ten years ago it was altogether different when sap produced wonders. Alas, what a change!

LITTLE JOTS.—The Camilla Presbyterian Sabbath school has been reorganized for the summer month's..... Fall wheat is swinging in the jaws of death, owing to the cold north winds. Very little fall wheat is sown around here.....News is pretty scarce at present but a boom is looked for in the near future.

IT DIDN'T GO!

An Unsuccessful Attempt to Introduce Secret Voting in the Council.

THE MEETING HOUR CHANGED.

D. McBride Gets the Foremanship of Works by a Casting Vote.

ANNUAL DOG TAX SUPPLY!

Electricity, Storage Batteries and other Things Discussed.

The council met in the council chamber at 7:30 Monday evening. Mayor Lindsey, Reeve Endacott, Deputy reeve Green, Ald. Still, Riddell, Menary, Mason, Bell, West, Gordon and Brown were the members present on this occasion.

An account of J. W. Morrison, $4, was ordered to be paid, and a bill of W. H. Murphy, $5.50, was referred to the F. & W. committee.

GRAVEYARD DELINQUENTS.

Caretaker Franlin of the Town cemetery, per Ald. West, sent in a long list of persons whose dead are buried in the cemetery and who forgot to pay for the plots. Mr. Town Treasurer was instructed to notify the parties that if the money was not forthcoming the bodies would be removed to the potters field.

POSTAGE WASTED.

A Toronto dog tag firm, Toronto and London Sewer Pipe companies, and a London (England) Fire-engine firm were all anxious to supply this town with their wares, but in communicating they only wasted postage.

Mr. Endacott and Mr. Still brought in unimportant reports from the Finance and T. P. committees respectively.

THE BALLOT KNOCKED OUT.

The council went into committee of the whole on the bylaw to appoint a foreman of works with Deputy-reeve Endacott in the chair. In THE SUN of two weeks ago we published the names of those who were desirous of becoming overseer of works.

D. McBride, D. E. Nicholson, Jas. Babe, John Bailey would take the job for $1.50 per day and J. J. Ball was willing to perform the work for $1.40 a day. Ald. Still attacked the open vote system and wanted it changed to the ballot for this particular occasion. Under the open vote, he said the best man might not be chosen. Mayor Lindsey made a rattling good reply and hoped the ballot would never be resorted to in the council. Mr. Endacott agreed with the mayor as did Ald. Gordon, Ald. Bell, Menary and Brown were for the ballot. Mr. Still presented his motion for secrecy and the rules governing the council were looked up. The chairman decided that it would require a two thirds vote to carry the resolution, and when the question was called Messrs. Still, Brown, Menary and Bell held up their hands in favor of it. The motion was snowed under. The mayor then explained the manner of voting. The men proposed for the office were James Babe, proposed by Deputy-reeve Green; Dan McBride, last year's overseer, proposed by Ald. Menary, and J. J. Ball was Mayor Lindsey's choice. Referring to the late foreman, Mr. L. said he did not do the work satisfactorily and there had been many complaints. Bell wanted the mayor to specify, but the latter replied that he did not like to refer to the matter. However, he said people complained that Foreman McBride kept too large a staff while doing a small job.

The first named received 3 votes. Mr. McBride received 5 and Reeve Endacott gave the casting vote in his favor, and declared Dan duly elected. Last year McBride was chosen by ex Ald. Gillespie's casting vote. And thus the great question is settled.

MORE LIGHT WANTED.

Mr. Endacott inquired when the town hall and council chamber would be better lighted. Mr. Green said the Electric Light Co. informed the S. L. committee that the matter would be attended to shortly.

M. I. DELEGATES.

A delegation from the Mechanics' Institute consisting of Messrs W. Hewat, Alex. Johnston and R. E. Denison waited upon the council regarding the town grant to that institution. Mr. Hewat addressed the council at some length referring to the good work being done by the free reading room, and hoped the council would increase the annual grant. On motion of Mr. Endacott, seconded by Mr. Green, the annual $50 grant was voted to them.

EIGHT O'CLOCK.

Reeve Endacott moved that during the summer months, from May, 1st to Oct. 1st, the council meet at 8 o'clock instead of 7:30 as at present. Mr. Still moved in amendment that the meeting hour remain as it is. The reeve's motion carried.

Ald. West moved that the mayor, Ald. Gordon and the mover be a committee to inquire in H. Haley's claim for damages and report the to council. Carried.

The usual supply of dog tags has been ordered for the year.

BOWLING GREEN.

IT'S DIPHTHERIA NOW.—The Bowling Green school has to be closed owing to the diphtheria plague. We hope soon to see the country free from disease.

WOOD BEE.—On Tuesday of last week Mr. John Hinton had a very successful wood bee. In the evening a number of young ladies came along, accompanied by a violinist, and a very happy time was spent till late next morning.

TAFFY SUCK.—Last Friday evening a party of married folks assembled at the residence of Mr. J. Whaley for the purpose of spending the evening and eating the sweet that flows from the maple. After they had devoured the good stuff it stirred the sap in their legs and toes and they had to trip around the room for a few minutes. When will the young folks' annual taffy be made? Next week, I suppose.

BRIEFS.—Master Thos. Durkin, son of Mr. Frank Durkin, is very low at present from the effects of diphtheria, but we hope to see Tom around all right again.....Seeding has commenced around here in earnest.....Gossip has it that there will soon be a wedding over on the 7th. Hustle up and give us something to talk about.....Gossippers, blowers and a few notorious story tellers are in this vicinity, but we did not see it in the paper.....More anon.

THE END CAME!

Hon. Alex. Mackenzie Rendered with the Dead,

NOT LONG AFTER SIR JOHN!

A Stonemason's Apprentice Rises to be Premier of Canada.

The end came at last. The period of hoping against hope dissed in the opening hour of the glad Easter morn. At 12.40 a. m. Sunday Hon. Alexander Mackenzie breathed his last. The daily bulletins had foreshadowed dissolution, but it was only after a protracted struggle that the weary spirit found release.

Mr. Mackenzie, like so many of our prominent men, was a Scotchman, born at Logierait, near the famous Pass of Killiecrankie, January 28, 1822. He had then completed the allotted three score and ten when summoned home. His father was in the middle walks of life, of a strong Whig family, and the future Premier got the usual schooling of a middle-class Scotch boy; some five years in all. When he was 14, his father died, and he set to work, as a stonemason's apprentice. When he was 20 he emigrated to Canada and settled in Kingston, working at his trade and taking a keen interest in politics. The late Sir John A. Macdonald and the Hon. O. Mowat were also in Kingston at the same time. In 1847 Mr. Mackenzie, together with his brother, Hope F. Mackenzie, moved to the neighborhood of Sarnia. For a time he continued in his business as a builder and contractor; then his interest in politics found a vent and in 1852 he was editing The Lambton Shield in the Liberal interest. His editorial work soon attracted attention, and in 1831 he succeeded his brother, Hope F. Mackenzie, as M. P., for Lambton. Once in Parliament, his powers of debate and acquaintance with politics present and past placed him in the forefront, and he was a prominent supporter of the Sandfield Macdonald-Sicotte and the Macdonald-Dorion ministries. That ministry having fallen, he was a supporter of Confederation. After Confederation he became leader of the Liberals in lieu of the Hon. George Brown, who had been defeated in South Ontario, and in 1873, in consequence of the Pacific Scandal, came to office.

From thence to 1878 Mr. Mackenzie was premier, and distinguished himself by the great amount of practical work he accomplished; among the acts passed by his Ministry may be mentioned the General Election Law, the Controverted Elections Act, the Postal Act, the General Insurance Act, the Independence of Parliament Act, the Public Accounts Audit Act, the Canada Temperance Act, the Homestead Exemption Act, the Acts relating to the Extradition of Criminals, the Canadian Pacific Act, etc.

In 1878 Mr. Mackenzie's Government was overthrown on the tariff question, and he became once more leader of the Opposition, until April, 1880, when his party deposed him for Mr. Blake. In 1882 he gave up his old constituency of Lambton and was elected for East York, of which he was the member up to his death.

Mr. Mackenzie was married twice, his first wife being Miss Helen Neil of Irvine, Scotland. She died in 1852, and in 1853 he married Miss Jane Sym, who still survives him. By his first wife he had one daughter, who is married to the Rev. John Thompson, Presbyterian minister of Sarnia.

A HISTORY OF HIS ILLNESS.

In April, 1879, shortly after the change of leadership took place, the first symptoms of disease made their appearance in a partial loss of speech, followed by loss of power in the left side. These symptoms did not improve, but rather steadily advanced, the infirmity of speech increasing in its severity. Mr. Mackenzie, however, was able to attend parliament and to his other duties until Feb. 2, 1892. When about to enter his carriage to go to his office he fell and was carried into the house, when it was found that the loss of power and motion was complete on the left side, and to a lesser extent on the right side; also partial loss of sensation. His articulation became more indistinct and difficult to understand. He seemed to improve somewhat occasionally until about four weeks ago, when his mind became impaired, but he would answer questions correctly occasionally.

During a great portion of his illness to within a few days of his death he was able to take some food and enjoy it. The last week he took almost nothing of any kind of nourishment.

Mr. Mackenzie possessed wonderful vitality, clinging to life as long as it was possible. His life was worn out, a case of pure exhaustion.

WIDESPREAD CONDOLENCES.

Hon. Mr. Mowat received a telegram last night from Sir John Thompson stating the House will be asked to adjourn Tuesday without transacting business as a mark of respect for the memory and public services of Mr. Mackenzie.

Mrs. Mackenzie received a telegram from the aide de camp to the Governor-General stating that "their Excellencies desire to express their sincere sympathy with Mrs. Mackenzie."

Hon. J. C. Patterson also telegraphed Mrs. Mackenzie: "Please accept my sincere condolence. The whole country sympathizes with you in your great bereavement."

AROUND US.

Mr. Wm. Marshall has sold his bay mare to Mr. John Darragh of Adjala.

Mr. D. Trimble will be at Cashleston on Friday (to morrow) to purchase a carload of horses.

ST. MARK'S VESTRY.

Annual Election of Wardens for the Current Year.

The annual meeting of the vestry of St. Mark's church, Orangeville, which was held on Easter Monday, the 18th inst., at 3 p. m. in the basement of the church, was fairly attended. Rev. A. Henderson occupied the chair and Mr. W. Hewat acted as vestry clerk. The report of the church wardens was presented by Mr. A. Turner and contained a very satisfactory statement of the financial standing of the congregation. With the exception of a small balance of $20 due to the retiring wardens, and which will be more than paid out of subscriptions due, every liability was met and the church stands entirely free of debt of every description.

The incumbent appointed Mr. Geo. Endacott his warden for the current year in the place of Mr. James May, who retires after three years of faithful service. The congregation unanimously elected Mr. W. R. C. Hewat as their warden, Mr. Turner declining re-election. Fifteen of the active workers were appointed sidesmen and Messrs. E. T. Hess and W. L. Walsh were re-elected auditors. James May was the choice of the meeting as delegate to the Synod. The special committee appointed at the last meeting to arrange for the building of the tower reported that they had purchased the necessary material and had a small balance on hand towards the cost of erection. They were reappointed with power to devise a scheme to raise the balance necessary to complete the work. It was decided that the next annual meeting should be held at 8 o'clock in the evening instead of in the afternoon as heretofore. The meeting was harmonious and agreeable throughout and all branches of the work of the church were reported to be in excellent condition.

PETER'S OPINIONS.

I am very pleased to see that some combined effort is being made to change the present excuse for a town hall for one more likely to do honor to the town. The firemen, I understand, have petitioned for a change; the citizens are anxious to see a change, and the council are who undertake to carry the question to a successful issue in the council will deserve the praise of the ratepayers much more than one who spends the time of a council meeting finding fault with the engineer of the waterworks for paying 25 cents for a box of matches when he could have bought matches at 15 cents a box. At the last fire in town the ring of the bell was so weak that the slumbers of one, at least, of the firemen were not in any way disturbed by it. I understand that the council has now the privilege of changing the bell for one more worthy to be, as one paper has said, "a successor of Joe Bazawood." But this privilege will not last forever, and unless acted upon without much delay we will soon be in a position when it will be useless to complain.

The Dufferin lacrosse club has reorganized for the season and the prospects are certainly as bright as they have been for many seasons past. The club is composed of some very fine lacrosse players, and their success, I think, depends almost entirely on themselves. Let the members turn out for practise regularly for the first month or so and start the season as a winning club. If they do this the citizens of the town will soon begin to take an interest in their success. With the interest of the towns people behind them, I'm sure the boys will then continue hard practising, and it would not be very surprising if the club would be as successful and the people as enthusiastic as in 1887 when the Dufferins carried off the intermediate championship of Ontario. Get to work, boys, and let the people see that in Orangeville Canada's national game is as popular as ever.

What a wonderful change is taking place in the political aspect of our country. Sir John A. Macdonald, for so many years Canada's Premier, has passed away. Sir Hector Langevin is no longer a prominent figure in Canadian party politics. Another takes the place of H. E. Clark as the financial critic on the opposition side of the Ontario Legislature, and now the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, the ex premier of the Dominion, has gone to join the great majority. It is but a matter of a few years by the course of nature, until our present premier must be numbered with the dead, and our Houses of parliament will soon be filled with new representatives, new voices will be heard, new faces seen, and the brains of other men will be at work directing the course of our noble Dominion. May the new hands prove even more successful at the work than the old, and a brilliant future is assured this growing country.

A POSTMASTER KICKS!

He Insinuates that the Star Man is a "Blockhead."

To the Editor of THE SUN:

DEAR SIR,—The editor of the Grand Valley Star in last week's editorial got terribly indignant at country postmasters. Now, I think a little information for the benefit of this juvenile editor would perhaps be a benefit to himself and also to his subscribers. As last week's letter took up considerable space which contained nothing interesting, certainly not instructive, but rather billingsgate. Possibly there are some country postmasters who are "blockheads" as well as some editors of country newspapers. Now, I do not propose to offer a remedy for such, as that would be a task too hard for me, and life too short for such an undertaking. But I would suggest a remedy for the "Burden of the editor's song," viz.—the undelivery of his papers.

Now, it is not as he suggests: to post his letter up in the office to refer to at any time, as in my opinion the man who would take that for his guide should not be a postmaster, not even an editor, the former being under oath to do his duty. But a communication to the post office inspector, stating his grievances, the officers to which he refers, the nature of the offences, the frequency of them, etc., etc., when the matter will be at once looked up and any irregularity soon found out. I did not think this advice necessary until lately; all editors of papers should know it.

Yours truly,
A. P. M.

He Has His Say in the $20,000 Road Improvement Scheme.

MEETINGS TO BE HELD IN TOWN

To Discuss the Question—Plenty of Pull Promised.

To the Editor of THE SUN:

SIR,—Many of the ratepayers of Mono seem to think that I should give my views for citizens my opinion in relation to the $20,000 grant by the council of the county of Dufferin to leading roads in the county. A bylaw to borrow said amount for 20 years has been read a second time and may possibly be defeated on a vote for the third reading. I think the subject is pretty well threshed out already. Mr. Allen and others who have written have, at least to my mind, covered nearly all the ground necessary and explained matters clearly. Now, the first is I voted against that scheme when in the county council. My reasons for doing so were because our township was just emerging out of a twenty year debentures debt, and I could see no reason for ploughing into debt for another twenty years. A number of our ratepayers will remember at the nomination last December I gave it as my opinion that it was better for each township to make its own roads, and the rest of the speakers seemed to be of the same opinion.

When I went to the county council first I saw there was time wasted polling and hoeing for road grants, and you know grants are only given according to the necessity of the case. Our men from Mono might be successful in securing a grant of $300, and another township $500, as the case might be, and so on all over the county. The result would be that the township that would get help to pay $300 would have to give help to pay $500. Under that system it was very hard to have justice done to all municipalities in the the county. The result was no grants were given for the last three years except what was allowed by statute.

However, I say to the ratepayers of Mono that I am now and always was in favor of doing just too to the roads in our township and if our council would expend the amount they say they are getting from the county on the leading roads of the township and pay it, say in two years or three, I would be satisfied, but I am opposed to paying interest on money for twenty years when we are able to pay as we go along. But Mr. Snell says we are getting a gift of $1000. Was there any consideration has Mr. Snell any more work to do? A very unusual thing indeed for a county to confer such a favour on any one of its municipalities, as municipalities have very little sympathy for each other in money matters. Mr. Snell has made that statement without attempting to prove the correctness of it. I think if he would take the trouble to find the amount Mono pays to the county debt he would find his gift would not be quite so large. Mr. Snell frankly admits that if money is not worth 5 per cent. the scheme is all wrong. Now, sir, I do not wish to exaggerate, but I think that the expense incurred in the transaction before it is ended will make it 5 per cent. Now I appeal to the intelligence of the ratepayers of Mono: Is it wise for a municipality to borrow the paltry sum of $4000 (that is what they say they are getting) and pay interest for twenty years when not absolutely necessary? Moreover, I am pleased to hear that my friend, Mr. Snell, is going to act on the advice given by Mr. Ewin to hold a few meetings through the township for the purpose of getting the opinions of the ratepayers. When Mr. Snell calls his meetings it is my intention to attend some of them and perhaps state my views more clearly.

Now, Mr. Editor, I hope you will excuse me for encroaching so much on your valuable space,

Yours truly,
GEORGE ISLAND.

and the world is richer by his labors and example. THE SUN does not subscribe to the old proverb, "Say nothing evil of the dead," but rather to say mottu, "Speak nothing of him living which we would retract of the dead;" and in paying our humble tribute to the deceased statesman we do so with the greatest sincerity. THE SUN has always admired the sturdy independence and true nobility of his character. No knighthood or titmled title could add to his greatness—he was greatness itself. He may have lacked the arts of the practical politician of the day, but he had that uprightness and firmness of principle which impelled him on the path which to him was right. And on the line of duty, even though friends should forsake him and though he should fall by the wayside, and on his ministerial defeat he was the one man of his once great party who could look back calmly, manfully and in truth say: "In this I have not sinned."

More successful politicans Canada has seen, more eloquent speakers we have had, and still have, but no man of such universal knowledge and grasp of subjects pertaining to our welfare remains in active life. Mr. Mackenzie was in the truest sense a self made man—the Hugh Miller of the age. With scanty advantages in his youth, by persistent application, he fitted himself for the first position under the crown in the Dominion, the maker of governors, judges and officers of all grades. He himself standing before Her Majesty, the Queen, and the great ones under her, the first citizen of Britain's greatest colony, with honor to himself and credit to all Canadians. What a life to study, what a character to emulate by the youth of the country, a life which ought to be a light and studied by all who may desire to serve their country for their country's good—no chicanery, no intrigue, no meanness.

While THE SUN has not always seen eye to eye with the great deceased on many political questions, it has always admitted and admired the unshakable manner in which he went about his purposes, and the scrupulous manner with which he performed all duties falling in his path of life. He died with a name untarnished and his memory will grow brighter as the bitterness of party strife are forgotten, and to the next generation he will be held up as the man (let us fondly hope not the only one) who did his full duty as a man on all occasions. All honor to such a man and such a name! We would gladly see a national monument erected to him on Parliament Hill, side by side with the one to our great Chieftain, Sir John Macdonald, who on other lines with more success, but not with more honesty of purpose, spent his life in the interest of his adopted country.

To the widow we offer our sincere sympathy in her bereavement, and trust that in declining years her cup of happiness shall be ever overflowing.

The Grand Valley Star says THE SUN is doing municipal printing fifty per cent. cheaper than that journal gets for the county printing. Our contemporary, above all other things, should keep silent on this question. Does the editor remember the sneaking manner in which he applied for the Amaranth and East Garafraxa printing at rates twenty per cent. below those of THE SUN? Perhaps every printer in the county has not heard of the sneaking proclivities of this newspaper prodigy.

MOVED.—Mr. Thos Reburn moved his portable saw mill to-day to Lisle where he expects to saw a large number of pine logs.

DEATH.—Miss Lloyd of the Swamp hill, near Primrose, age 17, died on Monday morning at 1 o'clock of rheumatic fever. The young lady suffered fearfully and death, as might be expected from the nature of the disease, was a happy release. The remains were interred on Wednesday at the Whitfield cemetery

WHAT IS HE?—Tommy Dorsey, son of Mr. Thos. Dorsey, left the sugar bush last Thursday night to visit a friend and has not since been found. The family are scouring the country for him, but up to the present writing no trace of him can be found. Tommy is a young man of about 18 or 20 years of age and owing to his peculiar manner of speech will have some difficulty in identifying himself when away amongst strangers.

UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT.—On Saturday morning last old Mrs Ferris, whose age is 93 and who is motherinlaw of Jas. Carson late of the C P R, in sitting down missed the chair and fell heavily to the floor, causing a fracture of the thigh bone and displacing the hip joint. The old lady is lying in rather a precarious condition and death may occur at any moment. She is being treated by Dr. Reid of Horning's Mills.

CAMILLA.

A FAILURE.—Sugar making this year was almost a total failure. The Patrons are getting sugar so cheap that they think it is not worth while bothering with the maple. Ten years ago it was altogether different when sap produced wonders. Alas, what a change!

Very little fall wheat is sown around here.....News is pretty scarce at present but a boom is looked for in the near future.

Other Things Discussed.

The council met in the council chamber at 7:30 Monday evening. Mayor Lindsay, Reeve Endacott, Deputy reeve Green, Ald. Still, Riddell, Menary, Mann, Bell, West, Gordon and Brown were the members present on this occasion.

An account of J. W. Morrison, $1, was ordered to be paid, and a bill of W. H. Murphy, $5.60, was referred to the F. & W. committee.

GRAVEYARD DELINQUENTS.

Caretaker Fennile of the Town cemetery, per Ald. West, sent in a long list of persons whose dead are buried in the cemetery and who forgot to pay for the plots. Mr. Town Treasurer was instructed to notify the parties that if the money was not forthcoming the bodies would be removed to the potters field.

POSTAGE WASTED.

A Toronto dog tag firm, Toronto and London Sewer Pipe companies, and a London (England) Fire-engine firm were all anxious to supply this town with their wares, but is communicating they only wasted postage.

Mr. Endacott and Mr. Still brought in unimportant reports from the Finance and T. P. committees respectively.

THE BALLOT KNOCKED OUT.

The council went into committee of the whole on the bylaw to appoint a foreman of works with Deputy-reeve Endacott in the chair. In THE SUN of two weeks ago we published the names of those who were desirous of becoming overseer of works.

D. McBride, D. E. Nicholson, Jas. Babe, John Bailey would take the job for $1.50 per day and J. J. Hall was willing to perform the work for $1.40 a day. Ald. Still attacked the open vote system and wanted it changed to the ballot for this particular occasion. Under the open vote, he said the best man might not be chosen. Mayor Lindsay made a rattling good reply and hoped the ballot would never be resorted to in the council. Mr. Endacott agreed with the mayor as did Ald. Gordon, Ald. Bell, Menary and Brown were for the ballot. Mr. Still presented his motion for secrecy and the rules governing the council were looked up. The chairman decided that it would require a two thirds vote to carry the resolution, and when the question was called Messrs. Still, Brown, Menary and Bell held up their hands in favor of it. The motion was snowed under. The mayor then explained the manner of voting. The men proposed for the office were James Babe, proposed by Deputy-reeve Green; Dan McBride, last year's overseer, proposed by Ald. Menary, and J. J. Hall was Mayor Lindsey's choice. Referring to the late foreman, Mr. L. said he did not do the work satisfactorily and there had been many complaints. Bell wanted the mayor to specify, but the latter replied that he did not like to refer to the matter. However, he said people complained that Foreman McBride kept too large a staff while doing a small job.

The first named received 3 votes. Mr. McBride received 5 and Reeve Endacott gave the casting vote in his favor, and declared Dan duly elected. Last year McBride was chosen by ex Ald. Gillespie's casting vote. And thus the great question is settled.

MORE LIGHT WANTED.

Mr. Endacott inquired when the town hall and council chamber would be better lighted. Mr. Green said the Electric Light Co. informed the S. L. committee that the matter would be attended to shortly.

M. I. DELEGATES.

A delegation from the Mechanics' Institute consisting of Messrs W. Howat, Alex. Johnston and R. E. Denison waited upon the council regarding the town grant to that institution. Mr. Howat addressed the council at some length referring to the good work being done by the free reading room, and hoped the council would increase the annual grant. On motion of Mr. Endacott, seconded by Mr. Green, the annual $50 grant was voted to them.

EIGHT O'CLOCK.

Reeve Endacott moved that during the summer months, from May 1st to Oct. 1st, the council meet at 8 o'clock instead of 7:30 as at present. Mr. Still moved in amendment that the meeting hour remain as it is. The reeve's motion carried.

Ald. West moved that the mayor, Ald. Gordon and the mover be a committee to inquire in H. Haley's claim for damages and report the to council. Carried.

The usual supply of dog tags has been ordered for the year.

BOWLING GREEN.

IT'S DIPHTHERIA NOW.—The Bowling Green school has to be closed owing to the diphtheria plague. We hope soon to see the country free from disease.

WOOD BEE.—On Tuesday of last week Mr. John Hinton had a very successful wood bee. In the evening a number of young ladies came along, accompanied by a violinist, and a very happy time was spent till late next morning.

TAFFY SUCK.—Last Friday evening a party of married folks assembled at the residence of Mr. J. Whaley for the purpose of spending the evening and eating the sweet that flows from the maple. After they had devoured the good stuff it stirred the sap in their legs and toes and they had to trip around the room for a few minutes. When will the young folks' annual taffy be made? Next week, I suppose.

HURRS.—Master Thos. Durkin, son of Mr. Frank Durkin, is very low at present from the effects of diphtheria, but we hope to see Tom around all right again.....Seeding has commenced around here in earnest.....Gossip has it that there will soon be a wedding over on the 7th. Hustle up and give us something to talk about.....Gum slippers, blowers and a few nefarious story tellers are in this vicinity, but we did not see it in the paper.....More anon.

A HISTORY OF HIS ILLNESS.

In April, 1879, shortly after the change of leadership took place, the first symptoms of disease made their appearance in a partial loss of speech, followed by loss of power in the left side. These symptoms did not improve, but rather steadily advanced, the infirmity of speech increasing in its severity. Mr. Mackenzie, however, was able to attend parliament and to his other duties until Feb. 2, 1892. When about to enter his carriage to go to his office he fell and was carried into the house, when it was found that the loss of power and motion was complete on the left side, and to a lesser extent on the right side; also partial loss of sensation. His articulation became more indistinct and difficult to understand. He seemed to improve somewhat occasionally until about four weeks ago, when his mind became impaired, but he would answer questions correctly occasionally.

During a great portion of his illness to within a few days of his death he was able to take some food and enjoy it. The last week he took almost nothing of any kind of nourishment.

Mr. Mackenzie possessed wonderful vitality, clinging to life as long as it was possible. His life was worn out, a case of pure exhaustion.

WIDESPREAD CONDOLENCES.

Hon. Mr. Mowat received a telegram last night from Sir John Thompson stating the House will be asked to adjourn Tuesday without transacting business as a mark of respect for the memory and public services of Mr. Mackenzie.

Mrs. Mackenzie received a telegram from the aide de camp to the Governor-General stating that "their Excellencies desire to express their sincere sympathy with Mrs. Mackenzie."

Hon. J. C. Patterson also telegraphed Mrs. Mackenzie: "Please accept my sincere condolence. The whole country sympathizes with you in your great bereavement."

The Council Met

The council met in the council chamber at 7:30 Monday evening. Mayor Lindsay, Reeve Endacott, Deputy reeve Green, Ald. Still, Riddell, Menary, Mann, Bell, West, Gordon and Brown were the members present on this occasion.

An account of J. W. Morrison, $1, was ordered to be paid, and a bill of W. H. Murphy, $5.60, was referred to the F. & W. committee.

GRAVEYARD DELINQUENTS.

Caretaker Fennile of the Town cemetery, per Ald. West, sent in a long list of persons whose dead are buried in the cemetery and who forgot to pay for the plots. Mr. Town Treasurer was instructed to notify the parties that if the money was not forthcoming the bodies would be removed to the potters field.

POSTAGE WASTED.

A Toronto dog tag firm, Toronto and London Sewer Pipe companies, and a London (England) Fire-engine firm were all anxious to supply this town with their wares, but is communicating they only wasted postage.

Mr. Endacott and Mr. Still brought in unimportant reports from the Finance and T. P. committees respectively.

THE BALLOT KNOCKED OUT.

The council went into committee of the whole on the bylaw to appoint a foreman of works with Deputy-reeve Endacott in the chair. In THE SUN of two weeks ago we published the names of those who were desirous of becoming overseer of works.

D. McBride, D. E. Nicholson, Jas. Babe, John Bailey would take the job for $1.50 per day and J. J. Hall was willing to perform the work for $1.40 a day. Ald. Still attacked the open vote system and wanted it changed to the ballot for this particular occasion. Under the open vote, he said the best man might not be chosen. Mayor Lindsay made a rattling good reply and hoped the ballot would never be resorted to in the council. Mr. Endacott agreed with the mayor as did Ald. Gordon, Ald. Bell, Menary and Brown were for the ballot. Mr. Still presented his motion for secrecy and the rules governing the council were looked up. The chairman decided that it would require a two thirds vote to carry the resolution, and when the question was called Messrs. Still, Brown, Menary and Bell held up their hands in favor of it. The motion was snowed under. The mayor then explained the manner of voting. The men proposed for the office were James Babe, proposed by Deputy-reeve Green; Dan McBride, last year's overseer, proposed by Ald. Menary, and J. J. Hall was Mayor Lindsey's choice. Referring to the late foreman, Mr. L. said he did not do the work satisfactorily and there had been many complaints. Bell wanted the mayor to specify, but the latter replied that he did not like to refer to the matter. However, he said people complained that Foreman McBride kept too large a staff while doing a small job.

The first named received 3 votes. Mr. McBride received 5 and Reeve Endacott gave the casting vote in his favor, and declared Dan duly elected. Last year McBride was chosen by ex Ald. Gillespie's casting vote. And thus the great question is settled.

MORE LIGHT WANTED.

Mr. Endacott inquired when the town hall and council chamber would be better lighted. Mr. Green said the Electric Light Co. informed the S. L. committee that the matter would be attended to shortly.

M. I. DELEGATES.

A delegation from the Mechanics' Institute consisting of Messrs W. Howat, Alex. Johnston and R. E. Denison waited upon the council regarding the town grant to that institution. Mr. Howat addressed the council at some length referring to the good work being done by the free reading room, and hoped the council would increase the annual grant. On motion of Mr. Endacott, seconded by Mr. Green, the annual $50 grant was voted to them.

EIGHT O'CLOCK.

Reeve Endacott moved that during the summer months, from May 1st to Oct. 1st, the council meet at 8 o'clock instead of 7:30 as at present. Mr. Still moved in amendment that the meeting hour remain as it is. The reeve's motion carried.

Ald. West moved that the mayor, Ald. Gordon and the mover be a committee to inquire in H. Haley's claim for damages and report the to council. Carried.

The usual supply of dog tags has been ordered for the year.

Cricket Notes.

The Dufferin lacrosse club has reorganized for the season and the prospects are certainly as bright as they have been for many seasons past. The club is composed of some very fine lacrosse players, and their success, I think, depends almost entirely on themselves. Let the members turn out for practise regularly for the first month or so and start the season as a winning club. If they do this the citizens of the town will soon begin to take an interest in their success. With the interest of the towns people behind them, I'm sure the boys will then continue hard practising, and it would not be very surprising if the club would be as successful and the people as enthusiastic as in 1887 when the Dufferins carried off the intermediate championship of Ontario. Get to work, boys, and let the people see that in Orangeville Canada's national game is as popular as ever.

* * *

What a wonderful change is taking place in the political aspect of our country. Sir John A. Macdonald, for so many years Canada's Premier, has passed away. Sir Hector Langevin is no longer a prominent figure in Canadian party politics. Another takes the place of H. E. Clark as the financial critic on the opposition side of the Ontario Legislature, and now the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, the ex premier of the Dominion, has gone to join the great majority. It is but a matter of a few years by the course of nature, until our present premier must be numbered with the dead, and our Houses of parliament will soon be filled with new representatives, new voices will be heard, new faces seen, and the brains of other men will be at work directing the course of our noble Dominion. May the new hands prove even more successful at the work than the old, and a brilliant future is assured this growing country.

A POSTMASTER KICKS!

He Insinuates that the Star Man is a "Blockhead."

To the Editor of THE SUN:

DEAR SIR,—The editor of the Grand Valley Star in last week's editorial got terribly indignant at country postmasters. Now, I think a little information for the benefit of this juvenile editor would perhaps be a benefit to himself and also to his subscribers. As last week's letter took up considerable space which contained nothing interesting, certainly not instructive, but rather billingsgate. Possibly there are some country postmasters who are "Blockheads" as well as some editors of country newspapers. Now, I do not propose to offer a remedy for such, as that would be a task too hard for me, and life too short for such an undertaking. But I would suggest a remedy for the "Burden of the editor's song," viz.—the undelivery of his papers.

Now, it is not as he suggests: to post his letter up in the office to refer to at any time, as in my opinion the man who would take that for his guide should not be a postmaster, not even an editor, the former being under oath to do his duty. But a communication to the post office inspector, stating his grievances, the officers to which he refers, the nature of the offences, the frequency of them, etc., etc., when the matter will be at once looked up and any irregularity soon found out. I did not think this advice necessary until lately; all editors of papers should know it.

Yours truly,
A. P. M.

ANOTHER CONCERT.—A concert to be held in the town hall on the evening of May 24th, Her Majesty's birthday, is being talked of. The proceeds to help to defray the expenses in the erection of St. Mark's church tower.

FINE TEAM.—Mr. S. Hammill, of Beverly, now drives a spanking team of piebald horses. He purchased them last week in the neighborhood of Orangeville, paying a good figure for them.—Galt Reporter.

DOGS KILL SHEEP.—Our Melville correspondence, which appears in another column, reports the killing of a number of sheep belonging to Mr. Robt. Corbitt of that place. One of the three dogs that worried the sheep is said to be owned in Orangeville.

WANTS $2000.—Crown Attorney Myers has commenced an action against Robert Corbitt of Melville to recover $2000 damages for slander. It is alleged that Corbitt made remarks to the effect that Mr. Myers would "sell" the defendant, by whom he has been retained, in the Porterfield-Fines law suit about a farm. The writ has been served, and it looks as if Mr. Corbitt will have a chance of proving his assertion.

GOING TO OTTAWA.—A number of the friends of Mrs. Carson, First church, congregated at her residence on Tuesday evening and presented her with a handsome set of dishes and a well filled purse, previous to her removal to Ottawa. A very enjoyable evening was spent by those present.

ANNUAL VISIT.—The children of St. Mark's Sabbath school paid their annual visit to the jail on Easter Sunday afternoon and gladdened the hearts of the unfortunate men and women confined therein. Hymns were sung and "goodies" were distributed among them.

GOOD SALARY.—Bandmaster Ketchum of the Citizens' band has been engaged by the Mt. Forest band committee as leader of their band at a salary of $300 per year. Mr. Ketchum's engagement with Mt. Forest, however, will not interfere with his connection with our band.

AN EXCITING EVENT.—The street watering cart, under the superintendence of Jimmy Graham, made its first appearance on Broadway last Thursday. Mr. Graham should receive more pay this year than heretofore, as the salary at present is altogether too small. We hope to see the council make the necessary increase.

YOUNG DIAMONDS.—The Young Diamond baseball club, a crack juvenile aggregation, has reorganized for the season of '92, and the following officers have been elected: Crown Attorney Myers, honorary-president; E. Shaver, president; N. Wright, captain; H. McCormack, secretary; W. Monkman, treasurer; E. Clark, L. McCarthy, K. McKay, committee.

EXCELLENT MUSIC.—Last evening the Citizens' band gave their first open-air concert of the season, and it is quite evident that the boys have been practicing hard for many weeks. Everybody was delighted with the music and we can truthfully say that the present band is the best musical organization Orangeville has ever had and reflects great credit on Bandmaster Ketchum.

MARRIED AT DEMING CITY.—On Monday, the 11 inst., Miss Mary Mercer, daughter of Mr. T. L. Mercer of this town, and Mr. Arthur E. Dawson of Silver City, New Mexico, U.S., were united in marriage at Deming City, N. M., Rev. Mr. Wright of the latter place officiating. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left for Silver City, where they will reside. Although they are far away THE SUN joins in wishing the bride and bridegroom a long and happy life.

NIGHTHAWKS.—On two different occasions last week several drunks forced their way into Aiken Bros.' tannery, Little York street, in the silent hours of the night, evidently for the purpose of banqueting a boon companion. Empty whiskey and beer bottles, burnt matches and general disorder were left as relics of their visit. The leech house was also entered and the tannery employes thought that one of the drunks might have fallen in the vats of scalding liquor. Although an investigation took place, nothing was found in the vats.

A STRUGGLE FOR LIFE.—On Saturday last Mr Thomas Kennedy of this town had an experience which he will never forget. He was leading a bull to the stable, and had just entered the building when the rope attached to the ring broke. The vicious animal breathing the air of liberty, charged on the unfortunate man, who was unable to escape in time. He was thrown violently to the ground, but after falling managed to grasp the ring in the bull's nose, to which he clung for over two hours during which time he was under the infuriated beast. It was a close call for life and since he was rescued from his perilous position he has been confined to his room. Although badly bruised and generally shaken up, no permanent injury is apprehended.—Owen Sound Sun.

FIZZLED OUT.—Several days ago mysterious looking posters announced that a concert would be held in the town hall on Tuesday evening, the 19th, just two days before the Sons of England entertainment. The evening came and the performers were patiently waiting for the crowd to materialize, but the people that they wanted never came. At twenty five minutes to 9 only eight persons, the majority of whom were "favored" with complimentary tickets, occupied a portion of the hall, the remainder of which was filled with the atmosphere. Five minutes later the hall was deserted and in total darkness. Very few of our citizens were aware that an entertainment was advertised to take place, and those who did looked upon it as in opposition to the S. O. E. If those who were to take part in the concert were misled by two or three Orangevillains they have our sympathy. Insufficiency of advertising has frequently brought grief to excellent theatrical companies, and no doubt that was partly the cause of the slimmy slim attendance at the concert that did not take place on Tuesday evening. No announcement of the affair appeared in THE SUN, and you cannot reach its readers by using other journals.

PRESENTATION.

At the presentation to Mrs. Carson on Tuesday evening Miss Minnie Leighton read the following address:

To Mrs Carson.—Dear Friend, it is with regret we assemble here to night to bid you farewell. You, as a citizen, are a credit to Orangeville and a neighbor whom many are sorry to lose. You have been a friend to both rich and poor. How often have you stood by the bedside of the dying and received their last look of love and thankfulness for your kind attendance. Charity has indeed placed a wreath on the brow of her faithful servant for we are sure there are homes in Orangeville to-day which shall, in times of trouble and sickness, miss your helping hand. You are a woman, whose path we think many would do well to follow. We wish you the greatest happiness in your future home and hope that before long you will be with us again. Now, we beg that you will accept our humble present in token of our esteem and remembrance.

Signed on behalf of Orangeville friends.

To which Mrs. Carson made the following reply:

Dear Friends,—I do not feel that I am worthy of the respect which you have shown me by the presentation of such valuable presents, but I hope you will accept my humble thanks and I am sure I never will forget your kindness.

Mr. J. E. Humphrey, 46 Bond Street Toronto, says Burdock Blood Bitters wrought a complete cure of dyspepsia in his case after all else had failed.

LOSES A LEG!

Brakeman Pinkerton Falls Between the Cars at Arthur

AND MIRACULOUSLY ESCAPES DEATH.

His Right Leg so Badly Crushed that Amputation Was Necessary.

A very sad accident occurred at Arthur G. T. R. station at 11 o'clock on Friday night last, whereby Albert J. Pinkerton, a brakeman, had one of the narrowest escapes from instant death on record. The train, a freight, was approaching the station and Brakemen Pinkerton and German were on top of the box-cars setting the brakes. They passed each other on a car and German happened to turn around to say something to Pinkerton. Just as he did so he was almost paralyzed to see poor Pinkerton

FALL BETWEEN THE CARS.

German quickly signalled the engineer to stop the train, but it was impossible to bring it to a standstill before a number of the cars had passed over the unfortunate brakeman. His comrades ran back expecting to find him mangled beyond recognition, but, strange to say, only his right leg was injured, excepting a few slight bruises about the body. He was carried to the caboose, which was attached to the engine, and no time was lost in starting for Toronto. Mr. Pinkerton was taken to the general hospital at that place, and the doctors found it necessary to amputate the injured limb at the knee-joint. The operation was successfully performed and the patient survived the shock wonderfully well, and will soon be around once more.

It is only about three months ago that THE SUN announced Mr. Pinkerton's marriage to Miss Lou Keys of this town. Mrs. Pinkerton accompanied her husband to the hospital and will remain at his bedside until his recovery. Since their marriage they resided at Mr. Keys' residence on Centre street.

MELVILLE.

GONE TO MANITOBA.—Mr. George Thompson and family left for Manitoba on Thursday evening last. We wish them every possible success in their new home.

TIMELY TOPICS.—The farmers in this vicinity are busy with their spring seeding and hard work is now the order of the day.....Mr. A. McNeil, who spent his Easter holidays with his sister at Newmarket, has returned home..... It is rumored that Jack Ellis takes an occasional trip to Cardwell. What does this mean?.....By the way Mr. Editor, what has happened your Cardwell correspondent that he is not looming up now?

WORRIED BY DOGS.—At an early hour on Thursday morning of last week three dogs attacked Mr. Robert Corbet's fine flock of sheep and before they were discovered ten of them were killed and the remainder badly worried. One of the dogs belonged to A. Shain and was formerly owned by Robert Delaney, and another belonged to A. Maxwell, the third being a strange dog in the neighborhood. It is some years now since any sheep were worried by dogs in this vicinity and we are sorry that this event has occurred. It is altogether likely that the owners of the dogs will be put in for damages. The sheep destroyed were a fine lot and Mr. Corbet will lose considerable no matter how much money he gets.

STANTON.

DIDN'T BITE.—A number of our ambitious youths went fishing on Good Friday, but were not long at the river when they came to the conclusion that the fish would not bite.

MAPLE SUGAR.—Maple sugar-making is still progressing here with more profitable results than at the beginning of the season, and if the present weather continues the yield will be greater this year.

OUR LITERARY SOCIETY.—Believing that the publicity of the success of a society, which has rendered such benefits, that defy description, on the "Sons of Adam" in Stanton and vicinity (I refer to the Stanton literary society) would be a benefit to the readers of the ever loyal SUN, in the way of encouraging the said readers in places where they have not begun, to begin at once to encourage the training of their minds in this literary pursuit. Far be it from us, in the present comparatively imperfect state of our undisciplined minds, to endeavor to trace the multiplicity of enlightments which dim our society, have spread their luminous rays in this quarter of the globe; but let it suffice to say that the results are highly commendable and wholly gratifying. Nor is this society not only flourishing in the consciousness of spreading knowledge, generating oratory, and introducing the youth into the social relations which must be theirs; but is also wealthy. At our open meeting the receipts were $16 60, and at a concert $26 00. Now, Mr. Editor, after paying organ rent, wood bill and all other expenses connected with the society, we have a surplus with which to purchase books.

The Bill prohibiting the sale of tobacco to boys under 18 years, and also prohibiting boys under 18 years from using tobacco, was passed by the Ontario Legislature a few days ago. Whatever else may be said of the bill there can be no doubt that its tendency is to prevent our youth from acquiring a habit which they would much regret in after life.

A Berlin despatch says: A queer case happened about ten days ago which has reference to the Reinhardt murder case. Mrs. John Bruder, daughter of Martin Reinhardt, awoke her husband about 3 o'clock in the morning about 10 days ago by singing. He asked her what was the matter, but failed to get an answer. On examination the woman was found to be singing in her sleep. On being aroused she jumped up excitedly and exclaimed: "O, I dreamed that father was free!"

Captain Chris Rath, who hanged Mrs. Surratt and the other Lincoln conspirators in Washington, was suddenly bereft of reason one day last week on the run between Grand Rapids and Jackson with the mail train. He had been mail agent for 20 years between there and Jackson, and made the latter place his headquarters.

The Rest of Rock Salt, for Stock.

Read what Prof. Robertson, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, says regarding proper ways of salting stock:—"Dairy cattle should have access to salt every day. A series of experiments has convinced us that when animals are denied salt for a period of from one week they will yield from 14 to 17½ per cent. less milk, and that of an inferior quality. Both milk with, on an average, twice over in twenty four hours than those which drink from the same or similar cows receiving salt every day, all other conditions of treatment being equal."

THE only chemically pure Salt ever discovered, analyzed 99 84-100 Pure Salt. All kinds of stock will do better where this Salt is used; one ton will go four times as far as common salt, hence it is cheaper. It is the finest Salt in the world for the preservation of all kinds of meat, all the large packers are using it. It is sold cheaper than any other lump salt. We guarantee this Salt as advertised. NORHAM, Ont., January 15, 1892.

W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time piece: frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and which therefore is not first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but wait you; as the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what cost a cent, have been rectified with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life; a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until what could, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality.

Yours faithfully,

WHY COUGH,

WHEN a few doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will relieve you? Try it. Keep it in the house. You are liable to have a cough at any time, and no other remedy is so effective as this world-renowned preparation. No household, with young children, should be without it. Scores of lives are saved every year by its timely use.

Amanda B. Jenner, Northampton, Mass., writes: "Common gratitude impels me to acknowledge the great benefit I have derived for my children from the use of Ayer's most excellent Cherry Pectoral. I had lost two dear children from croup and consumption, and had the greatest fear of losing my only remaining daughter and son, as they were delicate. Happily, I find that by giving them Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, on the first symptoms of throat or lung trouble, they are relieved from danger, and are becoming robust, healthy children."

"In the winter of 1885 I took a bad cold which, in spite of every known remedy, grew worse, so that the family physician considered me incurable, supposing me to be in consumption. As a last resort I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and, in a short time, the cure was complete. Since then I have never been without this medicine. I am fifty years of age, weigh over 180 pounds, and attribute my good health to the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—G. W. Kooker, Salem, N. J.

"Last winter I contracted a severe cold, which by repeated exposure, became quite obstinate. I was much troubled with hoarseness and bronchial irritation. After trying various medicines, without relief, I at last purchased a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. On taking this medicine, my cough ceased almost immediately, and I have been well ever since."—Rev. Thos. D. Russell, Secretary Holston Conference and P. E. of the Greenville District, M. E. C., Jonesboro, Tenn.

FOR SALE.—One thoroughbred Jersey Heifer Calf for sale. Apply to T. T. Mercer, Orangeville.

ANOTHER CONCERT.—A concert to be held in the town hall on the evening of May 24th, Her Majesty's birthday, is being talked of. The proceeds to help defray the expenses in the erection of St. Mark's church tower.

FINE TEAM.—Mr. S. Hammill, of Beverly, now drives a spanking team of piebald horses. He purchased them last week in the neighborhood of Orangeville, paying a good figure for them.—Galt Reporter.

DOGS KILL SHEEP.—Our Melville correspondence, which appears in another column, reports the killing of a number of sheep belonging to Mr. Robt. Corbit of that place. One of the three dogs that worried the sheep is said to be owned in Orangeville.

WANTS $2000.—Crown Attorney Myers has commenced an action against Robert Corbit of Melville to recover $2000 damages for slander. It is alleged that Corbit made remarks to the effect that Mr. Myers would "sell" the defendant, by whom he has been retained, in the Porterfield-Fines law suit about a farm. The writ has been served, and it looks as if Mr. Corbit will have a chance of proving his assertion.

[illegible] Myers, honorary president; E. Shaver, president; N. Wright, captain; H. McCormack, secretary; W. Monkman, treasurer; E. Clark, L. McCarthy, E. McKay, committee.

EXCELLENT MUSIC.—Last evening the Citizens' band gave their first open-air concert of the season, and it is quite evident that the boys have been practicing hard for many weeks. Everybody was delighted with the music and we can truthfully say that the present band is the best musical organization Orangeville has ever had and reflects great credit on Bandmaster Ketcham.

MARRIED AT DEMING CITY.—On Monday, the 11 inst., Miss Mary Mercer, daughter of Mr. T. L. Mercer of this town, and Mr. Arthur E. Dawson of Silver City, New Mexico, U. S., were united in marriage at Deming City, N. M., Rev. Mr. Wright of the latter place officiating. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left for Silver City, where they will reside. Although they are far away THE SUN joins in wishing the bride and bridegroom a long and happy life.

NIGHTHAWKS.—On two different occasions last week several drunks forced their way into Aiken Bros.' tannery, Little York street, in the silent hours of the night, evidently for the purpose of banqueting a boon companion. Empty whiskey and beer bottles, burnt matches and general disorder were left as relics of their visit. The leech house was also entered and the tannery employes thought that one of the drunks might have fallen in the vats of sealding liquor. Although an investigation took place, nothing was found in the vats.

A STRUGGLE FOR LIFE.—On Saturday last Mr Thomas Kennedy of this town had an experience which he will never forget. He was leading a bull to the stable, and had just entered the building when the rope attached to the ring broke. The vicious animal breathing the air of liberty, charged on the unfortunate man, who was unable to escape in time. He was thrown violently to the ground, but after falling managed to grasp the ring in the bull's nose, to which he clung for over two hours during which time he was under the infuriated beast. It was a close call for life and since he was rescued from his perilous position he has been confined to his room. Although badly bruised and generally shaken up, no permanent injury is apprehended.—Owen Sound Sun.

FIZZLED OUT.—Several days ago mysterious looking posters announced that a concert would be held in the town hall on Tuesday evening, the 19th, just two days before the Sons of England entertainment. The evening came and the performers were patiently waiting for the crowd to materialize, but the people that they wanted never came. At twenty five minutes to 9 only eight persons, the majority of whom were "favored" with complimentary tickets, occupied a portion of the hall, the remainder of which was filled with the atmosphere. Five minutes later the hall was deserted and in total darkness. Very few of our citizens were aware that an entertainment was advertised to take place, and those who did looked upon it as in opposition to the S. O. E. If those who were to take part in the concert were misled by two or three Orangevillains they have our sympathy. Insufficiency of advertising has frequently brought grief to excellent theatrical companies, and no doubt that was partly the cause of the slimmy slim attendance at the concert that did not take place on Tuesday evening. No announcement of the affair appeared in THE SUN, and you cannot reach its readers by using other journals.

PRESENTATION.

At the presentation to Mrs. Carson on Tuesday evening Miss Minnie Leighton read the following address:

To Mrs Carson,—Dear Friend, it is with regret we assemble here to night to bid you farewell. You, as a citizen, are a credit to Orangeville and a neighbor whom many are sorry to lose. You have been a friend to both rich and poor. How often have you stood by the bedside of the dying and received their last look of love and thankfulness for your kind attendance. Charity has indeed placed a wreath on the brow of her faithful servant for we are sure there are homes in Orangeville to-day which shall, in times of trouble and sickness, miss your helping hand. You are a woman, whose path we think many would do well to follow. We wish you the greatest happiness in your future home and hope that before long you will be with us again. Now, we beg that you will accept our humble present in token of our esteem and remembrance.

Signed on behalf of Orangeville friends.

To which Mrs. Carson made the following reply:

Dear Friends,—I do not feel that I am worthy of the respect which you have shown me by the presentation of such valuable presents, but I hope you will accept my humble thanks and I am sure I never will forget your kindness.

Mr. J. E. Humphrey, 46 Bond Street Toronto, says Burdock Blood Bitters wrought a complete cure of dyspepsia in his case after all else had failed.

Great Bargains in underwear for the next 30 days at Leighton's Cash Grocery, Boot and Shoe store.

MELVILLE.

GONE TO MANITOBA.—Mr. George Thompson and family left for Manitoba on Thursday evening last. We wish them every possible success in their new home.

TIMELY TOPICS.—The farmers in this vicinity are busy with their spring seeding and hard work is now the order of the day.....Mr. A. McNeil, who spent his Easter holidays with his sister at Newmarket, has returned home.....It is rumored that Jack Ellis takes an occasional trip to Cardwell. What does this mean?.....By the way Mr. Editor, what has happened your Cardwell correspondent that he is not looming up now?

WORRIED BY DOGS.—At an early hour on Thursday morning of last week three dogs attacked Mr. Robert Corbet's fine flock of sheep and before they were discovered ten of them were killed and the remainder badly worried. One of the dogs belonged to A. Shain and was formerly owned by Robert Delaney, and another belonged to A. Maxwell, the third being a strange dog in the neighborhood. It is some years now since any sheep were worried by dogs in this vicinity and we are sorry that this event has occurred. It is altogether likely that the owners of the dogs will be put in for damages. The sheep destroyed were a fine lot and Mr. Corbet will lose considerable no matter how much money he gets.

STANTON.

DIDN'T BITE.—A number of our ambitious youths went fishing on Good Friday, but were not long at the river when they came to the conclusion that the fish would not bite.

MAPLE SUGAR.—Maple sugar-making is still progressing here with more profitable results than at the beginning of the season, and if the present weather continues the yield will be greater this year.

OUR LITERARY SOCIETY.—Believing that the publicity of the success of a society, which has rendered such benefits, that defy description, on the "Sons of Adam" in Stanton and vicinity (I refer to the Stanton literary society) would be a benefit to the readers of the ever loyal SUN, in the way of encouraging the said readers in places where they have not begun, to begin at once to encourage the training of their minds in this literary pursuit. Far be it from us, in the present comparatively imperfect state of our undisciplined minds, to endeavor to trace the multiplicity of enlightments which dim our society, have spread their luminous rays in this quarter of the globe; but let it suffice to say that the results are highly commendable and wholly gratifying. Nor is this society not only flourishing in the consciousness of spreading knowledge, generating oratory, and introducing the youth into the social relations which must be theirs; but is also wealthy. At our open meeting the receipts were $16 60, and at a concert $26 00. Now, Mr. Editor, after paying organ rent, wood bill and all other expenses connected with the society, we have a surplus with which to purchase books.

"Was troubled with continual headache and loss of appetite but before I had taken many doses of B. B. B. appetite and health returned." J. B. THOMPSON, Bethesda, Ont.

The Bill prohibiting the sale of tobacco to boys under 18 years, and also prohibiting boys under 18 years from using tobacco, was passed by the Ontario Legislature a few days ago. Whatever else may be said of the bill there can be no doubt that its tendency is to prevent our youth from acquiring a habit which they would much regret in after life.

A Berlin despatch says: A queer case happened about ten days ago which has reference to the Reinhardt murder case. Mrs. John Bruder, daughter of Martin Reinhardt, awoke her husband about 3 o'clock in the morning about 10 days ago by singing. He asked her what was the matter, but failed to get an answer. On examination the woman was found to be singing in her sleep. On being aroused she jumped up excitedly and exclaimed: "O, I dreamed that father was free!"

Captain Chris Rath, who hanged Mrs. Surratt and the other Lincoln conspirators in Washington, was suddenly bereft of reason one day last week on the run between Grand Rapids and Jackson with the mail train. He had been mail agent for 20 years between there and Jackson, and made the latter place his headquarters.

NORWICH, ONT., January 23, 189[illegible].

W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time piece: frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and what is the result?—at first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but wait you; as the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been rectified with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until what could, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality.

Yours faithfully, H. F. ATWELL.

For Sweets of Sorrow,
The sweetest lesson that love can teach,
Shall I tell you where, and when?
On the stage of the world you'll find it only
Thus taught by the masters of men.

Nay not with cannon or battle shot,
With sword or mother gun;
Nay, not with eloquent word or thought
From mouth of wonderful man.

But deep in a veiled-up woman's heart—
Of woman that would not yield,
But bravely, silently bore her part—
Lo! there is the battle field.

No marshaling troop, no bivouac song,
No banner to gleam and wave!
But oh, those battles! they last so long—
From babyhood to the grave!

SMILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

The thoroughfare freezes,
The pulses beat a little more and laugh,
Shall I tell you where, and when?
On the stage of the world you'll find it only
Upon Tragedy by the medium of man.

Nay, not with cannon or battle shot,
With sword or mother pang;
Nay, not with eloquent word or thought
From mouth of manly man.

But deep in a walled-up woman's heart—
Of woman that would not yield,
But bravely, silently bore her part—
Lo! there is the battle field.

No marshaling troop, no blowing horn,
No banner to gleam and wave!
But oh, these battles! they last so long—
From babyhood to the grave!

—Joaquin Miller.

TERRIBLE IF TRUE.

An utter impossibility it is for an observing person to live in New York for any length of time without noticing that in certain circles the position of the sexes is being reversed. The females are rapidly becoming more masculine, mentally and physically, while the dude is becoming more and more effeminate. It is necessary to state this undoubted fact, as otherwise the following true story would appear impossible to readers who do not reside on Manhattan Island.

Jane Snyder was not a strong-minded girl in the ordinary sense of the word, but she was energetic and had lots of business sense. She was, and still is, employed as typewriter and bookkeeper in a large wholesale establishment on Broadway. Although abundantly able to support a husband, for many years she has refused to wed. She had many advantageous offers, but smiled on none of the suitors except Dudely Canesucker, a wretched little dude who did not even have the mitigating circumstances of wealth. He was poorer than even an amateur violin performance.

Jane's friends advised her to have nothing to do with him. But in vain. Finally she married him, and they moved into a cosy little cottage away in Harlem, covered with ivy, etc., as is usual in such cases.

For some time everything seemed to go happily with them. Jane was as proud of her husband as if he was a real man. She had laid by some money, and with it and what credit she possessed every wish of Dudely Canesucker was gratified. The cottage was elegantly furnished. As for Dudely, his clothing was of the finest material and made by the most fashionable tailor. His canes were the most expensive that money could purchase, while his collars and linen excited the admiration of real Fifth avenue dudes. He certainly dressed too fine for the husband of a typewriter and bookkeeper getting a moderate salary.

One night Jane, returning home, found her little husband weeping bitterly. He said that during her absence a great coarse man had called with a bill, and he said if the second installment on the furniture wasn't paid pretty soon he would cart it off. "What did he mean?" asked Dudely, tearfully, to his wife.

"The man was a lunatic, that's all," replied Jane with well-feigned indignation. "New York is swarming with demented persons who imagine other people owe them money. Your nerves are all unstrung," she added.

"I am so glawd to heah that it wath all a howid dweam," replied Dudely, "for I weally need a new walking stick. I saw such a lovely one on Broadway yesterday."

"Suppose, darling, I were to ask you to wear your old cane a month or so longer," said Jane, chucking him playfully under the chin.

"Wh-a-t" gasped Dudely Canesucker. "It cawn't be that you are getting stingy. Why, Janey dear, I hawven't had a new cane for six weeks, and when you married me you promised I should want for nothing," and once more his chin quivered and his eyes began to look damp.

"You shall have the cane, Dudely," said Jane, with a peculiar expression about her mouth and turning very pale."

"I must go to the office. I have an important letter to write which must go off by this night's mail," she subsequently remarked.

"Going back to the office?" asked Dudely in surprise.

"Certainly, why not?" said Jane, very much confused, but off she went.

It was not often Dudely's brain developed sufficient energy to think, but somehow or another he managed to do so on this occasion.

"My wife is going to do something dweadful, I believe. I'll go down to the office and see what she is up to," he soliloquized.

It required considerable exertion and the exercise of much will power, but he succeeded in shoving himself into his overcoat and rushing out into the street, he soon reached the large building in which his wife was employed. The janitor admitted him, and Dudely fairly flew upstairs. Noiselessly he opened the door and peeped in. There she was seated at her desk under the gaslight. He crept up softly behind her and peeped over her shoulder. On a blank sheet of paper she was writing over and over the name of the firm. On the desk in front of her was a blank check.

"Dash me, Jane, do you want to skip to Canada? I cawn't live in Canada; it's too cold, doncher know," and his small, elegantly-shaped hands seized the paper.

"It's all my fault. It's my cussed extravagance. It's me who is driving you to a career of swine," continued Dudely excitedly.

In a moment more Dudely sat upon his wife's knees, hiding his head upon her shoulder and sobbing for all he was worth.

"We will economize," he said in a voice husky with emotion; "you shall sell your silk dresses and all your jewelry and I'll get my meals at the club."

Then they went home together, and from that time on their lives were full of joy and bliss, etc.—Alex. E. Sweet, in Texas Siftings.

An Artistic Advance.

Clara Montalba has been elected to full membership in the Royal Society of Painters in Water Colors. Only one other woman is allowed to write the coveted R.W.S. after her name, as by the rules of the society no woman could ever become more than an associate. A short time ago the Council altered the law, and now includes two women in its members.

Blood Will Tell.

Good blood will show its quality. So will bad blood, the one in a healthy body and ruddy complexion, the other in ill health, blotches, pimples, boils and sores, and frequently in intenser forms as ulcers, abscesses, erysipelas, scrofulous diseases, salt rheum, etc. Every organ of the body depends upon the blood for force and vitality, and is but scantily served when the blood is impure. No remedy is so potent as a blood purifier or more rapidly produces new and healthy blood than Burdock Blood Bitters which beautifulises the various poisons and restores the vitalizing power of this all important fluid. As an instance of this read what Mr. J. S. Neff, of Algoma Mills, Ont., says in a recent letter:

Sirs,—A year ago I was troubled with spots breaking out all over my body, the effect of bad blood. I consulted three different doctors, who gave me medicine but did not cure me. I was advised to try B. B. B., and after using two bottles I noticed the spots getting less. I continued the use of B. B. B., which entirely cured me, giving me also a splendid appetite. Since then I would use no other medicine.

R'chard M. Watson, a prominent New York stock broker, committed suicide at a hotel in Philadelphia by taking morphine.

Senator Stevens died at Knowlton, Que., on Saturday, aged 78.

NASAL BALM

Is a certain and speedy cure for Cold in the Head and Catarrh in its worst stages.

SOOTHING, CLEANSING, HEALING.

Instant Relief, Permanent Cure, Failure Impossible.

Many so-called Remedies are simply syringfuls of Cologne, such as Hall's, Ely's, Sanford's, Dixon's, some of which contain Cocaine, leaving not only no lasting benefit, but a worse condition than before using. If you are troubled with any of these or kindred symptoms, have been deceived, and should like to try a Remedy that has cured thousands of hopeless cases, we will be happy to send a bottle of Nasal Balm, free of charge, to any address on receipt of 50 cents, in stamps, or one bottle for $1, postpaid, with full directions for its proper use in all climates. Our recommendations and testimonials are all in the shape of cures, and we will be pleased to send you a list of cures in your locality, on request, or we will prove the merits of our claim by submitting a sample bottle free to any sufferer.

Nasal Balm never fails to cure Catarrh, Cold in Head, Coughs, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, Loss of Smell, Taste and Hearing, Deafness, Discharges, Offensive Breath, Mucous Dropping, Hawking and Spitting, Sneezing, Watery Discharges from the Eyes, Dullness, Headache, Pain in Face, Weak Voice, Loss of Memory, Hot Flashes, Night Sweats, Nervous Debility, Dizziness, Sleeplessness, Languor, Lassitude, Melancholy, Pain in Back, Kidneys, Loins and Limbs, Dyspepsia, Impotence, Premature Decay, Consumption, Insanity, Epilepsy, Death.

People Wonder.

WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.

Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food disagreed with me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

"We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement, made by Mrs. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence."—O. F. Chamberlain, G. W. Waring, O. A. Wells, Druggists.

"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his foot. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. ## Poetry.

THE MOTHER'S PRAYER.

Starting forth in life's rough way,
Father, guide them;
Oh, we know not what of harm
May betide them;
'Neath the shadow of thy wing,
Father, hide them;
Walking, sleeping, Lord we pray,
Go beside them.

When in prayer they cry to Thee,
Do Thou hear them;
From the status of sin and shame
Do thou clear them;
'Mid the quicksands and the rocks
Do thou steer them;
In temptation, trial and grief,
Be thou near them.

Unto Thee we give them up;
Lord, receive them.
In them we know must be
Much to grieve them—
Many striving, oft and strong,
To deceive them;
Trustful in Thy hands of love
We must leave them.

The Story Teller.

Foiled.

"Well, I suppose I must let you go, Norah, but I don't half like it. You've never been away from me before, and I shall miss you frightfully."

"Yes, I hope you'll let me go, Jim. I don't want to be selfish, but I should enjoy it so much, and, after all, you can see me every day if you like."

They were husband and wife, these two, and had been married just a year. Their married life up to this point had been one of unclouded happiness, and perhaps the term "married lovers" best expresses their relations to one another. Jim Kennedy was a fine specimen of a man, tall and broad shouldered, but no one ever called his stern, rugged face good looking, though there were people who found in it a charm that handsomer features often lack. Norah, on the contrary, was extremely pretty, there could be no two opinions on that point; her tall, slight figure, clear, fair skin, crisp golden brown hair and deep blue eyes fully entitled her to take with the beauties of her sex. Jim was well aware of this fact, and the knowledge afforded him great gratification; perhaps the pride of possession, so prominent a feature in the male character, was even more strongly developed in him than in most men; at all events his pride in his pretty wife knew no bounds. His devotion to her was quite proverbial among their friends and neighbors, nothing could exceed his tender care and forethought in all matters that concerned her; she was always his first consideration. His was a curiously contained and concentrated nature—a nature that was incapable of more than one love—and she had stirred it to its utmost depths.

The subject under discussion was an invitation that the Kennedys had received to spend a fortnight at one of the neighboring country houses. This invitation Jim, for business reasons, was obliged to decline, but there seemed to be no good reason why Norah should not accept it, and she was very anxious to do so, being, naturally enough, greatly attracted by the prospect of unlimited fun in the shape of dancing, theatricals, and all the thousand and one amusements that are always rife among a large country house party.

"It isn't as if it was far away, you know, Jim?" she urged. "Why, Woodlands is only three miles from here; you can walk or ride over to see me as often as you like. Of course, I am awfully sorry that you can't go too, and I shan't enjoy it half so much as if you were there; but I can tell you all about it afterward, and it seems so ungracious to refuse Mrs. Mervyn's invitation altogether, when there is really no reason at all why I shouldn't accept it."

Jim looked down at the eager, uplifted face, and smiled.

"You shall go, dear," he said. "I may be selfish, but I hope I am not selfish enough to do you out of any pleasure just because I can't share in it myself. Of course, you shall go; and if you want any toggery you had better set about getting it at once."

"Oh, you dear old Jim!" cried Norah, flinging her arms around his neck and kissing him after her usual impulsive, girlish fashion. "Oh, you dear, dear old Jim!"

So the weighty matter was settled to the satisfaction of all concerned, and in due course Norah went off to Woodland in a very fetching new gown and the highest possible spirits.

When she had been away for two days, Jim rode over to see how things were going on. He arrived at Woodlands about half past four, and was received by Norah in the library, every other room, as she informed him, being topsy-turvey; some cleared for dancing, and some given up for theatricals, which was just then in process of rehearsal.

"And how are you enjoying yourself?" asked Jim.

"Oh! so much," Norah answered, her bright face aglow with excitement and pleasure. "It is perfectly delightful. I only wish you were here to enjoy it, too. Do you miss me very much, Jim?"

"Frightfully," said Jim, with a little sigh, "I feel quite lost without you; but never mind that, tell me about yourself. What special line have you taken up? Are you going in for theatricals?"

She shook her head.

"No, I am afraid I should be no good on the stage. I have had no practice, you know. I enjoy looking on immensely, and there is plenty of fun to be got out of dancing and other things."

"Mrs. Mervyn is a clinking actress," observed Jim.

"Yes," Norah agreed absently; "she is awfully good, and is going to play all the leading parts."

After that she was silent for a few minutes, looking into the fire with a thoughtful and preoccupied air, that somewhat puzzled her husband, who was more accustomed to her brighter moods.

"A penny for your thoughts," he said at last.

Norah started, and glanced up at him with rather a curious expression.

"Jim," she said nervously, "if I say something you won't be cross, will you?"

He looked surprised.

"Cross, Norah? No, of course not. You may say what you like."

"It is something that I overheard," she went on, absently fingering his coat sleeve. "I couldn't help it; I wish I hadn't, but I couldn't help it. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Willis were talking, and I couldn't help hearing what they said; but they didn't know that I was near. Is it true, Jim—is it true that there was ever anything between you and Mrs. Mervyn?"

A heavy frown crossed Jim's face, and he uttered a sharp exclamation.

"Confound the women!" he cried angrily. "What a lot of chattering magpies they are!"

"Oh, Jim!" Norah "pleaded," don't be cross; you said you wouldn't. It isn't true, is it?"

Her voice quivered a little, and some things suspiciously like tears glittered in her bright eyes. Jim muttered something under his breath as he looked down at her, then he put his arm around her waist and drew her close to his side.

"Listen, Norah," he said, impressively; "I am going to tell you the whole truth and nothing but the truth. A year or two ago I was rather intimate with the Mervyns, and used to come to Woodlands a good deal. Mervyn and I have always been good friends and at that time Mrs. Mervyn and I seemed to get on uncommonly well. I can swear that I never gave her a thought even that passed the bounds of friendship, and it was some time before it dawned on me that she was trying to lead me into a flirtation. When at last I woke up to the state of the case, I gave Mrs. Mervyn to understand that that sort of thing wasn't my line, and then promptly cleared out. I have always kept on friendly terms, because I thought that people would begin to think and talk if we had an open split, but I have never come here much since then. That is the truth of the whole matter."

The quiet tone and simple, straightforward words carried conviction with them, and Norah's perturbed face dimpled into a smile as she asked—

"Why did you never tell me all this before, Jim?"

"My dear child," he answered, gravely, "a man doesn't care to tell tales of that kind at the expense of a woman, even to his wife. Besides, I had almost forgotten the affair, and, in all probability, Mrs. Mervyn has quite."

Norah shook her head.

"A woman never forgets," she said, emphatically. "You may depend upon it, Jim, Mrs. Mervyn has forgotten nothing—but she may have forgiven, and that is more to the point.

Jim stooped down and gave his pretty wife a very hearty kiss.

"What a good little soul it is he said, affectionately; you take things so commonly well, Norah. Some women in your place would have treated me to a scene and refused to believe me."

"I should like to see any one refusing to believe you," cried Norah, indignantly. Then she rubbed her soft cheek against his. "Dear old Jim," she whispered lovingly.

Thus ended the first doubt that had ever threatened to mar the happiness of their married life.

A fortnight is only a short time after all, and Norah's visit to Woodland's was drawing to a close.

Three days before the one on which she was to return home, Jim got a note from her asking him to be sure and go over that afternoon, as she had something important to say to him. It was some days since he had been there, and he had not intended to go again, but Norah's word was law; so he ordered his horse and rode off, arranging to get to Woodlands about 4 o'clock as usual.

In the hall he was met by Mrs Mervyn and he fancied she started and turned rather pale when she saw him.

"How do you do, Mrs. Mervyn?" he said, as he shook hands. "Jolly day this, isn't it? Is Norah anywhere about? She sent me a note asking me to come over and see her."

"Your wife is in the house," Mrs. Mervyn answered, "but I don't know that you can see her now."

She spoke rather absently, and Jim thought that she looked at him with a curious expression.

"Is anything the matter?" he asked hastily, "I hope Norah isn't ill."

"No, no, she is quite well, but—"

"But what?" asked Jim, who was beginning to feel rather impatient.

Mrs. Mervyn turned away and looked out of the window.

"Can you bear a shock?" she asked, in a low tone.

"A shock! Jim repeated, feeling more and more bewildered. What kind of shock? What do you mean, Mrs. Mervyn? If you have anything to tell me about Norah, for heaven's sake tell me and have done with it. Don't beat about the bush, that is false kindness."

"Your wife is quite well," Mrs. Mervyn said, in the same low tone, "quite well, but—" She broke off sharply, and suddenly, turned from the window. "Come with me," she cried, "Come with me."

A curious sense of doubt and wonder thrilled Jim as he followed his hostess across the hall; he could not at all understand the state of affairs. Mrs. Mervyn led the way to the small drawing-room. Outside the door she paused and looked up at him.

"You had better go in alone," she said: "your wife is in the morning room. If you are quiet you can hear without being heard."

"Hear!" Jim repeated with an expression of blank surprise. "Hear what? I wish you would explain yourself, Mrs. Mervyn."

But Mrs. Mervyn shook her head.

"Don't ask me," she said, giving him a little push toward the door, "but go—go."

Jim hesitated for a moment with his hand on the handle, then he opened the door and went into the room.

Now, the two drawing-rooms and the morning room were en suite, and the latter was only divided from the small drawing-room by some soft silk curtains drawn across an archway. Mechanically Jim moved across the room until he came to these curtains, and then he stopped. He could hear some one speaking on the other side, and instantly recognized the voice as that of Capt. Warner, one of the guests staying in the house, a man whom he had never liked.

"Tell me," the voice urged, tenderly, "what makes you so unhappy? Perhaps I can do something to help you."

There was a moment's pause, and then the answer came in Norah's voice, low and tremulous, with feeling.

"No, no, you can do nothing. Heaven only knows how miserably unhappy I am, but no one can help me—least of all you."

Jim drew a deep, long breath, and raised his eyes slowly like a man awakening from some hideous dream. Norah was on the stage—his Norah, looking prettier than he had ever seen her, and by her side, holding her hand in his, stood Capt. Warner.

"I can sympathize with you, if I can do no more."—Capt. Warner went on, in the same tender tone. "Tell me what troubles you—it is always a relief to talk to a sympathetic friend. I am afraid you and your husband are not very well matched."

Jim moved a step nearer to the curtain, listening intently.

"We couldn't be more matched," cried Norah, in a tone of passionate rebellion. "He does not, it is true, openly ill treat me, but he makes my life one long torture. If it lasts much longer I shall go mad. Marriage without sympathy is moral suicide."

Jim drew a deep breath and fell back a pace or two. Norah saying that he made her life one long torture! Was it possible, or had his ears played him false?

"My poor darling!" Capt. Warner cried, passionately. "Oh! my poor darling! There is nothing that I would not do to save you from such a life. Only trust yourself to me and you will never regret it—never, I swear, as long as you live. I need not tell you that my whole life's happiness is bound up in you, that I love you with all my heart and soul. You know it already."

Jim ground his teeth savagely. In that moment he could have killed the man who dared to plot against his honor and make love to his wife, but he waited to hear Norah's answer.

It came at last.

"Yes." Norah said, and oh! how softly and tenderly her sweet voice thrilled, "yes, I know you love me, and that knowledge is my only comfort. I cling to it with all my strength. Yes, I know you love me, and you must know that I—that I——"

Jim waited to hear no more, but turned and made his way to the hall, staggering as he went.

Five minutes later he was galloping across the park like a madman.

When he reached home, he went straight to his smoking room and flung himself into his favorite chair. He tried to think but his thoughts were in a whirl, his brain seemed on fire. He wished to consider the matter calmly and coolly, but found that an utter impossibility. One thought alone possessed him, one bitter, cruel, maddening thought, Norah was lost to him forever. With his own ears he had heard her encourage another man to make love to her. Norah, his Norah, his wife whom he had loved so dearly and trusted so blindly, had played him false. With all his strength he strove to forget the words he had overheard; but he could not forget, and memory was madness.

It is impossible to put into words all that he suffered. The whole night long he sat in his smoking room, fighting with himself and with this crushing sorrow that had bowed him to the earth. When morning dawned, the cold grey light that stole in through the chinks in the curtains showed him to be but the wreck of his former self.

What should he do? That was the question that forced itself with maddening persistency into his brain, and the answer was not easy to find.

There were two or three courses open to him, but he could not decide which to follow. He considered and reconsidered them all, but none gave him satisfaction. At last a sudden thought struck him that put the others to flight. There was to be a large party at Woodlands that night. Mrs. Mervyn had invited him, and he had refused her invitation; but now he would go. He would give himself one more chance of seeing with his own eyes and hearing with his own ears; and if his suspicions were confirmed he would tell Norah then and there that all was discovered, and that she was free to go to her lover.

Acting on this idea he drove over to Woodlands in the evening, feeling like a man who is going to his execution. In the hall he found Mr. Mervyn enjoying a surreptitious cigarette and was welcomed with great cordiality.

"So you've changed your mind, Jim and come to see the show after all; that's right. I'm enjoying myself in my own way, you see; dancing in one room, theatricals in another, neither of them in my line, so I came out here to have a smoke. Better stay and join me."

At that moment Mrs. Mervyn came slowly down the wide staircase, and crossed the hall toward the two men, struggling with a refractory bangle that refused to fasten.

"Try and do this for me, Edgar," she said. Then she looked up and her eyes fell on Jim. "Mr. Kennedy!" she cried.

"Yes, it's Jim," said her husband, "you needn't look as if you'd seen a ghost."

The startled look still lingered on her face, and she laughed, nervously.

"You are the last person I expected to see," she said to Jim, "you refused so positively."

"Upon my word, that's a hospitable speech," cried Mr. Mervyn, "Jim has changed his mind, and we're glad to see him come, take him in to what you call the theatre, Kate, and let him look at his friends making fools of themselves."

Mrs. Mervyn led the way across the hall, and Jim followed like a man in a dream. It all seemed so strange, so unreal; he could hardly realize the state of affairs.

A minute or two later he was in the room that was being temporary duty as a theatre. One or two people spoke to him and he answered, but made no attempt at conversation. He looked round in search of Norah, and, failing to find her, threw himself into a chair and gave way to gloomy thoughts.

The bell rang, and the curtain rose on the second act, but Jim did not look up. He felt uninterested. What were mimic joys and woes of the stage to him? They could not compare with the tragedy of his own life.

He sat there with his eyes fixed on the ground, wrapped in miserable meditations, till all at once a voice sounded through the room that thrilled him like an electric shock.

It was Norah's voice. What were the words that she was saying?

"No, no, you can do nothing. Heaven only knows how miserably unhappy I am, but no one can help me—least of all you."

Jim sprang to his feet, and, unheeding the astonished looks that followed his sudden movement, he strode across the room and flung back the curtains. Yes, there he had not been mistaken, there was Norah, pale and startled looking, but still lovely, and by her side, with his hand on her arm, was the man who had spoken to her of love, the man whom he had sworn to kill.

"What, Norah?" he cried, in a voice that rang through the room like a trumpet call, "what makes you so unhappy? Perhaps I can do something to help you."

There was a moment's pause, and then the answer came in Norah's voice, low and tremulous, with feeling.

"No, no, you can do nothing. Heaven only knows how miserably unhappy I am, but no one can help me—least of all you."

EDITORIAL NOTES

THE friends of ex-Ald. P. E. Galbraith of Toronto are urging him to allow his name to go before the Conservative convention of East York, the late Hon. Alex. Mackenzie's old constituency. Mr. Galbraith is a native of this town and he would make an excellent parliamentarian.

A GREAT four cornered fight is on in Toronto to fill the vacancy in the Local Legislature caused by the death of Mr. H. B. Clarke. Four candidates are in the field: H. A. E. Kent, Conservative, N. G Bigelow, Liberal, Baron A. E. Macdonald, annexationist, and Phillip Thomson, labor candidate. The election takes place to morrow.

THE drink bill of the nearly 38,000,000 of people in Great Britain last year was $706,550,000, or about $15 per head for every man, woman and child in the Kingdom. The amount spent for beer alone was $390,000,000. The London Times says that "Down the national throat there flows enough to provide the country with two navies and two armies, with the civil service thrown in, or very nearly so. It means that the beer drunk in one year would pay the interest on the national debt for three; or if funded for nine years would pay the whole debt and leave us with no more interest or annuities to pay." It has been shown, however, that the consumption of tea, coffee and cocoa is increasing far more rapidly than that of intoxicating liquors; and another hopeful sign is that heavy drinking is becoming unfashionable. The drink bill of the United States, with a population of 62,622,250, was last year $900,000 000 or about $14 50 per head. It would be interesting to compute how much of the labor and wealth of the world are wasted on the two follies of drink and standing armies.

LAID TO HIS REST.

Funeral of the Late Hon. A. Mackenzie.

There was an immense attendance at the funeral of the late Hon. Alexander Mackenzie which took place at Sarnia on Thursday last, prominent and representative men from nearly every city and town in Western Ontario being present, while the influx from the surrounding country was very great, despite the downpour of rain which lasted until noon. St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, where the remains of the honored dead lay in state, had been draped in mourning. Business houses, public buildings, private residences all expressed in different ways the respect and esteem in which the deceased had been held and a sense of the loss which the country had sustained.

About 11 o'clock the remains were taken from the residence of Charles Mackenzie, M. L. A., where they had remained during last night, to the church. Besides the floral tributes which had accompanied the remains from Toronto there were many from local friends and admirers and also from different associations. The casket was completely surrounded by such tributes.

From 12 o'clock to 2 o'clock the body lay in state and the general public was allowed to pass through the church and take a last look at the face of the deceased. During the two hours probably 5000 people viewed the face of the dead.

At 2 o'clock the services commenced with the church crowded with thousands on the outside. The immediate relatives of the deceased occupied the first pews. The services were conducted by Rev. Professor McLaren and Rev. Professor Gregg, both of Knox College. The choir of the church rendered appropriate hymns and an anthem.

Rev. Professor McLaren offered up prayer, and an eulogy of the deceased was delivered by Rev. Professor Gregg.

The remains were then taken to Lakeview cemetery for burial in the family plot, and the procession to the cemetery, about a mile and half from the church, was a very large one.

HOCKLEY.

LOCALS.—Seeding is about wound up in this locality.....THE SUN is eagerly watched for here every week as it gives all the news of Hockley and vicinity.

INCENDIARY FIRE.—On Monday morning between 1 and 2 o'cock the residence of Robert Nichol on the farm which he recently purchased from Mr. Thos. White, was discovered to be on fire and the flames could not be checked, the building burning to the ground. Mr. Nichol had not moved into the house, but when he brought the first load of furniture he found the building in ruins. There is no doubt whatever as to how the fire originated, there being no fire in the place for weeks, and everybody leans to the opinion that it was caused by a firebug. It is a big loss to Mr. Nichol as he had no insurance.

IN FAVOR OF IT.—Hockley is decidedly in favor of that $20,000 grant by the county council for the improvement of roads; that is if the amount they say we are getting would be fairly distributed on the leading roads of our township. We think that the Hockley road is entitled to as much as the Prince of Wales, and we claim that there is more teaming done on the Hockley road than any other road in the township. There are 4 saw mills, 2 shingle-mills and 1 lath mill that would do all their teaming to Orangeville if it were a first class road. It is 16 years since the Hockley road was commenced and we think it is about time it was finished.

CAMILLA.

DEATH OF MR. FORSYTH.—It is our melancholy duty this week to record the death of Mr. Peter Forsyth, which occured on Thursday last. Deceased was one of Mono's pioneers, having resided here for over 40 years. He was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church, being one of its elders. The funeral took place on Saturday last to the Mono Centre cemetery and was largely attended.

In the suit of Cook vs. Cook, recently tried at Brantford, which was an action brought by the widow of the late Geo. Cook, ex M.P. P., for an account against E. D. Cook, has resulted in a verdict for plaintiff and $14,000.

FUN AT THE MEETING!

Close Fight Between Clarke and Swain of Grand Valley—Ministers, Magistrates and Doctors Have their Say.

On Friday last the court house was comfortably filled with hotelkeepers and men who are engaged in the liquor trade, and the gathering, it is needless to say, was composed of persons who had applied for a license to dispose of whiskey straight and native wine for the license year of 1892-3. This liquor license system is one of Oil. Mowat's greatest political levers, and of course, the spectator looked in vain for a man of Conservative proclivities among the commissioners. The members of the board consisted of Mr. George Dodds of Primrose, chairman, Mr. Robert Beatty and Dr. Smith of Orangeville.

Business commenced at 10 o'clock in the morning by Chairman Dodds, who reminded one of the schoolmaster of thirty years ago, reading the applications of Margaret Henderson, Rosemont, James Dean, Primrose, and Samuel Trew, Mansfield. Inspector Anderson's report was favorable to the applicants and they are empowered to dispense "forty-rod" until May 1893.

INSPECTOR AND CHAIRMAN.

The next application read was that of W. McLean of Horning's Mills. In answer to a question the inspector said the place was all right and had the necessary accommodation. Dodds said he had reliable information that the hotel was getting very disorderly and that the lower half of the bar room windows were painted, which was clearly a violation of the law. Anderson had not noticed that, although he had "inspected" the premises. The matter was left over for further consideration.

Samuel Moore of Reddickville captured a permit without any trouble and is, therefore, a happy man.

EAST GARAFRAXA.

Only two applications were received from this township, those of Mrs. Fcregrave of Waldemar and R. Anthony. Everything was favorable and licenses were unhesitatingly granted.

W. J. Morrison, the literary spirit-handler of Camilla, has not received a diploma yet, his case being left over till to-morrow.

LAUREL OUT OF IT.

At this part of the proceedings Chairman Dodds looked towards the reporters and asked them to make a note of the fact that no application had been received from Laurel, and he attributed this to the temperate feeling of the locality. THE SUN has been informed, however, that the former proprietor of the ranch at that place had just pulled up stakes and another victim was moving in.

MIKE WILTED.

There were four applications sent in from Shelburne which were partly considered before dinner. Two licenses were granted, but there being some mistake about the population of our nothern suburb a motion rescinding the former resolution was carried and nothing further was done until after dinner. When the three brave and worshipped commissioners took their seats at 2 o'clock it was announced that the population of Shelburne could stand four licensed hotels. Joe Black of the Queen's, Tuck of the Royal, George Gillespie of the Bay Horse and John Witter of the Mansion house were duly enrolled. The Primrose prophet kicked against Jno. Witter getting a license, but to no purpose. In a moment of weakness Mike Bench of this town put in an application for a shop license, and this raised a great fuss. A petition signed by about 200 ministers, doctors, lawyers, printers and ratepayers of Shelburne was presented, praying that no such license be granted. Mike must have seen a storm brewing for he withdrew his application some days before the commissioners met.

ALAS! POOR YORICK.

James Corbitt of Corbetton was one of the unlucky applicants of the day. A petition signed by one hundred of his friends requested that a permit be given him, as he was a fit and proper person to keep an hotel. He spoke at some length why he should receive a license; he had been persuaded to mortgage his farm to build the hotel and he would be practically ruined if his house was not licensed. A delegation consisting of two men appeared and protested against a liquor license being granted there, and the commissioners acted on this suggestion. Poor Corbitt was knocked silly, so to speak, and left the room saying "thank you, gentlemen."

THE BIG CIRCUS.

When the applications from East Luther were announced the circus of the day was reached, the others being merely side shows compared to this. Three hotelkeepers in Grand Valley want to dispense "tangle leg" and the commissioners only grant two licenses there. Martin and Clarke, old hotelkeepers, and Swain were in it for keeps. The first-named was granted a license without hesitation and the battle was between Clarke and Swain. Chairman Dodds requested those who had anything to say on the matter to speak. It appears that the people are unanimous against a third license in Grand Valley, as what took place on Friday clearly shows. A farmer named Mounahan, who lives 10 miles out, spoke to the effect that he was against three licenses, was in favor of Swain as Clarke did not keep a good house. He circulated a petition and out of 176 names on the roll 117 were for Swain. Dr. Gaviller came forward and said he was a delegate to object to three licenses in Grand Valley; had petitions showing that the people were against it; had no objection to Swain getting one of the two licenses. Rev. Mr. Sanderson followed in a similiar strain and then Tommy Osbourne took the floor. He was dead against the licenses, but Swain was trying to get Clarke's license and he thought that wasn't fair; he had never seen anything wrong with Clarke. Rev. M. S. Gray of Laurel arose and said as a magistrate he had been called up to Grand Valley as Clarke had violated the law several times. Clarke, he said, was immoral and he was told that while suffering from the D. T.'s Clarke took a gun and drove everybody from the house and shoot his wife. Mr. Gray had a newspaper article that he wished to read, but the chairman required it to be written over a signature. It wasn't and the article was not read. The speaker thought some Grand Valley people who were present should have the moral courage to state their sentiments. Osbourne said he had never seen anything usual about Clarke's hotel, and accused Mr. Gray of writing the letter. Swain was at the bottom of it all. Mr. Gray took the floor again and accused Osbourne of giving him the information contained in the letter; he despised such a man and hurled back the insinuation. The dialogue continued and when order was restored Swain stood up and said the reason Osbourne was for Clarke was that he got all the free whiskey he wanted and he (Swain) had substantial evidence to prove that Osbourne was carried home drunk from Clarke's the other night. The discussion was cut short by Clarke's and Swain's applications being left over until to morrow. Martin's application was granted. Before the commissioners adjourned a resolution was passed to the effect that only two licenses be granted in Grand Valley.

WHOSE WILL IT BE?

And at last the Orangeville applications were reached. They were in a little pile by themselves and Chairman Dodds remarked they would take them as they came. The reader must not forget that they were all "fixed" in order for the occasion. Pat Kelly of the Royal hotel, a good Grit that he is, had no trouble in securing the necessary blue paper, on motion of R. Beatty and Dr. Smith.

John Hicks of the Hicks house, another of the faithful, successfully ran the gauntlet, assisted by Messrs. Dodds and Smith.

John Irving of the Dufferin house, another of the "Partey," hadn't the least trouble in getting there, with the assistance of Messrs. Smith and Beatty.

Then a skip was made up to the Gordon house and D. Livingstone, on motion of Beatty and Dodds, was granted a license.

Next came the Queen's hotel. Mr. Dodds said it was rumored that gambling was indulged in in this house, and if any person would make a charge the board would adjourn and take evidence. No charge was made and the Queen's was furnished with a permit.

John Harshaw of the American, received a compliment from the chairman and Dr. Smith, seconded by Dodds, granted him a license.

Dodds said as his limit (6) had been reached he would vote against all the others.

J. E. Booth of the Elgin house, on motion of Messrs. Smith and Beatty, was granted a license.

The applications of Shaw & Young of the Commercial and James Bennett of the Paisley were read and left over until the next meeting, which takes place to morrow. One of these hotels will be cut off, as the population lacks about forty in allowing nine licenses in Orangeville. It is too bad that either one of these hotels will be cut off as they are among the best in town. Speculation is rife as to which one will go To morrow's meeting will tell the tale.

J. M. Bennett and John Longeway were granted shop licenses.

And Mr. Mowat's great political engine was stopped for the day.

WHITFIELD.

RECOVERING.—Mrs. Edward Ferris, the aged lady who fractured her thigh about a week ago, is coming around again as well as can be expected under the circumstances. Dr. Reid of Horning's Mills treated the patient with great kindness and attended to her injuries in a scientific way. Mrs. Ferris is 93 years of age.

TOM TURNED UP.—Young Tom Dorcey, who was mentioned in THE SUN last week as having mysteriously disappeared from his father's sugar bush a few days before, has been found near Singhampton in a starving condition. Tom is a "little off" and he was wandering to Manitoba.

LATTER DAY FRAUD.—Some days ago a Latter Day Saint living near Masonville visited a patient at Honeywood who was suffering from inflammation of the bowles. The fraud tried to work the miracle racket, but he ignominiously failed and the patient went the way of all the earth. It is high time that something should be done with characters like these, but there are fools and fools and people never seem to learn a lesson. When a person gets sick a doctor is the proper person to treat him—not frauds who prey on the gullibility of fools.

MONO CENTRE.

GOOD ACT.—Mr. Geo Langford is seriously ill from the effects of the grip. The Patrons of Industry, of which the afflicted is a member, assembled on Saturday and did the greatest part of his seeding. Who says the Patrons are a failure?

BIG BARN.—Mr. Jas. Barber is making preparations for the erection of a magnificent barn this summer. James is a cunning bachelor and who knows what may be the secret workings of his heart.

TWO OF A KIND.—Our two blacksmiths are doing a roaring trade in harrows. Both are obliging citizens and deserves the large patronage which they receive. Rumor says they vie with each other for the affections of our tidy village spinster. The truth, however, remains to be known.

PERSONAL.—Miss Minnie Wilson of Shelburne spent last week with her sister, Mrs. John Avison.....Miss Martha Turnbull of Beeton is visiting her brother, Mr. Peter Turnbull, of this place.....Mr. Thos. Patterson, who left a short time ago for Manitoba, is reported safe in the prairie province.....Miss Etta Patterson, who is teaching school at Blount, spent Easter with friends at the Centre.

SHOT HIS WIFE!

A HORRIBLE TRAGEDY ENACTED AT BRAMPTON.

CAUSED BY JEALOUSY AND DRINK.

The Prisoner, James Lundy, Found Guilty of Murder.

THE DAUGHTER'S SORROW!

The Murderer Expresses No Regret for His Crime, and Wishes He Had Time to Shoot Himself.

Last January James Lundy and his family came to Brampton from their farm on the first line West Chinguacousy, and they made their home in a three story brick tenement known as the "Brampton House," in Main street. Shortly after their arrival people began to talk of the unhappy relationship existing between Lundy and his wife, and they were said to quarrel frequently. Money matters formed a large part of the trouble and to escape having his property seized for debt it is said Lundy deeded his farm to his wife, and he claimed that his wife and her brother were trying to euchre him out of it and turn him adrift.

THE GREEN EYED MONSTER ALSO

Jealousy was another factor in their trouble. It is reported he drank to excess. The culmination was reached at 9.15 Friday night. In the handsomely furnished parlor were gathered Mrs. Lundy, her daughter, a young woman, and two sons, one of whom is a man and the other a small boy. Besides these there were James McKinnon, Mrs. Lundy's brother; T. Sellwood and his wife and William Tracey and wife.

All were spending a pleasant evening, piano going and the usual good time. The story told by one present is that Lundy came into the room behind the parlor, hidden by curtains, and began muttering in an undertone, and Mrs. Lundy went over to him and said: "Please don't come in now," and the couple withdrew to the kitchen, further back, Lundy all the while growling in an undertone.

A PISTOL SHOT RANG OUT.

They had not got beyond the hearing of the company when a pistol shot rang out, followed by a woman's scream, and your informant rushed into the hall leading to the kitchen and another shot followed. He dashed into the kitchen and was nearly blinded by the flash of a third report.

Throwing himself on Lundy the witness held him fast, the man struggling like a maniac. Help came quickly and the revolver was secured.

Lying on the floor was the dead body of Mrs. Lundy. One ball entered the left temple and another just below the chin on the same side, penetrating the jugular vein, and death must have been instantaneous. That one scream was the only utterance the poor woman made.

The dead body lay parallel with the wall of the kitchen, her feet slightly apart, touching the threshold of the door—a horrible, sickening sight—in a bath of blood.

THE MURDERER ARRESTED.

Lundy was placed under arrest and taken to jail by Chief Orth. The murdered woman, whose maiden name was McKinnon, was a tall, dark, finely-developed woman—a striking and stylish woman on the streets. She was about 49 years of age.

The murderer is a medium sized man 53 years of age. He has a shifty, nervous manner, which too much liquor has not improved.

The fatal weapon is a self-acting 32-calibre Smith & Wesson six shooter. Three chambers were loaded when taken from Lundy.

Lundy's family connection in Peel is very large and the utmost excitement exists over the affair.

GLORIES IN HIS DEED.

It appears Lundy has not been living at home for several weeks, but had been staying at the Revere House and about 8.30 the murderer entered the Royal Hotel and asked for some supper and he got it. It was noticed he was very pale. He then went to the Revere and got a drink and afterwards proceeded to his home, entering the house noiselessly.

The only explanation given by Lundy was he had stood it for 22 years and this thing had to come some time. He expressed no sorrow for his act, but regretted he had not been allowed to use the remaining two shots on himself.

The third bullet has been found in the wall of the kitchen. A touching scene was the grief of the daughter, a handsome girl, who threw herself on the dead body, crying, "Mother, mother!"

GUILTY OF MURDER.

The inquest into the death of Mrs. Lundy, who was shot by her husband on Friday night, was held before Coroner Mullen and a jury. Crown Attorney McFadden conducted the case for the prosecution and W. S. Morphy acted for the prisoner. The witnesses examined were John Lundy, son of the murdered woman; Lena Lundy, daughter; Dr. Heggie; Mr. McKinnon, brother of Mrs. Lundy: Wm. Vradenburg, T. W. Sellwood, Mr. and Mrs. Tracey, Mr. Williams and Dr. Hall. The evidence showed that the couple had not lived happily together, and that of late the prisoner had been addicted to drink. He was not drunk Friday night, but had been drinking. He fired three shots from his revolver, two of them taking effect in his wife's head. She died in a few minutes. The prisoner's only remark was that he was sorry he had not killed himself too, and that the life he had led for 24 years past was his reason for the act. The jury brought in a verdict that Mrs. Lundy came to her death by two pistol shots at the hand of J. B. Lundy.

Lundy has lost much of the coolness he exhibited immediately after his arrest, and the strain is also telling on him physically. The jail officials say that he cannot sleep and opiates had to be administered to him.

The funeral of Mrs. Lundy took place Monday, Rev. Mr. McKay, Baptist minister, conducted the services, and fully 1000 persons followed the hearse to the cemetery.

Seeding is in full swing throughout the country and the farmers are pretty busy now you see.

The people are becoming weary of these long winded letters on the $20,000 road improvement scheme. It looks as if the writers were preparing for municipal elections next January.

Reeve Snell informs THE SUN that when the farmers of Mono are through seeding he will call meetings to discuss the county road improvement scheme. Mr. Snell says he is not acting on the suggestion of Mr. Ewin or anybody else in calling these meetings, and that he stated at the county council he would have the scheme discussed by his constituents.

The sad intelligence has reached us this morning of the death of Miss Effie Lamont, eldest daughter of Mr. Alex. Lamont of Caledon, which occurred at an early hour this morning. Miss Lamont has been suffering from la grippe for the past three months and passed peacefully away at the time mentioned above. Much sympathy is expressed for the bereaved family in the loss they have sustained.

ROBERT MCGREEVY.

He Returns to Quebec and is Sentenced to One Year's Imprisonment for Conspiracy to Defraud.

QUEBEC, April 22.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon Mr. R. H. McGreevy entered the Criminal Court in charge of High Constable Gale, and was conducted to the dock, where he took a seat alongside Beaulethe, accused of stealing letters.

The jury in the case of the latter prisoner brought in a verdict of guilty with a recommendation to mercy. Mr. Lemieux, for R. H. McGreevy, convicted at a previous term for conspiracy to defraud, asked the court to grant him time to consult with his colleague, Mr. Belleau, Q. C. Their client had only just returned from the United States, and they intended to argue the motion for a reserve case, made when the verdict was rendered, but which was postponed owing to the flight of the prisoner. Judge Bossé adjourned the court for an hour so that Mr. Lemieux might see Messrs. Belleau and Drexel on the course to be followed in McGreevy's case. The prisoner was then sent to gaol for one year, the judge remarking that but for his running away he would have been sentenced to six months. Prior to the passing of the sentence the prisoner appealed to the judge for clemency. The term was then declared closed.

Mr. Gray obtained a divorce from her very nearly 20 years ago on account of her relations with Mr. Heckscher. Mr. Gray and Mr. Heckscher fought a duel in 1873 at Rouse's Point, Canada, but neither was injured.

Casselman village, on the Canadian Atlantic Railway, has been again visited by a conflagration, this time of a most destructive kind. About a dozen buildings were burned to the ground. A GREAT four cornered fight is on in Toronto to fill the vacancy in the Local Legislature caused by the death of Mr. H. B. Clarke. Four candidates are in the field: H. A. E. Kent, Conservative, N. G Bigelow, Liberal, Baron A. E. Macdonald, annexationist, and Phillip Thomson, labor candidate. The election takes place to morrow.

THE drink bill of the nearly 38,000,000 of people in Great Britain last year was $706,550,000, or about $15 per head for every man, woman and child in the Kingdom. The amount spent for beer alone was $390,000,000. The London Times says that "down the national throat there flows enough to provide the country with two navies and two armies, with the civil service thrown in, or very nearly so. It means that the beer drunk in one year would pay the interest on the national debt for three; or if funded for nine years would pay the whole debt and leave us with no more interest or annuities to pay." It has been shown, however, that the consumption of tea, coffee and cocoa is increasing far more rapidly than that of intoxicating liquors; and another hopeful sign is that heavy drinking is becoming unfashionable. The drink bill of the United States, with a population of 62,622,250, was last year $900,000,000 or about $14 50 per head. It would be interesting to compute how much of the labor and wealth of the world are wasted on the two follies of drink and standing armies.

LAID TO HIS REST.

Funeral of the Late Hon. A. Mackenzie.

There was an immense attendance at the funeral of the late Hon. Alexander Mackenzie which took place at Sarnia on Thursday last, prominent and representative men from nearly every city and town in Western Ontario being present, while the influx from the surrounding country was very great, despite the downpour of rain which lasted until noon. St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, where the remains of the honored dead lay in state, had been draped in mourning. Business houses, public buildings, private residences all expressed in different ways the respect and esteem in which the deceased had been held and a sense of the loss which the country had sustained.

About 11 o'clock the remains were taken from the residence of Charles Mackenzie, M. L. A., where they had remained during last night, to the church. Besides the floral tributes which had accompanied the remains from Toronto there were many from local friends and admirers and also from different associations. The casket was completely surrounded by such tributes.

From 12 o'clock to 2 o'clok the body lay in state and the general public was allowed to pass through the church and take a last look at the face of the deceased. During the two hours probably 5000 people viewed the face of the dead.

At 2 o'clock the services commenced with the church crowded with thousands on the outside. The immediate relatives of the deceased occupied the first pews. The services were conducted by Rev. Professor McLaren and Rev. Professor Gregg, both of Knox College. The choir of the church rendered appropriate hymns and an anthem.

Rev. Professor McLaren offered up prayer, and an eulogy of the deceased was delivered by Rev. Professor Gregg.

The remains were then taken to Lakeview cemetery for burial in the family plot, and the procession to the cemetery, about a mile and half from the church, was a very large one.

HOCKLEY.

LOCALS.—Seeding is about wound up in this locality.....THE SUN is eagerly watched for here every week as it gives all the news of Hockley and vicinity.

INCENDIARY FIRE.—On Monday morning between 1 and 2 o'cock the residence of Robert Nichol, on the farm which he recently purchased from Mr. Thos. White, was discovered to be on fire and the flames could not be checked, the building burning to the ground. Mr. Nichol had not moved into the house, but when he brought the first load of furniture he found the building in ruins. There is no doubt whatever as to how the fire originated, there being no fire in the place for weeks, and everybody leans to the opinion that it was caused by a firebug. It is a big loss to Mr. Nichol as he had no insurance.

IN FAVOR OF IT.—Hockley is decidedly in favor of that $20,000 grant by the county council for the improvement of roads; that is if the amount they say we are getting would be fairly distributed on the leading roads of our township. We think that the Hockley road is entitled to as much as the Prince of Wales, and we claim that there is more teaming done on the Hockley road than any other road in the township. There are 4 saw mills, 2 shingle-mills and 1 lath mill that would do all their teaming to Orangeville if it were a first class road. It is 16 years since the Hockley road was commenced and we think it is about time it was finished.

CAMILLA.

DEATH OF MR. FORSYTH.—It is our melancholy duty this week to record the death of Mr. Peter Forsyth, which occured on Thursday last. Deceased was one of Mono's pioneers, having resided here for over 40 years. He was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church, being one of its elders. The funeral took place on Saturday last to the Mono Centre cemetery and was largely attended.

Close Fight Between Clarke and Swain of Grand Valley—Hotelkeepers, Registrars and Doctors Move their Sal.

On Friday last the court house was comfortably filled with hotelkeepers and men who are engaged in the liquor trade, and the gathering, it is needless to say, was composed of persons who had applied for a license to dispense of whiskey straight and native wine for the license year of 1892-3. This liquor license system is one of Oil. Mowat's greatest political levers, and of course, the spectator looked in vain for a man of Conservative proclivities among the commissioners. The members of the board consisted of Mr. George Dodds of Primrose, chairman, Mr. Robert Beatty and Dr. Smith of Orangeville.

Business commenced at 10 o'clock in the morning by Chairman Dodds, who reminded one of the schoolmaster of thirty years ago, reading the applications of Margaret Henderson, Rosemont, James Dean, Primrose, and Samuel Trew, Mansfield. Inspector Anderson's report was favorable to the applicants and they are empowered to dispense "forty-rod" until May 1893.

INSPECTOR AND CHAIRMAN.

The next application read was that of W. McLean of Horning's Mills. In answer to a question the inspector said the place was all right and had the necessary accommodation. Dodds said he had reliable information that the hotel was getting very disorderly and that the lower half of the bar room windows were painted, which was clearly a violation of the law. Anderson had not noticed that, although he had "inspected" the premises. The matter was left over for further consideration.

Samuel Moore of Reddickville captured a permit without any trouble and is, therefore, a happy man.

EAST GARAFRAXA.

Only two applications were received from this township, those of Mrs. Fcregrave of Waldemar and R. Anthony. Everything was favorable and licenses were unhesitatingly granted.

W. J. Morrison, the literary spirit-handler of Camilla, has not received a diploma yet, his case being left over till to-morrow.

LAUREL OUT OF IT.

At this part of the proceedings Chairman Dodds looked towards the reporters and asked them to make a note of the fact that no application had been received from Laurel, and he attributed this to the temperate feeling of the locality. THE SUN has been informed, however, that the former proprietor of the ranch at that place had just pulled up stakes and another victim was moving in.

MIKE WILTED.

There were four applications sent in from Shelburne which were partly considered before dinner. Two licenses were granted, but there being some mistake about the population of the nothern suburb a motion rescinding the former resolution was carried and nothing further was done until after dinner. When the three brave and worshipped commissioners took their seats at 2 o'clock it was announced that the population of Shelburne could stand four licensed hotels. Joe Black of the Queen's, Tuck of the Royal, George Gillespie of the Bay Horse and John Witter of the Mansion house were duly sarolled. The Primrose prophet kicked against Jno. Witter getting a license, but to no purpose. In a moment of weakness Mike Bench of this town put in an application for a shop license, and this raised a great fuss. A petition signed by about 200 ministers, doctors, lawyers, printers and ratepayers of Shelburne was presented, praying that no such license be granted. Mike must have seen a storm brewing for he withdrew his application some days before the commissioners met.

ALAS! POOR YORICK.

James Corbitt of Corbetton was one of the unlucky applicants of the day. A petition signed by one hundred of his friends requested that a permit be given him, as he was a fit and proper person to keep an hotel. He spoke at some length why he should receive a license; he had been persuaded to mortgage his farm to build the hotel and he would be practically ruined if his house was not licensed. A delegation consisting of two men appeared and protested against a liquor license being granted there, and the commissioners acted on this suggestion. Poor Corbitt was knocked silly, so to speak, and left the room saying "thank you, gentleman."

THE BIG CIRCUS.

When the applications from East Luther were announced the circus of the day was reached, the others being merely side shows compared to this. Three hotelkeepers in Grand Valley want to dispense "tangle leg" and the commissioners only grant two licenses there. Martin and Clarke, old hotelkeepers, and Swain were in it for keeps. The first-named was granted a license without hesitation and the battle was between Clarke and Swain. Chairman Dodds requested those who had anything to say on the matter to speak. It appears that the people are unanimous against a third license in Grand Valley, as what took place on Friday clearly shows. A farmer named Mounrahan, who lives 10 miles out, spoke to the effect that he was against three licenses, was in favor of Swain as Clarke did not keep a good house. He circulated a petition and out of 176 names on the roll 117 were for Swain. Dr. Gaviller came forward and said he was a delegate to object to three licenses in Grand Valley; had petitions showing that the people were against it; had no objection to Swain getting one of the two licenses. Rev. Mr. Sanderson followed in a similiar strain and then Tommy Osbourne took the floor. He was dead against the licenses, but Swain was trying to get Clarke's license and he thought that wasn't fair; he had never seen anything wrong with Clarke. Rev. M. S. Gray of Laurel arose and said as a magistrate he had been called up to Grand Valley as Clarke had violated the law several times. Clarke, he said, was immoral and he was told Outside of getting him into jail he could not proceed in the matter. He dropped such a man and started back the insinuation. The chairman confirmed and when order was restored Swain stood up and said the reason Osbourne was for Clarke was that he got all the free whiskey he wanted and he (Swain) had substantial evidence to prove that Osbourne was carried home drunk from Clarke's the other night. The discussion was cut short by Clarke's and Swain's applications being left over until to morrow. Martin's application was granted. Before the commissioners adjourned a resolution was passed to the effect that only two licenses be granted in Grand Valley.

WHOSE WILL IT BE?

And at last the Orangeville applications were reached. They were in a little pile by themselves and Chairman Dodds remarked they would take them as they came. The reader must not forget that they were all "fixed" in order for the occasion. Pat Kelly of the Royal hotel, a good Grit that he is, had no trouble in securing the necessary blue paper, on motion of R. Beatty and Dr. Smith.

John Hicks of the Hicks house, another of the faithful, successfully ran the gauntlet, assisted by Messrs. Dodds and Smith.

John Irving of the Dufferin house, another of the "Partey," hadn't the least trouble in getting there, with the assistance of Messrs. Smith and Beatty.

Then a skip was made up to the Gordon house and D. Livingstone, on motion of Beatty and Dodds, was granted a license.

Next came the Queen's hotel. Mr. Dodds said it was rumored that gambling was indulged in in this house, and if any person would make a charge the board would adjourn and take evidence. No charge was made and the Queen's was furnished with a permit.

John Harshaw of the American, received a compliment from the chairman and Dr. Smith, seconded by Dodds, granted him a license.

Dodds said as his limit (6) had been reached he would vote against all the others.

J. E. Booth of the Elgin house, on motion of Messrs. Smith and Beatty, was granted a license.

The applications of Shaw & Young of the Commercial and James Bennett of the Paisley were read and left over until the next meeting, which takes place to morrow. One of these hotels will be cut off, as the population lacks about forty in allowing nine licenses in Orangeville. It is too bad that either one of these hotels will be cut off as they are among the best in town. Speculation is rife as to which one will go To morrow's meeting will tell the tale.

J. M. Bennett and John Longaway were granted shop licenses.

And Mr. Mowat's great political engine was stopped for the day.

WHITFIELD.

RECOVERING.—Mrs. Edward Ferris, the aged lady who fractured her thigh about a week ago, is coming around again as well as can be expected under the circumstances. Dr. Reid of Horning's Mills treated the patient with great kindness and attended to her injuries in a scientific way. Mrs. Ferris is 93 years of age.

TOM TURNED UP.—Young Tom Dorcey, who was mentioned in THE SUN last week as having mysteriously disappeared from his father's sugar bush a few days before, has been found near Singhampton in a starving condition. Tom is a "little off" and he was wandering to Manitoba.

LATTER DAY FRAUD.—Some days ago a Latter Day Saint living near Masonville visited a patient at Honeywood who was suffering from inflammation of the bowles. The fraud tried to work the miracle racket, but he ignominiously failed and the patient went the way of all the earth. It is high time that something should be done with characters like these, but there are fools and fools and people never seem to learn a lesson. When a person gets sick a doctor is the proper person to treat him—not frauds who prey on the gullibility of fools.

MONO CENTRE.

GOOD ACT.—Mr. Geo Langford is seriously ill from the effects of the grip. The Patrons of Industry, of which the afflicted is a member, assembled on Saturday and did the greatest part of his seeding. Who says the Patrons are a failure?

BIG BARN.—Mr. Jas. Barber is making preparations for the erection of a magnificent barn this summer. James is a cunning bachelor and who knows what may be the secret workings of his heart.

TWO OF A KIND.—Our two blacksmiths are doing a roaring trade in barrows. Both are obliging citizens and deserves the large patronage which they receive. Rumor says they vie with each other for the affections of our tidy village spinster. The truth, however, remains to be known.

PERSONAL.—Miss Minnie Wilson of Shelburne spent last week with her sister, Mrs. John Avison.....Miss Martha Turnbull of Beeton is visiting her brother, Mr. Peter Turnbull, of this place.....Mr. Thos. The people are humming many of these long winded letters on the $20,000 road improvement scheme. It looks as if the writers were preparing for municipal elections next January.

Bravo Snell! Inform THE SUN that when the Reverend Mr. Mac gets through sending he will call meetings to discuss the county road improvement scheme. Mr. Snell says he is not acting on the suggestion of Mr. Mein or anybody else in calling these meetings, and that he stated at the county council he would have the scheme discussed by his constituents.

The sad intelligence has reached us this morning of the death of Miss Effie Lamont, eldest daughter of Mr. Alex. Lamont of Caledon, which occurred at an early hour this morning. Miss Lamont has been suffering from la grippe for the past three months and passed peacefully away at the time mentioned above. Much sympathy is expressed for the bereaved family in the loss they have sustained.

ROBERT MCGREEVY.

He Returns to Quebec and is Sentenced to One Year's Imprisonment for Conspiracy to Defraud.

QUEBEC, April 22.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon Mr. R. H. McGreevy entered the Criminal Court in charge of High Constable Gale, and was conducted to the dock, where he took a seat alongside Beaulethe, accused of stealing letters.

The jury in the case of the latter prisoner brought in a verdict of guilty with a recommendation to mercy. Mr. Lemieux, for R. H. McGreevy, convicted at a previous term for conspiracy to defraud, asked the court to grant him time to consult with his colleagues, Mr. Belleau, Q. C. Their client had only just returned from the United States, and they intended to argue the motion for a reserve case, made when the verdict was rendered, but which was postponed owing to the flight of the prisoner. Judge Bossé adjourned the court for an hour so that Mr. Lemieux might see Messrs. Belleau and Drexel on the course to be followed in McGreevy's case. The prisoner was then sent to gaol for one year, the judge remarking that but for his running away he would have been sentenced to six months. Prior to the passing of the sentence the prisoner appealed to the judge for clemency. The term was then declared closed.

Three little boys were buried in a sand pit in Toronto on Friday and smothered to death. A cave-in was the cause.

John G. Heckscher, the well known New York club-man, married at New York in a quiet manner Mrs. Mary Trayers, the first wife of H. Winthrop Gray of New York city. Mrs. Heckscher is one of the daughters of William R. Travers, the celebrated wit of New York. Mr. Gray obtained a divorce from her very nearly 20 years ago on account of her relations with Mr. Heckscher. Mr. Gray and Mr. Heckscher fought a duel in 1873 at Rouse's Point, Canada, but neither was injured.

For nearly half a century Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been the most popular cough remedy in the world. The constantly increasing demand for this remedy proves it to be the very best specific for colds, coughs, and all diseases of the throat and lungs.

The Olympic club of New Orleans has arranged the following events to occur between Sept. 3 and 10: Corbett and Sullivan for the heavy weight championship of the world, purse $25,000; Fitzsimmons and Hall for the middle-weight championship of the world, purse $12,000; McAuliffe and Mayers for the light weight champion of the world, purse $6000.

Casselman village, on the Canadian Atlantic Railway, has been again visited by a conflagration, this time of a most destructive kind. About a dozen buildings were burned to the ground. The fire broke out in Pierre's stable, and under a prevailing high wind spread so rapidly that in two hours 11 buildings were burned.

Miss Margaret Barrett, aged about 25, dropped dead on Robert street Toronto. She had been boarding with Mrs. Ann Hosick at 69 Robert street. Death was due to heart failure, and Coroner Johnson deemed an inquest unnecessary.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Liver, Lungs, and Kidneys.—Most diseases of these purifying organs arise from obstructions, over the removal of which these celebrated Pills exercise the most perfect control. A course of them is strongly recommended as a remedy for such chronic affections as liver enlargements, congestion of the lungs, torpidity of the kidneys, and other functional disorders which cause much present suffering, and if neglected lay the foundation of organic diseases. Holloway's Pills are specially adapted for the young and delicate; their gentle and purifying action ranks them above all other medicines. In indigestion, nervous affections, gout, and rheumatism these Pills have achieved for themselves universal fame. They expel all impurities from the blood, and thus restore cheerfulness and vigour.

The SUN is in it, too It is the only way a paper can be published satisfactorily to both publisher and subscriber

MARRIED.—A very pleasing event, in the way of making two happy hearts one, took place last Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. Thos. Hewson, Zina street, being the union of Mr. James Presley and Miss Maggie Nicholson, both of this town. Rev A Henderson performed the ceremony. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. John Presley, and Miss Carrie Carter assisted the bride. The happy couple will reside on the Emery farm adjoining the town.

GOING TO CHURCH.—The Odd fellows of Dufferin district, which comprises the town of Orangeville and the villages of Erin, Hillsburg and Grand Valley, will attend divine worship in the First avenue Methodist church at 3:30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon next. Visitors from different points will be present and the procession, which will be headed by the Citizens' band, will undoubtedly be very imposing. This is a special service and an appropriate sermon will be delivered by the pastor, Rev. M. L. Pearson.

MCCLELLAN'S MILL GONE.—A big fire took place at Alton on Saturday last and McClellan's big stone grist mill fell a victim to the devouring element. The fire started when the mill hands were at dinner and when they returned the building was burning briskly. Nothing was saved owing to the rapidity with which the fire spread and the owners will be heavy losers The walls are standing intact, but we have not heard whether the mill will be rebuilt or not. The insurance, we believe, is $12000, while the loss is placed at $18000

NO COUNTERFEIT MAPLE SUGAR.—The practice of melting over old maple sugar and stirring in a little granulated sugar to give the product a little better color is frequently practised a little later in the season each year by those who wish to be the first in the market with "new" maple sugar, says the Mt Forest Representative The last legislature passed the following very strict law on the subject: "No. 38 of the public acts of 1883, approved Nov. 25, 1884, is hereby amended so as to read as follows: Any person who shall adulterate maple sugar, maple syrup, or bees' honey with cane sugar, glucose, or with any substance whatever, for the purpose of sale, or who knowingly sells maple sugar, maple syrup or bees' honey, that has been adulterated shall be punished by a fine of not less than $50, nor more than $200, for each offence; and one half of such fine, on conviction, shall go to the complainant."

AN EXCELLENT ENTERTAINMENT.—The Sons of England concert in the town hall on Thursday evening was one of the most successful entertainments of the season, and those who attended congratulate the Englishmen on their ability to get up a concert second to none that has taken place in Orangeville. The large hall was crowded to the doors and seating accommodation was taxed to its utmost capacity. Union Jacks could be seen in all parts of the hall and on the stage were flowers, bunting, etc., that produced a very pleasing effect. In the centre of the hall comfortable chairs were substituted for benches and ushers conducted ticket holders to their seats. The program opened with a selection by the orchestra, which was followed with a piano solo by Mrs. H. W. Blight of Toronto, who acted as accompanist. Then Mr. W. E Ramsay, the funny man, scored a hit in his rendition of the song, the "Irish Santa Claus," during which he pitched dolls and candies among the audience. Mr. Blight sang that difficult solo, the "Death of Nelson," with good effect, and Mrs. Caldwell, Toronto's sweet warbler, delighted the house by singing "Staccato Polka." A humorous recitation, the "Old Maid," by Mr. Ramsay, and a duett, "Excelsior," by Mrs. Caldwell and Mr Blight, brought the first part of the program to a close. The numbers on the second part of the program were as interesting and pleasing as those on the first, and each performer had to respond to an encore. When the program was completed the audience rose and sang "God Save the Queen" in good hearty style. The committee who so successfully managed the affair are to be congratulated on the result of their efforts. The receipts amounted to about $125.

Mr. J. E. Humphrey, 48 Bond Street Toronto, says Burdock Blood Bitters wrought a complete cure of dyspepsia in his case after all else had failed.

Annual Meeting of the Orangeville Branch of the Bible Society.

The annual meeting of the Orangeville branch of the Bible society was held in the Baptist church on Friday evening last. The church was nicely filled and Rev. M. L. Pearson, the president, presided.

The treasurer's report showed that during the year $69.15 had been collected for the society's work, and $29 worth of bibles and testaments had been sold at reduced rates.

Mr. W. T. Bailey addressed the meeting, declaring his faith in the bible as a whole, in its power as giving light, and setting forth the claims of the Bible society because of the work yet to be done. Rev. D. McTavish of Toronto followed the last speaker and gave an address that was attentively listened to. He spoke of the history and growth of the society, of the great work done annually in circulating millions of copies of the Word of God; of its translating the scriptures into about 500 languages and dialects and sending men into all parts of the world with its publication. He spoke of the bible as the friend of human liberty and foe of despotism, whether civil or religious; as a book of ethics but containing with the code of morals, the means and directions for the practising of the principles taught.

The following officers were then elected: President—W. T. Bailey; Vice-Presidents—Local clergymen; Secretary—J. A. Aikin; Treasurer & Depository—T. Stevenson; Executive Committee—Deputy-reeve Green, Dr. Smith, A. Steele, B. A., Jas. Brown, F. J. King, J. S. Leighton, A. Turner, F. Marshall and A. Hill.

Collectors—Mrs. (Dr.) Smith, Miss Lailor, West ward; Miss Maggie Marshall, Miss Laura Ritchie, North ward; Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. Connor, South ward; Mrs. C. H. King, Mrs. R. Mortimer, East ward.

The meeting was then brought to a close in the usual way.

ATHLONE.

RECOVERING.—Miss D. Ronan, daughter of our popular reeve, and Mr. A Dwyer, who were both laid up with inflammatory rheumatism, we are glad to report, are getting around again.

HOLIDAYS.—Quite a number of our rural teachers took the Easter holidays whether the minister of education allows it or not, and in consequence there is kicking among the ratepayers

THE LAST JOURNEY.—The funeral of the late Barney Hislen took place from his residence to St. James, Colgan, on the 25th inst., and was largely attended. Mr. Hislen was much esteemed through Adjala and his death is universally regretted throughout. May his soul rest in peace.

LIVELY TIMES.—Building operations promise to be rather extensive this summer around Loretto. Mr. Peter McCabe intends to build a large bank barn, and Mr John Haffey a brick house, while Mr. Tom Patton follows suit with Mr. Haffey only on a less pretentious scale viz.;—a roughcast.

BOOMING.—Football is commencing to boom again. Achill and Yonge Street have reorganized, and are in full blast and last but not least our own invincibles who will commence practice next Saturday night. The team will be the same as last year with one exception, Mr. Fred Atkinson, formerly of Orangeville, takes the place of Mr. W Marshall now of Honeywood. Everybody turn out and give it a good start BREVITIES.—Fall wheat wintered well nearly everywhere but this cold weather is hurting it. Sowing is pretty well advanced.....Mr. Nicholas Divine is at present very low, brought on by a cancer.....Mr. Patrick Divine of Grand Forks, Dakota, arrived home a few days ago to see his father. He reports seeding not commenced yet. We sincerely hope that Mr. Divine will recover from his present illness.

HORNING'S MILLS.

BRIEFS.—Seeding is in full blast. The ground is drying up nicely and considerable grain has been sown..... Those who left here some time ago for Manitoba have not found things as pleasant as was expected. The towns and villages of that province are swarming with men looking for work and wages are on the decline..... Fall wheat is looking well in this vicinity and hopes are entertained by energetic farmers of having another good crop.

FAILED TO APPOINT HIM.—Although there was so much blustering about the appointing of a township treasurer at, and before the last council meeting, our local legislators failed in that part of their mission to the council chamber at their last sitting. Procrastinating and deliberating until the brain is sick never brought anything to a successful issue in the known world. Why, this problem has been well weighed and absolutely solved long ago, and why not get down to duty at once? It is a foregone conclusion as to who the right man and the most fitting man for the position is, and we fully expected to see him appointed at the last meeting. Every reasonable man will agree with us that he should be a resident from this vicinity We hope our township fathers will do their duty without fear or favor.

DISGRACEFUL.—At 11 o'clock on Wednesday night of last week as a representative of THE SUN was strolling down Broadway his attention was attracted by the loud talk of a woman at the corner of Broadway and Mill streets. The reporter hurried to the spot and under the glare of the electric light saw the wife of a well known character clubbing a young man of the town about the head, whom she said had insulted her. The young man, who has not an excellent reputation, had enough manliness about him not to strike her. Her husband, who she had just taken from an hotel, stood by and encouraged his wife to "strike him." The language the woman used was nothing short of filthy, and the two should have to answer for their disgraceful conduct in the police court. Patrolman Parkin put in an appearance and brought the exhibition to a close. We suppress names for the present, but if the affair is repeated nothing will save the parties next time.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4th, 1891.

My head was literally full of Dandruff and nothing applied gave visible relief until using Anti-Dandruff, a few applications of which has so thoroughly removed the dandruff there is not a grain to be found.

THE SARATOGA MIRACLE.

Further Investigation by an Express Reporter.

The Facts Already Stated Fully Confirmed—Interviews with Leading Physicians and Trustful Quotations from Rival Institutions Now in the History of Medical Science.

A few weeks ago an article appeared in this paper copied from the Albany, N. Y. Journal, giving the particulars of one of the most remarkable cures of the 19th century. The article was under the heading "A Saratoga Co. Miracle," and contained such widespread comment that another Albany paper—the Express—detailed a reporter to make a thorough investigation of the statements appearing in the Journal's article. The facts as elicited by the Express reporter are given in the following article which appeared in that paper on April 14th, and makes one of the most interesting stories ever related:—

A few weeks ago there was published in the Albany Evening Journal the story of a most remarkable—indeed so remarkable as to well justify the term "miraculous"—cure of a severe case of locomotor ataxia, or creeping paralysis; simply by the use of Pink Pills for Pale People, and, in compliance with instructions, an Express reporter has been devoting some time in a critical investigation of the real facts of the case.

The story of the wonderful cure of Charles A. Quant of Galway, Saratoga county, N.Y., as first told in "The Journal," has been copied into hundreds if not thousands of other daily and weekly newspapers and has created such a sensation throughout the entire country that it was deemed a duty due all the people and especially the thousands of similarly afflicted, that the statements of the case as made in "The Albany Journal" and copied into so many other newspapers should, if true, be verified; or, if false, exposed as an imposition upon public credulity.

The result of the Express reporter's investigations authorises him in saying that the story of Charles A. Quant's cure of locomotor ataxia by the use of Pink Pills for Pale People, a popular remedy prepared and put up by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Morristown, N. Y., and Brockville, Ontario, is true, and that all its statements are not only justified but verified by the fuller development of the further facts of the case.

Perhaps the readers of the Express are not all of them fully familiar with the details of this miraculous restoration to health of a man who after weeks and months of treatment by the most skillful doctors in two of the best hospitals in the state of New York—the Roosevelt hospital in New York city and St. Peter's hospital in Albany—was dismissed from each as incurable and, because the case was deemed incurable, the man was denied admission into several others to which application was made in his behalf. The story as told by Mr. Quant himself and published in the Albany Journal, is as follows:—

"My name is Charles A. Quant. I am 37 years old. I was born in the village of Galway and excepting while travelling on business and a little while in Amsterdam, have spent my whole life here. Up to about eight years ago I had never been sick and was then in perfect health. I was fully six feet tall, weighed 180 pounds and was very strong. For 12 years I was travelling salesman for a piano and organ company, and had to do, or at least did do, a great deal of heavy lifting, got my meals very irregularly and slept in enough 'spare beds' in country houses to freeze any ordinary man to death, or at least give him the rheumatism. About eight years ago I began to feel distress in my stomach, and consulted several doctors about it. They all said it was dyspepsia, and for dyspepsia I was treated by various doctors in different places, and took all the patent medicines I could hear of that claimed to be a cure for dyspepsia. But I continued to grow gradually worse for four years. Then I began to have pain in my back and legs and became conscious that my legs were getting weak and my step unsteady, and then I staggered when I walked. Having received no benefit from the use of patent medicines, and feeling that I was constantly growing worse, I then, upon advice, began the use of electric belts, pads and all the many different kinds of electric appliances I could hear of, and spent hundreds of dollars for them, but they did me no good. (Here Mr. Quant showed the Journal reporter an electric suit of underwear, for which he paid $124.) In the fall of 1888 the doctors advised a change of climate, so I went to Atlanta, Ga., and acted as agent for the Estey Organ Company. While there I took a thorough electric treatment, but it only seemed to aggravate my disease, and the only relief I could get from the sharp and distressing pains was to take morphine. The pain was so intense at times that it seemed as though I could not stand it, and I almost longed for death as the only certain relief. In September of 1888 my legs gave out entirely and my left eye was drawn to one side, so that I had double sight and was dizzy. My trouble so affected my whole nervous system that I had to give up business Then I returned to New York and went to the Roosevelt hospital, where for four months I was treated by specialists and they pronounced my case locomotor ataxia and incurable. After I had been under treatment by Prof Starr and Dr. Ware for four months, they told me they had done all they could for me. Then I went to the New York hospital on Fifteenth street, where, upon examination, they said I was incurable and would not take me in At the Presbyterian hospital they examined me and told me the same thing. In March, 1890, I was taken to St Peter's hospital in Albany, where Prof. H. H. Hun frankly told my wife my case was hopeless; that he could do nothing for me and that she had better take me back home and save my money. But I wanted to make a trial of Prof. Hun's famous skill and I remained under his treatment for nine weeks, but secured no benefit. All this time I had been growing worse. I had become entirely paralyzed from my waist down and had partly lost control of my hands. The pain was terrible; my legs felt as though they were freezing and my stomach would not retain food, and I fell away to 120 pounds. In the Albany hospital they put 17 big burns on my back one day with red hot irons and after a few days they put 14 more burns on and treated me with electricity, but I got worse rather than better; lost control of my bowels and water, and, upon advice of the doctor, who said there was no hope for me, I was brought home, where it was thought that death would soon come to relieve me of my sufferings. Last September, while in this helpless and suffering condition, a friend of mine in Hamilton, Ont., called my attention to the statement of one John Marshall, whose case had been similar to my own, and who had been cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People In this case Mr. Marshall, who is a prominent member of the Royal Templars of Temperance, had, after four years of constant treatment by the most eminent Canadian physicians, been pronounced incurable, and paid the $1,000 total disability claim allowed by the order in such cases Some months after Mr. Marshall began a course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking some 15 boxes was fully restored to health. I thought I would try them, and my wife sent for two boxes of the pills, and I took them according to the directions on the wrapper on each box. For the first few days the cold baths were pretty severe as I was so very weak, but I continued to follow instructions as to taking the pills and the treatment, and even before I had used up the two boxes of the pills I began to feel beneficial results from them. My pains were not so bad. I felt warmer; my head felt better; my food began to relish and agree with me; I could straighten up; the feeling began to come back into my limbs; I began to be able to get about on crutches; my eye came back again as good as ever, and now, after the use of eight boxes of the pills, at a cost of only $4.00—see!—I can with the help of a cane only, walk all about the house and yard, can saw wood, and on pleasant days I walk down town My stomach trouble is gone; I have gained 10 pounds; I feel like a new man, and when the spring opens I expect to be able to renew my organ and piano agency. I cannot speak in too high terms of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, as I know they saved my life after all the doctors had given me up as incurable."

Such is the wonderful story which the Express reporter has succeeded in securing confirmation of in all its details. Now the natural inquiry where Mr. Quant was found and how the cures who had the cure to be so wonderful, arose. Let it be remembered that while locomotor ataxia was new to Saratoga county, while his case, by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, has been published since last September, 1887, for it to be proved a fraud it must be shown that the recovery is wholly due to the use of those famous pills, which have been found by the Express reporter to have made such remarkable results in Mr. Quant's case.

Mr. Quant placed in the hands of the reporter the card of admission to Roosevelt hospital, which is here produced in further confirmation of the statements made.

To verify Mr. Quant's statement our reporter a few days ago, (March 31st, 1891,) called on Dr. Allen Starr at his office, No. 22 West Twenty-eighth St., New York city. Dr. Starr is house physician of the Roosevelt hospital, situated corner of Ninth avenue and Fifty-ninth street. In reply to inquiry he said he remembered the case of Mr. Quant very well and treated him some but that he was chiefly treated and under the more especial care of Dr. Ware. He said he regarded this case as he did all cases of locomotor ataxia as incurable. In order that our reporter might get a copy of the history of the case of Mr. Quant from the hospital record he very courteously gave him a letter of which the following is a copy.

Dr. M. A. Starr, 22 West Forty-eighth street, office hours, 9 to 12 a. m., New York. March 31st, 1891.—Dear Dr. Vought: If you have any record of a locomotor ataxia by name of Quant, who says he came to the clinic 3 or 4 years ago, No. 14,037, of the O. P. Dept., Roosevelt, sent to me from Ware, will you let the bearer know. If you have no record send him to Roosevelt Hosp.

Yours, STARR.

By means of this letter access to the records was permitted and a transcript of the history of Mr. Quant's case made from them as follows:—

"No. 14,037. Admitted September 16th, 1889, Charles A. Quant, aged 34 years. Born U. S. Married. Hoboken."

"History of the case:—Dyspepsia for past four or five years. About 14 months partial loss of power and numbness in lower extremities. Girdling sensation about abdomen. (November 29th, 1889, met improved, external strabismus of left eye and dilatation of the left eye.) Some difficulty in passing water at times; no headache but some dizziness; alternate diarrhœa and constipation; partial ptosis past two weeks in left eye.

"Ord. R. F. Bi. pep. and Soda."

These are the marked symptoms of a severe case of locomotor ataxia. "And Dr. Starr said a case with such marked symptoms could not be cured and Quant who was receiving treatment in the out-patient department, was given up as incurable."

"There never was a case recovered in the world," said Dr. Starr. And then said: "Dr. Ware can tell you more about the case as Quant was under his more personal treatment. "I am surprised," he said, "that the man is alive, as I thought he must be dead long ago."

Our reporter found Dr. Edward Ware at his office, No. 162 West Ninety-third street, New York. He said: "I have very distinct recollections of the Quant case. It was a very pronounced case. I treated him about eight months. This was in the early summer of 1890. I deemed him incurable, and thought him dead before now. Imagine my surprise when I received a letter from him about two weeks ago telling me that he was alive, was getting well and expected soon to be fully recovered."

"What do you think, doctor, was the cause of his recovery."

"That is more than I know. Quant says he has been taking some sort of pills and that they have cured him. At all events, I am glad the poor fellow is getting well, for his was a bad case and he was a great sufferer."

Dr Theodore R. Tuttle, of 319 West Eighteenth street, to whom our reporter is indebted for assisting courtesies, said of locomotor ataxia:—"I have had several cases of this disease in the course of my practice. I will not say that it is incurable, but I never knew of a case to get well; but I will say it is not deemed curable by any remedies known to the medical profession."

After this successful and confirmatory investigation in New York, or reporter, Saturday, April 2nd, 1891, visited St. Peter's Hospital, in Albany, corner of Albany and Ferry streets. He had a courteous reception by Sister Mary Philomena, the sister superior of St. Peter's hospital, and when told the object of his visit, said she remembered the case of poor Mr. Quant very distinctly. Said she:—"It was a very distressing case and excited my sympathies much. Poor fellow he couldn't be cured and had to go home in a terrible condition of helplessness and suffering." The house physician, on consulting the records of St. Peter's hospital, said he found only that Charles A. Quant entered the hospital Mar. 14th, 1890, was treated by Dr. Henry Hun, assisted by Dr Van Derveer, who was then, 1890, at the head of the hospital, and that his case being deemed not possible of cure, he left the hospital and was taken to his home, as he supposed to die.

Such is the full history of this most remarkable case of successful recovery from a heretofore supposed incurable disease, and after all the doctor's had given him up, by the simple use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Truly it is an interesting story of a most miraculous cure of a dreadful disease by the simple use of this popular remedy.

A further investigation revealed the fact that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not a patent medicine in the sense in which that term is usually understood, but are a scientific preparation successfully used in general practice for many years before being offered to the public generally. They contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood, and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases depending upon vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow checks. In the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, over-work or excesses of whatever nature.

On further inquiry the writer found that these pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ontario, and Morristown, N. Y., and are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, from either address. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies or medical treatment.

Provincial Bailiff English, of the Central prison, was at the county jail yesterday, and took away John Burk and H. Conley, who have been sentenced to short terms in that institution. English was asked if he would take Jack Bartram, but he said he had no instructions, and Jack will remain here for the present. Bartram prefers to stay here, because if he was taken to the Centralhe would be put to work if the doctors did not report that he was not able, on account of his eye.—Hamilton Spectator.

WONDER IN WELLAND!

A Representative Farmer Speaks.

MR. C. C. HAUN.

The following remarkable facts are fully certified to as being undeniably correct in every particular. Mr. Haun is well known in the vicinity, having resided here over fifty years, and is highly respected as a man of the strictest honor, whose word is as good as his bond.

As will be seen from his letter, four physicians had attended him, and it was only after he had given up hope of cure that he decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters on the recommendation of a neighbor who had been cured of a similar disease by its use. Mr. Haun writes as follows:

DEAR SIRS,—I think I have been one of the worst sufferers you have yet heard of, having been six years in the hands of four of our best doctors without obtaining permanent relief, but continually growing worse, until almost beyond hope of recovery. I tried your Bitters and got relief in a few days. Every organ of my body was deranged, the liver enlarged, hardened and torpid, the heart and digestive organs seriously deranged, a large abscess in my back, followed by paralysis of the right leg, in fact the lower half of my body was entirely useless. After using Burdock Blood Bitters for a few days the abscess burst, discharging fully five quarts of pus in two hours. I felt as if I had received a shock from a powerful battery. My recovery then was steady and the cure permanent, seeing that for the four years since I have had as good health as ever I had. I still take an occasional bottle, not that I need it but because I wish to keep my system in perfect working order. I can think of no more remarkable case than what I have myself passed through, and no words can express my thankfulness for such perfect recovery.

C. C. HAUN,
Welland P.O.

In this connection the following letter from T. Cummes, Esq., a leading druggist of Welland, Ont., speaks for itself:

Messrs. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto.

GENTLEMEN,—I have been personally acquainted with Mr. C. C. Haun for the last 20 years, and have always found him a very reliable man. You may place the utmost confidence in anything he says with regard to your medicine. He has on many occasions within the last four years told me that it was marvellous the way the Burdock Blood Bitters had cured him, and that he now felt as able to do a day's work as he ever felt in his life. Although quite well he still takes some B. B. B. occasionally, as he says, to keep him in perfect health.

Yours truly,

The steadily increasing sale of B. B. B., the length of time it has been before the people, and the fact that it cures to stay cured, attest the sterling merit of this monarch of medicines, the people's favorite blood purifier, tonic and regulator.

Mothers.

I feel the dove, safe sheltered in the room,
And yearnest one responsive I can hardly see
The patient face that was so much to me
With love life and hope were in their bloom;
Through all the mist, through all the deepest gloom,
It comes down in mild serenity
As if to make as gentle as may be
The aching pathway leading to the tomb.

Oh, Mother, let me grasp thy hand while yet
My eyes can see thee; let thy lips touch mine.
Thy cool hand trembles, and thine eyes are wet,
The tears I weep are tears of joy divine.
I have no pain, I have no grief nor fear,
And death seems sweet to me while thou art near.

WELL TOLD TALES.

MRS. BENSON'S PEDDLER.

"Mary," said Mr. Benson from the depths of the closet, "where is that old checked coat of mine?"

"Why, John—" began Mrs. Benson, timidly.

"Mary, have you given that away?" asked Mr. Benson, coming into view.

"Why—yes, John I did. You haven't had that coat on your back for three years and—and the man had such—lovely—" here poor Mrs. Benson relapsed into the safe refuge of tears.

"Peddlers," exclaimed Mr. Benson, contemptuously. "Why can't a woman be satisfied with buying what she wants at a decent store, and not be picking up a lot of worthless articles from sneak-thieves, because they are 'cheap'! You'll be sorry for it some day, Mary, you mark my words." Mr. Benson went out and shut the door vigorously.

He walked down the street with a preoccupied frown upon his face. "I must cure Mary of that," he thought seriously. "Sometime she will have something valuable stolen. I've got it!" he exclaimed, after a pause.

He fitted the key to the door of his private office, opened the door and then turned back.

"Jenning," he said, "I shall be very busy for an hour or two, possibly all the afternoon. See that I am not disturbed by any one."

He entered his office, locked the door after him. It was a very easy matter to open a back window, step into the alley and hasten to an obscure customer's where detectives and jail-birds were impartially disguised to play at hide and seek with one another.

Left alone, Mrs. Benson cried a little while repentantly to herself, and then remembered that she had intended to wash the delicate brica-a-brac that was her pride and joy. To do this she must get her dainty white apron and her dear little new pan that she had bought of the last peddler—where she sighed a little. She slipped off her rings, moved out a little table and left the room for the necessary articles.

Little matters detained her and it was fully an hour before she again entered the room, bearing the pan. Just as she set it down a peal at the bell startled her.

"I won her wise if can be—and Jenny is ironing," she thought.

She opened the door herself, and then almost shut it again in her momentary dismay.

Certainly, it was a disreputable looking object, even for a peddler, that stood on the doorstep.

"I've come, mum, tu see, 'f ye did'n want t' exchange some old clothes for somethin' rale valyable.' He edged his way past her and established himself on a hall chair.

"What have you, my man?" Mrs. Benson asked hesitatingly.

"I've some of the handsomest lace ye ever saw." He produced a piece as a sample.

It was just what she had been wanting to complete the dainty spring costume she had just finished.

"Mr. Benson doesn't like to have me buy of peddlers," she said hesitatingly.

"I'm sure 'eed say 'twas all right, mum, if he was here. Just look around an' see if thar ain't an old coat you can spare."

Mrs. Benson hesitated a few moments longer, then rose and went slowly from the room after a long ago cast off coat that she remembered. The temptation had proved too much for her. At the foot of the stairs she paused. "John wouldn't like it," she thought. "No, I'll go without the lace till I can afford to buy it." She turned back just as the sound of a closing door caught her ear.

The peddler was gone! Instinctively her eyes flew to the table where she had left her rings; they, too, were gone.

Without a moment's thought she rushed to the door and screamed "Police!" at the top of her lungs. Strange to say, her call was immediately answered, for around the corner of the square appeared a blue-coated guardian, dragging the unwilling person of the identical peddler.

"He's stolen my rings!" screamed Mrs. Benson. "Don't let him come near me, sir!"

"I thought he'd stole something when I see him come away on the dead jump,' said the policeman, 'an' I thought I'd just run him in and see about it." During this speech he had been rapidly emptying the peddler's pockets, despite his vehement struggles.

"Here they be, ma'am. They'll give them to you at the police station when I've sworn to them. Come along here, my beauty!"

"Mary!" screamed the peddler, when he could free himself enough to speak, but Mrs. Benson had sunk in a heap on the hall floor with the closed door between them, and the peddler was dragged off with a motley procession following.

To the statement that he was John Benson, a well-known and respectable lawyer, only laughter and the reply, "That won't work here," was returned to him and he accordingly found himself in a very narrow cell with every prospect of a night to be spent in it.

Mrs. Benson waited for her husband's return that night with inward dismay, but a brave determination to tell him the whole story.

Supper time came and passed without him. She ate her lonely meal and waited. Nine o'clock came, 10, and still he did not come.

Visions of possible murders, accidents, or suddenly developed fits, and her husband with a little scream as the clock struck eleven, she fell asleep on the chair she had quietly sat upon. Old Jenning, who opened to the knock, [illegible]

"Is he dead?" she cried; "where is he?"

"He gave orders that he was not to be disturbed, so I waited till the afternoon and when closing up time came he hadn't come nor you. Then I went out and got my supper and when I came back he hadn't come nor still; so I got nervous and when he didn't answer, I got help and we broke in the door—and he was gone."

Mrs. Benson gasped.

"Be calm, ma'am, for I fear I've worse to tell. Shortly after he had given his orders not to be disturbed, there was a man came from the police station asking for Mr. Benson, but I told him Mr. Benson was engaged. He said there was a man just arrested, dressed as a peddler, who claimed to be Mr. Benson, but—"

He stopped with astonishment, for Mrs. Benson was half way up the stairs after her bonnet and cloak.

"Police-station. Take me—quick!" she gasped incoherently. "Oh, my poor John!"

Mr. Benson was sitting disconsolately on the edge of a very hard bunk, wondering what poor Mary was thinking of his absence, when there was a murmur of voices, a sound of feet, a jingle of keys, and in another moment peddler and visitor were in each other's arms.

"I'll never buy another thing of a peddler again as long as I live, John, if you'd only forgive me!" cried Mrs. Benson, tearfully.

And it is safe to say she never did.

HOW IT ENDED.

For fifty years Caleb Binkley and Maria Sutton had lived neighbors in a double house on a pleasant street of a little old New England village. They had grown up together there, and they had seen all the members of their families carried to the graveyard on the hill, leaving them alone in their houses. For twenty years they had lived thus, and their days went by peacefully and happily.

One morning in May, Caleb was in the garden back of his house, prodding away with his hoe, and Maria was in hers fixing a flower bed.

"It's a fine morning, Maria," called Caleb across the fence.

"Beautiful," said Maria.

"Seems ez if the sun was shining just for our benefit, don't it?" remarked Caleb, dragging a tangled weed from his hoe handle.

"Yes, Caleb, I guess it shines down on my side about like it does on yours."

Caleb looked up at the blue sky for a moment and then walked over to the fence.

"I say, Maria," he said. "I've been thinkin' about takin' down this fence. Your pa and mine put it up here forty year ago, but twasn't never much use. What do you say to takin' it down?"

"Might ez well ez not, I guess, Caleb," assented Maria, without changing her position.

A minute or so later Caleb, with an axe in his hand, was back again.

"Maria," he said, "I guess of a thing he got to be done it might ez well be done right off, hadn't it?"

"I guess it might, Caleb."

Maria went on with her digging while Caleb hewed and chopped at the wooden fence, and at last the work was done.

"It'll make good fire wood, Maria," he said, as he surveyed the wreck, "and if you'll tell me where you want your half put I'll pile it up for you handy."

"It looks summat strange not to see a dividin' line between us, don't it, Caleb?" she remarked as she stood up and looked across both gardens.

"I was noticin' that myself, Maria," he said quietly.

"Twant no use, was it?" she inquired doubtfully gazing at the fence prone on the earth.

"Never was," he answered, then he came nearer: "Ain't much more use in two people livin' in two houses either, is there, Maria?" he said.

"None that I can see, Caleb," she responded, with a faint glow of color in her cheeks and neck.

Caleb seemed to be trying to swallow something that would not go down. He attempted to speak and failed, and then he tried to go to her and that was an ignominious failure also. At last he made a successful effort at speech.

"Maria," he said, pulling himself up straight, "where do you want your half of the old fence piled?"

"Caleb," she almost whispered as she came and laid her hand on his arm, "pile it up with yours."

And that was their courtship.

Serpents of Olden Times.

The ancients firmly believe in monster serpents of all kinds, and of both the land and marine species. During the wars with Carthage a great snake is said to have kept the Roman army from crossing the Bagrados River for several days. The monster swallowed up no less than seventy Roman soldiers during this combat, and was not conquered until a hundred stones from as many different catapults were fired upon it all at one time. The monster skull and skin were preserved and afterward exhibited in one of the Roman temples. The dried skin of the creature was 120 feet in length, according to Pliny.

Bas-Oxus, a city on the Ganges, is said to have been so named because a gigantic serpent, 120 cubits long and having a double head, was killed at the present site of the town about the year 361 A.D.

One of the first copies of the Iliad was written on the "great gut" of a dragon, said intestine being 120 inches in length and eighteen inches broad. It was destroyed in the great fire at Constantinople.—St. Louis Republic.

A Great Traveller.

Mlle. Elise St. Omer, the celebrated French explorer, travels without any luggage, not even a hand bag. All she requires is stowed away in her capacious pockets. Thus equipped, this energetic lady has travelled through all parts of Europe, Asia, and America; has visited Mormons, Japanese, and Cingalese, ridden side by side with Bedouins, and climbed the Himalayas.

The Commercial Man's Grip.

I have long looked for a preparation that would keep my head clear of dandruff, but always failed to receive any material benefit until a friend recommended Anti-Dandruff, which I used with perfect success. It not only removed the Dandruff with three applications, but stopped the annoying itching of the scalp and rendered the hair soft and pliable without leaving an appearance of a dressing being used. It now occupies a permanent position in my grip. It is pleasant to use, and with pleasure I recommend it.

Blood Will Tell.

Good blood will show its quality. So will bad blood, the one in a healthy body and ruddy complexion, the other in ill health, blotches, pimples, boils and sores, and frequently in intenser forms as ulcers, abscesses, erysipelas, scrofulous diseases, salt rheum, etc. Every organ of the body depends upon the blood for force and vitality, and is but scantily served when the blood is impure. No remedy is so potent as a blood purifier or more rapidly produces new and healthy blood than Burdock Blood Bitters which neutralizes the various poisons and restores the vitalizing power of this all important fluid. As an instance of this read what Mr. J. S. Neff, of Algoma Mills, Ont., says in a recent letter:

SIRS,—A year ago I was troubled with spots breaking out all over my body, the effect of bad blood. I consulted three different doctors, who gave me medicine but did not cure me. I was advised to try B. B. B., and after using two bottles I noticed the spots getting less. I continued the use of B. B. B., which entirely cured me, giving me also a splendid appetite. Since then I would use no other medicine.

It is generally known when a woman finds the man of her choice she wants matrimony; after the ceremony she wants shopping money, and when she tires of living with him she wants alimony. This does she often appear to be a money maniac.

"I regard Ayer's Pills as one of the most reliable general remedies of our time. They have been in use in my family for affections requiring a purgative, and have given unvarying satisfaction. We have found them an excellent remedy for colds and light fevers."—W. H. Wilkins, Fort Worth, Texas.

The Rest of Rock Salt, for Stock.

Read what Prof. Robertson, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, says regarding proper ways of salting stock:—"Dairy cattle should have access to salt every day. A series of experiments has convinced me that when cows are denied salt for a period of even one week they will yield from 14½ to 17½ per cent. less milk, and that of an inferior quality. Such milk will, on an average, turn sour in twenty four hours less time than milk drawn from the same or similar cows receiving salt every day, all other conditions of treatment being equal."

THE only chemically pure Salt ever discovered, analysed 99 84-100 Pure Salt. All kinds of stock will do better where this Salt is used; one ton will go four times as far as common salt, hence it is cheaper. It is the finest Salt in the world for the preservation of all kinds of meat, all the large packers are using it. It is sold cheaper than any other lump salt. We guarantee this Salt as advertised.
